

TWO WITNESSES PICK HAUPTMANN

New Jersey Natives Declare Suspect Near Scene of Kidnap-Slaying

"Confidential" from "Tape One": John E. Pfeifer, associate defense counsel, told his utmost to discredit the witness and "prove" his story incredible. He hinted that perhaps the "witness" had been induced to name himself from arrest, and that there were wide discrepancies between the "witness" and the present evidence.

Will Attack Veracity

The defense "promised to make a statement at the trial," Witwer's reputation as a veracity witness had he lived in New Jersey for 17 years and knew everything in the vicinity of the Sourland.

The first excursion on which the witness had been sent was about Feb. 28, he declared, and he saw him again "between Feb. 28 and Feb. 27," he inferred, that Hauptmann was standing by the road, and Whitehead approached with a truck and truck. "I thought he was in the service," he said, he inferred, that Hauptmann's face remained in his memory.

In the early morning hours of March 2, shortly after the kidnapping, he heard the story to state true, and gave a description of the man to them.

Under cross examination, Pfeifer tried to show that the difference between the man's present and past and the one reported today.

"Will you say that you saw the defendant on Feb. 27? A. I wouldn't say. I told it was around that time."

Q. Would you say it was an far as possible?" A. No, I would not.
Q. Will you definitely swear you first saw him? A. Well, it was not later than the 17th. I mean, I can't swear it, but I would say it was around the 17th or 18th of February.

the finishing touches on an agreement to end the imperial Japanese relations—the transfer of Russia's holdings in the Chinese Eastern railway to Manchuria for a sum of $100 million. The agreement was reached today.

Both Okada and his foreign minister expressed their intent to will negotiate by world power to replace the Washington agreement
