NEW DEAL MAPS RECOVERY DRIVE

Leaders Plan Giant Offensive As Congress Approves Big Works Measure

Leaders in private industry are expected to contribute their share to the federal recovery drive.

Should that spark of activity catch and spread—and the theory of the administration is that it will—other thousands and perhaps millions could be placed back in active employment.

The estimate of 20,000,000 on relief includes women and children, dependents of men who are out of work. President William Howard Taft estimated that 10,000,000 of the unemployed were in the United States at approximately 11,000,000.

The administration's hopes are realized that number would be reduced by more than two-thirds in the next year.

After the house had adopted the conference report, 247 of the senate accepted the report by a vote of 60 to 31.

—Landon John

"We can put three and a half million more to work for $4,000,000,000 dollars, starting whenever they want," Hopkins said.

It has been estimated that FICRA already, through a slow and gradual process, has put 2,200,000 people to work on a wage of about $27.50 per month.

The average wage on work-relief projects is $43.00 per month, although the bill gives the President authority to set wages and require the payment of prevailing rates on federal buildings.

ROSS PROPOSES WORK PROJECTS

Emergency relief administration, and 27,000 application for United States employment service, and Walter Goodwin, national emergency council chairman for Idaho.

Governor Ross, in a brief address, suggested an extensive public works program to meet the necessity of direct relief.

Lockwood made the statement at a conference attended by members of the National Emergency Council for Idaho.

"The unemployment situation in Idaho remains acute," said Lockwood, "and close cooperation between the unemployment, I.E.R.A. and C.C. groups might assist in relieving it."

Other speakers at the conference were C. C. Wilburn, Boise; Harry Whittier, J. D. Wood, and C. A. Adams of Spokane; general agent for the farm credit administration.

Mr. Adams, in commenting on the farm loan situation in Oregon, Washington, Montana, and Idaho, said that approximately 28,000 character loans on farm mortgages had been made during the past 18 months.

BOISE VALLEY'S CROPS GET RAIN

Two Days Bring More Than All Last April; Sheep Men Dubious

BOISE, April 6 (Special)—During the past two days we've had 3.0 of an inch of precipitation in the Boise valley which is more than we had during the entire month of April last year," H. G. Carter, local meteorologist, said.

Helps Farmers—"It has been a decided benefit to the farmer's crops, and prospects of a much better water supply this year are constantly being reported," he added.

But the sheepmen were a bit doubtful about the rain. They will be assured of plenty of feed for their stock, but they fear a cold spell might follow the rain, causing a heavy death toll in the spring lambing.

"It is an in-between season for lambing right now," they said, "and if follow the rain, the rain will mind will share the benefits of the rain with the farmer and the stockman."

Already Under Sentence—Hamilton will vary his trials for the role of robber and shooting charged against him since his escape from the Huntsville penitentiary death house July 22. He already is under death sentence for his murder of a Texas guard. It may be necessary to postpone his trial to take him to Huntsville as requested at the "convenience" of the warden.

Official Career—Hamilton's criminal career that began in childhood has escaped so many jails that officials look with amazement under the eyes of guards at all hours. His confident tone, his inclination to sneer and boast, indicated high hopes that he might make a record in the state penitentiary.

Benjamin A. Murders—"They can burn me," he said, "but it's the truth that I never had any part in it."

Hamilton was armed with two pistols when caught but he had no chance to use them. A half dozen lines since his sensational escape from the Texas house with three other prisoners, he had been trapped only to shoot his way to freedom in a Texas jail house.

Officials believed the exact toll of Hamilton's depredations since his escape there would be heavy. Numerous bank robberies in Texas, Louisiana, and Mississippi bore the imprint of his technique. A notorious criminal, he has been identified from photographs by scores of victims. But in these identifications were no names. Hamilton himself denied he had committed any criminal act since his escape.

AN ANNIVERSARY

On this eighteenth anniversary of the declaration by President Woodrow Wilson that a state-of-war existed between the United States of America and the imperial German government, dark clouds again hang over Europe, threatening the peace of the world.

The world will wish that never again will a great war, such as that of eighteen years ago, again engulf humanity.

In this civilized age, it seems ridiculous that governments should find the necessity of using the force of arms to achieve their aims. The United States does not feel so impelled, and traditionally has conducted its armament program only on the basis of national defense. It is not an aggressor nation and never has been. Its relations with Canada on the north have always been amicable, and the same might be said with Mexico, with the exception of those instances when territory was invaded and then the policy of national defense forced this nation to take steps resulting in the sending of an expeditionary force into the interior of that country. It could never be said, however, that there was any intent at aggression.

Though many of the present generation have no vivid recollection of the event which April 6 commemorates, the men who later were to serve under the colors hark back to the thrill of the day when it was known definitely that this country had gone to war.

The exultation of that moment was in sorry contrast to the succeeding Memorial Days when the heroes dead were honored, but because April 6 marked the beginning of America's active participation in the war, and because the nation's entrance into the conflict can rightfully be said to have marked the successful termination of the war, this date has historical significance which cannot go unrecorded.

Eligible men being scarce in Germany, unmarried women probably don't resist the government's call to arms.

SHOULD WORK BOTH WAYS

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, returns from a trip to Europe—where, by the way, he visited the famous Sir Basil Zaharoff, international munitions king—to remark that it would be a grave mistake for America to adopt legislation taking the profits out of war.

"You can't open munitions plants without profits," he says. "For in such business you have to allow private capital to invest money, and without profits you can't induce people to invest."

This would be quite convincing if we did not read it against the background of war-time conscription of fighting men.

If the country can make an ordinary, peace-loving citizen from his home and send him out to face maddening or death for a dollar a day, it ought to be able to exercise an equal power over the men who supply him with rifle and cartridges—and, as the saying goes, to make everybody concerned like it, as well.

Tennessee doctor says increase in headaches is due to keeping up with the Joneses, pressure of modern living, and lack of rest. How about taxes and repeal?

FORGOTTEN IN PRISON

Gov. Mike Conner of Mississippi has discovered that the "forgotten man" has a number of representatives in prison.

Many convicts, he found, are overlooked by the parole board because they have no money, no family, and no friends to bring their cases before it.

They may deserve release just as much as the men who are paroled, but because everybody has forgotten about them, they get no consideration.

In an effort to set matters right, Gov. Conner has been personally interviewing such convicts. Altogether, he expects to hear at least 150 long-termers tell their stories.

His action reflects credit on him, and also indicates a weakness not uncommon in parole systems. Whether a prisoner is paroled should not depend on the influence he can muster.

It is the board's responsibility to examine all prisoners' cases without waiting to be prodded.

A Spokane woman spent her last dollar on rouge so she could enter prison "with her chin up." She should have had her face lifted.

Recent Nazi proclamation to followers reads: "Do your duty and be on the spot." They will be anyway, if they don't.

Now that they've invented a flying automobile, you'll never know whether a woman driver is going to go right, left, or up.

The DARK BLOND

By CARLETON KENDRAKE

DEAR BLOND TODAY MILLETT GAVES... NORMAN HAPP... "I could offer myself if you hadn't lost your confidence in me." "You're not certain that I've lost a confidence in you?" she said. "It's simply a feeling of complete bewilderment. I've never received quite such baffling treatment as I've received since I came into this house."

PAUL MALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS. An Executive Evening Times Daily Report on the Past-working Events in the State by a Expert Interpreter and Commentator. (Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

RELIEF ARITHMETIC WASHINGTON—Something is wrong about this relief business. It was started in order to care for the unemployed, but the legislation is becoming increasingly obscure. The more men go back to work, the more there are on relief.

That "paradoxical tendency" was noted in some degree several months ago, but recently the disparity has gone beyond the bounds of casual explanation. For instance, last December unemployment increased about 300,000, while relief rolls jumped 800,000 (disparity 500,000).

These figures are not wide, but unofficial figures for February show that, while unemployment increased about 200,000, relief rolls jumped 2,000,000 and hit the all-time high of 22,500,000.

The private estimates for March have not lessened the apprehensions shown in charge of this situation.

EXPOSURE Of course these in-charge have a lack of explanation. You take your choice. The best one is that the unemployed finally have a right to relief.

It is admitted unofficially that there is considerable grating on relief. Even the relief directors concede there are many persons getting relief who do not need it.

SLOTH If you can get a congressman to talk frankly, he will admit this in the slowest and duldest section of congress within the memory of capitol antiquarians.

Both houses have been in session exactly three months and are not completing the first major item of legislation—the relief bill.

There is more behind this delay than habit. The real reason is that congressional resistance to the Roosevelt program is increasing.

WAR ON DISEASE GAINS HEADWAY

Medical Finds During Past Six Months Offer Encouraging Prospects

By ROBERT MUSEL

(Copyright, 1935, United Features)

NEW YORK, April 5 (U.P.)—The war on disease, which has been waging since the discovery of penicillin, has now reached a stage where it is being pushed back to the frontiers of death, a survey of recent medical accomplishments indicated today.

Among the most important recent developments in the fight against disease is the discovery of penicillin, which has been hailed as a potent weapon for the treatment of bacterial infections.

Another dramatic advance was marked at Lakeside hospital, where a patient was cured of a new disease, "hepatitis," several times more powerful than the one which it resembles.

Other ailments in which preventive medicine is being used include heart disease, which may be cured without surgery in certain cases.

Headaches—Dr. Julius Wagner, whose novel method for curing bilious headaches may be cured by a suppository diet plus mineral water.

Paralysis—Dr. Maurice Brody, of the New York City city department, has announced a vaccine made from dead bacilli for the treatment of infantile paralysis.

Stomach ulcers—Two North-Western universities have discovered a new hormone, enterogastrogen, which slows down acid secretion and relieves stomach and gastric ulcers.

FRUIT BUDS CAN FREEZE SOLID AND STILL PRODUCE PERFECT FRUIT.

Severe freezing through the winter months does not injure the fruit bud, even though it is frozen solid. But after the bud has begun to awaken, with the warm days of spring, a sudden cold snap freezes and ruptures the plump cells, and our fruit crop is ruined.
