Ceremony Marks Inauguration at Idaho's Capital

Senate and House Organize for New Session; Horsley of Caribou Named Speaker

BOISE, Jan. 2.—The 35th administration in Idaho's half century of statehood was inaugurated today by Chief Justice James E. Ailshe while a 75-mile runner who bombed a military salute to A. Bottorfsen, the commonwealth's first newspaperman to become governor.

Packed galleries in the house chamber and the 44 senators and 59 representatives watched the solemn ceremony in the pillared marble hall over which the new governor ruled as speaker in 1937 as a delegate from Butte county.

Speaker Scheduled

Tomorrow shortly after 10 a. m. he will read his 5,600-word message in the same chamber, to another joint assembly of the legislature that he found upon the legislative floor, overhauling it of his own political faith.

Reply to Protest at Reduction
Reduction in WPA employment will continue because of rapidly diminishing funds, David K. Niles, assistant administrator of the Works Progress Administration, advised Mayor Lena A. Chaplin in a letter received here yesterday.

Continued reductions

"Under the circumstances continued reductions in employment on WPA will be necessary, making the transfer of the unemployed to the emergency relief appropriation."

"Every effort will be made to effect the necessary reductions in a fair and orderly manner and, in so far as possible, without depriving persons able to perform work on projects."

"I thank you for your views concerning this matter, and wish that it were possible to continue WPA employment at least part of the year throughout the winter."

Fire at Payette Canning Plant

SPARKED BY a shorted electrical wire, a fire destroyed a section of the Idaho Canning Company's plant last night at a loss estimated by Manager W. M. Moss at "thousands of dollars."

The fire broke out at 11:30 p.m. in the section of the plant where the cans are filled and sealed. The fire spread rapidly and destroyed the filling and sealing machines and the cans in the process of being filled. The fire was extinguished by the fire department, but the damage was extensive.

The company will be closed for several days while the damaged section is repaired. The loss is estimated to be in the thousands of dollars.

FORECAST. The start of 1968 is expected to bring a continuation of the year's decline in top-level business confidence in business prospects and improvement in government-business relations, at least for the next few months. They are also optimistic about gradually rising in the labor field, forcing a minimum interference with recovery by strikes and lockouts.

On the other hand, New York leaders are anything but hopeful about the international outlook.

They don't necessarily look for a war among the major powers, but they do anticipate a growth of tensions, in particular, U.S. relations with the Soviet Union and Japan. They also become more ultra-strained than at present. Further developments in international financial structure are forecast also.

The program submitted by the President's, etc., man committee (three railroad presidents) and their allies is not rated a curbside by any means, but is taken as a first in the right direction. It is not as practically certain to get along, but only has the support of the railroad men, and not the program, say President Roosevelt and Senator Wheeler both favor it. It is the dominant thing in the railroad today in Congress.

It is, however, in considerable doubt whether the Roosevelt campaign will be the president's triumph. It is not clear that the railroad men will be able to get their program through Congress.

SILVER REMAINS AT 64.64 CENTS

President Continues Treasury Price for Newly-Mined Domestic Metal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The President's executive order of 1934, which set the price for newly-mined domestic silver at 64.64 cents, is still in effect.

In fixing the price by proclamation, the president directed that the silver must be delivered to a United States customs mint not later than June 30, 1939.

The proclamation is effective only up to that date. Mr. Roosevelt's order was issued in 1934 to bring silver to par with gold and to change the dollar's gold content, which was then 23.22 grains of pure gold.

Deadline for inventory. Silver delivered to a customs mint after June 30, 1939, will not be eligible for receipt under the president's order.

Congressmen from western silver-mining states had urged the president to reduce the price, contending that it was too high.

Opponents of the government's silver policy have been contending in the past that the difference between the world price of silver and the United States price is too high.

For domestic silver represented a subsidy for producers in this country.

No statement was made about the Treasury's price for foreign silver. The Treasury has been buying foreign silver at 64.64 cents since March 1934.

Subsidizing silver was one of the earliest of New Deal programs. The Treasury's price for the Treasury to buy silver at higher than market prices was $1.29 per ounce.

In the first year after the silver price was raised, the Treasury bought the metal worth 10 to 15 percent more than the market price.

After 1934, the price fell. The Treasury was willing to pay for the metal. For more than two years, the price was 64.64 cents.

Altogether, since the New Deal program began, the Treasury has bought silver at an average cost of 64.64 cents.

The price of domestic silver is extremely important to such mining states as Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, and California.

AAA Dispute Points to Action in New Congress

American farmers helping to reap the bountiful 1938 harvest.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The AAA (Agriculture Adjustment Administration) dispute over the 1938 crop is expected to lead to action in the new Congress.

The AAA, created by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, is a federal agency that administers the federal government's farm income stabilization program.

The AAA's program is designed to stabilize farm income by paying farmers a subsidy based on the difference between the market price of their crops and a government-set price.
