

INCREASE LOOMS IN TURKEY CROP

Greater Production Indicated in All Major Regions

BOISE—March 31 (AP)—The nation's turkey crop, among whom are Idahoans who raised 194,000 of the birds valued at $23,000,000 last year, today shows increased production, 1939.

Richard O. Zook, federal statistician, said reports from more than 200 turkey raising states, add 25,000,000 turkeys in 1938, show that increases are intended in all major regions of the country.

The increase, he said, should be realized, turkey producers in the United States would hatch or buy about 27 per cent more turkey poults than were hatched or bought in 1938.

"The actual per cent of increase in turkeys raised, however, will probably be less than half figure," he said.

Estimated production of an expected increase of poultcs of about 6 per cent, whereas the increase in turkey raised seems to have been about 10 per cent.

"A record gain of 30 per cent was made in 1938."

The record showed that Idaho's turkey production had decreased steadily since 1929 when 517,000 turkeys, valued at $1,416,000, were raised. This year the number increased from 310,000 in 1929 to 173,000 in 1938.

The national production last year was 1,000,000,000, valued at $53,300,000, in 1938, to $60,781,000 in 1938. The value per bird dropped during the period from $3.18 to $2.50, nationally.

GOVERNOR MAPS FARM PROGRAM

Bottelsen Strikes At Attempts to Settle His by Crop Reduction

CALDWELL, Ida., March 31 (AP)—Assailing what he termed attempts to settle the nation's economic ill by a "program of crop reduction," Gov. Frank A. Bottelsen today outlined "four cardinal principles" for agricultural recovery in an address at the annual Caldwell farm conference.

The event was the second of its kind and was instituted a year ago by the state department of agriculture and educational conference for southwestern Idaho farmers.

Four Point Program

Bottelsen stressed the need for good American farmers need a chance to farm the way he is supposed to and declared the only remedy must be inspired by common sense.

The governor's four-point program "will not mean application of the same old methods, but will bring back on our feet agriculturally" was:

"1. Production for a market which will bring him a profit over and above his costs of planting and harvesting."

"2. Transportation facilities which will assist him in reducing his shipping costs."

"3. Elimination of the middle hedge-hedge of regulations which further detract from his return."

"4. Freedom from unnecessary taxation."

"We have to stop putting our home-grown produce against that imported produce which is usually produced at a lower cost," he said. "We must pay out, do away with the thought that reductions of agricultural production will aid the country to recover," the governor continued.

"To many people need what the farmer can produce, but they haven't the know-how to sell it," he said.

Fruitless Needed

"I wonder if anyone ever stopped to think that if the flow of agricultural products were to stop, industrial commerce will also," he encouraged.

Dr. Catherine Stern decided to make many children have difficulty with numbers because she believed it seemed to be needed in arithmetic.

She began working with concrete objects, such as sticks, stones, frames—to enable the child to find out for himself number relations.

"It's a great number of ways which entirely eliminates drill, taught the child of little John's life, was demonstrated for the first time in the United States at the hundredth anniversary of the National Education Association in Park Avenue."

"Look," one child exclaimed at the meeting, "I can count up to 100, and another way, 2 plus 7 are 9, isn't that wonderful?"

The "teaching" part of arithmetic was demonstrated by Dr. Stern, the child makes his own discoveries.

First, here are—according to Dr. Stern—"the tools which teaching too much, too much—method of teaching, too much—method of teaching."

"The old days there was too much work and not enough play. Now there is too much play and not enough work."

"Children the world over seem to have much more freedom and self insurance today, but very often lack a feeling of duty and a sense of accomplishment."

"Once parents tyrannized children. Now poor mothers are being educated to understand their children, to bring up their children, to care for, to rear, to train."

The oldest system of economics in the world is supply and demand, good should shut out bad, and the best should shut out the worst, the demand instead of cutting down spring planting because government has business buffered."

TESTS EXPLAIN POOR SPELLING

Experiments on Feet Tell Which Side of Brain Dominates

By HOWARD W. BLAKEMORE, Associated Press Science Editor
PHILADELPHIA, March 31—Your feet tell whether you are right-handed or left-handed, according to experiments reported today to the eastern psychological association by Dr. L. Pearl Gardner, of Cornell university.

In doing this they may explain poor spelling and illegible handwriting. These findings come from experiments conducted by the brain research laboratory of the state game and fish department at Idaho Falls.

Instead of having one side of the brain dominant, as is commonly believed, Dr. Gardner found both sides of the brain equally active in spelling and handwriting, he said.

He said he planned to start logging operations on the mountainous land in the state experimental areas in Idaho Falls.
