"I do not contend that there were no mistakes in the early days of the N.R.A.," he said, "but that the mistakes were far from perfect, that code authorities were properly organized, that administration had been perfect or even good."

CLIPPER'S JAUNT STRESSES GAINS

Record-Breaking Hop Draws Eyes to Amazing Strides In Ocean Flying

HONOLULU, T. H., April 16 (AP)—The record-breaking flight of a Pan-American Airways Clipper plane from California to Hawaii drew attention today to the remarkable strides in trans-oceanic flying since two army pilots in a land plane made the first crossing seven years before.

"Dive in San Francisco, breakfast the next morning in Honolulu" became a reality with the completion of the first exploratory flight of a service which soon will link successfully Honolulu and the mainland but the entire Orient with the western coast of the United States.

Didn't Hurry

Capt. Edward A. Musick and his five companions in their four-motored Sikorsky bridged the 2,400 miles in 35 hours, 33 minutes, and did it without making any effort to travel the shortest path in the quickest time. Instead they deliberately reduced speed so their plane to arrive after dawn and at the time originally set.

It was possible they could have cut their time at least three or four hours had they tried. Their speed contrasted with the 25 hours, 50 minutes it took Lieut. Alfred Sieberberger and Lester Matland to make the first successful east-to-west flight in 1927. The army men had a land plane of the Fokker type.

The previous best time was made by six U. S. navy planes in 1934, when they crossed on the longest over-water mass formation flight ever made in 24 hours, 48 minutes.

As in the navy flight, the Pan-American Clipper plane's journey was a "routine" venture, made solely for the purpose of "proving" the route planes will follow in regular service.

Early on Arrival

Musick and his companions stepped from their ship at Honolulu and hurriedly as it just left California two hours before instead of almost 10 hours ahead, however, through the day and after brief conferences again returned to this hotel.

After their 19-ton plane has been reconditioned they will make exploratory flights around the Hawaiian islands, then return to California. It was indicated they might make either Los Angeles or San Diego their objective on the return flight, tentatively set for early next week.

While Pan-American is paving the way for Pacific flying service from the United States to China, other companies and other nations are working on plans which will make the western ocean a veritable maze of cross-crossing air routes.

Japanese interests are developing plans to establish a route from Tokyo to Manila and another from their island to Vladivostok, connecting there with a trans-Siberian line. British firms are considering extending lines from Australia to Manila. Dutch concerns also may extend their European-Dutch-West Indian service to the Philippines. Fear to the north and east, a subsidiary of Pan-American is providing a service which brings Nome, Alaska, within four days of San Francisco over a route it formerly took a month by steamer to traverse.

Pan-American's route from California to China will touch Honolulu, the Midway Islands, Wake Island, Guam and Manila.

Reports show that between 70 and 75 per cent of all cars shipped abroad in 1935 by Americans for foreign travel were of the medium and low price class.

Man, 91, Seeks Divorce Asked Back in 1894

CLAIRTON, Pa., April 13 (AP)—Peter Pancorelli was, pretty hepped up today at the chance of getting the divorce that he asked for 41 years ago.

Peter in well along in years now—he was 52 his last birthday—but he has developed an enthusiasm for the divorce which was buried under the rush of Clairton county business in 1894 and never was re-created.

Clerk Stumped

Peter strode into Clerk of Courts D. E. Elliott's office yesterday and demanded to know why he hadn't been given the papers that showed he was divorced. Elliott scratched his head, thumbed his records, and said Pancorelli didn't have any petition on file.

"Yes," said Pancorelli, "I have. I asked for my divorce in 1894, but all these years I wait, and nothing happen—I want my divorce now."

Elliott and his aides pulled out musty records, and there, on the August, 1894, list, was Pancorelli's petition.

What is quick.

"Ah, yes," said Pancorelli whose speech has not quite lost the vigor of his youth. "I am quite some 60 years of railroad-ing over here. Now I want my divorce quick."

John M. Meyers, an attorney, sat an inquirer, and Pancorelli repeated the story told in his petition—show his wife left him in 1892 because he upbraided her for seeing other men. Their four years of married life had been happy until then.

"She leave me," Pancorelli said, "and now I want divorce." But the old man wouldn't say why he waited 41 years, and suddenly demanded it.

"What makes it matter?" he asked Meyers. "I want my divorce now."

Meyers said he would send his recommendation to the common pleas court promptly.

NATIONS SEEKING SPEEDIEST TRAIN

England, Italy and Germany Battling for Supremacy In Rail Field

By H. L. PERCY
LONDON (U.P.)—Competition between the leading nations for the fastest express train in the world is becoming more and more intense. Daily as streamlined and Diesel-equipped locomotives set new records.

Facts and figures show that at present Britain runs the fastest train, express train in the world, and that Germany has the fastest train in existence, a Diesel electric express.

World Steam Record
The world's fastest steam engine, seven years old, pulled a train 258 miles in three hours and 51 minutes, an average of 68.8 miles an hour, and touched at one time the world record for steam of 108 miles an hour.

At the moment a triangular fight between Germany, Italy and Britain will, reportedly, electric rail-car, and steam train, is on Germany is reported to be contemplating something faster than the Flying Hamburger; Italy is developing speedy rail-cars; and Britain is planning her faith to steam, plus streamlining.

Non-Stop Record
Apart from the Cheltenham Flyer, which daily covers the 77 1/2 miles from Swindon to London in 65 minutes, Britain holds the world record for long non-stop journeys. In the summer, the record is held by the Flying Scotsman, London to Edinburgh, 392 1/2 miles, while throughout the year the Royal Scot runs non-stop between Carlisle and London, 302 miles.

The general speed-up of train services in Britain has, within the last three years, resulted in a total saving of 49,072 minutes daily. There are 31 British expresses scheduled for part of their journeys at start-stop speeds of 60 m. p. h. or over, and 53 at 55 m. p. h. or over.

Racing World Tips Its Hat to Girl Entry in Trainers' Field

NEW YORK (NEA)—The feminist movement probably never has been so active as it is today, and admittedly she doesn't give a whoop about women's rights as might. Nevertheless, her determination to win recognition in her chosen career has in less than one year opened to women a field which by the tradition of centuries was reserved to men—that of racing horse trainers.

When, a year ago, her application for a trainer's license was refused by the venerable municipality of American horse racing, the New York Jockey club also opened up a wonderful opportunity for demonstrations and recognition. It is, in fact, the "sheer heaven," refused to get excited. She'd show 'em.

San Antonio, Tex.
That she did above that is attested by the Jockey club's grant of a license to her in the current year, without a quibble—putting the official stamp of approval on her success.

And by her success, she makes it possible for such famous sportsmen as the late great trainer, Fred Goetz, owner of Cavalcade; Mrs. John Jay Whitney, Mrs. James M. Jones, Mrs. John G. Jones, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, to obtain trainer's licenses which would privilege them to handle their entries in important races and add a colorful touch to an already exciting sport.

Charming and cultured, tiny brunette Mary Hirsch, says a trainer's license because horses had been a primary interest through most of her twenty-two years. Her father is Max Hirsch, trainer of the Schwartz stables and others, one of the leading figures in the industry.

As a toddler, she was a frequent companion while he attended to his duties, she learned to guide horses almost as soon as she walked, and learned, moreover, to fear no horse.

Her contact with racing was interrupted during school years, but she spent a year at the college in Westchester, Chevy Chase and the exclusive Scudder school.

When she decided to train a stable herself, "Bernard" Sprague, the famous horse doctor, was at her disposal. She bought some of her own. The refusal of a license to her last year forced her to resign fields; Michigan and Illinois accorded her full recognition. In other states she could present horses for the race, but not allowed to saddle them and attend to the horses' needs, nor to receive bets just before post time—a situation which she had to do to do the important job, which she watched enviously.

Recently, a British engine, seven years old, pulled a train 258 miles in three hours and 51 minutes, an average of 68.8 miles an hour, and touched at one time the world record for steam of 108 miles an hour.

At the moment a triangular fight between Germany, Italy and Britain will, reportedly, electric rail-car, and steam train, is on Germany is reported to be contemplating something faster than the Flying Hamburger; Italy is developing speedy rail-cars; and Britain is planning her faith to steam, plus streamlining.

In the summer, the record is held by the Flying Scotsman, London to Edinburgh, 392 1/2 miles, while throughout the year the Royal Scot runs non-stop between Carlisle and London, 302 miles.

Pioneer, 1935 style—that's Mary Hirsch, first woman horse trainer recognized by the New York Jockey club. She's shown here with her own entry for racing horses, 'Tullio', a two-year-old.

RESPONSIBILITY OF SCHOOL PATRONS

Patrons of all common school districts have an obligation to perform Saturday on the occasion of the annual election for school trustees and the meetings in connection with the length of school terms are fixed and the levy for special purposes set.

In this county there are 34 school districts and in each one of the terms of at least one director will expire. In some districts, on account of removals and resignations, there will be additional members of boards to be named.

The calibre of school board members is important, not only on account of the duty which devolves upon trustees in choosing the best instructional staff available, but also on account of the responsibility of the board in operating the financial affairs of the district, and in the end fixing no inconsiderable part of property owners' taxes.

Perhaps in the majority of cases those directors whose terms are about to expire would be willing to again assume the necessary responsibility of office and in all cases where they will and where such men and women have demonstrated ability, they should be complimented by reelection.

Public voting at any time is important, but it seems that voting for school trustees does not ordinarily receive the attention it should.

The voting and meetings are scheduled to open at 1 p. m. All eligible voters in common school districts should make it a point to go to the schools, houses in their respective districts Saturday afternoon and assist in the conduct of the educational system in their communities by voting for the officials of their choice. It is a responsibility they should not shirk.

That South African custom which requires a man to stand at a distance when addressing his mother-in-law was probably dictated by caution.

COMPLETE ISOLATION NEEDED

Whatever else it may be doing, the current European war scare is at least providing a field day for American internationalists.

The burden of their cry right now is that if and when Europe goes to war it will be utterly impossible for the United States to stay out of it.

Looking back at what happened in 1914 and immediately thereafter, it is not hard to understand why people should feel that way. And yet it is equally hard to see why the program we followed during the last war has to be duplicated in the next one.

We weren't able to keep out of the last war. But, is there any overwhelming reason why, profiting by the lessons we learned then, we cannot keep out of the next one?

If we hope to do so, there are two courses open to us.

The first one is to follow the lead of the internationalists, work with the League of Nations right up to the hilt, negotiate and confer with European statesmen whenever the European pot starts boiling, and take in every way possible an active, energetic course to keep war from starting.

Considering what the American electorate has done to the League of Nations proponents at various times, it is hard to picture any American government following that course.

The other possibility is to buttress our isolation in every imaginable way. And the most important way would seem to be to get a new concept of neutrality.

We started out to be neutral in the last war. But what happened? We loaned money and sold supplies to all comers; the only persons who could get at us to borrow and buy were the allies; as an inevitable result, we soon became in fact, although not avowedly, a silent partner in the allied cause. We were their banker and their production manager.

Once that had happened, it was only a question of time before we should get into the war in bloody earnest.

Neutrality of that kind is no neutrality at all. If we follow the same course in the next war, we may expect the same result.

But we can devise a new kind of neutrality. We can refuse to sell or to lend in any way to any nation. That would be a hard policy to follow, of course. But it would enable us to steer clear of trouble.

We might as well make up our mind to it. If we prefer isolation to taking a hand in the internationalists' game, the isolation must be complete. Complete isolation is expensive, but that may be the price we have to pay for remaining at peace.

The DARK BLOOD

BY CAPLETON KENDRICK

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILLETIC'S girl, Vera Duchene, secretary in his office, had been on such an expedition that she had returned with a black crime on her conscience.

In the dark, she could see the shadow of a man who had been on such an expedition that she had returned with a black crime on her conscience.

She opened the door. There was a discreet knock at the door.

"Who is it?" Millicent asked. "Winton, the butler," said a mournful voice.

The butler stood in wooden-faced dignity upon the threshold. "The master would like to have you go to his study," he said.

She smiled up into his professional and lubricious countenance and said, "I understand that the chauffeur has been killed by your car."

"No, no," he said, "don't misunderstand me. I mean he accompanied you to your door with the car."

"What did he say at that time?" "I don't know," she said. "He told me that you had been killed."

"I don't know," she said. "He told me that you had been killed."

"I don't know," she said. "He told me that you had been killed."

"I don't know," she said. "He told me that you had been killed."

"No, ma'am. Her fur coat is a brown mink. I believe that she has a white fur coat—it's Italian or Russian."

GOOD FRIDAY
Editor Evening Times: Perhaps the omni-verse of the old four hundred, though the various Christian ministers differ as to the manner of their services and view of Christian worship and view of the day of mourning, but all agree that it is a day of sorrow, mourning and prayer.

Perhaps some of my readers will object by saying I don't see anything wrong in enjoying myself by partying, dancing and the like on Good Friday. I would not blame you for that. I do not see anything wrong in laughing, innocent joking or frolics on that day. I do not see anything wrong in that. I do not see anything wrong in that. I do not see anything wrong in that.

CASH READY FOR HOUSING EFFORTS

Funds Totalling $450,000,000 Available for Attempt to Revitalize Campaign

WASHINGTON, April 18 (UP)—The New Deal has $450,000,000 which may be moved into the campaign to subsidize alum clearance and provide low cost housing—various federal agencies since August, 1933, to utilize low cost housing projects have been more remarkable for persistence than for success.

With this large sum from the works relief appropriation and the coincident desire of James A. Moffett to resign as federal housing administrator, there is speculation whether there will be merger or greater co-operation among some of the agencies which are attempting to solve housing problem.

Leaders Battle
The last time housing was brought to national attention in a big way was when Moffett and FWA Administrator Harold L. Ticks were in a front page controversy over the housing program. Moffett wanted to leave the job to private capital controlled by limited federal insurance against losses. New Deal Coordinator Donald R. Hebbinger and Henry H. Harman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, were among those who aided Moffett.

But ticks and the spending element in the New Deal are now for federal subsidies. The $450,000,000 appropriation is the answer to the "prayer" of those who wanted more than that. Mr. Roosevelt finally forced ticks and Moffett through the motions of reconciliation.

Three Carry Load
Three organizations carry most of the housing load. The Home Owners Loan Corporation and affiliated units is a hodgepodge from the floor administration. It is the outstanding success of the trio. The others are the federal housing administration and the housing and alum clearance venture undertaken with $150,000,000 public works administration funds.

Officials engaged with housing plans estimate that approximately 50 agencies and sub-divisions of the government have a finger in the housing pie in one way or another. The records of the three major housing agencies are as follows:

Refinance Mortgages
Home Owners Loan Corporation: Has aided in refinancing $33,211 mortgages having an aggregate value of $2,549,028. The interest of the refinanced mortgages of distressed home owners is $3,016. Congress has almost completed legislative action on a bill to increase H.O.L.C. resources by $1,750,000,000.

Public Works Administration
Began its housing program in August, 1933, with an appropriation of $40,000,000 in loans to limited dividend private housing projects some of which later were converted to the private construction of low cost housing with federal assistance. In October, 1933, F.W.A. created the emergency housing program. With its $150,000,000 F.W.A. has spent $3,364,000 in private, limited dividend projects and $1,000,000 on federal low cost housing, but has not shown impressive results.

Subject of Dispute
Moffett's federal housing administration in the subject of dispute in and out of the New Deal. His record: 131,034 applications for loans to remodel homes $18,110,000 advanced for that purpose. There have been 5,434 applications for aggregate of $2,000,000 of underwritten mortgages for refinancing existing homes and building new ones. In response to these applications the F.H.A. has committed itself to underwrite $12,227,257 out of which it has underwritten only $1,049,755 as of April 16.

The F.H.A. low cost housing plan does not involve a subsidy. It consists of federal insurance up to 80 per cent of mortgages for low cost housing. Contrary to the opinion which strictly limit their dividends and rent levels. F.H.A. reports that these loans aggregate $9,238,078.

RIO GRANDE HITS LONG-TIME LOW

River Now Can Be Waded in Many Spots, Asserts Official

HRA—T. O. (UP)—The Rio Grande here has reached what is believed to be its lowest stage in 35 years. It is 70 to 80 feet below normal. The gauge recently had been registering only seven-tenths of a foot, or about eight inches, he said.

Can Be Waded
The river now can be waded in many places and the "dry" season will last several weeks away. Thomas recalled that in 1932 the river was at an unusually low stage and three months later the biggest flood in decades struck the valley, causing damage of more than $2,000,000.

Although China has an area of 1,000,000 square miles, there are only 100,000 automobiles in that country.

IL DUCE FIGHTS BIRTH CONTROL

PARIS (UP)—Birth control and the desire for the comforts and luxuries of life are denounced by Premier Mussolini in an exclusive interview published by Paris-Soleil.

"I am a feminist," Il Duce told "Rayana, French woman correspondent, whose airplane was shot down at Crete during the Greek revolution. "Only," he added, "women must not meddle with politics, philosophy or architecture." Deploping small families, Premier Mussolini declared: "There is no over-production, there is under-consumption." The falling birth rate is one of the causes of the depression. People should have children, lots of children. It means more money. "The child is a remarkable consumer, for he destroys everything—his books, his playthings, his clothes. He eats! The economic life of a country depends on its population. To hold that a numerous people becomes a poor people is to commit a monstrous error. When I was young I lived in a depopulated and wretched province. Today it is thickly populated and, consequently, this is a nation that must have lots of children unless they want to die."

CANAL DEFENSES VIEWED AS WEAK

Panama Newspaperman Brings National Eye to Focus on Vulnerability

By SYLV MacDOWELL
ADRIAN B. SANTA ELENA, Dalbous, C. Z. (U. S.)—Years of combined army and navy maneuvers have demonstrated the vulnerability of this "Achilles heel of America" to an enemy attack. But the eye of a Panama editor recently has aroused a demand for defense wherein studied military critiques

Through the columns of his Panama-American, Editor Nelson Houshopper analyzed the Canal administration for failure to heed the studies. In many instances, the studies were of a theoretical nature. The result today, in that civilian military engineering experts in propounding defense schemes that range the gamut of human imagination, is a feeling of frustration for guarding this vital artery which has become the popular Panamanian.

Fantastic Proposals
Dome roofs of steel mesh, arches over the locks, in the form of the proposals which military authorities are seriously considering. To start off as a bomb, such a net would have to be as strong as the concrete which makes the main tops of ships such as this crack, new Grace liner, the net would have to be as strong as the floor of Brooklyn bridge.

Another proposal is a 50-mile line of "barrier" guns, including a web of wires similar to the submarine nets used in the Great War. The net is set up at nightfall to a height of 20,000 feet and is to be kept up at all times to any enemy aircraft contacting their glancing web.

The latter scheme is similar to a plan offered by an Oxford professor to the British air ministry for defense of the channel coast of Britain.

Bomb Net Plan
To top the most fantastic proposals, the bomb net would have to stand about 100 feet above the water level of the locks. It is estimated that the original cost of the net would be the cost of the necessary to protect cables and steel frame-work from the rigors of tropical summers.

The "spider lobster" idea would involve a greater outlay, but according to its promoters, it offers the unique advantage of being both offensive and defensive. A plan for guarding the canal and locks against sabotage is being considered. An effective one has been conceived.

Blocking Locks
Sinking a large submarine freighter in one of the locks is the menace most often mentioned. But the idea of blocking the locks with an exploded ship would block the set of locks. But to drain Gatun locks would put the canal out of use for several seasons.

A Panama golf club uses the top of Gatun Dam for a golf course. While all other strategic points are closely guarded, the top of the dam is public as a golf course. Members, Rousey pointed out. "It is not easy to plant a mine on a golf course, but it is possible to do so."

Theoretical Damage
Rousey declared that alien membership privileges in this golf club. In war games of past years, naval air forces inflicted heavy theoretical damage on the canal. Despite the elaborate defense of army officers, the canal is a target for air warfare. "Air-bomb" planes would face prohibiting hazards, involving the loss of the canal.

But Panama strategists are convinced that any enemy would not attack such a target unless it could be located. The canal would be protected.

In a war game, the nation's interest in the United States fleet bottled in the Pacific. The nation's interest in the United States fleet bottled in the Pacific. The nation's interest in the United States fleet bottled in the Pacific.

Such a contingency was foreseen in last year's naval maneuvers. An aerial carrier was "land" near the base of the canal. The land naval air station from Callis to the base of the canal.

The Newest Books

The last book we read about "United States" by Andrew C. McLaughlin, L. D. Appleton, who spent about three weeks on the Gold Coast and came away with a perspective to date treatment with typewriter dripping black ink, comic, Juju and malicious mystery.

After that, coming upon "The Leopard Priests" by Captain R. H. Rattry (Appleton-Century) has been very much like our childhood discovery that our Chinese laundryman did not singe opium, and never had heard of P. K. Menchu. This latest African book has opened our understanding a little to the gods and gods of another far-off people.

Captain Rattry is a British officer; he has lived most of the last 30 years in Africa. This book of his in fiction, driven from his first-hand knowledge of that country's most primitive life. Its story is of two lullaby-lyric authors, women into a life of a year's study of that primitive life.

All Rattry's characters are the fictional thread upon which he hangs his story. They live and die. Things that other writers have done through occult, Rattry makes understandable and logical. He has come home with a new man's portrait of the heart and mind of the African "nave."

Ellery Queen, one of the masters of mystery story writing, has struck a new high in his most recent effort, "The Spanish Case Mystery" (Stokes). Queen is at his best in this mystery. Juan Marco, dashing, handsome and intelligent, is the hero. He is a detective, the things for which you might expect of Queen a stunning surprise awaits you at the end.

"The Emerald Buddha" by Elizabeth Morse (E. P. Dutton & Co.) is the story of the theft of an emerald Buddha. The Buddha is entirely of emerald. The author of the novel is laid in Bangkok, Siam, where she has lived for many years. An unscrupulous Siamese merchant, cast covetous eyes toward the Buddha statue, but before he could complete his plans for his theft, he was one step ahead of him.

The novel admirably pictures Siamese life in the colony and introduces a number of interesting characters. There is a timely importance to the "Emerald Buddha" in that it is a story of the life of a Siamese merchant, cast covetous eyes toward the Buddha statue, but before he could complete his plans for his theft, he was one step ahead of him.

FOREIGN COTTON EXPORTS GAINING

American Industry Imperilled Through Increased Output Of Latin Nations

NEW ORLEANS (U. S.)—The American cotton industry stands in jeopardy of foreign competition, the opinion of Walter Parker, New Orleans cotton economist, who blames government interference with the industry for the decline in American cotton exports to foreign countries, which in the past never has been regarded as a competitor of the United States in the world market, now has begun to figure in the news as just that, said Parker.

Peru Exports Gain
In 1934, exports of Peruvian cotton, in 500-pound bales, amounted to 230,000 bales, exceeding the previous record exports in 1933 by 45,848 bales.

"Several years ago Brazil produced about 300,000 bales," Parker said. "This year Brazil has produced about 1,250,000 bales, and next year her crop will probably amount to 2,000,000 bales."

Parker believes United States cotton is going through the same process Brazilian cotton men went through under valuation. He said competing producers are taking the world's markets away from the United States cotton producer.

Wide Variety of Freak Bills Offered By State Lawmakers

By JAMES C. AUSTIN (Copyright, 1935, United Press)

NEW YORK, April 18 (U. S.)—The lawmakers who make bills have puzzled their heads over such weighty matters as putting light on public amusements, putting and classifying airplane operators as rogues and vagabonds. Also, relief problems and appropriations and road building projects have been introduced.

Most of them are destined to expire before they can be introduced.

Varied bills were offered on legislative tables, and a poorly portended of them are directed at current American problems such as painting school buses red, white and blue, checking nudism and the idea of a step father's pension.

Experts Wonder At Flier's Height Of Dust Healt

WASHINGTON, April 18 (U. S.)—Veteran weather bureau observers could not recall today any incident of dust storms as high as 23,000 feet, reported by Miss Emma Reynolds as forcing abandonment of her transcontinental flight attempt.

Hand said few planes could go above 23,000 feet unless specially built.

Fleated Three Years
Hand said on occasions volcanic dust reached the stratosphere and traveled around the world. After an eruption near the Java straits, the dust stayed up three years and noticeably increased the world's temperature by interfering with the sun's radiation.

Hand said there was small chance of the dust now being stripped from midwestern fields by multiplying such phenomena. Most of it comes down with the first rain, he said.

OUTLINES WAYS TO AVOID MOLT

H. J. Bonie Explains Poultry Factors Causing Loss in Eggs Profits

By H. J. BONIE Twin Falls A fall molt to the poultry farmer means but one thing—losses. The fall molt is due to several things. The early-hatched pullets, or those hatched in February, are most certain to molt. They may start to lay in August and lay well but later when cold weather of October and November comes they stop laying and start to molt. They last for a month or two.

Another Cause But another cause may bring early pullets into molt, and perhaps has more to do with it than any other one thing that is within control of the poultryman. That has to do with the feeding and rearing of the pullets during their early life. Pullets having rich high-protein mash throughout their growing period develop their early life. Pullets having rich high-protein mash throughout their growing period develop their early life.

Profits Vanish In either case when laying ceases the molt starts and profits vanish. There is a third factor, and that is breeding. We have seen, under similar conditions of management, one pullet will lay 250 eggs of more per year—means that she could not possibly go through a molt and lay this amount of eggs; so we secure chicks from high record hens (old pullets) we should find pullets more for less than to fall molt.

Use of Seta, Helms Ranges Carry on Routine and Emergency Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Installation of radio communication facilities in Rocky Mountain National park has made possible contact between all isolated sections of the reservation, no national park service reports. Service officials have installed a 50 watt headquarters set at the utility area on the east side of the park and eight semi-portable sets in various ranger stations. These portable sets also are available for emergency use.

When the pullets reach five months of age and are not laying, which would be the case when not forced, put them on a regular laying ration and let them lay for 30 days. If they are laying only twenty per cent don't be alarmed as they have, in all probability, built up reserve fat that will carry their body weight through a long lay period and pass up the fall molt.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Installation of radio communication facilities in Rocky Mountain National park has made possible contact between all isolated sections of the reservation, no national park service reports. Service officials have installed a 50 watt headquarters set at the utility area on the east side of the park and eight semi-portable sets in various ranger stations. These portable sets also are available for emergency use.

When the pullets reach five months of age and are not laying, which would be the case when not forced, put them on a regular laying ration and let them lay for 30 days. If they are laying only twenty per cent don't be alarmed as they have, in all probability, built up reserve fat that will carry their body weight through a long lay period and pass up the fall molt.

Film Colony Seeks Possible Romance in Air Trip With Gilbert Roland

(Copyright, 1935, United Press) HOLLYWOOD, April 18 (U.P.)—Connie Bennett, screen actress, was back in town today and her arrival brought forth a bundle of rumors.

She hopped off an air liner from New York and was whisked away from the film colony here.

The big ship lumbered off to a hangar, where, after a while, Gilbert Roland, actor, emerged. He dashed off to an unannounced destination.

Going raised their eyebrows when informed that Roland had been Bennett's companion on the trans-continental journey.

Marguerite Rameau, stage and screen actress, today faced a $48,200 judgment as a result of an allocation of affidavits suit.

The judgment was won originally in New York courts by Alvin Karpis, who charged that the actress stole the love of her husband, William Keenan.

Mrs. Mantor transferred the suit to superior court here to collect on the New York judgment, which amounted to $46,000.

Thomas Jane, 23-year-old son of the late Thomas H. Ince, motion picture producer, today was reported to have been injured.

He suffered when his automobile collided with a taxicab. He was cut through the windshield by the windshield of his car.

Mrs. Nan Pierson Brooks Macy, New York socialite who decided to "bring in the matter" to the court.

She forced George Henry Macy, her heir, in Reno, was hopping mad today.

"It's this gossip," she complained, "it doesn't stop 'til I'm going right back to New York."

"This gossip," referred to a rumor in the film colony that Mrs. Macy was leaving an extra out of a job and that she used her check only for bookmaking.

"It's not an extra," she said, "it's playing a contract she has with H. B. Miller, producer. The sales, I don't use my checks for bookmaking. They all go to charity."

When Mrs. Macy obtained a divorce from her husband several months ago, she was reported to have obtained a settlement of $100,000.

DOG PUZZLE CHICAGO, April 18 (U.P.)—Police were at home (U.P.) today and Judge Samuel Heller hoped by (U.P.) that there had been a dog.

Richard Owen told Judge Heller that "Jack" belonged to him. Carl Thelacker said "Prince" was his property.

The dog both were talking about said "two" to his names.

Judge Heller lined the Owen fence against one wall and the Thelacker against another.

Thelacker galloped to the Thelackers when they called Prince, and to the Owens when they called Jack.

"Thelacker gets him," Heller decreed wearily. "It seems to have had him longest." Both Owen children burst into tears.

Judge Heller touched a handkerchief to his own eyes.

"Here," he said to Thelacker, "I'll pay you $5 myself to live the dog to those children."

DIRECTORS HAVE VARIED HISTORY

Acting, Newspaper Work Are Backgrounds for Screen's Megaphone Men

BY ALEXANDER KAHN HOLLYWOOD, April 18 (U.P.)—What did some of Hollywood's most famous directors do before they entered the film industry? Most of them were actors or newspapermen.

Richard Boleslawski, now one of the film colony's best directors and a writer as well as an actor, a stage director and a Polish army officer prior to coming to America.

George Cukor, who came out of the army in 1919 into a job as assistant stage manager of "The Better O' Luck," however, always has been associated with the stage as an actor.

Roy Del Ruth was a Philadelphia reporter and sketch artist. He came to Hollywood in 1913, to fight in Havana in 1913. He started in pictures as a writer.

Victor Fleming, always interesting in biographical, entered motion pictures as a cameraman and was graduated into the ranks of directors.

Tay Garnett was a newspaperman, artist and magazine writer before becoming a director in 1920.

Edmund Lewis studied to be a mining engineer, but became an actor after singing in a college orchestra.

Frank Lloyd, an orphan, drifted around the world working at dozens of jobs. He was a clerk, post-office digger, stage manager, stage coach driver, farmer and actor.

Charles Heiner was a songwriter and writer before becoming a director.

Richard Thorpe began as a vaudeville stock actor.

The career of W. S. Van Dyke has been the most varied of them all. He has been a janitor, logger, stage driver, grocery clerk, explorer and explorer, newspaperman.

Escapes Death in Buzz Saw Haircut MANTUA CORNERS, Ohio (U.P.)—Having his hair clipped by a buzz saw was a new experience for James G. W. and one he doesn't want to repeat.

Solon Will Row to Slash Weight DIXON, Ill., (U.P.)—State Representative John F. Duvine, Democratic speaker of the Illinois house, plans a novel way to rid himself of surplus weight.

On Woman Expert SAN FERNANDO, Calif., (U.P.)—Mrs. Joan's Furdy Scott, first woman leader of a crew of 12 deep-sea pearl divers off the African coast, is fighting to overcome the prejudices of the profession—burning blood vessels.

She studied surgery in San Francisco, but spent most of her time at the harbor and got an underwater job repairing ships. This led to pearl diving off Sonoma, and Africa, seven years ago.

She is the daughter of a Chinese Indian fighter and the mother of two girls. She holds the long distance rough-water swimming record for women.

NEED BODYGUARD? SEE HELEN

STRONG YOUNG WOMAN WISHES POSITION: Helen's bodyguard; uses firearms; gd. companion. "Travel" Address 2, 395, Tribune.

Have a look at thoseiceps and those triceps and those flowing back muscles! What a bodyguard she had! That's the ambition of Helen "Triple Threat" Forsythe, 138 pounds and "all muscle," as told to the world in the want ad shown above when she arrived in Chicago from Wisconsin to blaze a new career trail for women.

She claims a deadly knockout punch, smearing salt with a pistol, and announces that she's no slouch at wrestling.

Children since time immemorial have created their own amusement by imitating their elders, but one of the strangest of youth's games indulged in here had been discovered unwittingly today by local officers.

Robert Z. Leonard studied to be a mining engineer, but became an actor after singing in a college orchestra.

Officers discovered a supply of the articles and at first thought they were on the trail of loot. They were soon fooled.

The little boys and girls got a big kick out of the game, which some observers declare is a most interesting study in social, economic, psychology and social service.

The more practical say "it's just the kids having a little fun."

Newcomers in the Malay country can be deceived quite easily by the roar of the hornbill's wings. One of these great birds bearing overhead gives a most convincing imitation of an airplane. The noise is due to the rush of air through the stiff wing quills.

WHERE FRIENDS MEET - WHERE FOLKS SAVE MONEY AND WHERE SERVICE AND COURTESY AND THE FRIENDLY SPIRIT ARE SINCERE AND UNAFFECTED

AN UNEXPECTED ROSE BUSH SALE STARTING FRIDAY MORNING, 8 A. M. 800 ASSORTED ROSE BUSHES

So many of our good customers were not able to obtain bushes on our former sale and so many requests were pouring in that we wrote our grower in Oregon and told him he absolutely must get us some more bushes at all costs. He gave us every bush he had left from cancelled orders and then took all the bushes his neighbor growers had. As far as we know there isn't a bush left in that section. In our opinion some of these bushes are not as good as those offered in our previous sales but they are still very good ones. Each bush wrapped and labeled as to color and variety. We regret that we cannot accept phone or mail orders on these bushes.
