Legal Snarls Grow As Attorney General Rules Against Acts

J. W. Taylor Brands Defective $350,000 Appropriation Measure and Printing Resolution

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, April 3 — Legal snarls in the Idaho capitol increased in complexity today as Attorney General J. W. Taylor branded defective two more major pieces of legislation enacted by the 1939 session.

In two opinions written in response to inquiries from State Auditor Calvin Wright and Secretary of State George Curtis, he ruled:

1. That a $350,000 appropriation act designed to permit liquidation of an asserted deficiency in the state department of public works was "invalid."
2. That a concurrent resolution passed by the legislature was not "sufficient authority to constitute a contract for printing the session laws."

Previously, Taylor held that the 1939 law intended to create the office of comptroller was unconstitutional in so far as it interfered with duties of the state auditor.

The decisions of the attorney general brought renewed predictions of a special session of the legislature, but Governor C. A. Bottolfsen declared tonight:

"I am not calling a special session of the legislature; I have not seen any need for calling a special session."

High officials, who declined to be quoted, freely predicted, however, that all of the questions were virtually certain to be tested in the courts.

4,000 EXPECTED TO CAST BALLOTS

Voters of Twin Falls to Elect Mayor and Two Councilmen

Four thousand Twin Falls residents are expected to crowd two polling places today to elect a mayor and two councilmen.

A total of 5,900 persons are eligible to vote in today's election but on the basis of the 1937 vote, only two-thirds of the eligible voters are expected to exercise their franchise.

From three candidates, O. O. Hall, J. H. Blandford and Joe K. E. R. Koehler, the voters will select a new mayor to succeed Lem A. Chapin, who retires from the council after 12 years' continuous service.

Two councilmen will be chosen from a list of six: Carl E. Ritchey, incumbent; A. S. Henson, J. O. Rasmussen, Lionel A. Dean, Dan J. Cavanagh and George Ayres.

But today's election may develop only into an elimination vote.

Must Receive Majority

To be elected today on the first ballot, the candidate must receive a majority of all votes cast for the office.

Observers believe that with three men seeking the mayoralty and six seeking commissionerships, the votes will be so divided that the two men receiving the high vote for mayor and four high in ballots for councilmen will seek final election in a run-off.

Polls open at 9 a. m. today and close at 7 p. m., City Clerk W. H. Eldridge said. Should 2,000 persons vote in each ward, judges and clerks must handle voters at the rate of three-plus per minute during the 10 hours the polls are open.

Voting Places

Voters in ward one, all the territory north and west of Shoshone street, will vote in the Detweiler building, in the 100 block of Second avenue north. Voters in ward two will cast ballots in the display room of the Lind building, now the Chaney Motor company in the 100 block of Second avenue east.

Ward two is defined as that territory east and south of Shoshone street.

Judges in ward one will be Mrs. Dorothy Reynolds, Mrs. Nellie L. Thorp, Mrs. Eleanor J. Keefer and Mrs. Mae Davidson. Clerks will be Mrs. Alice G. Leslie and D. D. Alvord.

In ward two the judges will be Miss Myrtle Anderson, Miss Edith A. Anderson, Mrs. Ethel Towan and Mrs. Ella P. George while the clerks will be Mrs. J. L. Hobson and W. A. Minnick.

Election results may be secured between 8:30 and 9 p. m. by calling the News and Times office. Election officials asked residents not to phone the polling places as frequent calls would delay counting.

STAR FAILS TO IDENTIFY GEMS

Barbara Stanwyck Examines Loot Recovered From Burglars

LOS ANGELES, April 3 (AP)—Piece by piece, film actress Barbara Stanwyck closely examined today a veritable treasure trove of loot recovered from Bel-Air's confessed "phantom burglar," Ralph Graham, in efforts to find jewelry and other articles valued at $38,000 stolen from her home.

All she could claim after 30 minutes inspection, however, was a $50 camera. Twenty thousand dollars of her losses were insured.

Other film personages and prominent residents of Bel-Air had somewhat better success in identifying loot from their homes in the $100,000 collection displayed at the West Los Angeles police station. More than one-third of the loot taken in five years of burglaries was claimed.

Madalyne Fields, secretary to actress Carole Lombard, singled out a $3000 platinum brooch as her own. Fannie Brice's daughter, Frances, picked out a charm bracelet.

FLASHES of LIFE

By Associated Press

Good Will Doubted

LWOW, Poland—There is such a thing as being too rough in soccer as it is played in Poland.

One player who kicked an opponent's leg and inflicted a bone fracture found himself in court a few days later.

The judge ruled that if he had been animated only by good will he wouldn't have missed the ball—and sentenced him to six months in jail.

Hero in Japan

TOKYO—The family man rarely makes the front pages in America—but he's a hero in Japan.

Japanese newspapers acclaimed Ojiro Ishii, who at 84 had 93 descendants, as an example to the nation. He has 17 children, 55 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Fixit

OKLAHOMA CITY—Two county jail prisoners wrote and asked the service editor of the Times how the jail floor was put together.

They got the information—but with the "misgivings" of the service editor.

Right and Wrong

MANHATTAN, Kas.—Bill Lane, Kansas State college football candidate, came up with a scalp wound after a spring-practice session because he took Coach Wes Fry too literally.

"The squad was drilling on a play that went to the left. Fry watched, then said: "Let's do it right this time."

The other players did it right and went left. Lane went right and was wrong.

COMPROMISE MOVE MARKS RELIEF FIGHT

Sub-Committee Votes Down Amendment to Raise Sum To $150,000,000 as Requested by Roosevelt

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 3—An effort to obtain a compromise agreement to appropriate $100,000,000 for relief, instead of the $150,000,000 insistently requested by President Roosevelt, was in progress in the senate tonight.

Word of this move spread soon after an appropriations subcommittee had voted down, 8 to 2, an amendment to raise the sum to the higher amount and postponed until tomorrow the consideration of proposals that the appropriation be cut below $100,000,000.

The purpose of the compromisers was to get administration floor leaders to agree to the $100,000,000 appropriation in return for a guarantee that the appropriations committee would not reduce the figure further. However, one senator, Pepper (D-Fla), said that regardless of the outcome of the compromise effort he would propose independently that the sum be increased to the president's figure.

The row over how much should be appropriated goes back to the early days of the present session. Then, Mr. Roosevelt asked that $875,000,000 be made available to carry WPA from early February to the end of the fiscal year on July 1. The house cut that figure to $725,000,000, and the senate approved the reduction by a one-vote margin.

The president requested that the $150,000,000 clipped from the bill be restored in a new appropriation. However, the house voted last Friday to appropriate $100,000,000.

SEATTLE NEEDY DEMAND RELIEF

Alliance Demonstration Subsides After Officials Give Pledge

SEATTLE, April 3 (AP)—A demonstration by more than 700 men, women and children who crowded into the county-city building today to protest relief curtailments, subsided after officials agreed to a conference tomorrow.

A delegation led by Arthur Ross of the Workers Alliance, filed into the office of Mayor Arthur B. Langlie, who said he was ready at any time to discuss relief problems with county commissioners. A relief conference today failed to materialize because of a disagreement, officials said.

Meantime approximately 300 men remained at a relief shelter, in defiance of state orders to close the dormitory because of reduced funds. A "sleep-in" strike started there Saturday.

Harold Brockway, executive secretary of the Workers Alliance, advocated to demonstrators the establishment of a "starvation camp" in front of the court house and solicitation of local business men for food.

Ross told the group, after today's meeting was postponed:

"There are plenty of grocery stores, and lots to eat in them."

HELENA, Mont., April 3 (AP)—Mayors of six of Montana's largest cities apparently were returned to office by voters at municipal elections today.

SNOWS BLANKET VERMONT

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 3 (AP)—It's spring, but—

A two-day snow storm ended tonight after breaking the local record for April with a fall of 9.7 inches. The old mark was 9.6 inches, set April 11, 1924.

Party Girl Dancer's Death Blamed on Over Excitement

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Excitement she generated in the contortions of a scantily-clad jitterbug dance was blamed today for the death of Mary Riley, 32-year-old comely brunette.

The "dance to death" climaxed a "double-date" party early today in the Riverside Drive apartment of a man companion after a week-end round of Manhattan bars.

The autopsy finding that she died from a spontaneous hemorrhage at the base of the brain—rather than a head wound suffered when she collapsed against a piece of furniture—was followed quickly by the release of Hugh Hillard, 32, and Forrest Leland Kelly, 20, who, like Miss Riley, were formerly of Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Philip Goldstein, assistant medical examiner, said the hemorrhage preceded the laceration of her head.

With the black silk robe thrown over her underclothing, the woman was taken to a hospital by a man wearing only pants and slippers, and died a few minutes later.

Nurses, after restraining her companion from entering the operating room, directed police to a trail of blood that led to the curb. They found a taxicab driver nearby who took them to an apartment house where blood splotches led to the door of Hillard's apartment.

Police were told that Miss Riley had been living in a Broadway hotel with the other woman at the party, who was found to have both eyes blackened. Medical authorities pointed out that Miss Riley's one black eye may have resulted from the fall when she missed step in the dance.

Hitler Threatens to Denounce Naval Pact

ADOLF HITLER (extreme left), surrounded by his staff is shown at Wilhelmshaven, Germany, as he appeared to reply to the Anglo-French pledges of aid to Poland by delivering a threat to denounce the 1935 pact which pledged him to maintain his navy in a state of "permanent" inferiority to Britain's. This picture was sent direct from Berlin to New York by radio.

Search Fails to Locate Missing West End Man

Frank Novak, Widely-Known Farmer of Deep Creek District, Leaves No Clue as to Whereabouts

BUHL, April 3 — Search continuing since last Saturday for Frank Novak, Deep Creek district farmer, had brought no clue last evening to his whereabouts.

A resident of this section since 1915, Mr. Novak was widely known among Bohemians of the West end.

He was last seen late Friday afternoon.

Neighbors noticed the next day his cows had not been milked, and, after some investigation on their own part, they notified Buhl police and the sheriff's office at Twin Falls.

Acquaintances could give no reason for Mr. Novak's sudden disappearance, nor has any explanation been suggested in the course of officers' investigation.

Mr. Novak had been busy with spring work on his farm, and farming equipment, household effects and automobile had not been disturbed.

Officers reported their investigation indicated the missing man's finances were in good shape.

There was no indication, they said, of any foul play.

YOUNG MOUNTAIN CLIMBER KILLED

New Yorker Strangles After Becoming Entangled on Rope

COLD SPRING, N. Y., April 3 (AP) A 20-year-old mountain climber strangled today when he became entangled on a rope down which he and a companion were lowering themselves to a ledge on Break Neck mountain.

The victim, Irving N. Feigin of New York City, dangled 800 feet in the air for nearly two hours before a rescue party succeeded in lifting the body above the ledge of the 1,200-foot mountain, located six miles north of West Point on the East side of the Hudson river.

Feigin and his companion, M. Girard Bloch of Brooklyn, were coming down the mountain when the accident occurred.

State Police Lieutenant H. A. Gay quoted Bloch as saying the pair tied an 80-foot rope to a rock at a point 800 feet from the bottom of the mountain. Bloch came down first, followed by Feigin.

When Bloch reached the base, he heard Feigin screaming.

The rope had fastened around Feigin's neck and legs, doubling him up. He swung against rocky projections momentarily and then ceased shouting.

Bloch said he returned to the top, but was unable to pull his companion to safety. He cried for help.

Two youths at the base of the mountain, attractived by the shouts, hurried to the scene. Unable to pull the victim up, they notified state police who led a rescue party to the ledge.

Approximately 500 persons watched the rescuers lift the body only after Bloch was lowered on another rope to untangle his companion.

First reports indicated Feigin strangled on the rope after the wind blew him over a cliff.

Girl on Bicycle Struck by Car

Verlen Gifford, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gifford of Twin Falls, was bruised and suffered temporary shock Sunday when she was knocked down by an automobile while riding her bicycle.

Twin Falls police officers, who investigated, said the girl was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Lucille Pierce of Kimberly.

The accident occurred at about 1:35 p. m. Sunday in the 300 block of Fourth avenue west, the truck lane.

Officers said that parents of Miss Pierce were passengers in the large sedan she was driving.

After examination and treatment at the Twin Falls county general hospital the injured girl was taken home.

Frame and rear wheel were bent on the bicycle, while the headlight and right front fender of the automobile were bent.

DANISH NAZIS WIN

COPENHAGEN, April 4 (Tuesday) (AP)—Danish Nazis, who were regarded as having little chance to win a seat in parliament in yesterday's elections, were shown by final returns today to have staged an upset and won three.

PROBE OF POISON PLOT CONTINUES

Coroner Authorizes Exhumation of Man Who Died Three Years Ago

PHILADELPHIA, April 3 (AP)—Another move in an investigation of what authorities describe as a plot to murder for insurance came tonight with the announcement that the body of a man who died three years ago would be removed from a cemetery tomorrow.

Coroner Charles H. Hersch, authorizing the exhumation, said the body of Pietro Stea would be examined to see whether it contained traces of poison. The bodies of four other persons listed as victims of the alleged conspiracy contained poison, chemists have reported.

Herman Petrillo, 40-year-old olive oil and spaghetti salesman, was convicted of first degree murder at the first of the so-called "poison ring" trials two weeks ago. The verdict carried a mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair. A jury blamed Petrillo for the death of Ferdinand Alfonsi, 38-year-old WPA worker, whose exhumed body showed traces of poison. Alfonsi's widow, Petrillo's cousin and two other persons have been charged with murder as a result of the investigation.

Abductor Beats New Jersey Girl

CAMDEN, N. J., April 3 (AP) — A mysterious night visitor to a Camden clergyman's home was sought tonight by state police investigating the abduction and beating of the minister's daughter.

Wanda Dworecki, 17, in a hospital with a skull fracture and bruises of the face, mumbled in brief moments of consciousness that two men accosted her near her home last night, dragged her into a car, beat her, and then dumped her out on a country road 25 miles away.

Physicians said her condition was critical.

BUHL WARD WINS FAIR CONCESSION

L.D.S. Church to Operate Dining Hall During County Event

High bid of $165 by the Buhl ward of the L.D.S. church brought the church organization the dining hall concession for the Twin Falls County Fair next September, Tom Parks, secretary-manager of the fair, announced after a board meeting at the fair grounds last night.

Several bids were submitted by various groups, Parks said.

Vance Naylor, Hansen, vice-president of the board who presided in the absence of Russ G. Wilson, board president of Kimberly, announced that a definite decision on the souvenir program for 1939 would be made at a special board meeting April 11.

The News-Times publishing firm produced the 1938 souvenir programs.

The board authorized Parks to contact the Idaho Flag and Decorating company of Boise to decorate the fairgrounds again this year.

It was also announced that the east side of the produce building would be lined with booths. The west side already has booths.

The Boise decorating firm will install a colored cheese cloth canopy ceiling in the produce building. It will be fireproofed.

Purpose of the canopy will be to seal the building as there is no ceiling at the present time, only the domed roof.

Utahn Injured in Attempt To Rescue Goat from Well

HIAWATHA, Utah, April 3 (AP)—Failing in a daring attempt to rescue a goat from the bottom of an abandoned 110-foot well, Earl Johnson, 35-year-old miner was critically injured today.

Sheriff S. M. Bliss of Carbon county ordered the shaft sealed—with the live animal still imprisoned—after Johnson, with the goat in his arms, tumbled back into the rocky pit when he lost his grip on a rope by which three friends had been hauling him to the surface.

The sheriff said Louis W. Blatter, Charles Magnik and Paul Magnik told him they had lowered Johnson into the well and had managed to haul him to within five feet of the surface when he fell.

Dell Leamaster, member of a rescue crew from the United States Fuel company mine at Hiawatha, descended into the well and after a three-hour struggle was hoisted to safety with the unconscious Johnson.

Sheriff Bliss said Johnson was near death from his injuries.

The officer ordered the mine sealed despite offers of several volunteers to continue efforts to rescue the goat.

"Rescue attempts are too hazardous," Bliss declared.

Several boys who reported they first heard the goat bleating last Friday informed Johnson and his three companions of the animal's plight.

Nazis Quick With Reply To Warning

Attempts to Interfere in German Sphere Of Influence Will Start War, Berlin Declares

(By The Associated Press)

Britain opened the door to world participation in her stop-Hitler campaign Monday and drew an immediate Nazi accusation of fomenting a new war for others to fight.

The epochal step marked Britain's second departure within a week from her traditional isolationist policy and was accompanied by a fresh move to throw up a quick barrier against Nazi expansion in eastern Europe.

"We welcome the co-operation of any country, whatever may be its internal system of government, not in aggression but in resistance to aggression," Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons.

Berlin Quick to Reply

Chamberlain emphasized that Britain had no aggressive designs against Germany "so long as she will be a good neighbor," but he accused her of breaking faith and reiterated British determination to resist any effort at world domination by force.

Berlin was quick to reply that Germany would not be "indifferent or passive" to any aggressive tendencies on the part of Britain and her ally, France.

A Nazi spokesman explained that Adolf Hitler refrained from starting a campaign for a preventive war in his speech Saturday at Wilhelmshaven, but warned that any attempts to interfere in Germany's spheres of influence would start the Nazi war machine rolling.

While Hitler enjoyed a holiday cruise in the North sea, his lieutenants followed closely the movements of Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck who was in London for vital conferences on the British-French pledge of aid against threats to Poland's independence.

Even as he reached London, Britain moved to strengthen the British-French-Polish line-up by indicating she would help Rumania rearm.

Welcomed in Bucharest

The news was welcomed in Bucharest, but Rumanians refrained cautiously from any statement which might be taken as offensive to Hitler, who has extended his influence to the Black sea kingdom through a new five-year trade pact.

France's position in the troubled international situation was bolstered by a decision of President Albert Lebrun to become a candidate for re-election at Wednesday's national assembly.

Lebrun's re-election would dispense with the formality of a cabinet resignation and re-formation and at the same time would be an indication to the world of French internal solidarity. There was little doubt that he would be returned to office for another seven-year term.

Nationalist executioners were busy in Spain. Loreto Appellaniz Garcia, former Republican chief of military police and 20 of his aides, were executed. A Nationalist military tribunal convicted them of assassinations and tortures during the 32-month civil war.

In Madrid the Nationalist judiciary began working on a mass of "war guilt" trials.

BRITAIN CALLS FOR ALLIANCE

Chamberlain Invites World to Join Anti-Hitler Line-Up

LONDON, April 3 (AP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain, determined "to preserve the independence of all states threatened by aggression," today invited the world to form a defensive alliance with Britain against expanding Germany.

The prime minister made clear that Britain harbored no agressive intention toward Germany "so long as Germany will be a good neighbor."

But he accused her of breaking faith and declared again Britain's determination to resist any attempt to dominate the world by force.

"What we are concerned with is to preserve our independence," Chamberlain said, calmly, deliberately, while the house of commons sat strangely hushed in contrast to its usual turbulence.

"When I say independence, I do not mean this country only. I mean independence of all states which may be threatened by aggression.

"We therefore welcome the co-operation of any country, whatever may be its internal system of government, not in aggression but in resistance to aggression."

Chamberlain seemed the same calm, elderly business man in discussing what he suggested was a new "epoch" in British diplomacy.

MONETARY BILL GETS APPROVAL

House Committee Votes to Prolong Roosevelt's Powers

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP) — Answering Secretary Morgenthau's plea for continuation of the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund because of a possibility of "recurrence of international crises," the house coinage committee approved a bill today to extend it for two years.

The measure also would renew for two years the president's authority to devalue the dollar and the treasury's power to buy newly mined domestic silver above world prices and coin the white metal without limit.

Morgenthau said the devaluation power was "a weapon in reserve which is needed for the protection of American interests," adding: "It is as important as a powerful navy in the field of defense against armed attack."

Unless they are extended, the three powers end next June 30. The 9-to-5 committee vote to continue them was taken over the opposition of Republicans, who were chiefly critical of the silver and devaluation provisions. Some of the Republicans said businessmen fear that the government suddenly may devalue the dollar again.

The gold content was lowered to about 59 per cent of its former weight in 1934, but Secretary Morgenthau told the coinage committee that only "under circumstances which clearly demand action" would the United States use its devaluation power once more.

He said existence of that authority puts the United States in a position to protect American [illegible] intensified competition in the domestic market [illegible] tries tamper with their currencies.

"The [illegible] tional economic and [illegible] still exists, and unfortunately [illegible] are no grounds for [illegible] such emergency will end [illegible] 1939," he said.

Relief Worker Candid Candidate

DRESDEN, Tenn., April 3 (AP) — WPA Worker Claudius F. Rowlett has entered the Weakley county political lists with the candid slogan: "Help get me off relief! Elect me tax assessor." Campaign cards, which fellow workers helped finance by 50-cent contributions, picture him holding a shovel.

PARENT-TEACHER OFFICERS NAMED

Junior-Senior Association Hears Reports; Students Present Program

Twin Falls Junior-Senior Parent-Teacher association's newly elected officers were announced at a meeting in Twin Falls high school last evening.

Gerald Wallace, chairman of a nominating committee on which Mrs. J. R. Nielson and Mrs. W. A. Hayward assisted, read a list of the newly elected officers. President is Mrs. W. R. Chase, who is at present attending the Idaho P.-T. A. conference in Boise. First vice-president is Mrs. R. L. Read; second vice-president, Miss Margaret Egbert; secretary, Harley B. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Lawrence. Mrs. R. L. Read is the retiring president.

Reports on Lunches

Mrs. J. G. Thorpe gave a report on the hot lunches served during the winter season. Mrs. Van B. Wright from the Twentieth Century club gave a report on cancer and distributed pamphlets.

Mrs. Claude Brown, program chairman, took charge of the remainder of the meeting.

Four paintings purchased by junior and senior high schools were displayed in connection with a color phantasy directed by Miss Helen Borden.

Purchased by the junior high school were Blanket of Snow by W. F. Choultse and Carpet of Allah by Grayson F. Sayre. Senior high school purchases were Mountains by Olaf Moller and Autumn by Colvin.

Taking part in the phantasy were Howard Ronk, Mary Lou Graham, Alder Arrington, Walter Roller, Betty Hopkins, Helga Rommelvedt, Lola Bair, Marie Navin, Ollie Fern Secord, Lee Nani Barnes, Bill Halley and Shirley Greenhalgh. Dorothy Hudson was accompanist.

Easter Music

Junior high school girls' chorus, directed by Miss Sue Evans, sang Easter music, and Easter choral readings were given under direction of Miss Winifred Fryer with Mary Jane Shearer and Mildred Frances Jennings, soloists.

He made his statement slowly, emphasizing his precisely-phrased points by rapping his eyeglasses on the historic house of commons dispatch box.

Frequently, as he reached a decisive or dramatic point, the house came to its feet to cheer him thunderously—including the opposition members who a year ago assailed his conciliation policies.

Ringing Cheers

Chamberlain sat down amid ringing cheers as he concluded, sternly, but hopefully:

". . . We cannot live forever in an atmosphere of surprise and alarm from which Europe has suffered in recent months.

"The common business of life cannot be carried on in a state of uncertainty. As far as has been possible for his majesty's government to help to restore confidence by plain words we have done our part, and in doing so I am certain we have expressed the will of this people.

"I trust that our action, begun but not concluded, will prove to be a turning point, not towards war which wins nothing, cures nothing and ends nothing, but towards some new wholesome era when reason will take the place of force and when threats will make way for cool and well-marshalled argument."

Poland's Spokesman

While Chamberlain was speaking in the house, Colonel Joseph Beck, Poland's foreign minister, arrived in London for vital three-day conversations on the British-French pledge to help Poland defend her independence. The British prime minister announced the pledge to commons in another historic statement last Friday.

Chamberlain's efforts to erect a barrier of anti-aggressor nations against expanding Germany, meanwhile, reached a delicate stage.

The chief difficulty was to give Rumania a British military pledge without affronting Hungary—closely bound to Poland.

Hungary stands between Germany and King Carol's country of rich wheatfields and oil wells and a British promise to defend Rumania's frontiers would imply either that Hungary might attack Rumania or that Germany might march through Hungary.

Thorny Problem

Furthermore, neither Poland nor Rumania is eager to undertake too close association with Soviet Russia. Rumania holds pre-war Russia's province of Bessarabia.

Diplomats said the solution to this thorny problem would be discussed with Beck and with Rumania through the British legation in Bucharest. The only possibility, they said, might be to link Rumania to the "halt Hitler" bloc by extending the Polish-Rumanian treaty against Russian aggression.

Before the foreign affairs debate started in the lower house, however, Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, indicated that Britain would help Rumania rearm and it was believed generally that Rumania would be next to enter the front Chamberlain is building on the British-French-Polish nucleus.

Dancers on Tour Injured in Crash

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., April 3 (AP)—Ted Shawn, internationally known dancer, and four member of his troupe were injured, none of them seriously, today when the automobile in which they were riding struck a soft shoulder and overturned 26 miles south of Prescott, Ariz.

Scrap Iron Theft Charges Dropped

Grand larceny charges against Earl Shettle, Twin Falls man who was accused of stealing four tons of scrap iron, were dismissed in probate court by Judge O. A. Bailey yesterday.

Absence of a chief prosecution witness was given as the reason for asking dismissal of the case by Everett M. Sweeley, county prosecutor.

Harry Hell, Twin Falls junk dealer, filed the complaint against Shettle and officers returned the accused man from Malta checking station.

Shettle pleaded not guilty and informed officers he had purchased the scrap iron for $28 and was en route to Salt Lake City to dispose of it.

Bourbons Prepare For Jefferson Day

Senator D. Worth Clark, Representative Compton White and Edward Baird, Ada county commissioner and prominent Democratic leader, have been invited to speak at the annual Jefferson day banquet of Democrats here Thursday night, April 13.

More than 500 persons are expected to attend. W. Orr Chapman, Twin Falls attorney, will be toastmaster.

Hall where the banquet will be held has not yet been selected.

Chairman in charge of the speaking committee is Thomas M. Robertson while aiding him are Dan J. Cavanagh and W. B. Lawrence. Thomas M. Robertson, Jr., is secretary of the Twin Falls County Jefferson club, sponsors of the event.

Senate Approves New Cotton Bill

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP) — A bill under which the government would sell part of its huge cotton holdings back to cotton farmers at the bargain rate of five cents a pound passed the senate today and went to the house.

Obtaining provisions sharply at variance with the export subsidy program recently advocated by President Roosevelt, the measure went through on a voice vote after a discussion lasting little more than two hours.

Offered by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) and backed by a group of other southern senators, the bill stipulates that farmers buying the cotton must make a corresponding reduction in their 1939 acreage below existing allotments.

LEGAL SNARLS AT BOISE INCREASE

All of Idaho's elective executive department officials are Democrats except Bottolfsen and Lieut. Gov. Donald Whitehead.

The 1939 legislature was overwhelmingly Republican.

Attorney General Taylor is the legal adviser of all of them, who are under heavy bond and personally liable if any funds are expended under provisions of any act that might be defective.

Claims Called "Mythical"

During the legislative debate on the $350,000 appropriation bill, Democratic leaders termed "mythical" the Republicans' claims that a deficiency existed in the department of public works.

Administration leaders, however, claimed that the public works department entered into highway contracts in excess of funds actually available and thus created the need for a deficiency appropriation.

The bill appropriated $350,000 to pay liabilities incurred by the highway bureau, in the department of public works, between Jan. 1, 1937, and Dec. 31, 1938, despite the fact that the supreme court only a few months ago handed down an opinion holding that the legislature could not appropriate funds for obligations incurred in a previous biennium.

Points to Statutes

Taylor, in today's opinion, pointed to statutes which he said prevented state officials from obligating their departments in excess of appropriated funds, and said:

"The acts of state officers or employes in attempting to incur such liabilities are utterly unauthorized and invalid and any bill passed by the legislature subsequent to such invalid act of an officer or employe attempting to legalize such act is unconstitutional and void.

"By the use of this language in the bill the legislature has in effect by legislative decree declared that expenses and liabilities in excess of appropriations were incurred by the department of public works through the bureau of highways during such period of time in the approximate amount of $350,000 and has made the appropriation to pay claims based on these liabilities and expenses and none other."

Regarding printing of the 1939 session laws Attorney General Taylor held that a concurrent resolution of the legislature naming the Syms-York company of Boise to print the 1939 session laws "is not sufficient authority to constitute a contract for printing.

Personally Liable

"A disbursing officer paying for such printing would, in all probability, be personally liable for the amount paid."

The legislature passed the resolution and appropriated $4,500 for the printing of 1,500 volumes of the session laws for the state and 500 for private sales.

But the legislative printing committee did not enter into the formal contract mentioned in an old Idaho statute.

It was pointed out that the printing company might print the laws, but that it might have to await compensation until action is taken by a special session of the legislature, a special session being the only one that could provide for payment of obligations entered into during the current biennium.

Alaskans Meet at Banquet Session

Alaskans of the gold rush days welcomed latter day visitors to the territory at an annual banquet meeting attended by 50 persons at Wray's cafe in Twin Falls last evening.

Chairman of the former Alaskan's organization, John H. Nye, sr., presided and introduced a number of speakers.

Sourdoughs' relation of thrilling experiences in the early days of the territory, and later visitors' impressions of the region provided a varied program.

Speakers included J. F. Cordes, H. C. Jeppesen, Mrs. Minna Lang and Mrs. Cora Stevens of Twin Falls; Mr. Duncan of Buhl and Mr. Daly of Jerome.

An old time dance orchestra furnished music during the evening.

WPA to Lay Off 125 Men in Zone

A total of 125 WPA workers in eight counties of the Twin Falls WPA zone will be cut from work rolls this week because the national congress has not appropriated sufficient funds to carry a full quota of workers to the end of the fiscal year, local officials announced yesterday.

Of the total, 25 will be workers in Twin Falls county.

The cut is not expected to interfere with work on the Twin Falls baseball park or construction of a 5,000,000 gallon storage reservoir at the filter plant.

Idaho's cut will be 930 under the re-trenched WPA work program.

FIRST NIGHTERS CHEER HEPBURN

Actress Back on Broadway In Successful Stage Production

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Katherine Hepburn is back on Broadway in "The Philadelphia Story," happier than ever since she went away to Hollywood seven years ago.

Philip Barry, who earlier this season saw the unsuccessful production of his philosophical "Here Come the Clowns," returns to his almost unfailingly successful metier in "The Philadelphia Story." It's a gay, witty comedy of a madcap circle in the upper brackets of Philadelphia society. And in Tracy Lord, a young woman who has turned her back on one marriage failure and is on the point of launching on another, Mr. Barry has very nearly created Miss Hepburn's perfect role.

Ten Curtain Calls

Gone are the stilted mannerisms and monotony of which the critics complained so violently in her two previous efforts to return to the stage. Miss Hepburn plays Tracy with radiant charm, humor and a credibility. She received ten curtain calls from the first night audience.

"The Philadelphia Story" has to do with the investigations made by a staff writer for a magazine "Destiny,"—the publisher of which also markets a magazine called "Dime"—of social and industrial life of Philadelphia.

The journalist, bent on turning up a blistering expose, arrives at the Lord home the day before Tracy, the eldest daughter, is to take off on her second martial flight.

From there, it concerns Tracys awakening and re-marrying her divorced husband; and the discovery by the reporter that there are such metals as decency and honesty to be found in the upper social strata.

Expert Assistance

Mr. Barry has put some meat into the piece and the moral saves it from the category of drawing-room frivolity. Miss Hepburn, of course, is the chief interest throughout but she has some expert assistance from an altogether excellent cast.

Joseph Cotton plays the first husband with insight and depth that expand as the play progresses. Van Heflin is splendid as the reporter and Nicholas Joy's portrayal of the father another of those characterizations at which he is proficient. Lenore Lonergan, a plump 11-year-old, brings stout humor to the role of the family brat. Shirley Booth is good as the magazine photographer who loved the reporter.

Weather

IDAHO: Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; cooler; morning frosts north portion.

High and low temperatures yesterday 72 and 32 degrees; variable winds, clear. Humidity 15 to 60 per cent of saturation.

(By The Associated Press)

An extensive low pressure system occupies the Rocky mountain, plateau and interior southwestern states with separate centers in Montana and the Arizona-New Mexico section. Skies are generally cloudy in that section, and showers, light to moderate have fallen in Utah and some sections of adjoining states, and in the far northwest. Temperatures remain above normal in most areas west of the mountains. Pressure is slowly rising along the coast. Unsettled weather attending the western depression reaches the Mississippi valley, but skies are only partly cloudy farther east and on the Atlantic coast.

Former Buhl Man Dies in Portland

Body of Lurid P. Annis, 80, farmer in the Buhl vicinity for a number of years, who died at his home in Portland March 30, will be received in Twin Falls today by the Drake and Reynolds funeral parlor.

Graveside funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the Filer I. O. O. F. cemetery. Burial will be beside the grave of his wife, who died in 1931.

Members of the Followers of Christ church will officiate.

He had been ill for several years.

Mr. Annis was born June 21, 1858, in Illinois. He came to Idaho from Oklahoma in 1915. He retired from farming several years ago.

The following sons and daughters survive: Elmer Annis, Twin Falls; Walter Annis, North Bend, Ore.; R. J. Annis, Portland; Paul Annis, Cocquille, Ore.; Mrs. D. Sliger, Twin Falls; Mrs. Marian Clampitt, Hollister; Mrs. N. L. Howard, Nyssa, Ore.; Mrs. Addie Cue, Oklahoma; Mrs. Pauline Hopper and Mrs. Mabel Berry, both of Portland.

Fourteen grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren also survive.

A survey of Toledo employment in 1938 revealed an average of 93,974 workers employed last year and that factory employment accounted for 29,831 or 31 per cent of the total.

2,000 GATHER AT CHURCH SESSIONS

L.D.S. Conference Hears Utah Men Discuss 'Universal Brotherhood'

Albert E. Bowen and Henry D. Moyle represented the Salt Lake City general authorities at the Priesthood conference of the L. D. S. church here Saturday and Sunday. Approximately 2,000 attended the conference. Topic under discussion by the Utah church leaders was "Universal Brotherhood."

Greetings from the stake presidency were extended by J. W. Richins, and J. E. Allred, Dr. Lloyd Oaks, Paul Hunt and Clifford Tolman spoke briefly on the promotion of the priesthood plan.

Buhl Singing Mothers sang during the morning session, "The Lord's Prayer" and "O, Morn of Beauty."

Campaign Progress Related

Bowen told of the progress in the church campaign for tobacco and liquor control. Moyle explained the church welfare work. Wesley Bagley discussed responsibilities.

The Aaronic Priesthood was in charge of the 1:30 p. m. session Sunday, and Clark Robertson, Francis Egbert, Byron Babbell and Wilson Pittman represented the young boys' division of the priesthood work on the speaker's program.

Junior boys' chorus was directed by Clinton Luke of the first ward. The Buhl choir furnished music during the afternoon.

Speakers at the afternoon session were Lester Skeem, home from a Danish mission, Donald Bingham, who recently returned from an Hawaiian mission, and Roy Wood of Buhl. The visitors from Salt Lake City were also speakers, choosing for their subject, "Cooperative Effort."

Evening Session

Devotional music was played by Melbourne Jensen at the 7:30 p. m. meeting under the direction of the stake M. I. A. A duet, "Let Me Live in a House by the Side of the Road," was sung by Mrs. Flossie Kirkman and Mrs. Ivy Jensen. The theme, "Love Thy Neighbor," was presented by Miss Merla Salmon.

"The restoration of the Gospel," a reading was given by Mrs. Stella Oaks. A mixed quartet from Buhl, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mrs. Beulah Baggett, Roy Hyde and Charles Stallings, sang "Not Understood." Mrs. Emma Luke and daughters, Miss Maurine Luke and Miss Betty Luke, sang "Going Home."

Roy Babbel spoke on "The Life of Christ." Mrs. O. S. Dunca concluded the program with the soprano solo, "Hosanna," by Granicre.

SUPPORT URGED IN CANCER DRIVE

Twin Falls Mayor Proclaims April as Month for Observance

Twin Falls mayor, Lem A. Chapin, has issued the following proclamation urging observation of Cancer Control month during April:

Whereas, an intensive nationwide campaign of education against cancer has been launched by the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer,

Whereas, a unit of the Army organized by leading women and directed by outstanding physicians is now engaged in this community in its war to save human life under the slogan "Early Cancer is Curable. Fight it with Knowledge,

Whereas, cancer is a disease that may strike anyone of us and against which each of us may by intelligence and alertness protect himself or herself to a real degree;

Whereas, 36 persons in this county died of cancer last year, many of them needlessly,

Whereas, one out of seven of those now over forty will die in the future of this disease unless appropriate action is taken,

Therefore, I, Lem A. Chapin, as Mayor of Twin Falls urge all men and women to unite in supporting the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer and I formally set aside April as Cancer Control Month.

In witness thereof, I, have hereunto set my hand and seal on this 1st day of April, 1939.

LEM A. CHAPIN,
Mayor.

Burley Rotarians See Golf Movie

BURLEY, April 3—A talking motion picture showing the manufacture of golf equipment and golf professionals in action was shown Tuesday at the Rotary club meeting by George E. Denman, superintendent of the Burley schools. Lester McKean was in charge of the meeting.

Musical numbers were by Eugene Earl, who gave a musical reading and Morris Swanson played a piano solo.

Past presidents, J. S. Hanzel, K. P. Slusser, I. H. Harris and R. H. Snyder were presented Rotary plaques, the four men being absent when other past presidents received their plaques several weeks ago.

Charles C. Haight, president of the club, announced that Secretary A. R. Dawson would be chairman of the "On to Idaho Falls" committee to promote attendance at the convention to be held there May 8 and 9.

Senator K. C. Barlow will be in charge of the meeting next Tuesday and will talk on recent legislative experiences.

THIS COUPLE studies a model budget chart at a Morgan County, Colo., springtime crop clinic.

By The (AP) Feature Service

FORT MORGAN, Colo.—On the rim of the dust bowl, Colorado's Morgan county is the guinea pig for an experiment in how to help the government's farm loan clients chart their own courses toward balanced budgets.

Basis of the experiment is the belief that a person will work harder on his own idea than he will to make another man's plan succeed.

Heretofore agents for the Farm Security administration have drawn crop plans for farmers who wanted to borrow money; in Morgan county the farmer and his wife do the planning.

Because of Morgan county's success the plan probably will be adapted to other farm communities, says Hugh Denio, Morgan county rural rehabilitation supervisor, one of its originators.

"Under the old method," Denio explains, "we asked a farmer who wanted a loan how much he needed for tractor, gas and oil; how much seed and feed he needed; his estimates of other expenses.

"The farmer usually didn't know. He made some guesses and the loan agent made a few more and drew up the plan. It was almost a miracle if it fitted the farmer's needs."

The new plan puts at the farmer's disposal the farm information and statistical resources of the government.

Farmers and their wives meet at "crop clinics" for a week or two in the spring.

"After we have scratched our heads over figures and estimates for several days the farmers and their wives fill out a 'down to the last penny' farm plan and household budget," Denio said.

"He compares his expenses with his anticipated revenue and unless a good margin of profit is shown he does some more head work until he has a workable plan.

"We haven't actually cut down the indebtedness of the county's farm borrowers because in this locality there has been unfavorable weather. Last year borrowers were permitted to store some crops, because prices were low, instead of selling to pay off loans.

"Consequently, loans were not reduced in some cases, but many borrowers have enough feed and seed on hand to carry them through the year with only small additional loans. So, in reality, their positions have been improved."

"The government hopes to get farmers to thinking in a businesslike way about how to reduce their indebtedness."

The plan has been operating three years.

Girl Scouts Hold Party at Gooding

GOODING, April 3—Gooding Girl Scout troop held a party and investiture service Friday evening in the state school recreational hall. The program opened with the presentation of 14 tenderfoot pins by Captain Wirth, to Carol Kault, Rosalie Hay, Jeanette Loitved, Alvena House, Ina Mae Ohmeton, Alta Sage, Oreta Sage, Jewel Fales, Dorothy Wheeler, Juanita Wheeler, Johnsie Bishop, Bernice Cone, Katherine King and Ruth Tate.

A feature of the program was a hobby talk given by Mr. Driggs, superintendent of the State school. Mr. Driggs invited those present to see the result of some of his "spare moments." Of special interest to the Scouts was his wood carving.

Mrs. Driggs, who is a member of the adult Scout committee and is in charge of the drama and literature field, presented four troop dramatics badges earned at camp last summer. Girls receiving these badges were Bonnie Schindler, Betty Heidel, Helen Kornher and Beverly Hughes.

Captain Wirth also presented Bonnie Schindler with her second class swimmers badge and Betty Heidel and Helen Kornher with scholarship badges.

Another feature of the program was the awarding of the garden prizes won by Beverly Hughes and Helen Kornher for the best flower garden raised last summer.

SUSPICIOUS COUNTRIES

The proposed alliance to preserve European peace—such as it is—and to halt the Nazis encountered obstacles as soon as it was mentioned. Britain and France suggested it eagerly, if not hopefully. Russia and Turkey looked upon it favorably. Other countries, supposed to jump at the plan, remained cautiously aloof or openly suspicious.

Poland, for example, could see no safety in a pact that would require an open stand against Germany without any guarantee of military assistance in case of trouble. Declarations of good will on the part of the democracies did not save Austria or Czechoslovakia, Spain or China. Naturally, Poland hesitated to antagonize the great aggressor by joining a bloc against him.

Switzerland and the Netherlands have no enthusiasm for such a pact. They hope to maintain their independence by keeping free of all alliances. They don't like talk of foreign armies using their lands as highways.

The Scandinavian countries keep very quiet, as do the neighbors of the late Czechoslovakia.

This attitude may not be constructive, but it is understandable. When Britain and France let the League of Nations become ineffective they lost the confidence of the little countries that looked to it for their own safety and survival.

IDLENESS IN LONDON

War threats are not the only big trouble England is having. The unemployment which began 20 years ago still continues. Recently there were 2,000,000 workers without jobs, in spite of all the armament and military recruiting. The "dole" about which we used to hear so much, in the deepest depression, has never been abandoned, and many Englishmen doubt that it ever will be.

Idle workmen do not tamely submit, either. There is nearly always some sort of demonstration going on around No. 10 Downing Street, which might be called the "British White House." Recently a crowd of ragged men broke into Grosvenor House, a luxurious hotel frequented by many Americans, shouted for work, and lay down on the thick carpets in front of the startled guests. There was similar action at the Savoy Hotel, with scores of jobless men lying on the front steps and covering themselves with banners on which demands for work were printed.

In one such demonstration there were banners reading, "Unemployed—Leisure Is No Pleasure." It isn't—for anybody. And it is the greatest civil evil that capitalistic society is now struggling with.

MEN'S CLOTHES

Clothes have long been regarded by restive individualists as too totalitarian. He-men have always fought against the tyranny of tailors, but it never did much good. It takes an awful big man to dictate to a custom tailor; and as for the ready-made trade, customers naturally have to choose from what there is. If they rebel, they look funny and sloppy, so it's no use.

This year, though, there is a reasonable amount of hope for the individualists. A spokesman for the national tailors represents his profession as turning human. "The whole idea of the tailor as the arbiter who dictates correct styles for men," he says, "will be supplanted by the more reasonable attitude that good tailors are expert craftsmen who are in position to make suggestions, as well as capable of carrying out the innovations the customers suggest."

There are suggestions of a catch in that, of course. The fellow who will wear the clothes is going to be allowed to make an occasional suggestion, and then the accommodating tailor will "carry it out." And probably, as usual, by the time he has done so, the customer will find that he's gone fashionable in spite of himself.

But then, if he had his way, he'd probably look funny. Next to a man's wife, his tailor is usually his best friend, covering up his defects and making him pass current as a civilized human being and what Walt Whitman liked to call "the divine average."

THINK AGAIN

If, as some of our politicians argue, the steady and rapid extension of government control over individuals and businesses marks the royal road to security and plenty for the people, the totalitarian states should be veritable marvels of prosperity.

The fact is, as everyone who has studied the subject knows, that totalitarianism for the worker, a smaller, not a larger return for farmer and manufacturer.

In Russia, articles that Americans of all economic levels consider almost absolute necessities — such as woolen clothing, good leather boots, meat and butter for the table, and adequate furniture — are possessed only by the relatively few, the favored ones of totalitarian "aristocracy." In Italy, wages and the standard of living have been consistently lowered by government fiat; and even so common a commodity as wholewheat bread is unavailable to the bulk of workers. In Germany, the government-sponsored spread of "ersatz" foods and materials — that is, substitutes for rubber, eggs, bread made of grains, coffee, etc. — testifies mutely to what is happening to the ordinary citizen's standard of living and chance to progress there.

There isn't any mystery as to why this is so. As Harry Curran Wilbur has said: "Government is a non-producer, and has no resources save what it takes from producers, distributors and those servicing both processes." Taxes and competition, under paternalistic government, gradually drive the private producer to the wall. The nation's resources are gradually used up and destroyed. The national income drops, while taxes rise. And the standard of living goes down.

History, ancient and modern, tells the story. And if you think "it can't happen here," just consider the expansion that has taken place in our government in recent years, and its competition with private citizens — then think again.

Other Points of View

INSPIRING MEETING SYMBOLIZES AMERICA

We wondered whether Thomas Mann, when in Chicago, would "look up" Eduard Benes. We hoped so. And he did.

A wirephoto shows them together—Mr. Benes, with finger raised, in earnest speech; Mr. Mann listening, deep in thought.

No flushed faces, no jutting jaws, but restraint. Restraint though the emotions were as profound, as exalted, as fervent as is given our kind to feel.

It thrilled us, this picture of a great German and a great Czech smoking and calmly talking together in the United States.

It tells us so much about America.

"The melting pot," it's called. But some things it doesn't melt. A comprehension of the real meaning of your culture; a devotion to the best your fatherland has been; the resolve to preserve its greatest ideals—these aren't obliterated. You don't need to lose them to be a good American. You can't lack respect for them, though you were born here—and your father, and his father, and his father — and be a good American.

For to be an American isn't to be a member of any narrow racial nationality. It is to be a member of the human race. To be Americans isn't to have a peculiar set of customs and dogmatic opinions. It is to be true to the best that is in you, in your own way.

The earth is too big to love just as an earth, to be sure. We've got to love a spot on it, and by that spot symbolize the whole. Humanity is too various and incomprehensible to love as a race. You've got to love a group, and see in that group a symbol of the whole. The ways of human thought and behavior are too many for one man.

America is not a melting pot. Rather, it is a fabric of many colored threads, all contributing to the strength and beauty of the pattern.

What better can be hoped for than that Germans like Thomas Mann and Czechs like Edward Benes, and Irish and Poles and Italians and Americans alike —well, like any of us!—shall be forever able to sit down together in this free land and hear each other, with dignity and restraint and the devotion to common Christian ideals that emerges from any truly noble culture.—Des Moines Register.

INTERSTATE TRADE BARRIERS

When the supreme court, joining in an unanimous opinion written by Justice Frankfurter, recently declared invalid an inspection tax levied by Florida on cement imported from Belgium and Denmark, the tribunal held, in effect, that the constitution explicitly forbids any state from laying import duties and that the act, therefore, is illegal. The ruling of the supreme court, although applying in this case to imports from foreign lands, brings to mind the action of state legislatures erecting interstate barriers in discriminating against the entry of products from other states without penalty.

"Since the constitution clearly recognizes that national unity and national prosperity depend on an uninterrupted flow of goods between states," says the Astorian-Budget, "many such laws, similarly based on 'inspection' and other euphemisms for tariffs, may be regarded in the same manner by the supreme court. They have reached an importance in interstate commerce that warrants a test in the highest court."

The Portland Oregonian likewise speculates regarding the possibilities of the effect of the decision being widespread, with reference to the breaking down of interstate trade barriers.

"It will be recalled that when a bill was introduced in the Oregon legislature to regulate the sale of wines from other states to foster the Oregon berry-wine industry, word promptly came that a measure discriminating against Oregon products was ready for introduction in California," says the Oregonian. "The Oregon bill properly failed.

"The practice of erecting state barriers against competing products of other states has been popular elsewhere, especially with regard to alcoholic beverages. It is said that a Missouri act, recently upheld by the supreme court of that state, and which bars beverages made in states that discriminate against Missouri, will keep alcoholic beverages made in 30 states from entering Missouri. Alabama has adopted a law similar to Missouri's. Michigan and Indiana have declared a truce in a war over the entry of each other's beer."

State-trade walls are in process of erection against other products. The current issue of the magazine State Government gives the text of several bills of the character introduced in legislatures that assembled this year. In one southern state a bill proposes a tax of 25 per cent on milk, butter, cheese and apples grown in Washington, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa in retaliation against taxes imposed on cottonseed oil, its by-products and derivatives. The "port of entry" scheme adopted in several states is hampering interstate commerce and provoking reprisal.

The issue has grown to such proportions that a national conference on interstate barriers has been called to meet in Chicago, April 5, 6 and 7. The trade barrier principle is an imaginary protection to "home industry." It is imaginary because no state is self-contained. It cannot expect to sell to others if it refuses to buy from others.—Lewiston Tribune.

UPLIFT IN ILLINOIS

Eight hundred farm families in the Crab Orchard Lake district of southern Illinois are wondering where they go from there. For more than a century their people have lived in this section without feeling sorry for themselves. But planners came from Washington to tell these folks that their land is submarginal. The government was taking it over and would resettle the residents. They didn't want to be resettled. A reforestation plan was next. It gave way to flood control, and finally to a fish preserve and pleasure resort scheme. A dam was constructed and the whole area will be submerged. Williamson County will lose one-fourth of its taxable farm acreage. Oh, yes the Illinoisans will be paid for their lands. Government appraisers are telling them how much. Walter Ghent of Carterville told a reporter he had set out 8,500 apple and peach trees and spent $43,000 in developing his place. Secretary Wallace's young man set a price of $17,800 on it. Alonzo Bowyer is to get $30 an acre for land which he claims has yielded 72 bushels of corn to the acre.—Merle Thrope in Nations Business.

Breakfast Food

A very highbrow young woman seated herself in a very highbrow restaurant and took up the menu. Pointing to a line on the French menu, she spoke to the waiter: "Bring me some of that, please."

"Sorry, lady," answered the waiter, "the orchestra is playing that."

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

KEYNOTE. Although it is some sort of heresy to discuss the supreme court's backroom affairs, transom whispers around the stately structure hint that Chief Justice Hughes has been picked to hand down the Strecker decision involving the government's right to deport a foreigner alleged to have consorted with Communists. It is the key case in the bickering over Frances Perkins' failure to send Sailor Boy Harry Bridges back where he came from.

Mr. Hughes has been selected, presumably, because of the public excitement engendered by the Strecker affair and allied questions. No matter what the tribunal may have decided, for such a revered and beloved figure as the great Hughes to deliver the opinion will tend to temper the reaction. The court often indulges in this kind of strategy. It lets a liberal speak when the ruling tends to offend his kind, a conservative when the higher bracketeers might roar. And the court is more sensitive to public sentiment than ever before.

It's a waste of money to gamble on a forthcoming decision from this secretive body, but here's what Mr. Hughes will probably say: A man is within his constitutional rights to advocate a Communistic society that results from the natural evolutionary play of social and economic forces, but it's wholly bad to urge resort to violence in substituting a Communistic for a representative form of government. And won't that be a slap at Europe's two bad boys in Berlin and Rome!

INSISTENCE. President Roosevelt will probably send a more radical name than Tom Amlie's to the senate if the latter fails of confirmation as a member of the interstate commerce commission. The substitute nominee held in reserve is former Governor Elmer Benson of Minnesota.

As a protege of the late Floyd Olson, Mr. Benson has argued that the state should assume charge of almost all forms of private enterprise, whereas Mr. Amlie's government ownership plans never covered so much territory. F. D. R. is apparently determined to lodge a man imbued with this philosophy on the I. C. C., against the day when government grabbing of the railroads will become a hotter subject than it is now.

A modicum of politics lies behind the presidential insistence on a man from the radical faction in the northwest. Through such indications of his friendliness to their social and economic theories he may win over influential groups in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Washington, Oregon and Idaho for the 1940 showdown between Garner conservatives and Roosevelt New-Dealers.

SWING. Though couched in Harvardian accents, Felix Frankfurter's separate decision in the federal-state tax controversy was the severest tongue-lashing a freshman member has administered to elderly members of the supreme court in many years. He lectured them as if they were students in his law school class.

With amazing audacity he told his colleagues that they ought to speak up with individual opinions like his more frequently than they do. Then he said it was incumbent on him to alibi the court's repudiation of ancient tax precedents — that it was due to their return to the Constitution rather than to a shift caused by the "reconstruction of the membership of the court." In other words, he noted that the older members were getting into constitutional step with the Roosevelt appointees — Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter and presumably newcomer Douglas.

Next he wiped out the great body of legal precedents which have been established for more than 150 years. He said that all his illustrious predecessors — with a few exceptions like the late Holmes — had based their decisions, not on the Constitution, but on what some judge said the Constitution meant. And his remarks about Chief Justice Marshall hardly bear repetition in a family newspaper. Knowing Mr. Frankfurter, his Washington friends expected him to shake up the high tribunal, set their decisions to swing music, but not so soon.

GESTURE. President Roosevelt's demand for congressional economy underwent a severe test in the house battle over farm parity payments costing $250,000,000, and it emerged in somewhat shabby shape. It has raised some doubt of how hard the administration will fight to keep down government expenditures.

Although the proposed parity appropriation had not been okayed by the budget bureau, no White House spokesman appeared on Capitol hill to warn against it. It seemed at first that through a behind-the-scenes deal its passage might permit Mr. Roosevelt to obtain the extra $150,000,000 he wants so badly for W.P.A. There was a desperate but unsuccessful effort to arrange an alliance between the rural and urban blocs, but the latter ran out at the last minute.

The final vote, however, showed such administration leaders as Rayburn, Bankhead, Cochran and Doughton lining up for the anti-budget appropriation of $250,000,000. The first three certainly would not have voted for this raid on the treasury if the White House had intervened on behalf of economy. So on the basis of this test the congress can boast that it was the branch which made at least a mild gesture toward balancing the budget.

ROUGH. Two enthusiastic and apparently approving listeners at a recent lecture in the Bronson Cutting series were Justices Frankfurter and Douglas of the supreme court. The fact that they attended and applauded together suggests that the Harvard and Yale professors will team up on the supreme court as soon as they get their judicial legs.

The lecturer was Gunnar Myrdal, the famous Swedish economist, and his subject was "On Maintaining Democracy in Sweden." Highlights of his talk were (1) that labor tells the employer where to get off under the Swedish pro-labor government; (2) that government ownership is operating successfully in many fields; (3) that farm and commercial cooperatives have solved old problems for both producers and consumers; (4) that Sweden will never abide a dictator because of popular regard for sanctity of contracts and the due process of law.

That's rather rough fare for two members of the erstwhile "horse and buggy" body, but the two professors seemed to digest it without any pain. The thing is sure about these Roosevelt appointees: Unlike most predecessors, they are going to keep their ears and minds open to what people around them are saying and thinking and doing.

VAST. Despite two severe depressions in a single decade, the United States still has eight billion-dollar industries, according to the official census for 1937. They are: Steel and rolling mill products, $3,330,000,000; motor vehicles, $3,096,000,000; meat packing, $3,787,000,000; petroleum refining, $2,546,000,000; auto bodies and parts, $2,080,000,000; electrical machinery, $1,622,000,000; bread and other bakery products, $1,426,000; printing and publishing, $1,393,000,000.

NOTES. British purchase of American manufactured products show a steady rise under reciprocal trade treaty; U. S. purchases of British textiles cutting sharply into German exports. . . Farm Security administration has completed construction of 11,800 low-cost farm dwellings—average cost about $1,100, some sold over 40-year period, others rented to farm families.—Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

NIGHT EDITOR

The Twin Falls News will give 300 or more photographs Wednesday to City Clerk W. H. Eldridge to be placed in the city collection of rare and historical prints.

It undoubtedly ranks as one of the finest single collections of photographs of the people who made news on the Twin Falls tract.

Many of the photographs have not yet been identified, but undoubtedly there are persons living now who can remember them.

All have been published in the Twin Falls News. Many have been forgotten now but the crisp penciled words on the back of each picture—"two-column 100 screen zinc half-tone, rush it"—indicates that they were news.

Night Editor lists a few here. Can you remember the names?

S. P. Atherton, who wore a red sash in leading parades.

Charles Des Ruisseau, Twin Falls bank clerk, who died in France with the marines.

Frank H. Buhl, president of the Twin Falls Land and Water company.

Major Fred Remington Reed, who mapped the Burley townsite.

John F. Hansen, Sheriff H. O. Van Ausdeln, Robert M. McCollum, Jake Fritz and others.

A group photograph of Mrs. Robert McCollum's "Homeless 20," all bachelors of that time.

School children of 1908 classes, war-time mass meetings, Clint Evans and his Twin Falls high school football teams, including action shots; Company K fording the Santa Cruz river; volunteer road building; a sturgeon as long as a model "T" Ford automobile and pictures of principals in early murder trials are in the collection.

Attention Eddie Lehman, Hugh Pace: If you're looking for a colorful figure for the Twin Falls baseball team you might check the police blotter.

But the prospect isn't a man; it's a young lady (?).

According to a report on the blotter, a girl uncorked a speedy delivery over the weekend and tossed a rock through a feminine driver's windshield.

Which reminds Night Editor that it has been a long inhibited desire to perform the same act in venting wrath on some women drivers.

Labor-Saving Coal Machines Hit CIO Chief in Vital Spot

NEW YORK WHIRLIGIG

By James McMullin

HIT. Rapid strides have been taken lately towards mechanizing the soft coal industry. After years of fruitless experimentation, a practical automatic loader has at last been developed and is being installed in a number of mines. One large coal company in West Virginia is now 100 per cent mechanized.

The automatic loader cuts the cost of producing coal at least 20 per cent, even allowing for depreciation of the equipment. Most of this saving will be passed along to the consumer, as leaders of the industry are thoroughly convinced that the only way to sell coal in competition with the growing use of other fuels is to cut the price drastically.

Furthermore—and this is where the shoe really pinches—at least 20 per cent fewer men are required to mine a given quantity of coal where the loader is used. This outstanding example of "technological unemployment" hits John Lewis in a vital spot. Many members of his United Mine Workers have already lost their jobs because of this—perhaps permanently—and thousands more will probably be displaced within a year.

HOLE. Another angle that foreshadows future headaches for the C.I.O. chief is the fact that operation of the loaders requires the services of skilled mechanics, whereas nearly all workers now employed in the mines are unskilled. Shrewd observers, both inside and outside of labor ranks, predict that the skilled operators will insist upon developing a craft union of their own to protect their higher wage level rather than belong to an industrial union in which they would be heavily outnumbered by pick-and-shovel workers.

This would give the A. F. of L. a beautiful opening to promote its "aristocracy of labor" idea in the hearts of the industry which has been Lewis' mainstay. Some Federation leaders are known to be licking their chops at the prospect.

Meanwhile, negotiations for renewal of the United Mine Workers' contract with the soft coal operators drift along inconclusively. The old contract expired officially on April 1st, but there is no sign yet of either a new agreement or a strike. Lewis is demanding higher wages, vacations with pay, etc., but insiders say he is much too realistic to believe seriously that he can win such concessions. They figure he is simply using these demands as a bargaining point in the hope of averting a wage reduction. He's in a hole—and he knows it.

REACTION. The Tennessee Valley Authority is asking congress for power to sell $100,000,000 in bonds direct to the public in order to finance its purchase of private power properties. There will probably be quite an argument on Capitol Hill before this proposition is okayed.

The agency already has authority to issue its own bonds up to $50,000,000, which should be enough to cover its share of the purchase price of Tennessee Electric Power. But the amendment to the T.V.A. act that conveys this authority is loosely phrased and the agency's directors aim to take all possible precautions against a legal kickback.

They also have their eye on probable future acquisitions of private power properties in Alabama and Mississippi and perhaps even farther afield, although they aren't saying so publicly. That's where the argument will come in. Suspicious Republicans and conservative Democrats will object to authorizing additional financial latitude for "socialistic experiments." The outcome of this battle should shed significant light on the general congressional reaction towards government competition with private enterprise.

BARTER. Our German competitors have beaten us to the punch again in South America. Argentina was in the market for Diesel locomotives and cars for its railroads. American and German companies submitted bids. The American concern was eager for the business and insiders have definite information that its figure was well under that of its German rival, despite the latter's export subsidy advantage.

But the Germans landed the order. Why? Because the German government arranged to take Argentine wheat and wool in payment for the engines and cars.

Argentina is very anxious to dispose of her surplus in these commodities. She cannot sell them in the U. S., so trades with a country that will accept them. The deal was another victory for the barter principle.

SCALP. New York developments will soon make it clear that the Democrats aren't the only party harassed by internal dissension.

Conservative G.O.P. elements are gunning for the scalp of Kenneth F. Simpson, both as national committeeman and as New York county chairman, and they mean business. The showdown will come in the September primaries. Efforts have already begun to form an effective anti-Simpson coalition between New York City right-wingers and up-state leaders.

If Simpson's enemies do succeed in ousting him, it will be a serious blow to "liberalism" in the National Republican setup.

GAG. A New Yorker who spent December in Bavaria brings back a story which indicates that some Germans still have spunk enough to kid their Nazi overlords.

It was a favorite gag among the Bavarians that what they wanted for Christmas was a goose "as brown as Hitler's shirt, as fat as Goering and as plucked as the German people."—Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

CHANGING TASTES

Chett grew up in friendship with two boys who lived near him. They shared in most things and seemed to enjoy each other's company. They started together in high school just as they had in elementary and junior schools. They walked or rode to school a close group of three.

A new boy came to school and at once a friendship sprang up between him and Chett to the exclusion of the two older friends. Chett no longer waited for them in the morning, but started off ahead to meet his new chum at his corner. He seemed to forget the old association completely, greatly to the bewilderment of his two former inseparables. A coolness took the place of the old warmth, and the feeling spread to the families. Chett's father and mother felt bad about it, but there seemed to be little they could do. "After all," said his father, "it is his affair. If he wants to drop his friends it is up to him."

"But it puts him in such a bad light," Chett's mother replied. "These boys have been his friends and he drops them overnight. He can't be allowed to do that."

"But he has done it. You can't alter that. The most, and about the worst, you can do is to tell him what you think about it. He won't agree with you and you will succeed in making a bad matter worse. If you ask me, I'll say, 'Let him alone and see what happens.'"

There is not very much else one can do. Parents cannot force friends upon their children, nor can they maintain their children's loyalties. They can keep on good terms with the discarded friends, if they are allowed to do so, and wait for the thing to right itself or not.

Children grow up. That means that they are not the same people they were yesterday. Their attitudes have changed, their tastes and their preferences are not those of the other day. Perhaps they will change again before night. Certainly they will if their growth changes them, which it is likely to do.

There is nothing alarming about this phase of adolescence. It would be serious indeed if the children did not change. In the changing they may lose some charming qualities, and they may achieve some quite as delightful. They cause grief by their changing ways, but they also bring happiness. We may regret the passing of some childish trait, but we welcome the birth of a more mature and a more lasting strength in its place.

The dolls in the attic, the battered red wagon taking on cobwebs in the cellar, are milestones of growth. And so are the changes in the children's tastes, manners, friends and acquaintances. The best thing to do is to accept them gracefully for the most part and be as little critical of them as possible.

Adolescents resent personal criticism. They know that they are leaving themselves wide open to it, but that does not make them feel any more comfortable when it is directed upon them. When they are heading into danger it is time to speak and mean it. Otherwise, accept their changing ways as a matter of course and try not to feel hurt by them.

Mr. Patri has prepared a special booklet (No. 301) entitled, "Obedience," in which he tells parents how to cope with the difficult problems of disobedience. Send for it, enclosing ten cents. BOARD CONSIDERS ADVERTISING TAX

Commission Discusses Cancellation of Crops Levy Penalties

BOISE, April 3 (AP) — In day-long discussions members of the Idaho fruit and vegetable advertising commission failed today to determine whether they would recommend cancellation of penalties on taxes delinquent under the 1937 law.

The law, which expires July 1, 1939, imposed a 1-cent-per-hundredweight tax on apples, prunes, onions and potatoes marketed in Idaho.

It will be succeeded by a new act, passed by the recent legislature, which levied a one-half cent per hundredweight tax on onions and potatoes only.

During litigation over the 1937 act some persons deferred payment of the tax and that now is delinquent.

Commissioner of Agriculture E. N. Pettygrove, who is chairman of the commission, said the group probably would be prepared to turn over its duties to the new commission created by the 1939 act in May.

"We plan on having growers meetings early in May when recommendations will be made for the new potato and onion commission which will be appointed by the governor," Pettygrove said.

GOVERNOR CHARTS CITIZEN TRAINING

Idaho Parent-Teacher Congress Opens Boise Sessions

BOISE, April 3 (AP)—Idaho's chief executive told the state's parents and teachers today that citizenship was "something to be instilled and nurtured; not something to be expected."

"You and I have the best material in the world to use in constructing a good foundation of citizenship," said Governor C. A. Bottolfsen, principal speaker at the opening day's session of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"We have boys and girls in our public schools, ready and waiting what instruction the state provides. If we let the opportunity for building fine citizens go by, we are guilty of the most gross neglect.

Greater Duty

"Far too often we recognize the state only as the governing unit.

"The state has a much greater duty than merely governing; it has the duty of governing wisely and attempting to guide as well as regulate."

He suggested the state could accomplish the fulfillment of its educational responsibility for citizenship in these three general ways:

"1. Provide an extensive curricula of civics, sociology, social science, arts and training in the history of our country.

"2. Give to the student through an applied study of current events a greater conception of the demands which will be made upon him when he achieves maturity in the affairs of the nation.

"3. Train the student in the ways of self-help and guide him so that his efforts toward self-help are constructively used."

Representing the national organization was Mrs. John E. Hayes of Twin Falls, first national vice-president.

Mrs. J. K. Pettengill of Detroit, national president, was listed on the convention program but failed to arrive in time for her scheduled address at the evening banquet session.

Discussion of P. T. A. problems made up most of the day's session presided over by Mrs. R. L. Brainard of Wardner, state president.

Student Loans

Announcement was made of the granting of $50 student loans to Marie Bittleston of Coeur d'Alene, a student at Northwest Nazarene college at Nampa, and Florence McConnell of Jerome, a student at Albion Normal school.

Mrs. I. E. Joslyn of Twin Falls, state chairman of the project, announced the awards. She was aided in her selection by John E. Walsh, Nampa public school superintendent; Glenn Todd, Lewiston public school superintendent, and Dr. R. H. Snyder, president of Albion Normal school.

Mrs. S. D. Hays of Boise was chosen president of the local Presidents' club, an auxiliary to the state association which was organized today.

Mrs. L. M. Griffith of Coeur d'Alene was named secretary.

The club is composed of presidents of local P. T. A. groups throughout the state. Problems will be discussed at a second meeting of the club tomorrow evening, Mrs. Hays said.

The convention will close Wednesday.

There will be no election of officers, incumbents having been chosen for two-year terms at the 1938 convention at Twin Falls.

STRIKERS HELD LIABLE TO PAY

Court Assesses $237,310 Damage Bill Against Hosiery Workers

PHILADELPHIA, April 3 (AP)—A verdict of $237,310 was returned in federal court today in favor of the Apex Hosiery company in its suit to collect damages from a union for a sit-down strike in 1937.

Branch 1, the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, and its president, William Leader, were held jointly responsible. Others named by the Apex company in its suit were not mentioned in the verdict.

Judge William H. Kirkpatrick of U. S. district court ruled that the damage verdict must be trebled under the Sherman anti-trust act.

The judge had directed the jury to decide whether the CIO union authorized a 48-day sitdown strike at the big Philadelphia plant and whether, if the union "did certain things in violation of the law," they were done with an intent to restrain interstate commerce.

The company originally claimed damages of $1,171,957 and asked triple that amount.

Counsel for the CIO union said immediately the verdict would be appealed.

PARISH PICKETS RELEASE PRIEST

Protest Against Bishop's Transfer Order Yields to Litigation

VULCAN, Mich., April 3 (AP)—Parishoners who had "imprisoned" the Rev. Simon Borkowski in the rectory of St. Barbara's Catholic church here since last Aug. 16 decided today to withdraw picket lines rather than contest eviction proceedings.

The picketing parishoners will release the beleaguered priest April 18, Attorney Ray Derham reported after a conference with an attorney representing Bishop Joseph Plagens of the Marquette diocese.

Bishop Plagens, who had contended that Father Borkowski was a voluntary prisoner, agreed to the removal date, Derham said, and promised not to interfere with the priest's "assignment or progress in any other diocese."

Father Borkowski and 35 of the parishoners who guarded the rectory during the 34-week "imprisonment"—once resisting a forcible attempt to remove the pastor — had been ordered to appear in the Marquette county court tomorrow on an action instigated by the bishop to show cause why the property should not be evacuated.

No masses have been said in the church since Aug. 15, when the parishoners began picketing in protest against an order transferring Father Borkowski to Jordan college at Menominee, Mich.

TREASURY SELLS NOTES

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—The treasury announced tonight its weekly sale of $100,000,000 worth of 91-day bills brought an average price of $99.990 per $100 unit, compared with an average of more than $99.990 in recent weeks. Today's price was equivalent to borrowing money at .010 per cent.

Gandhi Wins New Gain for Reform

NEW DELHI, India, April 3 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi won another victory in his campaign for Indian constitutional reform today by a decision which gave official approval to the demands he had made in a hunger strike against the ruler of Rajkot state.

Sir Maurice Gwyer, chief justice of India, ruled that the Thakore Saheb of Rajkot must appoint as advisers on democratic reform any candidates recommended by Villabhai Patel, leader of Gandhi's national congress party.

Argentine Probe Worries Germans

BUENOS AIRES, April 3 (AP)—The government inquiry into Nazism in Argentina caused growing anxiety today among German merchants who feared an anti-Nazi wave now would halt abruptly their drive to replace the United States as the nation's second largest trader.

One merchant said that if it was proved German officials participated in a purported Nazi movement for colonization or annexation of Argentina's Patagonia, it likely would "retard our commercial gains here by a dozen years."

Torrio, on Trial for Tax Evasion, Rated Boss Rum-Runner

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP) — A British-born undercover agent for the United States government today pictured little Johnny Torrio, who is on trial for income tax evasion, as a powerful and subtly influential boss rum-runner during the prohibition era.

The witness, Thomas W. Murray, put Torrio high in the old coastal liquor oligarchy in the course of giving excerpts from a strange and colorful story of his own experiences as an agent of espionage. As he spoke, giving incompleted pictures of past mysteries, his face was set in a slightly amused expression.

Summed up, he said he had become a radio operator for a rum syndicate partly because he wanted to "write a book about it"; that this job was concurrent with his work in a private detective agency; that he remained in the liquor conspiracy "with the consent of the United States government"; that his subsequent activities had included nominal participation in a plot to smuggle arms to Honduras, while his actual motive was to break up that scheme, and a spell in a Mexican jail where the officials were so friendly "the only time the door was locked was when I was out."

His most direct testimony against Torrio, who is accused by the government of having evaded some $86,000 in income taxes for the years 1933-34-35, concerned the coast guard's seizure in 1931 of a rum-runner called the Josephine K, with 2,500 cases of Newfoundland liquor aboard.

At that time, said Murray, he was wireless operator for the syndicate controlling the Joseph K. when she fell into the coast guard's hands. Murray added, he went at 2 o'clock in the morning to the syndicate's suite in a Newark, N. J., hotel, and found Torrio there.

One Louie Silver, described by Murray as purchasing agent of the syndicate, announced what had happened, and, said the witness, Torrio directed that "certain people" be telephoned.

"These "certain people" were not identified, but in any case, Murray testified, the Josephine K shortly was returned to the syndicate under bond and put back into use until the end of prohibition.

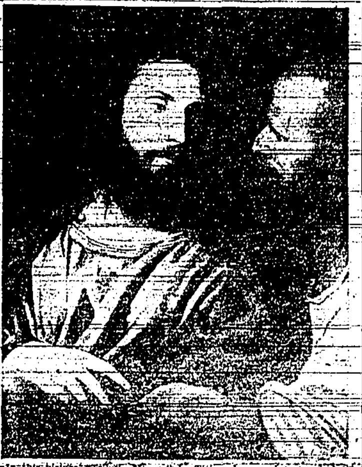
JESUS OUTWITS PRIESTS' DEFIANCE OF AUTHORITY



In this picture, "Tribute Money," by Titian, Jesus points to a coin as he tells the priests to pay Caesar what belongs to him.

The dramatic story of events leading up to the first Easter is here retold from the Gospels by Frederick C. Grant, D.D., Professor of Biblical Theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York. The reference at the end is to a Gospel account.

By FREDERICK C. GRANT, D.D.
Written for The AP Feature Service

It was just before Passover when Jesus and his followers came up to Jerusalem. That is, it was spring, perhaps early in April.

The day of the festival was to be the next following the full moon in the month of Nisan.

Night by night, as the moon grew rounder and brighter, the pilgrims camped out on the hillsides surrounding Jerusalem. They had come from all over Palestine to keep the feast.

Jesus and his disciples spent their nights at Bethany, a village just to the east. Each morning they rose and went into the city; and here Jesus spent his time teaching in the temple-court, the area surrounding the shrine itself.

At once he was challenged by the official teachers. They said:

"By what authority doest thou these things?" "Who gave you authority to do them?"

And Jesus replied: "Tell me this, was John the Baptist sent by God or not? What was his authority?"

They saw at once they were cornered by his question. If they replied, "Yes, God sent him," then Jesus would ask, "Why then did you not recieve him, and be baptized by him?" And they dared not answer "No," for all the people standing around knew that John was a prophet, and would probably lay hands on them for denying it.

And so they replied, sheepishly, "We do not know."

And Jesus retorted, "Then I will not tell you what my authority is, either!"

Another trap they set for him was the question of tribute to Caesar; should Jews, whose only allegiance was to the God of their fathers, pay a tax to the pagan empire?

Jesus asked for a coin and inquired:

"Whose picture and whose words are these, on the coin. Caesar's? Then pay Caesar what belongs to him; but pay to God what is His!"

And so they went away, marvelling at his skill in answering.

But the priests were implacable. They had made up their minds to get rid of this non-professional teacher of religion. If possible, they wanted to do it before the feast, to avoid a riot.

Then came Judas' betrayal. He was one of the 12 disciples of Jesus, but for a consideration ("thirty pieces of silver"; less than $25, but a laborer's wage for four months) he offered to hand over his master to the priests. The time was set. He knew where Jesus would be on a certain night. If the priests would supply even a handful of men, he would lead them.

Had he lost faith in Jesus? Or did he expect Jesus to assert himself, under threat of danger, and set up his kingdom at once?

Judas hanged himself a few days later without explaining; but either way, to the high priests, his offer was a bit of luck, better than they could have hoped for!

Camp Em-Ar-El Plans May Day and Costume Parties

Outstanding business of camp Em-Ar-El of the Daughters of the Utah Pioneers at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Blanche Parker was the making of plans for another old-time costume dance to be held in the near future. Time has not been set. Also plans were made for a May Day party. Captain Edith Wells presided over the meeting which was attended by twenty members.

Guests of the club were two county officers: first vice-president, Mrs. Jennie Crowly; second vice-president, Mrs. Mary Richards; also Mrs. Lollie McDonald, Mrs. Katherine Poppy; Mrs. Macil Bailey, Mrs. Mabel Gibb and Mrs. Ruth Hoag.

Mrs. Delpha Bond gave the lesson on the "Graves Along the Pioneer Trail." Mrs. Grace Kilbourne gave Mrs. Martha Staley's grandparents' history and told of many interesting scenes that happened both across the waters and here.

The song, "Come, Come Ye Saints," which was composed to give encouragement to the saints, was sung by the group. Summer work was outlined.

Next meeting will be the May Day party with the Mary Lois camp joining. It will be held at Mrs. Laura Peck's home. This will be an old-time party.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Myra Barlow, Mrs. Lillian Willis, and Mrs. Jane Gardner and the hostess.

Delphians Read German Dramas

Zeta Pi chapter of the Delphians met for a meeting of study yesterday at the home of Mrs. Allyn Dingel. Mrs. L. M. Hall, vice-president, presided at the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. R. A. Sutcliff. Mrs. O. M. Tucker, program leader, took charge of the meeting following the business session.

Preliminary discussion on the "Comedy in Romance in the Modern German Drama," was led by Mrs. J. S. Diffendarfer.

"Hannele," German play written by Hauppmann, was reviewed by Mrs. C. D. Weaver. Mrs. H. A. Salisbury reviewed "Last Masks," written by Schnitzler. "The Green Cockatoo," also written by Schnitzler, was outlined by Mrs. H. A. Ball.

A paper written about the theater and dramatics by Mrs. Merrit Shotwell was read by Mrs. W. W. Thomas. Mrs. E. J. Step-ken presented a paper on the "Illustrations of Theatrical Technique."

Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Diffendarfer on Poplar avenue.

CHAPTER PLANS ARE OUTLINED

Delightful in its simplicity was the dessert luncheon at which Mrs. Kenyon Green presided when she entertained officers of Chapter AI, P.E.O. Sisterhood, yesterday afternoon at her home.

As president, Mrs. Green conducted the meeting which concerned outlining plans for the coming year. Officers present were Mrs. Miles Browning, Mrs. Charles Beymer, Mrs. F. F. McAtee, Mrs. T. C. Bacon, Mrs. E. M. Sweeley and Mrs. L. A. Bethel.

Forsythia color scheme featured in the attractively appointed luncheon.

SPRINGTIME MOTIF USED FOR PARTY

Mrs. Bell White, entertained Saturday evening at a smartly appointed seven o'clock dinner, assisted by Mrs. Grace Johnson.

Guests were seated at three quartet tables, attractive in springtime decoration. Following the dinner at which twelve guests were gathered contract was played.

Honors in cards went to Mrs. J. Paul Thoman and Mrs. Pat Patnott.

LUNCHEON GIVEN FALLS AVENUE MEMBERS

Members of the Falls Avenue club were entertained Friday afternoon at a two-course luncheon at the country home of Mrs. Ida Pearl.

Guests were seated at one long table attractively decorated with candles in crystal holders on either side of a tiered cake. A handsome lace cloth covered the table. Spring flowers were used for further decoration in the rooms.

In honor of her birthday the hostess, Mrs. Grey, was presented with a gift. A gift was also presented Mrs. W. O. Syster.

Following games and contests the afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. Melvin Eslinger, daughter of the hostess, was present.

MILITARY CEREMONY IS WEDDING FEATURE

First military wedding ever conducted by Company E, 116th engineers, Idaho national guard, was held Sunday when Miss Alice Kamrud, daughter of Mrs. Emma Kamrud, and Richard D. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Olson, were married in the Presbyterian church.

Military pomp and ceremony featured in the smartly arranged wedding, with participating guardsmen in company uniform, as was the bridegroom. Rev. G. L. Clark, pastor of the church, read the marriage service in the presence of fifty guests, including several officers of the company, their wives and women friends.

A smart spring blue afternoon dress was worn by the bride, who carried a bouquet of red rosebuds and sweet peas. She was given in marriage by Captain J. H. Seaver, jr.

Sergeant and Mrs. Winslow F. Potter were best man and matron of honor. Mrs. Potter wore an ashes of roses afternoon dress and a corsage of sweet peas.

Guard of honor for the couple were Sergeant Raymond Putzier, Sergeant Walter B. Swope, Sergeant George Kelly and Sergeant John Gentry.

Color bearers were Sergeant Ralph Ryan, who carried the guidon, and Sergeant James Keel, who carried the American flag.

Before a flower-banked altar with the Christian flag in the background, vows were exchanged.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson received the felicitations of their friends at an informal reception at the church following the ceremony.

Mr. Olson is associated with the Union Motor company, and the couple are at home at the Belleville apartments.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Twin Falls high school, and the bride received her education in the state of Washington.

Representing the company as guests at the wedding were Captain and Mrs. R. E. Leighton, Captain and Mrs. Seaver, Captain Elmer W. Jones and Miss Marie Bitzenburg, Lieutenant Ralph E. Leighton, jr., and Miss Faye Helsley of Kimberly, and Lieutenant Ben Mumpower.

Engagement is Announced at Clever Supper

Engagement of Miss Elaine Dudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dudley, to John D. Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stephens, was announced Saturday evening to a group of their friends at the Dudley home. The marriage will take place sometime in June.

Friends were entertained at a charmingly arranged dessert supper. Covers were marked with place cards in the shape of two hearts joined together in shades of delicate pink. In the form of poetry in the place cards was found the engagement announcement.

An exquisite lace cloth covered the table which was decorated in pink and green, centered with a bouquet of pink sweet peas. Dessert was served by candle light.

Following the supper, guests played games of pinochle and star checkers.

Guests were Miss Alice Beatty, Miss Wilma Bevercomb, Arthur Walker, Al Nye and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Klopenberg.

CRABTREE - ELSON NUPTIALS READ

In simple ceremony, Miss Lucretia Ann Elson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elson of Eden became the bride of Charles Crabtree of Twin Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crabtree of Idaho Falls, Sunday afternoon. The wedding took place at Ascension Episcopal church at five o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. James S. Butler, vicar, officiating.

Jay Spracher at the organ played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party took their places before the altar. Miss Maxine Merrill sang "I Promise You," accompanied by Mr. Spracher, who also played the recessional from Mendelssohn.

The bride's dress was a rose-pink crepe afternoon frock, with a real lace collar. Below the hem of the gown hung a flounce of the lace, and lace bandings outlined the puffed sleeves. Completing her ensemble the bride wore a white halo hat fashioned with a nose veil. Talisman roses trimmed the crossbands of the crown and her corsage was also of Talisman roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Claude Wilhite, wore a green crepe afternoon dress, with a halo hat of fuschia, and her corsage was Sunburst roses. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

James Fanning of Idaho Falls, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

Easter lilies and jonquils with fern decorated the church which was illuminated with candle light.

Following the marriage the bridal couple and their friends proceeded to the Elson home in Eden where a wedding supper and reception had been arranged. The bride cut and served a six-tiered wedding cake. Easter lilies and jonquils also formed the home decoration, bouquets of which were charmingly arranged on the lace cloth covering the supper table.

Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree are honeymooning in Sun Valley. After April thirteenth they will be at home at two hundred thirty-nine Fourth avenue east. Mr. Crabtree is production manager for the local radio broadcasting station.

Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree are former students of the University of Idaho, Southern Branch at Pocatello, and Mr. Crabtree also attended Northwestern university.

Guests from out-of-town in addition to the parents of the couple were Mrs. Cliff Packer and Mrs. Elizabeth Crabtree of Idaho Falls, aunt and grandmother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Fanning, also of Idaho Falls, brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Crabtree; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Elson of Gooding; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gunning of Jerome; Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Gunning of Buhl and a number of friends from Kimberly and Eden.

The bride wore a smart dressmaker suit of light blue wool; a top coat of darker blue and wine accessories for her going away outfit.

A. A. U. W. PLANS PUBLIC MEETING

John Milner will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the American Association of University Women Saturday at the Idaho Power company auditorium at two o'clock in the afternoon.

His topic will be "Delinquincy." Other speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. Joseph Marshall who will discuss "Cancer Control."

There will be a short business meeting and no refreshments. The public is invited.

YELLOW, WHITE COLORS PREVAIL IN MOTIF

Young Joy Aloha Phillips was hostess at a party in honor of her tenth birthday yesterday. Games and contests were the diversion of the day and prizes were won by Yvonne McBride, Geraldine McDonald, Phyllis Peterson, and Neva Green.

Many attractive presents were presented the honoree and much laughter and fun prevailed during the opening of these packages.

At the refreshment hour the colors of yellow and white were used. A lace cloth covered the table and yellow and white birthday cake was the centerpiece, decorated in the chosen colors. On either side of the cake were designs of a low bowl of tulips.

Guests were Bonnie Jean Tullock, Ann McMilan, Kathlyn Robertson, Marilyn Jensen, Emma Lou Luke, Charlene Berger, Donna Hewlett and Joan Swenson.

Ruby and Beth Phillips, sisters of the honoree, assisted in the serving.

Fatal Accident at Boise Unavoidable

BOISE, April 3 (AP)—A coroner's jury termed today an "unavoidable auto accident" the fatal injuring of William P. Hathaway, 59, of Seattle, Wash.

Coroner Clyde Summers said Hathaway, who had been under treatment at the United States Veterans' hospital here, was struck at a street intersection Saturday night by an automobile driven by Mrs. Ellen M. Richardson of Cottonwood.

Hens inherit the trait of cackling after laying an egg from their wild ancestors. Jungle fowl, after taking time out to lay an egg, cackled to signal their whereabouts to the wandering flock.

Hats Keep Touch of Spring But Dizzy Angles Are Gone

VEILING DOES more than film faces this spring. Here, in pink and dark blue, it makes a crownless Paris turban and ties which are drawn under the chin.

BONNETS ARE BACK. Sally Victor makes this lace-trimmed one inspired by the bonnet great-grandmother wore in the days of the Civil war. A snood holds the hair in the back.

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

Your husband had a lot to do with the design of your new Easter bonnet.

What he and a million others said about your winter hat and what you and the rest of the wives repeated in your milliner's burning ears caused designers to give a thought to the mere male when they made this spring's chapeaux.

As a result those dizzy angles that so disturb the masculine peace of mind are gone. So is that nonsense about "whimsy." This spring's hats look like hats.

An Eye For Color

Moreover, most of them are designed to fit your head and stay there. To be sure, the smartest are designed with a little swing. Some of them ride forward on your forehead—in the best Schiaparellian manner, while the bonnets sit well back on the head. But that flighty I'll-be-off-any-minute-now look is gone—and husbands are largely responsible.

The return of a sane look is not the only influence men have had on Easter chapeaux. In a season when such old-fashioned terms as "quaintness," "gentleness" and "womanliness" are fashion watchwords, designers seem to have kept an eye on men's liking for color, brims, shapes that conform to the head, plus a little intriguing seasoning by way of flowers, ribbons and veils.

There rarely has been a season when color was more widely used. Blues (navy and violet tinged), greens, sun and toast shades color hundreds of bodies and even the dark chapeaux are splashed with a feminine exclamation point of color in wings, flowers, ribbons or veils.

Most of the hats have brims. There are thousands of sailors, bretons with uprolling brims and shaped hats that tilt over the forehead. Their crowns are often high, varying from a two-inch bicycle sailor crown to a towering Puritan effect. The bonnet great-grandmother wore is back in great numbers, trimmed with a frill or a cluster of flowers and tied demurely under the chin. There also are a number of brimless toques and turbans, generally flower-trimmed.

There is news in the fabrics that make the 1939 hats. "Glass straws" (semi-transparent plastics), straw lace, two toned hairy plaited straws and straws with paillettes sewn into them are among the novelties. Veilings and other sheer fabrics make a number of intriguing hats and polka-dotted, plaid and checked cravat silks fashion smart new tailored chapeaux. There are also many rough and braid straws.

Thousands of Flowers

Trims add a last note of color. Thousands of flowers bloom on the spring chapeaux, clustering in front of tall crowns, tucked under bonnet brims and covering cocktail hats. Gay-colored wings (unusually large this year) and ribbons (plaided and polka-dotted as well as plain) are also here. Among the most interesting hat notes of 1939 are lingerie trims and brims of starched white lace which echo similar accents on demure spring frocks.

Last of all come the veils. They are drawn smoothly over faces, tied in big bows or wrapped about heads and hats in a colorful flattering mist which should generally please husbands and bring a salvo of male applause.

Military Rites for Norman MacLeod

Military rites were accorded Norman MacLeod, sheepman on the Twin Falls tract for 19 years, who died Wednesday, at funeral services conducted at the chapel of the White mortuary Sunday.

Mr. MacLeod received an honorable discharge from the Canadian army in 1920 after serving for four and one-half years in France. He attained the rank of lieutenant in the infantry.

Rev. G. L. Clark of the Presbyterian church was in charge of rites. Wilton Peck sang "Crossing the Bar" and John Nesbit of Rupert sang "My Buddy."

A firing squad from Company E of the 116th engineers took part in committal rites at Twin Falls cemetery.

Pallbearers were John B. MacKay, Duncan MacRae, Murdo Campbell, William MacLeod, Charles Steward and Harry Eaton.

Mr. MacLeod was born in Scotland January 23, 1895. In 1913 he went to Canada, joining the army one year later to spend four and one-half years in France. He took part in many frontline engagements.

In 1920 he came to the United States and joined a brother, Alexander MacLeod, in the sheep business on the Twin Falls tract. His brother died in 1928.

Mr. McLeod visited Scotland in 1929.

He moved to Rupert in 1935 and a year later married Miss Alta Richardson of Declo.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Alta MacLeod; his mother, Mrs. Helen MacLeod and a brother, Duncan MacLeod, both living in Scotland, and a sister, Miss Flora MacLeod, of Bradford, England.

Students Visit—Miss Jean Enger, student at the University of Idaho at Moscow is the house guest of Miss Jean Olmstead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Olmstead, during spring vacation. Miss Enger, Miss Olmstead and Miss Helen Bond who will be the holiday guest of Mrs. A. C. Victor, her mother, arrived Saturday from Moscow where all are students.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS MAJOR MEASURES

Army Aid Defense, Government Reorganization Bills Approved

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 3 (AP) President Roosevelt signed tonight the $358,000,000 emergency army air defense bill and the government reorganization measure.

They were the only two important bills approved by congress which were sent to him here for action. He had 10 days to act, but affixed his signature to both long before that time was up.

The rearmament authorizes most of the money for an increase to 6,000 in army plane strength. The army now has around 2,000 fighting planes.

Earlier the president had approved a loan up to $18,000,000 by the Commodity Credit corporation to bolster prices for southeastern naval stores producers.

Defense Program

The army measure, first step in a supplemental defense program calling for a total of $552,000,000, does not appropriate any funds, but measures are pending to provide a portion of the money.

The navy part of the authorization legislation also is pending. Of the $358,000,000 authorization, $300,000,000 will go to the army air corps. A total of $23,750,000 is for bolstering Panama Canal defenses, while $34,500,000 will be used for orders of war materials to "educate" American industry in their production.

The government reorganization bill, modified product of a long and heated controversy in congress, empowers the president, with some exceptions, to merge and shift federal bureaus and commissions subject to a veto by both houses of congress. If reorganization orders are not disapproved by both houses in 60 days they automatically take effect.

The bill also gives the president six new executive assistants at $10,000 a year. It was not disclosed whether he planned any reorganization orders at present or whether he would name any of the new White House aides in the early future.

In Line for Posts

Among a long list of names speculated in recent months for the jobs, calling for men with a "passion for anonymity," are:

Thomas G. Corcoran, young RFC attorney and presidential legal and political consultant; Benjamin Cohen, a public works attorney and Corcoran's associate; William D. Hassett, acting White House secretary in charge of the temporary White House here; Rudolph Forster, veteran White House executive clerk; Edward J. Foley, jr., acting general counsel of the treasury, and James Rowe of Butte, Mont., an assistant to Brigadier General Edwin M. Watson, new Roosevelt secretary.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

STUDENT TELLS OF CLOSE CALL

Two Young Women, Three Men Escape When Car Plunges Into River

"Boy, this is one spring vacation that I'm really happy to be at home," exclaimed Dave Fix, University of Idaho student from Twin Falls yesterday.

Fix was one of five students homeward bound for a brief vacation who credited the fact that they escaped serious injury when their automobile plunged into the swollen Payette river 30 miles northeast of Boise to the fact their car was an open sports roadster.

The accident occurred at about 10:15 Saturday when Hicks, the driver, failed to make a turn and the car hurdled over a 30 foot embankment, L. H. Jackson, Boise, state highway patrolman previously announced.

"Although some reports said we fell out of the car before it struck the water, we all actually landed in the river," Fix recalled.

Hillard Hicks of Sun Valley received a broken hip and is in a Boise hospital but Fix and Miss Lorraine Jensen of Twin Falls, Miss Evelyn Heist of Shoshone and Warren Tegan of Filer escaped serious injury.

Under Rumble Seat

"Tegen and I were in the rumble seat," Fix said. "I saw we were going off the road so we both ducked low in the seat. The first bump closed the rumble seat on top of us.

"The car landed on a rock in the river. Tegan and I kicked the door to the rumble seat open and fell into the river.

"Water was up to our necks but we finally got to shore.

"We all got out of the water but Evelyn (Heist). We saw her going down stream over rapids that made the water white.

"It didn't seem like much use to go after her. We thought she'd drown. But we went downstream calling her name. She answered about 200 yards down stream. I don't know how she managed to get out.

"All of us lost every bit of luggage and equipment we were bringing home. I lost a pair of skis. Miss Heist lost her handbag which contained $70."

"Hicks was one of the first ones to be thrown from the car. I think he broke his hip when he fell on the rocks at the edge of the river just before rolling into the water.

"When people learned we were in a Boise hospital a continuous string of telephone calls started asking who was in the wreck and who was killed.

"Lots of parents were expecting their children home for spring vacation and were pretty worried that they were in the wreck.

"When they learned the nature of the wreck they took it for granted someone was killed.

"We were sure lucky," Fix concluded.

Coral islands are not solid coral, but rock-formed mountains coated with coral. Most corals cannot grow at great depths, which makes it practically impossible for a coral island to build up from excessive depths.

COUNCIL AWAITS VOTING RESULTS

Monthly Reports Received at Brief Aldermanic Session

Twin Falls city council approved routine reports, paid outstanding bills and salaries for March, approved the taxicab ordinance on second reading and then recessed the session last night until Friday when results of today's city election balloting will be canvassed.

Reports approved at the meeting included that of Charles E. Rowcliffe, city weighmaster, who listed collections of $81.30; Fire Chief Fred Perry, who said 10 alarms were answered during the month, schools fire drills were conducted and routine inspections made, and F. J. Healy, plumbing inspector, who listed $91 in collections, 120 inspections and seven condemnations.

J. G. Sloan, city electrical inspector, reported collections of $22.50, 15 electrical inspections and two condemnations. His report was co-signed by W. Clay Smith.

Accused Man Hold On Forgery Charge

Accused in a felony charge of passing a forged check, Conrad Honstein was held to answer in the district court following a preliminary hearing before Judge C. A. Bailey in probate court in Twin Falls yesterday.

No evidence was offered in behalf of the accused man who was represented at the preliminary hearing by Earl Walker, Twin Falls attorney.

The complaint asserts Honstein passed a forged $17.40 check at a local department store last March 29. The check was made payable to Conrad Honstein and bore the signature of Newton Galley as payor.

In support of the accusation, Prosecuting Attorney E. M. Sweeley introduced testimony of four witnesses, two department store employes, a bank employe and the arresting police officer.

Honstein was admitted to $250 bond, which was not furnished.

ATTORNEY SCANS CITY CAMPAIGN

Attack on War Veteran Member of Council Brings Sweeping Reply

Harry Benoit, Twin Falls city attorney, in a radio address last night answered persons sponsoring a campaign of "dirty politics" against Carl E. Ritchey, who is seeking reelection as a Twin Falls councilman in today's city election.

The attorney referred to signs printed on heavy drawing paper with crayons, that charged Ritchey with "stealing $10,000 from the government." Such cards were nailed in conspicuous places last week.

Other Side of Story

Following is the first full account of the other side of the question as given by Benoit during a talk endorsing Lionel A. Dean and Ritchey for council positions.

"This campaign has been a pleasant one with some few exceptions. It is with some reluctance that I make mention of the fact that a dirty, vituperous, personal attack has been made upon Carl Ritchey.

"I would not attribute this to any candidate, but, nevertheless, it has been done by workers for some of the candidates. Posters have been put up in different parts of the city of Twin Falls containing statements that Ritchey stole money from the U. S. government.

"Because of the publicity that this has received both through the press and from talk about town, it is no more than fair that I make an explanation of what is meant by those statements.

"I know that they have reference to the fact that Carl Ritchey has received payment from the government because he has a veteran's service connected total and permanent disability.

"He is a World war disabled veteran and I personally know that he has a serious total and permanent physical disability, about which I shall not go into detail, that is directly connected and attributed to his service in France in 1918. And I know that the money referred to in these vile statements is the money that was paid to him on his government war risk insurance policy that he bought and paid for.

War Risk Policies

"During the war the government issued policies of this kind to all of us who were in the service and each month held out of our $30 pay an amount sufficient to pay the premiums. Many of us are still paying our premiums and carrying this insurance. These insurance policies provided for payments in the event of total and permanent disability just as insurance policies of any insurance company.

"The government under that contract of insurance paid Richey just what he was entitled to and no more.

"As a World war veteran myself and as a citizen of the city of Twin Falls, I resent this dirty low-down, contemptible inference and insinuation, and which resentment I am satisfied is shared by the real, fair-minded people of Twin Falls," Benoit concluded.

Survey Slated Of Credit Needs

WASHINGTON, April 3 (U.P.)—The securities commission announced tonight a nation-wide survey of the credit needs of small business men.

Commissioner Jerome N. Frank told reporters the survey would be made on behalf of the monopoly investigating committee and in cooperation with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Saying that it would take at least eight weeks to gather the basic material of the study and considerably longer to complete it, Frank indicated the conclusions would not be ready for action at the present session of congress.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, he explained, would make studies in each of the 561 cities in which it has chapters, and the SEC would make special surveys in more than a dozen cities.

In addition, Dun and Bradstreet business statistical firm, has agreed to place its files at the disposal of investigators.

7,074 LICENSES SOLD IN COUNTY

Distribution of Automobile Plates Shows Big Gain Over Last Year

A total of 7,074 sets of 1939 license plates for passenger automobiles has been sold in Twin Falls county to date, officials at the assessor's office announced yesterday.

This includes 5,756 sold at the Twin Falls office until 5 p. m. yesterday and 1,318 sold in Buhl at the close of business Saturday evening.

One year ago yesterday 2,350 sets of 1938 plates for passengers cars had been sold in Twin Falls and 526 in Buhl.

Statistics on license plates sales for various types of vehicles with 1939 sales first followed by 1938 sales follow:

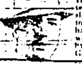
Twin Falls central office—passenger cars, 5,756 this year; 2,350 in 1938; farm trucks, 488—184; private trucks, 569—218; commercial licenses, 62—21.

Buhl branch office — passenger cars, 1,318—526; private trucks, 58—25; farm trucks, 182—53; commercial licenses, 18—5.

Veterans Group To Name Leaders

Twin Falls post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is to elect officers for the coming year at a meeting to be held in probate court rooms at 8 o'clock Thursday evening next, A. W. McConnel, post commander, announced last evening.

DO YOU NEED PEP?



Tacoma, Wash.—Edmund Wright, 1834 E. Harrison St., said: "After an illness I couldn't sleep very well and had to force myself to eat. I had lost a great bit of weight and felt pretty bad. I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a tonic and soon my appetite increased and I gradually felt my old pep returning." Buy it in liquid or tablets at any drug store.

Tribute at Rites For Early Settler

Pioneer friends from all sections of Twin Falls county joined relatives of Hans B. Johnson, prominent business man and land owner in the early development of the Twin Falls tract, who died March 29 in Long Beach, at funeral services held at the White mortuary chapel yesterday afternoon.

Rev. E. L. White of the Methodist church was in charge of the impressive final rites.

Wilton Peck sang "Holy City" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Pallbearers were Robert Benson, Frank H. Stapley, H. P. Barger, T. J. Foster, George M. Bice and David C. Robertson.

Burial was in Twin Falls cemetery.

Attending the services were a son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Johnson of Salt Lake City, and their son, Douglas; an only daughter, Mrs. Guy Miller of Twin Falls, Mr. Miller and their daughter, Joyce Miller, and the widow.

The average normal person has from 15 to 20 different sleeping positions and changes these positions about 35 times a night to allow various muscles of the body to relax and rest.

Saturday and Monday Freight Brings Values

Three big shipments of Gold Seal Rugs, Congoleum and Inlaid Linoleums arrived at Sweet's over the week-end making a more than ever complete stock of floor coverings at this popular furniture store. New patterns are outstanding this year in these brands—so popular in fact, that reorders are made from this store every week in the year. Their popularity is heightened by the fact that they are sold at $1 down and 50c per week at Sweet's. No carrying charge is made—making these quality floor coverings an unbeatable value.

Watch for announcements of other new arrivals at Sweet's in this ad each day.

Shrine Club Holds Banquet at Buhl

BUHL, April 3—South Central Idaho Shrine club conferred the gobbler degree upon a class of candidates at a banquet session here this evening.

In attendance were some 75 Shriners including officials of El Korah temple at Boise.

Vice president of the club, Harry Barry of Buhl, presided and introduced a number of speakers including George L. Flehartly, potentate; L. P. Marden, recorder, and B. J. Hetherington, director of El Korah temple; Ed Dufford of Pocatello; Virgil Laird and Charles Russell of Twin Falls and Ed Gooding.

A program of entertainment included vocal solos by Jake Jacobson with accompaniment by Merle Nefzger; selections by a quartet composed of Jake Jacobson; L. H. Van Riper, Merle Nefzger and L. J. Johnson; tap dances by Miss Barbara Butler and Miss Phyllis Pickrell with accompaniment by Miss Jackie Davis.

The banquet was served in the Odd Fellows hall by women of the Rebekah lodge.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters
Asey Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth.
Sara Leach, power behind the throne, in Billingsgate.

Yesterday: Sara has information for Asey.

Chapter Four

Past Events

Asey nodded slowly. "This grandstand sawin'—is that news to you? Well, it didn't amount to a row of pins. Them fellers don't know a saw from a nail, an' they might well have used half-sawed boards. On the other hand, maybe not. But when you get to the key stealin,' an' shotgun stealin,' an' someone poppin' at Weston with both barrels of a shotgun, that sort of r'moves it from the ha-ha boys-will-be-boys class, don't it?"

"When Jeff and I were popped at Saturday night," Sara snapped off two dead zinnias, "Jeff decided it was someone shooting skunks. Brinley laid his to boys, or muskrat shooters, I can't imagine why."

"Wes, he thought of raccoons," Asey said. "Then he took to broodin', an' called me. Know any more? Neither do I. An' my only guess was Weesit, an' that petered out. I find the town of Weesit ain't a bit jealous, it's singing like a lark over the tourist trade that's spilled their way."

"All profit and no output," Sara said. "I know. My guess petered, too. It wasn't much of a guess, more of a vague wondering. I thought of Slade, the artist—"

"The communist that started the relief rumpus a year ago? All silly? But say, Sara, I'm sure I saw his name on the Welcomin' Committee. That's why —"

"He's a welcomer, with white flannels and a blue coat, and a haircut." A smile played around Aunt Sara's mouth. "He's subsided since I had Jeff make him permanent head of the Planning Board, on a salary. He's a little flighty on sewage, but sound on housing. I rather think he'll die a conservative."

"Givin' him an outlet, huh?" Asey suggested.

'Very Conspicuous'

"In a way, but I always rather liked the fellow. He has so much spirit, it seemed a pity to waste it. I've had him made the town art committee, too. Did you notice our new painting and decorations?"

"All I noticed," Asey said, "was the Women's Club Parlor. If he did that—"

"He didn't. That was our Mrs. Brinley. We had to toss her a sop. Anyway, I didn't think anything about Slade, under the circumstances, but I wondered if some of our artist colony, or some of the workmen imported for the county power plant, might have been at work. I called Slade over here Sunday, and talked with him."

"What did he have to say?"

"At first he was so mad he couldn't talk," Sara said, "and then he got so mad he couldn't stop talking. Finally he sat down and made a list of all the mental and moral incompetents we both could think of, and then he investigated."

Asey wanted to know why.

"It was quite simple. All the shootings happened on Saturday night, between eight-fifteen and eight-forty-five. Practically everyone on the list was either seeing Greta Garbo at the movies, or fire fighting at one of the bluff cottages. Slade accounted for the rest. He simply stormed about it. So did Zeb Chase—Zeb's living with us this summer. He—Asey, I hear the car coming up the lane, so I've got to talk fast. Don't let Jeff know. He's got enough to worry him. Whatever's going on we've got to stop. Somehow."

"Wes's made me police head, or somethin'," Asey said. "Honorary, for the week."

"Fine. I needn't have bothered about your car if I'd known that. Asey, tonight you stroll uptown and make yourself very conspicuous. Let everyone know who you are, and that you're spending the week here, and perhaps—"

"You mean, put on the act?"

"Exactly." Sara gathered up her flowers and started toward the house. "I know you don't want to, but if this is just boys being boys, your presence will put a stop to it. If it's serious, things won't stop. I suppose," she added, "you're quite accustomed to being shot at?"

'Portrait of a Statesman'

Asey grinned. "While we're on the subject, Sara, just you stick to crowds for a while, will you, until we get somethin' ironed out? An' don't roam around by yourself, or putter out here in your garden—"

"Oh, I'm armed," Sara told him. "I've a nice cloverleaf Colt under the flowers in that basket you're so gallantly carrying. I've had it since the year Jim Fisk was shot with one just like it. I feel very safe indeed."

Asey looked down at the erect white-haired figure beside him. "I s'pose you know how to use it?"

"Dear me, after all the years I spent traipsing around with father, you ask me things like that! I'm perfectly capable of taking care of myself—after eighty years, I find I'm getting awfully tenacious about life, anyway. Wait—Asey, please do be careful not to let him suspect things—"

She pointed to her husband, just getting out of his car by the front steps. Jeff, Asey thought, grew even more regal as the years passed. He always had looked like the Portrait of a Statesman, in McGuffey's Fourth Reader, and his side whiskers—Asey shook his head. You could only say about them that they resembled a gull in full flight.

"Who's the young feller in the grocer's apron?" Asey asked.

"With Jeff? Why, I told you. Zeb Chase."

"I thought you meant old Zeb, of course—what'n time's the son an' heir of Chase's Baked Beans doin' in that outfit? I always heard he was just ornamental."

"He came down this spring, to fish and it seems," Sara said, "that he got Business. Like getting religion. That's his story. I think myself that it's Jane Warren and not baked beans that spur him on. He's clerking at Matt's. No one expects it to last. Now mind, don't let Jeff suspect!"

Swinging his gold-knobbed cane, Jeff walked over to them. He was obviously delighted to see Asey, and he said as much.

"And you come right in," he concluded, "and stay for dinner."

"Dinner?" Asey said. "You got me for a week. I'm the official Wellfleet del'gation, or somethin'. Weston bullied me into comin' over an' bein' picturesque for the tourist trade. D'you mind?"

"Mind? I wish I'd thought of it myself. Has he got you a badge? Well, I'll get one, and I'll see you have a place in the reviewing stand and banquet tickets, and all. Wait'll I put it on my list." He pulled a notebook out of his pocket.

Sara took Jeff by the arm and started toward the house.

NAZIS EXPLAIN HITLER SHIELD

Fuehrer Behind Glass to Deliver Speech When Wind Blows

BERLIN, April 3 (AP)—Wilhelmstrasse officials expressed amazement today at reports from the United States and Great Britain that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's standing behind a glass, described as bulletproof, Saturday in Wilhelmshaven had been given prominence and "unfavorable interpretation."

The official explanation follows: There was a strong breeze blowing at the naval port Saturday. Hence, both to prevent the notes from which Hitler spoke from blowing away and to guard against the possibility that he would catch cold, a curved glass shielding the speaker from three sides was placed on the speaker's stand.

This precaution, as every foreign observer who has lived in Germany for some time knows, has nothing to do with fear in high quarters that an attempt might be made on the life of the fuehrer.

It was pointed out also that Hitler is wont to walk for blocks through crowds, that he stands up in his car as he passes through streets thickly crowded with people and that he is known for his habit of venturing into places where masses of men and women stand shoulder to shoulder.

STATE REQUIRES PERMIT FOR GUN

Game Director Warns Carrying of Firearms Without License Illegal

BOISE, April 3 (AP) — Strict enforcement was promised today of Idaho laws that make illegal the carrying of firearms without a hunting and fishing license.

The only exceptions, said Dr. A. H. Hatch, state game director, are persons under 12, persons more than 70, Spanish-American and Civil war veterans, police officers and those licensed by law to carry guns.

"There have been many complaints that the law was not being observed," said Dr. Hatch.

"Many persons apparently don't know there is such a law.

"The department of law enforcement will cooperate with the game department in seeing that the law is enforced strictly."

Dr. Hatch said that statutes which prevent shooting from or across a public highway also would be enforced.

Two Women Serving As Coroners in Idaho

By WALTER R. BOTTCHER

BOISE, April 3 (AP)—Idaho still has two women coroners — Miss Hazel Davis of American Falls, daughter of the Power county senator and niece of the former Idaho governor, D. W. Davis, and Miss Edith Landon of Payette. . . .

Thirteen Idaho counties did not elect surveyors; they are Adams, Boise, Butte, Camas, Gooding, Idaho, Latah, Lewis, Lincoln, Madison, Owyhee, Teton and Valley. . . .

Thomas Y. Gwilliam, youthful prosecutor in the Audie Robnett gin-strip murder case at Emmett in 1938, was not renominated at the Gem county primary election last August and he was not elected—but he's still prosecuting attorney. His opponent, who was nominated and elected, failed to pass the state bar examination. . . .

Miss Martha (Marty) Tanner, one-time secretary to Curtis Turner, cashier of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, has given up her job in Congressman Henry Dworshak's office to go back to the employ of James P. Pope, former United States senator, who now is a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority. . . .

Ralph Olmstead, Twin Falls boy who made good, now is in the legal department of the agricultural adjustment administration at Washington, D. C. He was former Senator Pope's secretary five years. . . .

P. C. Winter of Rexburg, Republican nominee for state auditor in 1936 and candidate for the nomination again in 1938, now is a district deputy income tax collector with offices at Pocatello. . . .

Forty-three thousand visitors entered the Idaho capitol during the 40-day legislative session that began January 2, Dan Evans, member of the statehouse police, said his register showed. Of the number, 4,118 climbed the long winding stairs to the dome of Idaho's $2,190,000 governmental headquarters. The dome visitors came from 42 states, Idaho's 44 counties and five foreign countries, not counting Hawaii and Alaska. . .

Three former high elective state officials are back in the capitol via the appointment route. They are, Daniel F. Banks, Republican treasurer from 1921 to 1929; Byron Defenbach, who succeeded him, and W. D. Gillis, former Republican attorney general. Banks now heads the store license tax bureau; Defenbach is tax commissioner, and Gillis is director of the inheritance tax bureau. . . . All were appointed by Governor Bottolfsen. . .

April is the month of municipal elections. There are 89 incorporated villages, 24 cities of the second class and two cities of the first class. Those that don't have primaries, at which elections might be selected, will elect municipal officers April 25.

LEGION PLANS FAST JUNIOR BASEBALL TEAM

Young Joe Krakauskas Slated to Pitch Opening Game Before President

'Working Agreement' With Cowboy Club Aids Twin Falls Boys' Nine

Young Players to Attend Training School

Twin Falls will have a crack American Legion junior baseball team this summer, according to Carl E. Ritchey, chairman of the program for the local American Legion post.

"There's two reasons why we'll have a fast, scrappy ball team," Ritchey declared.

"First, we'll have a lot of experienced ball players back. Last summer they were just a bunch of green kids but this year they will be veterans.

Agreement With Cowboys

"In the second place," smiled Ritchey, "we've got a working agreement with the Twin Falls Cowboys."

Call for candidates for the 1939 American Legion junior diamond outfit will be given later this month.

Ritchey really has a "working agreement" with the Cowboys of the Pioneer baseball league.

When the Cowboys are away from home, the youngsters will stage games in Jaycee park. Practice sessions may also be conducted on the field.

Assist in Coaching

Ritchey said that Eddie Leishman, Cowboy's manager, and some of the local players will assist in coaching the lads in the fine points of the game.

"All boys who try out for the American Legion junior team will take part in the baseball training school that the Cowboys will hold here in May," Ritchey declared.

"The club has suits and equipment from one year ago and we'll be ready to start late in April or early in May," he said.

500,000 YOUNGSTERS READY TO PLAY

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP)—This is the 13th year for American Legion baseball. But Legion officials see nothing unlucky about that.

Because it is the 100th anniversary year of baseball, too, and the officials expect attention turned to the great American pastime to build up interest in their program for boys under 17.

Stephen F. Chadwick, Legion national commander and part owner of the Seattle club in the Pacific coast league, is on the baseball centennial commission. Cooperstown, N. Y., where Abner Doubleday laid out the first diamond in 1839, is expected to be made a center of junior baseball tournament play.

500,000 Players

Homer L. Chaillaux, the Legion's national Americanism director and czar of the junior game, estimates more than 500,000 boys will take part this year.

This will be more than ever before —25 per cent above last season and nearly 10 times as many as when the program started in 1926. Chaillaux said at least 20,000 teams would play throughout the United States.

Pre-season games have started in the Carolinas, Louisiana and California, where Legion ball draws the biggest crowds. Elsewhere play will begin after the high school season.

The month-long regular season will commence June 30. Each team will play an average of 20 games with opponents in its own congressional district. Then state, regional, sectional and semi-final tournaments and the final "Junior World Series" in September will decide the national champion.

American Legion posts and other sponsors will spend an estimated $2,000,000 on the program, Chaillaux said. Between them the major leagues have set aside $20,000 to pay the way of championship teams to tournaments.

Feller, the Cleveland Indians' boy wonder pitcher, and Gordon, New York Yankee second baseman who played in last year's World Series, topped a list of 41 ex-junior baseball players in the National and American leagues at the end of last season.

Others included Henry Lavagetto; Phil Cavarretta, Buddy Lewis, Augie Galan, Lee Handley, Mickey Owen, Vince DiMaggio, Morris Arnovich, Babe Dahlgren, Bobby Doerr, Jim Bagby, Jr., Julio Bonetti, Henry Steinbacher and Gene Hasson.

Crowds and Thrills

New major-league recruits from junior ball are moving up this year by way of the minors. Detroit bought Pitcher Freddy Hutchinson from Seattle. The Boston American league club took over Ted Williams, who led the American association last season with his .366 batting average, from Minneapolis. Both were playing junior baseball three years ago, Hutchinson at Seattle and Williams at San Diego.

Junior baseball is organized baseball in short pants. It has its crowds —20,000 attended a Series game at Spartanburg, S. C., in 1936. It has its thrills—Chicago won the 1931 series at Houston, Tex., from Columbia, S. C., with a single run ending the 14-inning final game.

It produces its stars. Last year's was Howard (Lefty) Pollet of New Orleans. He struck out 122 batsmen in 80 innings in the season and pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the state tournament.

Game Board To Select Questions

Commission Completes Arrangements for Civil Service Examinations

BOISE, April 3 (AP)—The Idaho game commission will meet here Wednesday to complete arrangements for civil service examinations to be given all applicants for positions in the state fish and game department.

Dr. A. B. Hatch, game director named by the commission a month ago, said he had nearly completed the compilation of suitable questions from which the commission would select in making up its examinations.

All employes with the exception of the game director and the fish culturist, Dr. A. R. Roth, will be subject to the examination, Dr. Hatch said.

Davey Day Asks For Return Bout

CHICAGO, April 3 (AP)—Sam Pian, manager of Davey Day, said today he had offered welterweight champion Henry Armstrong a $35,000 guarantee and an option of 40 per cent of the "gate" for a return bout with Day in Chicago this summer.

Day lost to Armstrong by a technical knockout in the 12th round at New York last Friday night.

Boxers Battle In Hansen Ring

HANSEN, April 3—Seven bouts have been arranged and another is planned for the inter-school boxing matches between Castleford and Hansen here Tuesday night.

Two preliminary bouts will open the fights, with the opening battle set for 8 p. m., school officials announced.

The bouts which have already been scheduled follow:

Virgin, Castleford, vs. J. Anderson, Hansen.

Quigley, Castleford, vs. C. Anderson, Hansen.

Shaver, Castleford, vs. Farnsworth, Hansen.

Amos, Castleford, vs. Gillespie, Hansen.

Golf Year Opens At Clear Lakes

Official Start of Season Attracts Throng of Players

BUHL, April 3—The Clear Lakes golf course opened the 1939 season officially Sunday with a large turnout of players. The course was crowded throughout the day.

The Buhl Country Club, Inc., which operates the resort and golf course, plans to oil the greens in the near future and with this improvement the course will be in excellent shape for the summer play.

The directors of the club through their club president, Albert Kilas, announces the green fees and annual dues will remain the same as last year which was $25 for the season and 50 cents for eighteen holes of golf; with no raise in price for Sundays or holidays.

The directors plan on stocking the Clear lakes and streams on the property with 20,000 three inch Rainbow trout this month. The charge for the fishing privileges will be increased this year to fifty cents. Picnic privileges will remain the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Murray will again be in charge of the resort.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors the various committees were named to serve for the coming year. The farm committee of Hadley Barker, J. O. Eastman and Albert Kilas will have charge of the club's ranch which normally provides the income to maintain the Clear Lakes golf course.

Harry Barry, Jack Tingey and Clay Pickrell form the greens committee and contemplate many new improvements which should make the layout one of the best. The general layout of the course is not to be changed. The natural contour of the ground, the large trees, and the ever present water hazards make the course par hard to equal and calls for exceptional accuracy.

The tournament committee is arranging a series of meets for the season with the first scheduled for Sunday, April 16, when the entire club membership chooses up sides for the annual Hooks and Slices event in which the losers pay for a club breakfast.

Bowlers Break Doubles Record

Pennsylvania Pair Chalks Up 527, New High Mark for ABC Tourney

CLEVELAND, April 3 (AP)—Carmel (Smoky) Dragotta, and Fred (Fritz) Pukall, Allentown, Pa., hung up 527, the highest doubles game in the 39-year history of the American Bowling Congress in the final stanza of their two-man rolling today.

Dragotta, 26-year-old barber, after opening with 200 and 187, started his final game with a spare and then clustered 11 consecutive strikes to score 290. Pukall, 40-year-old accountant, started with only 150 and 162, and then trailed Dragotta with a 237 count.

The former high, 526, was scored by Charley Reinlie-Rudy Riepel, Racine, Is., at Toledo in 1926.

Snead to 'Forget Golf' for Month

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 3 (AP)—Murmuring something philosophical about elusive jackpots, slammin' Sam Snead came home today to "sort of forget golf" for a month.

The slammer drove 500 miles overnight from Augusta, Ga., after Ralph Guldahl's record-breaking 279 to beat his 280 for first place in the annual masters' tournament.

The victor burned up the final nine holes with a 33 to win.

RETURNS TO GIANTS

BATON ROUGE, La., April 3 (AP) —Outfielder John Thomas Winsett, who was sold to Jersey City recently, returned to the New York Giants today. Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis refused to sanction the deal which sent Winsett back to the Giants' "farm."

Sixto Escobar Retains Crown

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, April 3 (AP)—Sixto Escobar of Puerto Rico retained his world bantamweight title Sunday night by outpointing K. O. Morgan of Detroit in a 15-round bout. Escobar won the unanimous verdict of the referee and judges.

The three officials credited Escobar with seven, eight and nine rounds, respectively, while none awarded more than four to Morgan. It was their second meeting, Morgan having won over Escobar in a non-title bout last year.

Stanford Offers Course For Sports Spectators

By SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer

PALO ALTO, Calif. —Stanford university's attempt to make its coeds "intelligent spectators" at athletic events has proved so popular that men students are demanding the same instruction.

At present there are about a dozen males in the class of 75—boys willing to admit that they, too, need a little instruction on what's what in sport.

Students say the course is being given "so girls won't act so dumb at a football game."

Mrs. Maud L. Knapp, in charge of the enterprise, admits that as far as it goes this inelegant expression is correct. Actually the course aims at sophisticated appreciation of all major sports and of the dance as well.

Give Credit For It

It is listed in the curriculum as "The Spectator in Sports and Dance Activities." College credit is given.

"There seems to be no question that the great bulk of the class members are seriously interested," Mrs. Knapp says. "Each class session lasts nearly two hours. Attention holds up well, and the questions and discussion at the end are intelligent."

One sport or one type of dancing is dealt with at each session. There is invariably a lecture, and when practical a demonstration is given —basketball, for instance, being exemplified by the Stanford team going through actual plays.

In some cases movies are shown. For such a subject as skiing there is a display of equipment and proper clothing.

"The course covers the sports seasonally," Mrs. Knapp explains further. "In the winter quarter we led off with basketball, and are taking up such things as skiing and ice skating."

Baseball is down tentatively for the spring quarter, football for the autumn.

Some outstanding authority—either one of Stanford's own coaches or a speaker from outside—talks on each particular sport.

No Examination

There is no examination to determine grades, since there is no way to determine how much the student learned in class and how much he happened to know about various sports already. Faithful attendance and attention are assumed to have earned each member one unit of credit.

This is the first quarter of the "spectator" course, and it has had to take some good-natured kidding both on and off the campus.

"However, the students and the physical education department appreciate the value of the course," says Mrs. Knapp.

Out of the fine print in the dictionary, Mrs. Knapp has brought a word to describe what you do when you just watch a game instead of playing it. You "spectate."

40 Report For Initial Practice Of Cowboy Club

'I Believe the Squad Can Be Molded Into a Formidable Contender,' Says Manager Eddie Leishman

SPOKANE, April 3 (AP) — Forty baseball candidates bucked a cold spring gale today in the initial practice of the Twin Falls Cowboys of the new pioneer league.

"It will take a bit of experimenting," commented Manager Eddie Leishman, "but with the wealth of material, I believe the squad can be molded into a formidable contender."

Leishman put the players through warm-up drills, fielding and batting practice. Bill de Carlo, Clyde (Gorky) Carlson, Dick Hiller and Steve Bogdanoff rapped hard drives 350 feet and more against the fence.

Helping the Cowboys round into condition is Henry Reid who has been signed as trainer for the entire season.

Before May 2, when the Twin Falls club opens its campaign at Pocatello, the squad will be reduced to 22 players.

Twenty days after the initial game the club's roster will be trimmed to 15 as required by league rules.

Fred Hutchinson Tames Toronto

Floyd Giebell and Seattle Rookie Turn in Great Performances

LAKELAND, Fla., April 3 (AP)—Brilliant pitching by Floyd Giebbel and Fred Hutchinson, recruit right handers, enabled the Detroit Tiger regulars to down Toronto, of the International league, 5 to 1 in an exhibition contest here today.

Toronto got only four hits, three of them off Giebell in the first five innings. Hutchinson, the high-priced Seattle youngster, who finished, gave his best performance of the training season, allowing but one scratch single.

Kimberly Takes Bowling Crown

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—It's just a misunderstanding, no doubt, but they seem to be starting at the wrong end of the American league to break up the teams for a more equitable distribution of power.

As the sleek and well-fed Yankee organization reaches out to take and keep everything it wants, the eighth-place Athletics not only must comb what is discarded by the hopper of the more prosperous clubs for material, but must dispose of the best material at hand.

When Connie Mack sold third-baseman Bill Werber to the Cincinnati Reds for $25,000 he not only was turning loose a much-needed player, but he was handing him over to a National league club rated one of the strongest. It was as if a man said to a boy: "You could never reach that apple, but I'm pretty close, so if you'll bend over and let me stand on your back I can get it."

Various reasons have been advanced for Mack's action in weakening a team that already seemed too weak to lift itself out of the cellar.

To begin with Connie, who admits he has a tough time financially, possibly decided he could not pay the salary Werber asked, and it was the general opinion that Werber, a well-educated, personable lad with a lucrative business, would stay out of baseball rather than take less money than he thought he was worth.

Then, too, there was the idea that Mack sorely needed that $25,000 to keep the wheels turning. And a third suggestion was that the cagey veteran was accumulating a nest egg for the day, undeniably close, when he must bow out of the baseball picture.

Even Mack realizes how close he is to the end of the baseball trail, but he has set no date for retirement. He plans to keep going as long as the mental and the physical machine, the one still alert, the other still agile, function.

"When I start repeating myself in my conversation, or when the players start telling me what to do instead of me telling them, then I will step out," he said, adding thoughtfully, "and I hope I'm the first one to know it."

Durrance Takes Top Ski Honors

Amateur Ace Captures Four of 12 Trophies in Oregon Event

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Mt. Hood, Ore., April 3 (AP)—He looks like a good wind would waft him off the mountain but put skiis on his feet and he's a giant—that's Dick Durrance of Dartmouth, who won chief honors in the national slalom and downhill ski championships here last week-end.

The slight sandy-haired youth, already an Olympic games star, won two top trophies, the open and the amateur combined downhill and slalom — as well as the amateur slalom and the amateur downhill. That's four of the 12 trophies awarded in the meet.

About the only prizes he didn't collect in the men's division were the open slalom, in which he placed second to Friedl Pfeiffer of Sun Valley, Idaho, and the open downhill, in which he was fourth, behind three of the world's best teacher-skiers.

Erna Steurl, Switzerland's woman champion, took the women's open combined title, the women's open slalom and second place in the women's down-hill. An Internationale Federation De Ski racer, she was ineligible for the American amateur crown.

The women's open and amateur downhill titles went to Elizabeth Woolsey, Cornwall, Conn. She also claimed the women's amateur combined title and was third in the amateur slalom.

Winners in other events were Toni Matt, Sun Valley ski instructor, who won the open downhill and was second in open combined standings; Friedl Pfeiffer, Sun Valley coach, open slalom, amateur woman's slalom.

BATTLE TO DRAW

COLUMBUS, O., April 3 (AP) — Floyd Gibbons, 201, of Detroit, and Charlie Belanger, 190, of Toronto, Canada, battled to a 12-round draw tonight in the headliner of a boxing program here.

Titles in City and Commerical Loops Decided

Kimberly keglers clinched first place in the City league bowling race last night by winning two out of three games from Budweiser.

Both championships have now been decided, Schlitz having mathematically won the Commercial league race last week.

Weller helped Kimberly to the championship in last night's deciding games by rolling a high 210 single game and 550 for three.

In the Commercial league National Laundry won two of three from the Elks with Leichliter of the Laundrymen hitting a 223 high single game and garnering up three with a 564 score.

Guldahl Betters Augusta Record

National Open Golf Champ Wins With 72-Hole Total of 279

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 3 (AP)—After finishing second for the last two years in the Augusta national golf show, Ralph Guldahl, the national open champion, shattered the course record Sunday in winning the sixth annual event with a 72-hole total of 279.

Guldahl's winning score was three strokes under the course record set by Gene Sarazen and Craig Wood in 1935—the year they tied. In winning the top prize of $1500 Guldahl's 72-hole total was nine strokes under regulation figures.

An hour and a half before Guldahl came home, playing with Lawson Little and trailed by a large gallery, Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had posted a 280 that looked like the possible winning margin.

Little caught up with the national open champion at the 63-hole stage, but Guldahl fired two birdies and an eagle down the final nine-hole stretch for a snappy 33 and a 69, three under par, for the final round. He had a subpar 70 on the morning 18.

Billy Burke of Cleveland, the national open champion of 1931, tied with Little for third place with 282s, and Sarazen, who defeated Wood in the 1935 play-off by five strokes, was next with a 283 total.

Guldahl, who came out of Texas to gain fame as a golfer, had won $1200 last week in the Greensboro open, where, after his triumph he boldly pronounced he was tired of finishing second in the Augusta "masters" classic and intended to win.

Standing at the home green when Guldahl staged his triumph was one of the "masters" of all time, Bobby Jones, who finished with a total of 304 and a tie for thirty-third place with another old "master," Walter Hagen, Harry Cooper of Eastern Point, Conn., and Jimmy Demarest of Houston, Texas. A year ago Jones finished in a tie for sixteenth. His rounds were 76-77-78 and 73.

Sarazen, who shot a great record-equaling 66 Saturday to take the lead through 36 holes, lost it to Guldahl after Sunday's opening round. The Connecticut squire was winner in 1935 in a playoff with Craig Wood. Wood finished sixth with 284.

Wild Hurler Who Walked 14 Batters in Four Innings Becomes Washington Ace; Shows Amazing Fast Ball

ORLANDO, Fla., April 3 (AP)—One of baseball's Cinderella stories is fast unfolding during the spring training of the Washington Nationals.

Joe Krakauskas — who a year ago today walked 14 batters in 4 innings and couldn't make the grade in a minor league — has been all but nominated to open the season against the New York Yankees.

The bow-legged pitcher from Hamilton, Ontario, has shown a lot in the spring games to date. He's hurled 13 innings, allowed no runs and only four hits.

He's still wild, but nothing like a year ago.

The day Krakauskas walked the 14 batters, Manager Bucky Harris gave up.

"Send him away," he advised owner, Clark Griffith, "he's bad for the rest of the team."

So Griffith sent Krakauskas to Trenton of the Eastern league. Pitching for that club he allowed his opposition nine runs in the first inning. Trenton sent him back to Washington.

But Griffith (the Old Fox) refused to give up on the boy.

"Son," said the old man, "get your glove and come out here in the park." The team was out of town. Griffith and Krakauskas worked an hour.

Impressed with Joe's speed, Griffith ordered Harris to keep him the rest of the year. Harris gave him hours of work in the pitcher's box during batting practice.

Near the end of the season, Harris started Joe against the Yankees. The young pitcher gave the world champions four hits.

Harris kept on using him and at the end of the season Krakauskas had an earned run average of 3.12— the third most effective pitcher in the American league.

In spring training he's shown an amazing fast ball, a fair curve and greatly improved control.

"Today," smiled Harris, "it looks as if he'll open the season for us."

Hurling that opening game before the president of the United States has always been the highest honor the Senators can hand a pitcher.

C. of I. Trackmen Round Into Shape

Burkhalter, Joslyn, Dossett Head Aggregation at Caldwell

CALDWELL, April 3—Track and field aspirants for the C. of I. are rounding into shape in their third week of practice. Three experienced lettermen, Delbert Burkhalter, Marx Joslyn and Cecil Dossett, augmented by a promising group of candidates of somewhat less experience, give promise of a better-than-average team this year.

Burkhalter, veteran hurdler, will top the barriers for the fourth year. Dossett, captain and coach, will compete in the high jump, broad jump and hurdles. Joslyn will run the 440 as will August Storkman, Nampa high champion in the high school meet last year.

Returning to their second year of competition are Mark Baum, Bob Whiteman, distance men; Leon Gifford who specializes in the discus and shot-put; Jasper Cotant, half-miler, and Dick Stammer, sprinter.

Harry Hiemstra is out for the pole vault while Jasper Cotant and Ed Dalton will hurl the javeline. This is the first year for Dalton and Storkman, both freshmen. Altogether 16 men reported for practice.

The Northwest conference meet will be held at Whitman college at Walla Walla, Wash., on May 25.

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Resistance to the extension of Saturday's rally appeared in today's stock market and early gains running to 2 or more points were finally cut down or replaced with declines.

Prices were at the worst in the afternoon, but some support was evident for many leaders at the last.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 of a point at 43.7. Transfers totaled 1,472,610 shares against 2,888,350 last Friday.

With the Hitler speech, which came after the conclusion of the preceding session, less belligerent than had been expected, and the seemingly stronger stand of the British-French entente in the matter of eastern European "aggressors," Wall Street's apprehension over a war explosion seemed to have faded.

While the overseas picture was a shade brighter, financial quarters found nothing particular to cheer about in domestic business or Washington news, and brokers thought this may have had much to do with the cashing of profits on today's opening bulge.

Steels slipped rapidly when it was officially estimated this week's mill operations would dip 1.4 points to 54.7 per cent of capacity. Bethlehem came back at the finish for a net gain of ¾ at 62½ and U. S. Steel cut its loss to ¼ at 51⅜.

Mild encouragement was derived from remarks of U. S. Steel Chairman Stettinius at the corporation's stockholders' meeting in which he saw reasonable hope for the immediate outlook in this industry.

Eastman Kodak was a weak spot, dropping about 11 points at one time as trading in "rights" for the company's new stock issue on a "when-issued" basis began on the stock exchange. The issue closed 8½ lowed at 154⅛. Dow Chemical lost 6⅛ at 112 and Du Pont fell 3½ at 139.

Elsewhere reactions of as much as a point or so were suffered by Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Gypsum, Westinghouse, International Harvester and Sears Roebuck.

Retaining modest advances were American Telephone, North American, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Philip Morris and Standard Oil of N. J.

Bonds ended irregularly higher. Commodities were mixed.

Electric Bond & Share and Lockheed slipped back a notch in the curb at the close while gains running to more than a point were posted by American Gas & Electric, Consolidated Copper and Lake Shore.

CHICAGO WHEAT VALUES SLUMP

Prices Drop One Cent Before Recovery Erases Half of Loss

By FRANKLIN MULLIN

CHICAGO, April 3 (AP) — Wheat prices slumped a cent today before buying orders at around 67 cents a bushel for May and July contracts started a recovery that wiped away about half of the loss.

European political developments were thrust into the background, with other commodity and security markets apparently over the war scare, and bearish trade factors such as increased world shipments and improved crop prospects came to the fore.

Wheat closed ⅜-⅝ lower than Saturday, May 67⅛-⅜, July 67⅛-¼; Corn ⅜-⅝ down, May 47-47⅛, July 48⅛-¼; oats ⅛-⅜ off; rye ⅜-⅝ down; lard 7 to 10 lower.

Declines of as much as ⅝ cent in corn carried the May contract down to 46⅞, within ⅛ of the lowest level in five years. Oats and rye declined with wheat and corn. Selling of lard reflected an increase in local stocks the past two weeks.

Class Event—Mrs. T. S. Nicholson's Sunday school class entertained Friday evening with a pre-Easter party at the Nicholson home for Mrs. D. H. Showers' Sunday school class. A rabbit hunt, group singing and three Easter plays were the evening's diversion. Sixteen young people attended.

Vacation Guests—Misses Martha Oliver, Nan Musser, Frances Anderson and David McKie, who are students at the Albion Normal arrived Friday to spend their spring vacation with relatives.

Club Hostess—Mrs. George Erhardt entertained her contract bridge club Friday with a one-thirty dessert luncheon.

Entertain—Miss Ruth Brown and her domestic science group of girls entertained 25 women at a program Thursday evening. The girls served dainty refreshments during the evening. This was given in the domestic science rooms at the high school.

Picnic at Falls—The rural high school freshman class enjoyed a picnic supper at Shoshone falls Saturday evening. Forty-five students attended.

COPPER PRICE REDUCED

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—The price of domestic copper was reduced ½ cent to 10½ cents a pound today by a large custom smelter. It marked the first change in the quotation since October 14 last year.

Copper was at the high for 1938 at the October price of 11.25 cents. The year's low was 9 cents in May.

CHICAGO ONIONS

CHICAGO—50-pound sacks:
Michigan yellows $1 to $1.10.
Minnesota yellows 90c.
Colorado Sweet Spanish $1.05.
Oregon yellow Danvers $1.30.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—The world sugar contract moved irregularly today to close ½ point higher to ½ lower. Sales totaled 7900 tons with May closed 1.19; December 1.23½.

The domestic contract moved slowly as light trade selling found interest small. Closing prices were 2 to 3 points down on sales of 3200 tons.

No. 3 close: May 1.93; July 1.97; September 2.00 bid; January 1.98; March 1.99 bid.

In the raw market duty-frees were held at 2.90 cents with buyers believed interested at 2.88.

Refined remained at 4.40 to 4.50.

COTTON

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Cotton futures quickly responded today to breaking of the Washington stalemate on cotton legislation with senate passage of the Bankhead act. A last-hour buying flurry left final prices 6 to 7 points ahead.

MONEY

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Call money steady, 1 per cent; prime commercial paper ⅝ per cent; time loans steady; 60-90 days 1¼; 4-6 months 1½ per cent; bankers' acceptances unchanged; 60-90 days 1½-7/16 per cent; 5-6 months ⅝-9/16 per cent; rediscount rate New York reserve bank 1 per cent.

JUNIOR FARMERS AT GOLDEN GATE

Nearly 5,000 Head of Livestock on Display at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3 (AP)—Nearly 5,000 head of livestock turned a portion of the western World's fair into a cheerful bedlam today as participants from eight western states competed for the $20,000 in prizes at the twelfth annual interstate livestock show.

Judges announced awards in scores of classifications, preparatory to the grand championship honors scheduled to be awarded shortly before noon Wednesday. Around 100 classifications are to be judged tomorrow.

California's greater number of entries left the state in a somewhat dominant position in regard to number of rewards, but other states—particularly Texas—also shared in the honors.

Nearly 1,700 youthful visitors were registered for the week-long event on Treasure Island. The show was divided into three sections, Four-H, Future Farmers of America and the Advanced. At times around 200 animals were in the same ring.

The participants were from California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Texas, Oklahoma, Idaho and Utah. Awards included:

Advanced, shorthorn steer or heifer between 650-800 pounds: first, Dall Withers, Sugar City, Idaho.

Car Strikes and Kills CCC Youth

CALDWELL, Idaho, April 3 (AP)—Canyon county officers concluded today that the death of Sager Salisbury, 22, a civilian conservation corps' enrollee was accidental and Coroner W. D. Talley of Nampa said there would be no inquest.

Salisbury, whose home was at Columbus, O., was struck by an automobile as he walked along the highway near here yesterday. Talley said Wayne C. Burwell of Caldwell, driver of the car, apparently was blinded by lights of an approaching car and did not see Salisbury.

Salisbury was an enrollee at the Lake Lowell CCC camp near here.

Prison Decreed Cattle Rustlers

DENVER, April 3 (AP)—A measure whose sponsor said it would "make things a lot tougher on rubber-tired cattle rustlers," scourge of Colorado's vast grazing areas, was approved by the Colorado senate today on second reading.

The bill would make butchering of another man's cattle without the proper permits a felony. It now is a misdemeanor.

"Formerly," said Senator Charles P. Murphy, its author, "if a cattle rustler was haled into court he could be fined up to $100 for each offense, but many by pleading bankruptcy really got out of penalties. Under this bill rustlers could get 1 to 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Finding of Foot Leads to Search

CLEVELAND, April 3 (AP)—Detective Peter Merylo, specialist on torso slayer victims, prodded in a city dump today but wasn't convinced that Cleveland's surgically skilled maniac had claimed No. 13.

The search started when the charred foot of a white woman, sawed cleanly off above the ankle, was found yesterday on the dump. Merylo said he believed the foot came from a hospital incinerator. He found no further portions of a body.

The last victims, Nos. 11 and 12, were discovered last August. They had been killed several months before.

MINERS IDLE AS DISCUSSIONS LAG

338,000 Coal Diggers in Eight States Wait for Contract

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Soft coal miners in eight states faced tonight at least one more day of idleness as the operators formulated their reply to labor's proposal that a closed shop for the industry be formally written into a new contract.

Neither the operators nor the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) offered an opinion as to when they might agree upon the terms of a new wage and hour contract and enable the industry to end the general shutdown which became effective today.

Approximately 338,000 miners in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, Maryland, and Michigan did not report to work, union officials said, because they had no contract. The old two-year agreement expired last Friday midnight.

Both miners and operators said a closed shop virtually exists in the industry although it is not written into the Appalachian agreement, which is used in other coal producing areas as the basic contract.

It is expected the operators will make known their attitude to the joint conference when its eight members meet tomorrow.

Each day's suspension means a loss of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 to the miners, but both sides agreed that consumers, except perhaps in some isolated cases, would not feel the pinch unless the shutdown continued for several weeks. Outside the Appalachian area, with the exception of Alabama, soft coal miners operated by special agreement with the union.

COMMISSIONERS SCAN PHONE RATE INCREASE

BOISE, April 3 (AP)—R. H. Young and James Cornell, members of the Idaho public utilities commission, will leave tomorrow for Lewiston to conduct a hearing April 6 on an application of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company for increases in rates.

With them will go R. E. Alworth and R. E. Harper, public utilities engineer and auditor, respectively.

CLAUD PRATT

Is Claud Pratt a big liar or is he really doing the business he claims he is doing? He announced the other day that he had fourteen and a half carloads of commodities coming in and they consisted of five straight carloads of 2x4's and two carloads of heavier dimension and two carloads of Arkansas Motor Oil and one carload of pressure gun, cup and axle grease and four carloads of cedar shingles and one half carload of a new kind of wall board and the report has come back that Claud Pratt is just a big liar and so Claud Pratt is offering $500 if every word of this statement about the 14½ carloads isn't true. Right at the present time, this Monday morning, we are unloading one of the carloads of 2x4's and the thirty-ninth carload of Arkansas Motor Oil is on the track and also the carload of grease is also on the track and we expect one of the carloads of shingles to arrive any day . . . and also other cars that are on the order are following just as fast as we can unload them—and a little bit faster—and we like to work.

Our business is actually growing faster than a jack-rabbit after a dog. There are enough things happening around here without having to make up a bunch of lies.

Well, the weather sure is wonderful isn't it? Makes a fellow feel like he wanted to go fishing. We also have fish in stock but we don't have it long. Here comes some more men after some more oil—and I may have to go East before very long on a business trip. We surely thank all you kind people for your lively trade. And also your change. Come on over I want to have some fun out of you. My nephew told me a good conundrum about a Scotchman's wife that fell overboard. And after three days journey without her, a wire caught up with the Scotchman saying that his wife had been found with a lot of crabs attached to her body and wanted to know what disposition they should make—he wired them back, "Market the crabs and reset the bait."

Say mister, come down just as soon as you can get here and stop up there by Five Points and see Victor's new recapping machine—it caps the climax. That is it recaps tires and he is busy right now with the machine. If you have a good carcas that will pay to be recapped, bring it down right away—I mean a tire carcas—don't start bringing in old dead mules as they cannot be recapped successfully.

Buhl Seniors to Present Comedy

BUHL, April 3—"Tons of Trouble," by Carlos De Valdes and Robt. S. Clair, is the title of the annual Buhl high school senior play to be given Thursday, April 13 at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

The play is a rollicking three-act comedy which deals with the life of a young married couple, Albert and Veronica Hale, who have lied to their uncle about owning a prosperous farm. The uncle arrives unexpectedly and decides to spend the summer with the Hales. This is not the only complicated situation because Albert's college friend, John White, has lied to his wealthy aunt about being married, and she also unexpectedly arrives for a visit. But there is hope because John White is willing to trade his farm for Albert's wife. Everything works out all right in the end, but the complicated situations, the lies and humorous dialogue, help to make this senior play one of Buhl's outstanding events of the year.

The characters are as follows: Elouise Watt as Veronica Hale; James Clifford as Albert Hale; Trusten Probasco takes the part of John White; Lorna Measley plays opposite Trusten Probasco as Hope Marks, John's sweetheart.

They are supported by Ruth Grodeon, as the dominant, sharp spoken aunt; Benny McElroy as Hope Mark's distinguished father, Bill Miller as Jeremiah Hale, Albert's rich uncle, and Myna Hatfield as Jycelyn Jessup, the ex-gold-digging actress.

William Johnson as general manager is assisted by the prompters, Jo-Ann Hamilton and Lillian Herzinger; Kathleen Orr and Martin Glodowski, stage and property managers; Jo Samuel, business manager; Hershel Berenter, ticket salesman; Virginia Barron, head usher; Carol Post, costume manager; Janet Runyon, manager of entertainment between the acts.

CHICAGO VOTERS TO NAME MAYOR

Election Provides Major Test of Republican, Democratic Strength

CHICAGO, April 3 (AP)—The mayoral election, providing the year's first big direct test of strength between Democrats and Republicans, was expected to bring out more than 1,300,000 voters tomorrow.

The contenders were Mayor Edward J. Kelly, a veteran leader of the city's Democratic organization, and former U. S. District Attorney Dwight H. Green, Republican challenger who won wide notice as a member of the government's gang wrecking crew during the prohibition era.

Strategists on both sides of the political fence agreed the results would have an important bearing on the 1940 plans of the major parties.

P. A. Nash, national committeeman who has shared leadership of the Democratic forces with Kelly, declared the mayor would be re-elected in "overwhelming" fashion. Perre Watkins, Republican campaign manager, opined Green would poll a majority of the votes with his winning margin to be determined to a great extent by the weather.

Local Issues

A forecast of "cloudy and cool" figured in estimations that between 1,300,000 and 1,500,000 ballots would be cast compared with the mayoral election record of 1,164,402 established in 1931.

The campaign revolved about local issues. Kelly stood on his six-year record. Green attacked it.

Kelly, 62, asserted that during his stewardship crime and fire losses had been reduced 50 per cent, public health service had been improved, the city's credit had been restored, 1,800 miles of streets had been surfaced, and 75 new schools had been built. He stated the people wanted "performances not promises" and contended:

"My administration has given more service at less cost than any other in the modern history of Chicago."

He promised he would not mention Green's name. He didn't.

Green, 42, dapper, handsome attorney drafted by the Republican command, had a hand in the prosecution of Al Capone and a half dozen other bootleg barons early in the current decade.

"Machine Rule"

He campaigned to "redeem Chicago from machine rule." He charged business and industry were being "driven" from the city by high taxes and pledged economy. He asserted Democrats had spent $2,500,000 to nominate Kelly because "Kelly and his machine are afraid to have the spotlight of honesty focused on their padded payrolls and political contracts."

A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican state committee, said a Republican triumph would "absolutely insure a Republican victory in the state in 1940 and probably in the nation as well." The election of Green, in the opinion of Congressman Hamilton Fish (R-NY), would be a "knockout blow to the New Dealers."

Harry B. Hershey, chairman of the Democratic state committee, quoted National Chirman James A. Farley as saying: "As Illinois goes, so will go the nation in 1940."

Wyoming Banker Slugged by Bandit

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 3 (AP)—An unidentified, unmasked man slugged the cashier of a Cheyenne finance company today and escaped with $2,000 in currency.

Police immediately notified authorities to be on the lookout for a dark-complexioned man armed with a pistol with which he struck Arthur Bronstein, 18, over the head before stuffing his pockets with loose currency from a cash drawer.

Bronstein was under medical care at a hospital with a head wound physicians described as "very serious."

DIVIDED REPORT ON TVA INQUIRY

Majority Exonerates Federal Power Project of Mal-Administration

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—A majority of the joint congressional committee which investigated TVA exonerated that agency of charges of maladministration and inefficiency today, while three Republican members of the committee indignantly protested such a finding.

Reporting its conclusions to congress, the majority asserted that:

Rates for TVA power "provide a legitimate, honest yardstick" for comparison with the rates charged by private utilities.

Charges of dishonesty preferred by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, former TVA chairman, deposed last year by President Roosevelt, were "without foundation" and "not supported by the evidence."

TVA's "personnel is able, honest and efficient."

The acquisition of land by TVA "has been efficiently and honestly managed."

The criticism directed at TVA spending by the office of the comptroller-general has been largely baseless."

The comptroller general's audit of TVA should be discontinued and a private auditing firm, selected by congress, should go over the books annually, as done in the case of the RFC.

Before 1938, TVA's accounting methods were "extremely unsatisfactory," but have since been corrected.

The minority report presented entirely opposite conclusions on almost all points. It said that:

The TVA "yardstick" is "not only meaningless, but worse, is misleading, deceptive, unfair and dishonest as a measure of the fairness of the rates of privately-owned utilities not enjoying the subsidies and advantages of which TVA may avail itself."

TVA is guilty of "waste and inefficiency" and has been "arbitrary dictatorial and unbusinesslike."

TVA has "discriminated" against union labor and against Negro employes.
