Berlin Feels 'Pained Surprise' At Britain Announcement of Sub Program

By FREDERICK C. OCHSNER (Copyright, 1935, United Press) BERLIN, April 29 (AP)—Germany is building small destroyers and torpedo boats at Baltic shipyards, a report said today in addition to "baby" submarines. It was reported also that Germany was fortifying a marine base on the island of Sylt in the North Sea.

No Trespassing—No trespassing has been permitted near Sylt, at the northernmost end of the island, since 1932 because a machine airport was established there. In the summer of 1933 more territory was closed to the public, and the grounds of the sanatorium had been established. Natives of the island, however, claim the "no trespassing" has been abolished.

There is an airport, listed as commercial, at Westerland at the midway point of the island facing the North Sea and Great Britain. Sylt is the chief island of the North Frisian group. It is 25 miles long and 1 1/2 miles wide. The main and southern Danish coast. A railroad runs the length of the island.

A CHALLENGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

In the latest message from the President of the United States, the people of the country have been appealed to on high patriotic grounds to cooperate in the current recovery effort.

The invitation constitutes a challenge to every red-blooded American because the war in which we are now engaged against depression is quite as important a drive as this nation ever made under the discipline of the military.

There will be critics, scoffers, and, as Mr. Roosevelt said, "unfair proficients by selfish minorities," but he urged that nothing be permitted to stand in the way of making this recovery drive a "smashing answer for those cynical men who say that democracy cannot be honest and efficient."

This is a great national crusade, he said, to destroy enforced idleness, which is an enemy of the human spirit generated by the depression, and he called upon his fellow countrymen to lend their energetic support to the measures at hand.

In allocating the huge relief fund he outlined six principles to serve as guides. These principles are:

- That the projects should be useful;
  - That a large proportion of the money spent should go into wages;
  - That a considerable part of the cost should be returned to the federal government;
  - That the money expended on each project should be actually spent during the next fiscal year;
  - That the projects should give employment to persons on relief;
  - That the projects should be located in relief areas in relation to the number of workers on relief rolls.
- And then the President did the typically Rooseveltian thing: he "voiced criticism." Tell me of instances where the "work can be done better or where improper practices prevail . . . not in a fault-finding or partisan spirit . . . but how the money can be more effectively spent for the benefit of the American people . . . and in the distribution of the benefits he declared "no sectional, no political distinctions can be permitted."
- It was a plain statement to the American people of the program now under way, and a clear and lucid explanation of the future hopes of the federal government under the guiding hand of Franklin D. Roosevelt.
- Its appeal cannot go disregarded by any citizen, whether he be in low places or high. Cooperation is sought from every quarter in the lofty goal.

ODDS ON YOUR LIFE

Odds of 3500 to 1 are pretty long—more than long enough to satisfy the ordinary gambler. But when it is your life which is being gambled, no odds can be too long.

Experts of the National Safety Council, having studied American traffic death figures, have discovered that these are the odds in favor of your surviving the hazards of automobile traffic during the coming year. You have one chance in 3500 of being killed, you have one chance in 100 of being injured.

The odds seem comfortable enough, if you are disposed to treat your conjured earthly existence as a gamble. But if you like security, they aren't really so very good.

Upward of 80,000 Americans are going to find that these odds aren't any good at all, before 1936 is over.

The one comfort is that, by remembering always to drive with extreme care, you can make the odds substantially longer in your own case.

Keeping up with sales tax regulations is getting to be about as much of a tax on the minds of Idahoans, as upon their pocketbooks.

What with the increase in the price of white metal, the dust clouds which have been sweeping over Colorado appear now to have had silver linings.

The boy who shouted defiance at other lads from his own front porch grew up to invoke senatorial immunity.

The job won't be finished when European nations learn a way to preserve peace. They'll still have to find a museum to keep it in.

The white race is regularly and progressively getting fewer, says Mussolini. But people have to have automobiles.

HOW GO ON WITH THIS STORY CHAPTER XXIX

MILICENT resumed reading to the children with wide incredulous eyes. It was Norman who raved down the stairs, picked up his father's hat in his hands and ran up.

"What is it, Cynthia?"

"He's dead!"

She started to speak, and twice words failed to come from her lips.

"What is it?" Norman demanded again, alarm in his voice.

"Your father," she said.

"You telephoned?"

"Yes, when he was here."

"What do you mean?"

"He's dead!"

She started to speak, and twice words failed to come from her lips.

Norman jumped from the bed, and rushed to the door. He found the door open, and he looked into the hall. He saw the door was closed, and he went back to the bed.

"What do you mean?"

"He's dead!"

LETTER RECOUNTS TROUBLES OF FAMILIES IN DUST STORM AREA

Experiences of families residing in the heart of the dust storm district in Kansas are told graphically in a letter received by Mrs. E. E. Kibby, 201 Jefferson street from Mrs. Robert Council, Girkin City, Kans. Since the date of the letter, April 24, additional major storms have occurred, according to press reports, although rains have helped somewhat. Windows sealed. "You must thank your stars you are not here," said Mrs. Council, adding, "I am sure we could not stay here." She said that the storms will maintain for a couple days and then will occur with intense fury, and that while they are raging few people had wet clothes over their mouths. She said it was necessary to keep the windows sealed and the doors shut, regardless of the temperature, and that she had taken down the carpet and rolled up the rugs. In a school house, following one storm, 120 pounds of dirt were removed from one room; her daughter's car had already been ruined by the dust; and it was difficult to prepare meals for a two-family under the existing conditions on account of the presence of the dust. A photograph showing an approaching storm with the dust clouds rolling high in the air, was included in the letter. Frequently the storms will start about in the forenoon and white—they continue carcases prevail, so, the writer, in admitting that the situation was most discouraging to the community.

Depositors of the Citizens Bank of Kootenai will be paid 37 per cent of their deposits, 11 in the first money they have received since the bank closed in January 1932.

FOR FULL MOTOR PROTECTION

Modern cars must have oil with extra oiliness

Development since 1915 of motors of 80 to 180 horsepower has brought about correspondingly increased bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures. Motor manufacturers have turned to new alloy metals of extra strength and durability to meet these new conditions. For full protection of such motors, you must have oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to get safe lubrication under extreme pressure and heat. Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. Some oils have less, because over-refining to eliminate carbon and sludge has robbed them of oiliness and film strength. There is one exception—Conoco GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL. It, too, is free from carbon.

Advertisement for Conoco GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL. Text: 'Germ Processed—adding concentrated oily essence to highly-refined oil—gives other valuable advantages. Because GERM PROCESSED OIL penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, a "Hidden Quirt" stays up in your motor and cuts down starting-period wear. Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test. Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL and get full motor protection!'.
