WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE—GRAIN OR MEN?

The moon gets big and yellow these August nights, and as its drifts above the silent fields it shines down as a token of a new harvest—a sign that once again man has pitted his strength against the stubborn earth and forced it to give him of its plenty.

But the harvest moon has looked down on other things than ripening grain and hardened fruit trees. The human race reaped another kind of harvest, some 22 years ago, and almost died of it; and we never again can come to this month of August without remembering it as the most fatal of anniversaries.

The World war began 22 years ago this month. It was a war to enthrone democracy, and it left us with a new kind of autocracy; it was a war to end war, and it left us wondering just how and where the next war will begin.

We cannot let the anniversary pass without considering anew this greatest of all the race's curses.

It was proper that the World war should begin in August. This is the month when men reap what they have sown; and if ever there was a harvest that came directly and logically from what had been planted, it was the harvest of August, 1914.

For the world which, in its last analysis, always puts its trust in force. Beneath its fine phrases about civilization, friendship, and harmony, there was always the assumption that in the end, the strong, for the nation, is the most merciful thing that comes out on top.

The plain lesson of modern science, triumphant over distance—that the human race is a unit which must not be a unit to survive—was blantly ignored.

And so the harvest moon of 1914 looked down upon an earth which shook with the thud of guns and the rolling tramp of moving armies. The blind savagery of the dark ages returned to warfare. What we know as civilization, built from the blood and toil and dreams of centuries, came close to utter collapse.

Now we are in a new August, and what is our prospect? We are sowing the same seed that was sown before 1914. Unless we immediately find a new kind, can we possibly hope for a different sort of harvest? Unless we take the pains to build the kind of society in which war is unlikely, can we not be surprised if war comes?

We have not long to decide. It may be too late even now—for the fires in Spain may at any moment light a torch that will not be put out. But can any thinking man fail to demand, with all the strength that is in him, that the civilized world make one final, desperate effort to find the way to peace and harmony, regardless of the cost?

There will be a harvest moon next year, and the next, and the next; and what will they look down upon? A quiet and drowsy earth, with swelling fields lying silent, waiting for the sickle—or an earth made hideous with the sight and sound of brothers at one another's throats?

FAILING GOVERNMENTS

One of the major "disclosures" of the depression has been the inability of most local units of government to handle their own affairs, notably the relief problem.

There are 17,000 separate federal, state and local governments in the United States, the vast majority of which are local. Local taxes absorb nearly two-thirds of the tax dollar.

Many counties and municipalities throughout the country still operate on the systems of an ex-act age, and so today, paradoxically, they are tax-burdened and income-poor.

All in all, there seems to be a real need and opportunity for wholesale reorganization, if local governments are to make both ends meet.

FLOW LAW TO LEAVENWORTH

Drover's dapper criminal lawyer, Ben B. Laska, locked the doors of his spacious office suite the other day and started under guard for 10 years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

All appeals having failed, the attorney is in federal prison because he took $10,000 of the $200,000 Charles Urschel ransom money as a fee for defending Albert Bates, one of the abductors of the millionaire oil man.

This is entailed upon a real victory for the public. Bates and his accomplice, George Kelly, used machine guns in the Urschel kidnaping, but Laska resorted to a civilian weapon—his skill as a lawyer.

If ever a sentence ought to stick, this is one. America too long has tolerated the Laska type of lawyer-lawlessness.

A Pittsburgh wife charges her husband with sleeping in the room in which she and her friends play bridge. Still, they might stop talking about it.

The walking Democrats assembled in Detroit during the bar strike there, so they should have plenty of hair to tug over administration doings.

CHAPTER XII

In the silent darkness, with only the spot of yellow from Jameson's flashlight, Helena's head began to whirl. It was with an effort that she managed to follow him to the elevator. Inside the cage they brushed together for an instant, and he caught her arm.

"I thought you were going to get lost," she said unsteadily, and then Helena found herself held firmly against him, heard him whispering, "I love you... I've loved you since that first day in the store."

With an effort that was beyond her own strength, Helena shoved herself free and stepped back against the wall of the elevator cage. The flashlight clattered to the floor and she retrieved it quickly, as if her hand felt it.

"I'm sorry you've decided to do this. The town folks will be talking tomorrow. You'll have to be a little biter."

"Well, after all, you're a woman and maybe you could get some of those 'talk' boys' heads as though they were right by your ideas. I'll blast them!"

Helena smiled. "I... I lost it! I could count on you."

MORRIS got up from his chair, moved around the desk and confronted Helena seriously. "I'm not going to let you do this. The town folks will be talking tomorrow. You'll have to be a little biter."

PAUL MALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Past-Week Events in the Nation's Capital by Paul Mallon, Editor and Commentator, (Copyright, 1935, By Paul Mallon)

WASHINGTON — Democratic friends are not as upset about the Gallup poll as they may believe. Anyone trying to call the result of an election on the basis of a margin as narrow as that which was reported in the Gallup poll is engaged in a hazardous undertaking. But the hazards increase sharply under the simple ballot system used by Dr. Gallup, who polled over 100,000 persons as expected to vote.

The only safe deduction which politicians are making is that the result would be close if the vote were taken on the basis of the more extensive Gallup poll. This deduction has been forced with the necessity of calling a close election. None has been since 1912.

SOCIALISTS WILL WRITE IN NAMES

State Convention Here Fights Candidates for Election.
In November

Idaho Socialists will write in the names of their candidates for presidential election, second district congressman and state officer instead of having them on the ballot. It was decided at the closing session of the state socialist convention here last evening.

Approximately 400 delegates gathered here for the opening session. Two hundred are required to pull a ticket on the state ballot this fall.

Alvin L. Adams, Caldwell, was elected nearly 1,200 votes two years ago when he ran for same position.

Other Nominations

Other nominations were: Thomas J. Conroy, Emmett, lieutenant governor; W. G. Bennett, Appleton, Idaho Falls, secretary of state; J. E. Miller, Idaho Falls, state auditor; H. H. Fredenburgh, Twin Falls, attorney general; John Hendrick, Lava Hot Springs, state superintendent of public instruction; E. W. Donich, Pocatello, state inspector of mines; H. E. Bess, Elgin, second district congressman.

The convention's choice for state officer are H. B. Loomis, C. O. Hebel, Lewiston, Del. Cane, Jerome, Harry, John Hendrick, Lava Hot Springs.

Donahue Comments

Commenting upon the convention's decision to write in the names of the men, state secretary said:

"The Socialists will write in the names of our candidates this year and not pay attention to the money that would have been used for filing fees will be used to promote our candidates."

At the same time we will circulate our candidates through a campaign program in which we will concentrate our energies now and during the next two years.

Everett Anderson, Plerce and Spokane, spoke for money and Limber, Collierville and evening sessions. He explained the money he collected and wanted, chiefly in the way of beneficiaries of the state fund for sanitary preservation of Idaho's white pine and other timber resources of the state, forestry and operation.

Dr. George A. Applegate, Idaho Falls, presided. Donahue discussed the outlook for Socialism through out the world.

Among the objectives listed on the 1938 platform were state ownership and management of the power system, land, state and fire insurance, land, state and federal education, state and federal management of the lumber industry, socialized medicine, health insurance, state management of the educational system, limitation of the number of large administrative districts and reorganization of the legislative to provide for the house of representatives.

THROUGH ATTENDS ZIONCHECK RITES

Body of Congressman Placed In Final Resting Place As 2,000 Watch

SEATTLE, Aug. 12 (UP)—The body of Cong. Marion Anthony Zioncheck, the poor boy who zigzagged way to one of the nation's high offices and then committed suicide rather than continue as a national eye, rested today on a grassy slope in Seattle's Evergreen cemetery.

Last rites for the young representative were attended by a crowd of 2,000 persons and lasted nearly four hours. The young man's services and official governmental honors continued through the simple mourning of the great crowd that gathered for his final interment. The majority of whom were from the Jimmie walks of life.

While the widow, Ruby Zioncheck—a bride of scarcely three months—stood near collapse, the body was lowered into the grave while a sailor bugler, a half mile distant, sounded the dirge.

Near Breakdown Mrs. Zioncheck obviously was near breakdown as she watched the end. First shocked by progress to the five-story outside top of her husband who fell on the pavement almost at her feet, she was further unnerved by the unusually long service and weariness caused by her inability to eat for five days.

Seated beside her sister, Mrs. Alice Zioncheck, she wept during the burial and had appeared in her hands and had appeared on the verge of fainting. A band played a funeral march in the cemetery, comprising hundreds of cars, nearest the cemetery. The originally scheduled 17-gun salute was not fired as army regulations sanction salutes only for an official capacity.

MUSHY EVIDENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (UP)—The Green sought in vain today to eat the evidence of a crime, after they failed because it was too mushy.

From an unnamed farmer at Cambria, Va., Chief J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation received a letter saying: "I am mailing your department to see if you can get fingerprints from it."

"I am mailing this to you to see if you can get fingerprints from it," the letter said. "I have been carrying on extensive activities in stealing things from my farm."

A couple of days later the Green received a 20-pound parcel. They examined it carefully with their microscopes and found no fingerprints. Then they sliced into the evidence, only to discover their examination had been too careful. It had taken so long that the resin no longer was fit to eat.

PROTEGE BREAKS WITH BARRYMORE

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12 (UP)—Declaring that "recent events" have cooled her affection for actor John Barrymore, Miss Elaine Barlow, the actor's young protegee, today announced that she had broken her engagement with the middle-aged stage player.

She refused to discuss the possibility that her action was caused by the naming of Barrymore as one of the men involved in the sensational "Marry-Astor child" custody case.

"You can form whatever conclusions you wish to about this," she said. "All I will say is this: I have definitely broken my engagement with Mr. Barrymore. Recent events have proved conclusively that it would be impossible for us to plan a happy married life together."

BURLEY SUFFERS EXPENSIVE BLAZE

Fire Today Wrecks Feed Mill In Cassia County With Hugo Loss

BURLEY, Aug. 12 (Special)—Burley today was counting its own estimating to be about $50,000 following the destruction last night of the Burley feed mill in the northwest part of town across the railroad tracks. Destroyed in the blaze were machinery and equipment, outbuildings, stored alfalfa, meal and two empty Union Pacific freight cars on the track by the mill.

It is believed that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. Albert Harner, night watchman, saw flames from the second story at about midnight and immediately gave the alarm. At the same time the power went off making it impossible to use the alarm to summon the volunteer fire department.

The engine bell was used in the emergency and before help could arrive the fire had done considerable damage. At one time the northwest residence across the street was threatened.

There was no wind but the fire burned so fiercely that within a comparatively short time all but the concrete foundation was destroyed.

All machinery at the mill was insured by the fire insurance company. There is a complete loss insurance covered only the grain in the elevator and the elevator itself.

E. E. Peterson, president of the Burley Feed mill organization is at his home suffering from severe bruises received at 2 a. m. today when he stopped backward into the air foot pit where the scales had been. He was knocked unconscious by the fall.

It is thought that efforts to reduce the resistance to flames eventually will result in placing the motor completely within the walls.
