BOARD NAMES IDAHO FARMER WELFARE HEAD

Emory Afton of Eagle to supervise state decisions of public assistance and public health.

(By The Associated Press)
BOISE, March 10.—Emory Afton, Idaho farmer, who is holding his first important public office, was appointed Idaho public welfare commissioner today.

He will supervise the state division of public assistance, which exceeds more than $4,000,000 annually, and the state division of public health, which directs operation of the state's charitable institutions and administers the public health program.

Board Appoints

Afton was appointed by the newly-organized public welfare board created by the 1939 legislature after the state department of public welfare and public assistance were consolidated.

Frank G. Dulan, chairman of the welfare board, announced that the appointments were made.

Afton's salary will be $3,500 yearly.

He will serve as executive secretary of the new board.

He is empowered to appoint all members of the board, except himself, and to remove from office by the board.

The board is the latest in a series of state-wide administrative units, all but one other personnel of the department on a merit basis.

Every one of the 10 boards is headed by a merit official, Afton said, adding he had not yet considered any appointments.

Applications for posts are to be made through this department by either party. Applicants must stand on their ability to produce and handle public welfare problems.

Bill Guild of Boise is acting director of public assistance; Dr. M. L. McFarlin, formerly of Billings, is executive secretary.

Qualification Listed

The act creating the new welfare board provides that each member must stand on his education, training, experience and demonstrated ability to handle welfare problems.

Afton said Afton was not a candidate for the position but was "invited in." He was recommended by the state commission to the board.

In addition to Ensign members of the commission are L. O. Nichols of Boise, Dean T. S. Kerr of the University of Idaho at Moscow, W. E. Atkin of Buell and J. E. Rockwell of Bellevue.

Afton was born at Glendale, Calif., in 1902, and moved to Boise in 1927 and lived here until 1927 when he went to Denver, Colo. He returned to Idaho in 1930 and now lives near Eagle. He is 10 miles west of here.

We must approach the public assistance problem with a sympathetic attitude," Afton said. "We must understand it." After commented.

"While there is an obligation on the part of the state to take care of all its citizens, there is also an obligation. There is also an obligation to see that there is no abuse.

There is also a duty to the taxpayer who makes the public assistance program possible."

FLASHES OF LIFE

By Associated

After Many Days

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Responding to a frantic call, William T. Doyle, 64, of Louisville, thought he saw a ghost when he admitted his brother, Robert F. Doyle, 42, to his home.

"I came back to see if you were dead," said Robert Doyle.

The two brothers, both 70 years old, had not met for 35 years.

Wrong Button

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—There was a double homicide in the Green police cruiser. One starts the motor, the other, the alert.

When Patrolman Frank Rogers was driving his car, he found a 10-year-old James Brennan of Zanesville leaving hurriedly, a bullet hole in his side, a bullet under $200 bond on a charge of attempted auto theft.

STEEL MEMORIES

Charles M. Schwab, at the age of 77, is giving up his 75-room chateau on Riverside Drive, New York. He has other homes which no longer interest him. He will go to a hotel.

But he remains in the steel business.

What a book the memories of this man would make! With him the American steel industry greatest in the world, grew up.

With all a boy's enthusiasm, he righted wrongs and changed with authority.

He came into the business just about the time the Mesabi Range was discovered in Minnesota, the greatest deposit of iron ever known, easily mined with steam shovels and forged down the Great Lakes for reduction and manufacture.

An inventor's "continuous tobacco pipe" gave Schwab the idea of a continuous steel mill. When Carnegie sold out to a big syndicate, apt retired to the public utility business. Schwab at 30 became the president of the United States Steel corporation, famous at the beginning of the century. Since then the United States has produced nearly half the steel in the world, and around this basic industry has centered our industrial progress.

Mention of Mr. Schwab suggests a "race of giants" associated with him now gone.

J. Pierpont Morgan the elder, H. Rogers,

John W. Gates, E. H. Gary, George W. Perkins, William Nelson Cromwell and many others have passed away.

U. S. Steel was born the first great "trust," and its youthful president was paid $1,000,000 a year.

That was an immense income a generation ago. His corporation was capitalized at perhaps double its market value, and what a stream of securities has flowed from the first generous "watering."

But its ownership spread so that George W. Perkins was soon declaring, "The people of the United States have bought the steel business." It was our first big popular plunge into industrial investment. And each general participation in business ownership has been called "Your American form of Socialism."

A HUMBLE SENATOR.

Confession being good for the soul, Robert Lee Jacobs, a new state senator in Pennsylvania, must have had a "spiritual" epiphany when he confessed "right out" on the senate floor:

"I don't think I'm earning my pay. Nearly all of us are liars, more interested in jobs than in public service."

When the other senators said or thought not reported, but probably they ignored the record, that he'd get over it.

It's a rare statesman who doesn't decide after a while, no matter what his first modest emotions have been, that he's a statesman and is serving his constituency very likely if we were to their shoes.

TAMIE AND WILD PARKS.

A lovely old estate was given recently to a city for a public park. Soon thereafter the work of improvement and development began.

This, apparently, involves so much cleaning up and trimming that most of the natural wilderness and beauty will be sacrificed.

A neighbor complains about the situation, which she regards as a tragedy.

"There is such a clearing out of shrubbery and other growth that the quail, bunnies and ground-building birds will be forced to find new nesting places and there will be merely a common park to walk through, and there will be little creatures to knock at one from behind bush clumps or fallen logs.

I don't suppose one log that might be of interest to nature lovers, with the ferns and lichen about, it will be left on the whole estate."

Certain types of public parks, of course, require large, open spaces for baseball and other games, picnic grounds with level areas for outdoor ovens and tables, and shade play areas, sunbathing areas, etc.

Children, and even adults, mistake however, to make such a park out of an area.

wild and populated with native birds and animals of great interest to the nature lover.

The playgrounds ought to be built in open areas already tamed and civilized.

Remaining bits of real woodland should be kept as nearly as possible intact, with all their treasures.

PRINING BRAZIL'S PUMP.

After prolonged conversations at Washington between government representatives and the genial Brazilian foreign minister, Osvaldo Aranha, credits of $20,000,000 have been arranged for purchases of American goods. This is done through the Export-Import bank. The Brazilian government is also expected to resume payments on its bonds held by Americans. The alternative to such credits is that Brazil continue buying from Germany and Italy, and sell cheaply and grant long credits and political propaganda along with their goods.

This arrangement should be profitable on both sides. The two countries are naturally friendly and find it easy to get along with each other. We could well afford to lubricate commercial relations with a few of the other Latin-American countries like ours.

Potential bank credit is at present our most plentiful resource. We need it applied here at home too, by billions, to loosen our business logjam and speed up industry.

Other Points of View

VOTE BY UNFRANCHISED

But, however, and that of course are meant the girls' late, have come to the end of content lately, especially the younger ones, or the older ones, especially the mothers of men. So the war-torn townsmen, military, decided to find out what type of women they prefer to see filling the crowning glory of women. They then selected a number of leading representatives of the arts, the literature, advertising and trade, the implication being that these were the best choices not on the basis of the standards of their opinions, but on their predilections as husbands and admirers.

The management displayed a sound and more of hats, pictures, plain and jeweled, hats, bits of this and that. The jury of masculine judges of feminine taste in determining, if such it may be called, picked three and the results were as can be imagined and unpredictable, the third place there is a male preference for extreme sophistication.

In other words, men, in matters of taste in women's apparel, are not so much concerned with the stock of femininity in voting. This naturally gives the authority to go on as they please. A gracious authorisation, however, for what man is asked to help his wife or girl-friend pick out a hat?—Desert Tribune.

GLENNS FERRY ADVANCES IN STATE TOURNEY

Pilots Play Ammon After Defeating Kendrick, 29-25; Four Eliminated at Buhl

Teams Coached by Barrett Brothers In Semi-Finals

STATE TOURNAMENT
GLENNS FERRY 25
TWIN FALLS 24
Ammon 20, Harrison 20
Downey 6, Ferdinand 31

LEWISTON, Idaho, March 16 (AP)—Post Falls joined Glens Ferry and Ammon high schools in the second round of the championship bracket of the state Class-B basketball tournament here tonight.

Post Falls, coached by Barrett brothers, Wilder, south western district champion, 30-14, in a night game.

Glens Ferry had defeated Kendrick, 20-18, and Ferdinand, 20-19, in a 20-20 victory over Harrison in two afternoon engagements.

Their defeat automatically eliminates an entry from the title race, but first-round losers still play in a consolation bracket.

In the first game, Ammon, driven for three quarters before knotting the contest, 14-14, went on to win it to was No. 3 seed. Marchant found the hoop three times in the fourth period. He was high point man, 12 points.

Glens Ferry, which contributed 13 points to Harrison's total, rimmed the hoop at the line four times in the final period to tie the score but failed to connect.

Glens Ferry River Pilots trifled Kendrick in the early part of the tourney, but took command in the second quarter and maintained a slight margin throughout.

The team from Pocatello was high with 10 of Glens Ferry's points, owing out John Wallace of Kendrick, who had nine.

Barrett Teams Meet. An interesting feature of one of tomorrow's championship brackets will be a brother versus brother encounter.

Coach Kenneth Barrett's Glens Ferry club will clash with his brother, Clarence, a young brother.

The loser will be eliminated. Ammon will be the eastern champion.

Class A Tourney Expands Schedule

Each Team Competing at Pocatello Assured Three Games

Castleford, Hagerman Glens Ferry and Buhl Triumph

CHILOE TOURNAMENT
Castleford 26 Jerome 21
Hagerman 31-Schoshone 14
Glens Ferry 45, Staats 20
Buhl 48, Hailey 31

BUHL, March 16 (UPI)—Four of the outstanding girls' basketball teams in southern Idaho forged ahead in the annual district tournament here today—and four other sextets were sent to the sidelines permanently.

When they finished, Buhl will have crawled its 100-foot court—twice—and four other schools were sent to the sidelines permanently.

Fourteen other schools chosen through a process of elimination tournaments and contests from the district, and from the state, will be invited to the tournament.

The tournament, which began Saturday, will be held at Pocatello March 23, 24 and 25.

"It looks like a 20-20 victory," Harrison, in two afternoon engagements, defeat automatically eliminates an entry from the title race, but first-round losers still play in a consolation bracket.

In the first game, Ammon, Class B representative, drove home in first place, but Buhl, the runner-up, included the eastern district trophy.

At the Pocatello meet, for schools outside the district, the complete consolation bracket will be played this year for the first time, assuring each of the eight games entered in the tourney three games.

One defeat will eliminate a team from the championship race.

Four schools will enter the consolation bracket, losers of the two divisions in the first day to determine third-and-fourth and seventh-and-eighth places.

The championship finale will pick up where the consolation bracket left off, and a total of 25 points for the team—second-high—for the tournament day, Edna Penfield, long shot, and for Hailey, led her team to victory.

Lineups: Buhl—Askev, 5-2; Stittcher, 5-1; Gladowka, c. 5; Lett, c. 5; Thompson, c. 5; Tullis, c. 5; Hattie, 5-1; Peifer, 5-1; Soule, c. 5; Nolan, c. Wilson, g. Glens Ferry Wins Glens Ferry, which had beaten the inexperienced Matia sextet to triumph, 45-20, overay, 5-1, Buhl, club's 13th lead at the tournament, was beaten, 48-45.

F. G. Order, representative of the Idaho high school athletic association, said the tournament would be fair for a team to have to travel the long distances required in some instances and then play only a single game.

Amateur-Pro Golf Champs Defeated

Last Year-Winners Ousted From National Best Ball Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 16 (AP)—The first round casualty last evening—a generous quota of 100—was followed by another 100 this morning when a battle of brawlers in the national amateur professional best ball match play-off was decided.

After the 18th hole, the 1938 winners, Frank Moore of Mammoth, N. Y., and Bob Dinkenberger, of the local club, had a five-hole lead over the medalists, Marvin Stahl of Lansing, Mich., and Clark Hart of Bala Cynwyd, Pa., who had been ousted after a gallant, but losing effort.

The medalists came back to standard after a 10-hole reprieve.

Competition will include seniors, women and juniors racing for men, men and juniors.

Pirates to Play Coast Leaguers

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 18 (AP)—A stiff batting session by the San Francisco Pirates, starting with a 10-0 lead, overcame the most difficult, dropping down ridges from the 2000-foot long ski low to the lake edge, through only four holes, the last being a 10-hole reprieve.

The most blistering pace of the day was set by Harry Price, of Portland, who hit a 10-hole reprieve.
