WHEAT SUPPLIES UNDER '34 MARK

Stocks at Farms, Warehouses and Mills Much Lower Than For Last Year

BOISE, May 2 (Special)—Stocks of wheat in Idaho mills, elevators, and warehouses on April 1 were estimated at 5,250,000 bushels, or about 18 per cent of the state's 1934 production, according to government statistics. Wheat stocks on April 1 had declined from about 7,500,000 bushels in storage on Jan. 1, but were smaller than 1934 stocks in either 1933 or 1934.

Farm stocks of wheat on April 1 were estimated at 3,265,000 bushels. Thus the combined stocks of 8,515,000 bushels on farms and in mills, elevators and warehouses were about 8,615,000 bushels, or approximately 40 per cent of 1934 production.

U. S. Total Low United States interior mills, warehouses and elevators on April 1, 1935 are estimated to have been 68,020,000 bushels, compared with 67,293,000 bushels on April 1, 1934 (revised), 95,011,000 bushels on April 1, 1933, and 93,000,000 bushels on April 1, 1932.

Stocks in these positions are less than last year in nearly every state west of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio, while a slight increase is shown in the south and east of the Ohio river. The decrease in the four spring wheat states (Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and the Pacific northwest) 4,345,000 bushels. The not decreased wheat stocks in these positions during the past quarter amounted to 29,223,000 bushels.

JARBIDGE PROSPECTS

Announcement in The Evening Times of the decision to reopen the famous Elkoro mines at Jarbridge by Salt Lake interests should be of great concern to this locality for it signifies additional evidence of the early restoration of local prosperity.

The news comes on the heels of the announcement by the Idaho Power Company to erect another power plant at the Twin Falls, to cost nearly a million dollars and by others of numerous lesser projects all pointing to confidence of investors in the future of this section.

Of significance in connection with the Jarbridge plans is that such a development as is contemplated will add to the resources of this section, for the most part dependent upon agriculture. Encouragement of the mining industry is essential in any program here looking for a diversification of resources.

Jarbridge is a proved mining center, and work was only abandoned there on account of the decrease in the price of metal. The increase in the price of gold and silver is reviving many of the old mining camps. At Jarbridge the Elkoro was closed in 1932 in the belief on the part of many that the deposits were exhausted.

With the advance in metal prices, however, the picture is changed. A careful study was made of ores still remaining on the dumps and in the old workings. It was decided that profit could still be obtained from the ores in the district.

So now there is hope of the old Jarbridge mining camp being revived; of many men being put to work; and of valuable shipments being made from the property which is immediately adjacent to Twin Falls, which would benefit greatly by the proposed development.

And this agricultural center must look with additional favor on any project which will result in increased employment, and will be the means of increasing the population of the region, for this, after all, is a producing center seeking markets for its rich agricultural products.

A THIRD ECONOMY

New ways of looking at the unemployment problem are rare. Rexford Tugwell seems to have provided one the other day in his speech at Rochester, N. Y., when he suggested that the unemployed constitute in themselves a great national resource which the country might as well start using.

Mr. Tugwell's point is simple. In addition to depression unemployment, we have technological unemployment—men displaced from their jobs by improvement in productive technique rather than by hard-times.

Even when prosperity returns, a large number of these men won't be able to go back to work. They'll be with us in good times as well as bad—skilled and industrious workmen who want nothing under the sun except a chance to work.

It is Mr. Tugwell's idea that these men be used in what he terms a "third economy"—a system halfway between Socialism and individualism. The government would put them to work on projects which would not be done by private enterprise, and which would be of benefit to the country as a whole.

Such projects would include the Civilian Conservation Corps, a gigantic slum-clearance program, checking of soil erosion, provision of sanitary and recreational facilities that are now lacking, development of reclamation works, and possibly some large-scale scheme for resettlement of the underprivileged.

All this is worth thinking about, because it reverses our ordinary attitude toward unemployment. We look on it as a sad and expensive responsibility; this plan would have us see it as a great opportunity.

This country is enormous, and it is more richly blessed by nature than any similar place on earth. It can be turned into a world garden spot, where human life can be richer and freer than anywhere we have yet dreamed of. The possibilities are here; all we need do is exploit them.

And that is just another way of saying that there is work enough in America to keep us all busy for generations to come. All we need do is go after it.

Until every American family occupies a modern, up-to-date home, until every region is served by broad, smooth highways, until every river has been harnessed and controlled and every farming region has been freed from threat of flood and wind, until our marvelous productive plant has given an abundance of necessities to every citizen—until that day comes, it is silly for us to say that there is no work for the jobless.

Mr. Tugwell's idea calls our attention to this fact. The work is waiting to be done, and we have millions of men who ask nothing but the chance to do it. Seen in this way, unemployment is a challenge and an opportunity.

9,223 LAWS GET OK OF STATES

Legislatures in 44 Capitols Cost $1,000 for Every New Statute

By FRED MYERS... CHICAGO (AP)—In the first four months of this year 9,223 laws at a cost of approximately $1,000,000, or somewhat more than $1,000 a law.

It is probably forecast an extension of averages, that when the final gavel falls on the 44 legislatures about July 1—the total will have received during 1935 more laws from its state legislatures.

There is no way to estimate the cost in additional tax or their effect on industry and commerce. More than 64,000 bills have been introduced in the 44 legislatures that have met in regular session since Jan. 1. Bills still are being offered in some. More bills were introduced in the past few months of this year than in any other entire season of the same state since 1931 or 1932.

On Mr. Roosevelt's desk in the White House now, "The Open Door at Home," a bill for the repeal of the economic nationalities.

Coughlin will invite more members of congress to attend his next meeting. Those who attended the meeting in the Senate, New and Thomas (Oldham) and Representatives Lemke, Connery, Swanson and Quinley.

The R.F.C. will open a bank May 1 in the Virgin Islands to finance a revival of the island's rum trade and other industries, hereby putting the government into another business.

Only Chairman Biddle of the N.R.A. labor board will understand the wide crack now current, that Hatcher, in his N.R.A. reorganization fight, is playing both ends against the Biddle.

The N.Y.A. has found a family in the Norris dam area which has lost cash income at least $200,000. The court showed leniency because of his unique combination of circumstances.

NEW YORK, May 2 (U.P.)—Dr. Edward L. Thorndike, professor of education at Columbia university, has revealed that he has found out just what a woman would do for a million dollars and just what she wouldn't do. And you'd be surprised.

The professor also included men in the tests by which he arrived at his conclusions. In general he found that women were willing to do more delicate and adventurous and careful work than men.

Dr. Thorndike asked his subjects, of whom 40 were less than 20 years old and 24 were older than 40, a series of questions to find out how much money they would accept to degrade themselves, and how much money they would be willing to pay to obtain certain privileges, such, for example, as an hour's talk with Benito Mussolini.

$10 for Eternity

The average woman, he found from their answers, would surrender all hope of a happy hereafter for the modest sum of $10, while the men require $1,000 before they would give up their chance of human practices, he found, the thought of chastity was the most repugnant. The average man wouldn't take his eyes off a woman who was on the average, would take $1,375,000. It was surprising that the act would be lizened in the daily newspapers.

Regarding public intoxication, the men were much more agreeable than the women. For 25¢ they would publicly behave themselves. The women wanted $93.

The older group was more conservative in the matter of laughing, the nation's heres. Half of the younger persons said they would not eat on a picture of the Father of His Country for $10. More than two-thirds of the older ones wouldn't do it for less than $200.

In the matter of choking a stray cat or attacking a pig, the men were more reasonable. They wanted an average of $2,500 for the deed, their sisters held out for $10,000.

Dr. Thorndike asked the subjects how much money they would take to live their entire lifetimes in a New York apartment. They could entertain guests, but they could never leave the house. For this important privilege, however, the men wanted $62,500,000 while the women would stay home for $10,000,000.

They'd See Hanging

The older men would be willing to spend one-fifth of a day in jail for the privilege of seeing a man hanged. The other men and women wouldn't give up even an hour for the same purpose. For the happiness of seeing a man hanged, the older women would gladly spend 8.2 days in jail, but they thought the same thing for the privilege of riding on a canoe.

The younger men were more interested than other groups in the possibility of falling to President Roosevelt. They would spend 4.2 days in jail for the privilege of falling to President Roosevelt. They would only stay seven-tenths of a day in jail for the privilege of having an hour's chat with Gettysburg; neither the young nor the older women were at all interested in Garbo.

With their adventurous nature, the younger women were willing to be imprisoned for 2.3 days, if assured they might be taken 15,000 feet in the air in a balloon.

Series Squared
After dropping the opener, 12 to 5, the Giants came back yesterday to square the series with an 8-to-3 victory of last week, an 8-3 win.

They won by getting rid of Johnny Babeck, the Dodgers' one-hit pitcher of last week, as soon as possible. He made "hasty exit" in the midst of a New York four-run attack in the fifth, when Ed Oul hit his fifth homer and Dick Barlow added another.

The Giants went on pounding Lammonte and Munna, but were stopped for four innings by old Dazzy Vance.

Seven Hits
Meanwhile, Warren Farnsworth, the Giants' fast ball pitcher, was manufacturing a seven-hit game and was selling in the ninth when Junior Frey nicked him for a fly ball homer and Danny Taylor added another with an RBI.

Indiana Hoop Lead
The Indiana wrapped up the American league lead by stringing the determining game with the Sox in an 11-to-5 victory. Averill and Frey's hit homers for the Indians. Billy Haulton turned in an eight-hit winning performance.

From The Battlefields to Evening Times Come These Exclusive War Photos From the Gran Chaco Struggle

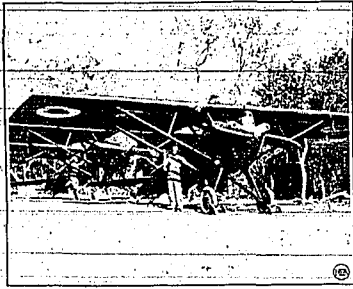

Field artillery in firing position along the advanced Paraguayan front. Mud and lack of roads are their handicap.

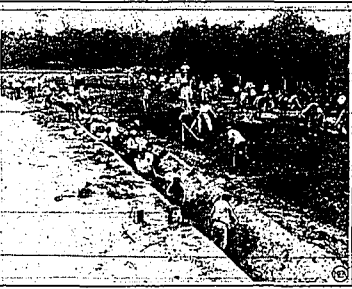

In a jungle camp these Paraguayan youths listen to a comrade's guitar during a lull in the fighting of the Chaco campaign.

The bullets were whining as the photographer made this picture of a hasty intrenchment at an advanced post in the Chaco.

In an airport littered with downed Paraguayan planes police ready to hop; practically all are grounded by now.

Lesson of the World War are remembered in the Chaco, as the climatic scope of this Paraguayan trench system proves.

STOCKMEN MEET IN BUHL TONIGHT

Election of Added Directors Scheduled at Third of Gatherings

Additional directors of the Twin Falls County Cooperative Livestock Marketing Association will be named at a meeting of stockmen to be held at the city hall in Buhl tonight at 8 p. m. It is announced by Harvey S. Hale, county extension agent, head of the organization.

These extraordinary photos of the bitter war which has been raging for nearly three years in South America's Chaco region, were obtained exclusively for NEA Service and the Idaho Evening Times from Paraguayan sources by Post Wheeler, veteran American diplomat and author, who was from 1925-1935 American envoy to Paraguay. Few good pictures have yet come to America of the war that has already taken 100,000 lives and costed two American millions in a death grip. The apparent youth of these soldiers, and the grimness of their conflict as shown in these photos are a revelation of the magnitude of operations, and may help to serve as a lesson to a world preparing for war. All photos copyright, 1935, by NEA Service, Inc.

News and Gossip Of Movie Colony

By DAN THOMAS (NEA Service)

HOLLYWOOD, May 2 (Special)—This is the most interesting place in the world if you can take the reverse angle of your eye. Either way, it's an interesting place.

Conjuring up frequently because of the total disregard of formalities—Hollywoodian—thinking nothing of going to a swanky night club dressed in sports clothes or reading a movie in evening clothes—the film colony nevertheless behaves extremely formal at the playhouse. Seiden, however, is there any obvious display made of such formality. But a close observer will detect it the moment he walks on a studio set.

Some Are Formal

No matter how long they may have been associated with a certain group of workers, certain stars invariably are addressed as "Miss Seiden" or "Mr. Seiden" when they demand this courtesy. Others cut naturally have personalities which forbid the familiarity of using their first names, although strangely enough these personalities usually are in direct contradiction to the characters they play on the screen.

For instance, you'll think that the curvaceous Mae West would be Mae to everyone. Instead, she always is Miss West. The same holds true of Connie Bennett, who is addressed by everyone, including her director, as Miss Bennett. Marlene Dietrich is called only Josef on the set. Sternberg, to everyone else around the studio she is Miss Dietrich.

Arline is Wither

George Arline invariably in Mr. Arline's which is in more or less to be expected. But if anyone called Jack O'Neil "mister," Jack probably would say, "What you are at me for?" Gary Cooper and Clark Gable are pretty good-naturedly addressed by their first names, too. So is Bob Montgomery. But Charles Laughton usually prefers the "mister."

No matter where Carole Lombard goes, she just Carole—and doesn't want to be anything else. That also is true of Una Merkel and Ruby Keeler. But Gene Moore always is Miss Moore, and Elizabeth Land usually is Miss Land, except in her closest friends.

Norma Shearer is called by her first name by those who have worked with her quite a lot, other than she's Miss Shearer. That same situation holds true with Irene Dunne and Barbara Stanwyck. Joan Crawford is just Joan the whole world over, except Ginger Rogers is Ginger. But, though she is known and exploited everywhere, she just Ginger, nobody would dream of addressing the Swedish star in this manner. At the same time it would sound like a slip of the tongue if anyone called Jean Harlow anything but Jean.

These rules don't apply solely to personal conversations with those involved, either. They are adhered to rather closely even when talking about the stars. Of course, some studio workers have their own pet nicknames for certain of these personages—but let's not go into that.
