THROUGH CHEERS SPEECH President, Assurance Crowd U. S. Will Not Abandon Program For Agriculture

By WILLIAM A. BELL
WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The New Deal and agriculture pledged their (to be) one of the most important demonstrations Washington has seen in a long time.

Four thousand "dirt farmers" representing 20 states, here to praise the administration's agricultural program, remained to cheer President Roosevelt's strong bid for their continued support.

In fighting words the president assured the farmers of his unflinching support against those "high and mighty" people who have been accused of "defeating" the program under which this nation is operating today.

Condemning A. A. Critics
The farmers here on their own initiative and at their own expense as a testimonial for the A. A., rather than on the southward of the White House to hear the president condemn A. A. critics in almost mocking terms.

A beaming of applause swept the crowd as the president promised there would be no turning back from the farm program and promised, in effect, ever greater benefits.

The president's speech, one of the most vigorous replies to opponents of the New Deal which has been viewed by many as the opening gun of the 1936 presidential campaign.

End of Auto Strike Cheers Chief Negotiators

With the Toledo Chevrolet strike ended through agreement between General Motors and the plant workers, a serious threat to the entire auto industry has been temporarily cleared up today. That's the reason for the cheer exhibited by Francis F. Dillon, left, A. F. of M. organizer and Edward F. McGraw, right, assistant secretary of labor. Return of the 2,000 Toledo workers brought almost by 9,000 assisting Fisher Body plant employees at Cleveland and will also mean reopening of a dozen smaller C. M. plants closed because of the stop.

GARNER THROWS SUPPORT BEHIND WE GO OVERBOARD

Vice President Tolls Senate's Doubtful That Move Would Be Good Politics

SEES NO P. D. - E. INJURY

By RONALD G. VAN TINE
WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Vice President John W. Garner was reported today to have supported by certain senators the "We Go Overboard" plan to overthrow a presidential veto of the Farm Inflation Relief bill.

The general Texasian thus placed himself squarely behind the plan, Mr. Roosevelt ever the controversialist.

Sees No Harm
It was authoritatively learned that several senators who are unopposed by Garners have indicated by Garnier that a ballot cast against the president would have no effect on the bill.

Garner, whose 32 years experience in congress has made him known as a political philosopher, confirmed by the reports.

His political philosophy on the bonus issue was represented in this manner:

"I was approached in strong language which please business interests fearful of the $200,000,000 currency expansion provided in the Patman measure. Passage over my veto will please the veterans and often better groups than the administration when elections are held next year.

"There's no doubt about it—unless you're a Democrat who plans to vote against the president.

"If the farm bill leaders cancelled plans to send the bill to the White House immediately, I'd be glad to see them do it." (Continued on Page 2, Column 6)

Henderson Shot to Death By Deputy After Seriously Wounding Officers

PARSONS, Kans., May 15 (AP)—Shelley by burly guards and the privacy of an exclusive New Hill hotel, the countess and Countess Kurt Haugwitz-Heiress began their regularly appointed honeymoon.

They arrived in San Francisco last night after a busy automobile trip from Reno, Nev. where the countess—the former Princess Barbarine of Montenegro—swayed the last time in her life.

Accompanied by Prince Alexis of Greece and married the titled Danish nobleman in a simple ceremony 24 hours after the wedding.

In a four-room, 15th floor hotel with a couple of bedrooms, they prepared for a day of exclusive receptions to be given by the countess and her former school companions.

The bride and groom were welcomed by the countess and her husband, but the bride was veiled in secrecy. It was believed, however, that the bride would leave San Francisco within a few days for New York, where the countess is believed to be established for a permanent home in Europe, probably in London.

PARISIANS GET TASTE OF AIR RAID DEFENSE

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—The southern half of Paris was in darkness for half an hour today while the government gave citizens and visitors a lesson in air raid defense.

Parliamentary buildings and several large hotels were illuminated in air raid defense. The rest of the city was dark. The government urged citizens to take shelter in air raid shelters.

The city was dark from 8:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. This was the first time since the outbreak of the war that the city of Paris was completely dark for an hour.

LONDON, May 15 (AP)—The price of bar silver was fixed at 77 cents today, a gain of 1/2 penny over the previous official level.

With exception of the 301 penny price, the highest since July 1934, when it reached 70 cents. Today's price was the best this year and placed the United States equivalent exactly 1/2 cent above the United States treasury net price for newly mined metal with a 77 cents a fine ounce.

MONTREAL RISES
MONTREAL, May 15 (AP)—Silver futures slipped 95 to 180 points in London bar price and 1/2 penny in the London bar silver price to an equivalent below the United States treasury net price of 77 cents.

NEW YORK GAINS
NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Bar silver was fixed at 78 cents an ounce today, an advance of 1/4 cent an ounce over the previous level.

The increase reflected a sharp gain in London bar price and strength of silver in the Montreal futures market.

The price was only 4/8 of a cent an ounce below the United States treasury net price of 77 cents a fine ounce.

During the past two days speculative buying of the metal has been renewed. It is pointed out by Secretary Morgenthau's speech to Congress last night that the "United States silver stock" was unchanged and that it would "not" "moderate" as it has been somewhat less than a month ago.

RADIO PRIZE CONTESTS

There is something significant in the fact that many of the national radio advertisers are now conducting prize contests. It is not uncommon when listening to the ordinary program to find somewhere in the broadcast a description of how one may obtain a new car free, or a trip to Europe, a bag of gold or some other attractive gift—all for writing the best letter, or the best last line to a jingle or giving some other simple answer.

It is well known that contests of this sort are the best way in the world for getting response. Offer to give away half a million bottles of cold cream and you will be deluged with acceptances. If the announcements are made on the radio, naturally the advertisers are amazed at the results and believes his programs are worth the huge sums they cost.

For several years radio advertisers got along without resorting to the contest idea. Now that it is being introduced on a large scale, there must be a reason.

Is it not reasonable to presume that the response to national radio advertising was not all the advertisers expected and that this new appeal has been inserted to arouse a public whose interest in the customary run of patent medicine advertising heard on the air has been definitely on the wane?

BASIC LAW NECESSARY

Failure of the railroad pension bill to get by the U. S. Supreme Court suggests a revision of the Constitution before any really comprehensive social security program can be put through.

As the Constitution stands, we have to go sideways when we want to embody social reforms in the national law. The railroad pension bill illustrates the process perfectly.

There is nothing in the Constitution giving the federal government any direct control over the railroads, for the very excellent reason that no one on earth had ever heard of steam railroads at the time the Constitution was written.

What the Constitution does do is give congress power to regulate interstate commerce, and it is under that authority that all our railroad legislation has been devised.

In the pension plan, congress tried to extend this power in a new direction.

It set up a social security program—for that is really all the pension plan was—to affect one particular industry, and put it through under the plea that such legislation was a proper part of the regulation of interstate commerce.

The supreme court didn't see it that way, and it is hardly to be wondered at. It ruled that the pension plan was not in any real sense an integral part of the regulation of interstate commerce, and that, since it was not, congress was powerless to order it. If we lay aside our preconceived notions about the intrinsic merit of pensions, we have to admit that the ruling is pretty sensible.

Now all this illustrates the certain congress is under in trying to advance any social program. It simply lacks direct constitutional authority—for when the Constitution was written it never occurred to anyone that government would find it necessary to do such things.

It has to make its advances by indirect means, which means that any social program it puts through is not to be upset by the courts.

The logical thing to do would be to amend the Constitution, giving congress the powers it needs. Then when a social security law comes up, it could be decided strictly on its merits, and not on an obscure legal point arising from a document which was drawn up before anyone imagined that social security legislation would ever seem advisable.

To do this would simply be to recognize the fact that the whole scope of government has changed since the Constitution was written.

BACKGROUND FOR BONUS

It is pretty obvious by this time that there will be some kind of bonus legislation from Congress; and while there are abundant arguments against such a step, it is worth our while to remember that the disclosures of the Senate Munitions Committee constitute a background against which most of these arguments look slightly weak.

For this background is simply one long spectacle of swollen profits reaped by war-time industrialists. It includes glimpses of steel makers who held out for more money at a time when they were already making profits of 200 and 300 per cent; of metal producers who virtually went on strike, in time of national emergency, for excessive profits; of whole industries defying the government to lower prices; of speculators making untold millions out of dire human necessities.

Keeping that background in mind, it is somehow very hard to get indignant over the proposal to slice a little cake for the lads who actually put on the uniforms.

WASHINGTON—Traffic is jamming up around President Roosevelt's four billion dollar pay package. The place has been over-run with lobbyists and members of their special representative. The boys are crawling in from far and near, trying to arrange quietly for their swig of that four billion. All are promoting pet projects back home.

The crowding has become so close that the members have actually established a Washington headquarters. The official conference is held in the old brownstone front, built a block from the White House. Only the executive outfit is nearer to the executive mansion, and that is the women's peace organization.

Of course, the mayor isn't here. He's in an old brownstone front, built a block from the White House. Only the executive outfit is nearer to the executive mansion, and that is the women's peace organization.

What has happened is that the industrialists in congress voted the bonus issue to promote their money idea. The industrialists in congress voted the bonus issue to promote their money idea.

It was perfect inflation strategy. By swelling the bonus issue and making it their own, they managed to develop their own money supply. It was perfect inflation strategy.

Talk has changed in congress lately about developing the power of the supreme court. It is only talk. What started it of course was the 10-4 decision outlawing the railroad pension system.

Kingsford-Smith Lands Plane Safely After Long Flight Against Odds

cluding H. M. Sueses, began racing to his course.

There were long periods of silence, and for hours his fate was not known. Then he was sighted off the coast here—Crowds flocked to Mascot airfield and at 4:30 p. m., to cheers that echoed for miles, he made a perfect landing.

Staff threatened.

The 550-mile flight had taken him seven hours. Almost every minute, he flew with his ship's speed, he was in danger of a motor stall.

Apparently Kingsford-Smith did not appear for help for some hours after the loss of the starboard propeller. Then the port motor began acting up.

Some of his messages were:

"Hope engine has a catastrophe handy. Trying to reach the coast."

"Unable keep height. May have dived."

"Another engine spluttered. Dumping cargo. Engines full out but not working properly."

"Climbed 100 feet."

"Expect to land soon."

"Now going down."

"Hope Sueses (H. M. Sueses) finds us."

Signals Fade

The signal faded and then came the message:

"I'm in sea now."

Then he got the port motor working and fought on, sometimes with only the center motor.

It was an adventure to reach position which he flew over the coast and the late Charles T. P. Um crashed on the northeast coast of Australia. They wanted to stay a few days, subsisting on mullin and broth which they brewed of roots, until they were found. All the time they could hear wireless messages about them from rescue ships, but their plane's transmitter would not work.
