Roosevelt's Hopes Pinned to Recovery President Denounces New Deal's Critics as 'Radicals' Eager to 'Gamble' With Safety of Nation

President Roosevelt denounced critics of his economic program tonight as 'radicals' eager to 'gamble' with the safety of the nation, and bluntly gave notice he would sanction no abandonment of administration 'principles and objectives'.

Addressing the retailers national forum, the chief executive asserted that if 'radical' business 'desert taxes,' such as the undistributed profits tax, are repealed, other taxes on business must be increased to replace the revenues thus lost.

Today, with no danger of surplus of goods overbalancing the market, he said, we have tried to keep consumer purchasing power up to production—the nation is in an excellent position to move forward into a period of greater production and greater employment.

Representative Martin (R-Mo.) said he was more than ready to revise the new deal laws and scolded the Democrats of trying to 'run away from this thing' by early adjournment of congress.

Some administration critics, he said, were 'eager to gamble the safety of the nation' on the safety of private enterprise on nothing.

Police Lieutenant John Flynn arrested the skipper of a New York boat who he said had sailed from the city by blowing the tanker's whistle 'in a most unbecomingly noisy manner'.

Dog Guards 'Babes in Woods'

WHILE 300 men combed the north Idaho woods near Coeur d'Alene and three airplanes circled overhead in the search for Bobby Dittmer, 4, and his sister, Patsy, 5, they were being guarded by their faithful dog, who started with them all night and refused to leave until a friend of the children's family arrived. The children are shown with their dog.

REICH ITALY SIGN 10-YEAR MILITARY ALLIANCE

Soviet Firm in Demands on Britain and France for More Binding Terms as Price of Joining Front

(By The Associated Press) 'Germany and Italy sealed their friendship in an all-inclusive 10-year military alliance Monday while, Soviet Russia was reported adamant in her demands on Britain and France for more binding terms before allying with their front.

Through the formal signing of the pact, the German and Italian signatories proclaimed themselves masters of an inviolable bloc of 300,000,000 men ready to offer the hand of friendship to anyone, but determined to smash any attempt by their rivals to break it.

Terms of the pact, which were discussed at Geneva conferences among Halifax, French Foreign Minister Bonnet and Mussolini, Soviet ambassador in London, provide chiefly that the three powers come to each other's aid in the event of an attack directed against any of the three big powers.

Stunned against these proposed terms was the secretary of the German-Italian military pact which provides that axis powers' diplomats will meet in Berlin to discuss the pact and that they will be taken up to the cabinet for approval.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR MAKING CURBED

Federal Agents Declare Minimum of Moonshine in Idaho

BOISE, May 22.—Federal alcohol tax units reported today that the illicit manufacture of liquor in Idaho has virtually been stamped out.

"I think we have seen a state as dry as Idaho has virtually been stamped out."

"I think we have seen a state as dry as Idaho has virtually been stamped out."

"I think we have seen a state as dry as Idaho has virtually been stamped out."

There are four federal investigators in Idaho with stations at Pocatello, Coeur d'Alene and Boise.

"We feel that our record is rather remarkable because liquor is rather hard to get in Idaho and privately manufactured liquor goes hand-in-hand with increased prices of liquor," Chase explained.

Idaho liquor prices were recently increased slightly.

"About the cheapest liquor in Idaho stores now is about $5 a gallon, whereas cheap grades of liquor can be produced legally and privately at around $1 a gallon."

Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Alaska form the district of which Idaho is a part, and only one law enforcement officer is assigned to Idaho in March this year, Chase said, adding:

"I compare with 293 cases in March this year in the Atlantic, Georgia, Florida and Alabama."

LEVY APPLIED TO JUDGES' SALARIES

Supreme Court Removes Jurists' Immunity, Upholds Gold Clause

The supreme court Monday ruled that the salaries of federal judges are subject to federal income taxes.

Decided that the "gold clause" resolution passed by congress in 1933 was unconstitutional because it discriminated against Negroes.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The supreme court in a 5-4 decision today, decided the federal income tax applied to the salaries of its own judges and those of all other federal judges.

The decision means that there is no longer any class of public official who can claim income tax immunity under the constitution.

SENIORS STAGE EVENTFUL DAY

Clever Play Features Two Performances of Class Program

The judgment day, a play concerned with whether or not the seniors are worthy graduates, set the theme for the class day program presented twice yesterday by the graduating class in the Twin Falls high school auditorium.

The presentation was moving, immediately following the annual senior-breakfast. It was for students of the high school, and the auditorium for parents and friends of the graduates.

Between the two main parts of the play, the seniors presented a gift to the school, in the form of a book, a photograph, and a song. The seniors were not worthy of graduation. Also presented as a part of the program was a take-off on the Junior class play called "As You Like It (Shakespeare) Gift to School."

Included among the characters were Jack Hopkins as Count Athol, Harry Barnhart, and Phil Thornburg and Ralph Smith as the three judges. Stage manager was Ross Lind, Ferris Sweet as Orlando, James Higgins as the doctor, Vernell Johnson as the nurse, Albert Beck as the secretary, Ruth Coker as a chorus girl, and Bert Sweet as Bill Shakespeare.

Following the take-off, Jack Thompson sang two numbers, and the combination music and photograph was presented to the school.

"The Judgment Day," the stage setting represented the courtroom in the Twin Falls county courthouse, with a jury box, a witness stand, witness tables, Merla Balnon was student director of the program. Class assistants are Gladys Peterson and Miss Thelma Tolleson.

Students were late for school, that they played basketball, and that they disrupted the pace by singing down the hall.

To build up the ego for the defense, Mrs. E. Wright read the class history. Donald Margaret Smith, teacher, read the class, in which each member left something to a student who still will be in school.

Following the program, seniors sang "We'll sing you to the music of 'Lights Out,' with words written by Wilton Horvick and the class manager of Dick Shinn, Fern Hanum and Fern Magoffin, still singing.

Seating arrangements were in charge of Dick Hopkins, Jim Hawley and Earline Wood.

A Warning to Idaho Motorists: Idaho regard motor conditions on our highways as extremely dangerous, and we would be unpleasantly surprised to know that warnings actually are being issued to that effect.

Discourtesy and failure to observe the rules of the road have brought this criticism. Recent driving in regard to stop signs, and failure to dim lights while driving at night are the chief offenses which eastern tourists are taking exception to.

Whether we can afford to continue warning this criticism is something for ourselves to decide. Idaho regards tourist traffic as one of her chief sources of income, and efforts are being made to increase this traffic year after year.

Up-Shooting Parachutes: They now have parachute jumpers who "jump from the ground instead of airplanes or high towers. They are swept up into the air for a distance of more than 250 feet. It is done by means of an air-blast device which creates an air pressure of 100-horsepower that lifts the parachute straight up. Before he takes off, the jumper tells the operator how long he wishes to stay up. The parachute is fully opened at the start and is maneuvered in the usual way to come down after the air pressure support is removed.

CLUBS SETTLE DOWN FOR GOOD BASEBALL SUMMER

Cowboys Ready to Tackle Ogden Reds

Plugged by stormy weather following a brilliant triumph over Lewiston's first-place Indians Sunday afternoon, the Twin Falls Cowboys are hoping that the elements will cooperate tonight and permit them to resume their Pioneer League campaign in time for the Ogden game.

Only three games behind the leaders and picking up speed in every start, the Twin Falls baseball club will take on the Reds at the local park at 8:15 p. m. with a reinforced pitching staff and a squad reduced to the 15-player limit.

Victorious over the Tribesmen by a 5-2 score in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader, Leishman's crew was forced into inactivity in the finale with Lewiston and night when they were slated to play a benefit game with the Buhl All-Stars. Wind, cold and finally rain made it necessary to postpone the two contests.

Others who missed out included four of the Pioneer leaders, Fred Hagen, senior and junior, Bruce Campbell, Fay Clemen, Eddie Hied and a lot of others nearly as prominent.

The big tournament at Philadelphia won't attract seriously because of their absence, however, for ex-champion Billy Burke, Johnny Thompson and Tony Manera were among today's qualifiers.

A.F.L. RESERVES RIGHT TO STRIKE

Alternative Told For Failure to Get Justice Under Wagner Act

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—An assertion that the American Federation of Labor was prepared to use the strike weapon if it could not obtain justice under the Wagner act came today from Francis P. Fenlon, AFL organization director.

Appearing before the senate labor committee in behalf of the AFL, Fenlon proposed amendments to the labor law. Fenlon complained of labor board delay in disposing of cases involving the AFL and charged that the board had "one rule for the CIO and another rule for the AFL."

Soberly, he went on to say that for 50 years the AFL's policy has been to exhaust all available means of achieving its ends before resorting to strike action, and added:

"No matter how wrongfully the Wagner act is administered, the AFL will continue its policy, using the act to promote collective bargaining, but resolutely refusing to give justice to its petitioners."

When the administrator of the act, Fenlon said, he was told that the act was administered in such a way as to give justice to its petitioners.

Granting of this right has been advocated by the union leaders, and it would afford employers a means of settling their disputes with workers as to which was the proper representative for collective bargaining.

Building of new church started

Rev. Claud Pratt announces plans for denomination in Twin Falls

Twin Falls Church of God which only recently began regular church work here is erecting a new church building on Quincy street in the Golden Days addition.

Services now are held in the Adventist church building. Rev. Claud Pratt, pastor of the new church and in charge of the building program, said today that the fact there is no church building in this locality influenced the building program.

The new church building is to be a frame structure, 30 by 80 feet, and will be completed in the fall of 1940.

CLIPPER CARRIES MAIL TO EUROPE

Collectors' Envelopes Predominate in First Delivery

MAINEVILLE, France, May 22 (AP)—The first mail carried in a regular north Atlantic air service was delivered today to Europe tonight after a flight from New York aboard the Yankee clipper.

Mailbags consigned to England tonight for 15 months' service soon after the arrival of the Pan-American Airways flying boat from Lisbon.

Stamps consigned to other European countries were rushed from the air base at Montille and then forwarded.

Most of the 112,274 pieces of mail were collectors' envelopes.

Although there long has been a regular south Atlantic air mail and occasionally north Atlantic flights, today's arrival of the clipper marked the inauguration of regular north Atlantic service.

The total elapsed time from the take-off last Saturday from Port Washington, Long Island, was 48 hours and 33 minutes.

The return crossing of the Atlantic was scheduled for the end of the week.

Arthritis Victims Get New Joins

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—Four ways to make new joints for 1,000 crippled Americans, all victims of arthritis, were reported to the International College of Surgeons here today.

Dr. Frank A. Dickson, Kansas City surgeon, said there were 1,000,000 arthritis cripples in this country. They have twisted hands or feet, necks aching or arms stiff.

The new joints are made by surgery. The newest of these operations is the substitution of a new joint before the old one is gone.

A special example, he said, is a "hinged" neck joint, which can be strengthened, due to arthritis attacking the synovial membrane, the ball can't get at all joints. It seizes the lubricating fluids.

JURORS CALLED FOR COURT TERM

Two Criminal Cases Set for Trial; Jail Sentence for Chicken Stealing

Two criminal cases set for trial in Twin Falls will begin Wednesday, May 31. District Judge James W. Porter announced yesterday when he ordered drawing of a list of 20 jurors for the term that day.

Set for trial were the cases of Charles Meyer, accused in a grand jury charge of theft of a saddle belonging to Martin Miller of Castleton, and of Carl Goetz of Murrah, accused in a felony charge of receiving stolen goods.

Goetz pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned yesterday. Rayburn, Rayburn and Smith are his attorneys.

George Carpenter, who previously had pleaded guilty to a grand jury charge of chicken stealing, was sentenced by Judge Porter yesterday to serve a four-month term in the county jail.

Arraignment was continued until 10:30 a. m. in the case of Harvey S. Hale, former Twin Falls county sheriff, who he accused of embezzlement of some $500 from the Twin Falls "Civilians" Citizens' Association while he served as that organization's secretary and treasurer.

WORK CONTINUES ON LONG HIGHWAY

Pan-American Road Some Day May Link Alaska with Argentina.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Men working in steaming tropical jungles and on lonely mountain thousands of miles above the sea are linking together a Pan-American highway which some day may stretch from Alaska to Argentina.

Encouragement for their tasks came recently when representatives of the United States, Canada and the 20 Latin American republics agreed to urge their respective governments to appropriate moneys funds to push construction of the north-south roadway. They also urged completion of a Pan-American railroad.

Yet stretches of mountains, desert and jungle remain to be conquered before the Pan-American highway will reach completion. Nevertheless, officials hope that within a few years the average United States motorist may be able to make a trip that has been completed by an automobile only once—and then the machine had to be shipped by sea in order to negotiate impassable regions.

If it is completed, a United States tourist will be able to view in one continuous journey the rugged mountains and cactus plantations of Old Mexico; and in Central America, see coffee trees laden with red berries; or banana plantations in the hot, sticky coastal lowlands. Continuing south, he may see the Panama canal; stop, perhaps, for a visit to Colombia's emerald mines, four centuries old; pass Venezuela's oil fields, and drive on over the Andes past Ilama trails, to descend at last to the great pampas of Argentina, where men's wealth is measured by the size of the great herds of cattle grazing on the unending plains.

Greatest progress on the Pan-American highway has been made between Laredo, Texas, and Panama, a distance of about 2,200 miles. In Mexico, the only portion that remains to be constructed is an 80-mile stretch from the frontier with Guatemala to a point about 40 miles south of Mexico City.

In Central America and Panama, work has been expedited with United States cooperation. In Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala, surveys have been undertaken. In El Salvador and Mexico, such surveys already had been made.

The United States has aided several countries along the "Inter-American Highway" as the United States-Panama section is called, through donation of material and including assistance for construction of bridges. It also has furnished a number of highway engineers.

Under the cooperative arrangement, the respective governments have agreed to furnish certain, as well as the services of their highway engineers.

The Pan-American union's financial committee on the highway recently estimated $12,000,000 would be needed to complete the section between this country and Panama. Experts believe that any other link between the Panama Isthmus and the remainder of South America would have to depend at least in part on a ferry connection.

Joe Teodoro, chief of the travel section of the Pan-American union, describing the jungles of the area, said: "There is no record indicating that any human being, except the Indians, ever has traveled inland through the present Republic of Panama and Colombia."

In order to overcome this obstacle, it has been proposed to establish a ferry from Chiriqui, C. O., to Guaira, Venezuela. The highway between that port and Guaira would be followed, and the route would continue along the Simon Bolivar Highway, already open to traffic, with cross Venezuela, Colombia and Ecuador.

From Guaira, capital of Ecuador, two alternative routes to the southward have been under construction. The first route, through the Andes, coming down from the high Andes to a specific coastal plain in the Arica, Peru, reaching the coast at Guaymas, Lima or Moquegua, or remaining in the Andean Cordillera southward from Quito.

Foresees Expansion

ALFRED P. SLOAN predicted continuing the expansion of the automobile industry—provided national income increased—during his testimony before the monopoly committee hearing at Washington.

FARLEY PRAISES CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Democratic Chairman Declares Another Victory 'Within our Grasp'

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22 (AP)—James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, asserted tonight another victory for the party in the 1940 elections lay "within our grasp if we seize the opportunity and march forward, shoulder to shoulder" under the principles of President Roosevelt.

"We face the election of 1940," he said, "with an unparalleled record of achievement for the public welfare. The Republicans face it with out a leader, a policy or a program."

"Victory is within our grasp if we seize the opportunity to march forward, shoulder to shoulder, towards the goal that lies ahead. The trail has already been blazed by the greatest public leader of his generation, President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The triumph of his principles will be a victory not only for the party but also for the whole American people."

Farley spoke at a dinner of the Young Democrats of San Francisco. "Someone has very well said," Farley continued, "that the Republicans are now praying. Oh, Lord! Help us get rid of Roosevelt!" and also give US a Roosevelt to take his place.

"Although they are unanimous in condemning the chief executive, they realize, invariably that, not one of them is big enough to fill his shoes. Each of them fears that the other fellow is not big enough to do the job. And so the great search is on—for a candidate who has little or no record in office, and one who, if he can be found, has no public record of any kind."

Farley said the "grading acceptance" of Roosevelt doctrine by the "very individuals who portrayed in the loudest tones" against it at the outset, was proof that the president has done "ably and well."

As an example of what he termed a Republican "attitude of obstruction," Farley recalled that when the president recommended to Congress a number of changes in the social security act, "a leading Republican spokesman, frequently mentioned as a possible G.O.P. standard bearer in 1940, immediately announced to the public that the chief executive had failed at least to popular pressure and had gone over his head and begged to the Republican position."

"The eminent senator who sponsored the statement," Farley went on, "apparently overlooked the fact that the Republican committee has carried on a cruel and furious campaign to discredit and uproot the whole social security act in the closing days of the 1936 campaign."

THRIFT LEADS TO MOTOR FORTUNE

Charles W. Nash 'Saved a Nickel Here and a Dime There'

By DAVID J. WILKIP. DENVER, May 22 (AP)—The history of the automobile industry boasts no story more fiction-like than that of Charles W. Nash, 46-year-old chairman of the board of Nash-Kelvinator corporation, who calls himself "the most conscious of that life" and who holds hands with his wife in public.

Nash, one of that select group of hardy individuals who made the automobile industry start from less than scratch. When he was six years old he was "bound out" to a Genesee (Michigan) young farmer. The arrangement was that Nash would receive three months of schooling each year and when he became 21 would receive his freedom, three suits of clothing and $100 in cash.

It was from such a beginning that Nash carved out a career as an organizing genius and executive head of half a dozen of the leading units in the automobile industry, culminating in the founding of his own company and its consolidation in 1926 to form Nash-Kelvinator corporation.

Nash has no specific formula for success. He says, however, that "when you're out to win you can't afford to coast." He explains his own early progress with "a saved nickel here and a dime there, and their adds."

He can draw any line of demarcation between some fellow who hasn't got a dollar to his name and someone who has $20,000,000.

Nash is "Charles" to most of his friends, and he has been to those of his workers who cannot boast of long acquaintance with him. It is well known that he knows more manufacturers, distributors, dealers and salesmen by their first names than any other man in the automobile industry.

When Nash was bound out to the farmer in 1876 he began with good grace—until he was 12 years old. Then he ran away. He was taken back and sent to a reformatory at 18 and began "earning a nickel here and a dime there." The savings were sufficient to finance his first business venture.

The decision must be made whether to "put out" the sheep to a neighboring farmer. It was agreed that the farmer would give the wool for three years and then turn over 20 sheep to young Nash.

"I was put out" the sheep to a neighboring farmer. It was agreed that the farmer would give the wool for three years and then turn over 20 sheep to young Nash.

"I've either owned sheep or had money with which to buy sheep," Nash said. "I've never owned a sheep."

It was in 1910 that Nash became president of the Buick Motor Car Co. In recent years, transportation in South America has been facilitated by development of aviation, a factor not foreseen when plans were laid for the Pan-American railroad.

Not only passengers, but also freight, are now taken in airplanes across the mountains and jungles of South America. In some regions, it has been flown by airplane to remote mines in a few hours, whereas in former times a journey of many days over tortuous mountain trails on muleback would have been required.

Be it Good or Bad, Here's Lot of Luck

MONONA, Ia. (AP)—Back in Iowa after a seven-month southwestern tour, Fred E. Haffig and his family made his recapitulation of good and bad luck.

How many "SCREWDRIEVERS" can you find in this picture?

LOOKS LIKE A "SCREWDRIEVERS" CONVENTION!—But it's just Main Street on a busy afternoon! See if you can figure out what these "Screwdrivers" are doing! How about those two at the lower left? Oh, yes, they're just "cruising". And the lady in the upper right? She's only unloading in the middle of the street, giving other drivers a chance to test their brakes! Remember, your engine uses 3 times as much gasoline in low and second gear as in high—when a "Screwdriver" lifts you to a needless stop, he's taking it out of your pocket!

Common-sense driving can cut down Stop-and-Go 25%—right now

"Discourteous, thoughtless driving practices are one of the major causes of our present day stop-and-go. A movement that will cure them will, in my opinion, reduce stop-and-go by fully 25%."

Turkeys Enlisted In 'Hopper Drive'

TURKEY, Tex. (AP)—Bill Simpson thinks a turkey plus a hop is hardly king the last of dust this spring.

The "box score" that Paul Loewen keeps to show the frequency and severity of storms recorded only 13 for the first three months of this year compared with 23 in 1938.

Only six old-fashioned storms occurred this year, while 10 of last year's disasters harmed the land. In addition the heaviest hailstorm in the two counties he will drive his turkeys there and they will devour the insects.

He is willing to guarantee results, he told officials.

Piper's Too Good; Bounty Dropped

BENNETT, Ia. (AP)—The "pled" bounty on hoppers will no longer receive official encouragement from the town council.

The council voted five-and-ten-cent bounties on rats, depending on size.

In 1937 they paid $20.00 in bounties, but the payments jumped to $74.90 in 1938.

The city fathers did some hurried investigating, found that youths were "combining" surrounding towns for rats.

LABOR CLUB URGED SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—An ordinance of Santa Barbara, Calif., was sought out by John O. Henderson, farm security program instructor, was urged of wider adoption in view of California's migration labor problem.

It requires labor contractors to obtain a release from the county agricultural commissioner before contracting to work workers.

WHITNEYS ADD TO HUGE FORTUNES

Sonny Finances Vast Airway System; Jack Controls Selznick Pictures

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—It seems strange from the calendar these days that two members of the Vanderbilt-Whitney clan again are turning an extra dollar with work of their own doing.

And it appears to be a novelty, because for these many years past their names have appeared in the sports pages of the public prints where the performers of millions are daily recorded.

Sonny Whitney, who likes sea food and airplanes, and Jack Whitney, who likes medium race bets and Technicolor films, are no longer new, but it is only indirectly on account of the family whirligigs that they are of interest to patrons of nickleodons and airliners.

So far as they personally are concerned, profit is no object. They have millions. But those millions are continuing to be put to work in two goals, better movies and transatlantic air service.

Traditional

The names Sonny and Jack smack of squash racquets, polo, yachts and racing traditions, and the Vanderbilts and Whitneys.

Bluff old Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt built up his wealth by his descendants a heritage of "business" transacted in coarse figures and Indian traditions.

But it is the clan for years that have availed themselves of generous portions of leisure time.

But C. (Sonny) Whitney and John Hay (Jack) Whitney, who are continuing for long have been up to their eyes in business.

Jack's Selznick International picture producing, Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," Sonny's chief executive officer of Pan American Airways, is spanning the Atlantic in the world's largest commercial transports.

A history of the relationships among the sundry Vanderbilts and Whitneys would fill a tidy volume.

Mr. Whitney, war-time fiercer and one-time candidate for congress, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and the grandson of William Collins Whitney.

John Hay Whitney, former "angel" of Broadway shows and the richest man in the movie business, is the son of Mrs. Payne Whitney, also a widow. Payne and Harry Whitney, of course, were the great-grandchildren of the William Collins Whitney.

Sonny looks like the Whitney who ought to be in the movie business, but he is not. He is handsome, his tastes are ample. When the burden of the money is heavy, he is not. He is a content of Pan American Airways, because he likes it. Sonny moved in to accompany part of the load.

Father Allius

He and his wife had inherited the title 30-mile airline between Key West and Havana which today is the world's biggest air transport operation. Whitney as head of a holding company for the airline and Tropics as general manager of the operating company.

Whitney was the financial organizer of the airline which kept a finger on operating costs and revenues.

As for Jack:

With his own, his mother's and his cousin's money, John Hay Whitney controls Selznick International Pictures. He is a plunger. He made good money when the rest of the colony had low Angelo took flight at the prospective expense.

Little Sonny, he files. He thinks nothing of racing across the country by commercial transport overnight if business demands it. Once he ordered his pet dog, Jill, brought to his Virginia estate in his $50,000 Ziva plane.

He spends about three months a year in New York, the winter in California and the rest of the year in Europe. The speed with which he does things is reflected in the breaklessness of his assistant, Mrs. Mortazary.

A chicken in his new quarters in the new building which he can't go to eat.

For he likes after his school he lived the life of the rich. Then he became a "quaker" in the "old" house of Lee, Higginson & Co. at $65 a month. His fortune is estimated at $100,000,000.

Harbert Oppenheimer, a wealthy collector of Brax, Zouka and other "rocks" as a hobby, won the amateur championship of the Royal Horticultural Society show in Westchester.

CHIANG SYMBOL OF RESISTANCE

Veteran Correspondent Recalls Interview with Chinese Leader

Boston's note: It was twenty-three years ago that Mr. Miller was named to the world as foreign correspondent of the Associated Press. He helped cover the World war, in 1917-1918, and he has been assigned to the troubles in India, the Indian-Egyptian conflict, the Japanese-Chinese conflict in addition to many other news developments of international importance. Now he is in the United States on his first visit to the United States in the "The Bulletin" in which he tells of some interesting experiences in the foreign field.

By JAMES A. MILLER

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Only reports of fresh advances by the Japanese armies that reached Hainan, the new capital of mainland China, as we eat there in the semi-darkness of an underground shelter.

The bomb dropping in another part of the city on this late afternoon of an autumn day in 1937 first stands out in my memory as a sure testimony to the fact that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's enemies were intent on killing the man who was the chief of the army from the air, reducing Hainan to ruins or forcing him to abandon it.

The generalissimo sat there, blue in hand, almost immobile.

"China will fight to the bitter end," he said quietly.

He was sitting there, while the Japanese were pounding at the gates of Shanghai, and again while the Japanese were bombing and burning the rich capital of imperial China, war being snarled.

New Significance

Now, his words seemed to take on new significance. Fresh horrors of war were being experienced, tens of thousands of lives were being lost, and yet this modest, quiet, simple and restrained man, a symbol of Chinese resistance to invasion, continued to believe in his cause.

This interview in Hainan, which followed one in Hankow, before its fall, stands out in my memory as a sure testimony to the fact that 23 years of travelling about Europe, Asia and Africa as a foreign correspondent.

Many of my experiences have been dramatic, some of them have had my endurance, but all have constituted patchwork on that great canvas of world events.

A Kiss for Her Memories

was on which the history of a quarter of a century has been painted. By accident or design, it has been my fortune to be a part of it.

I have seen Mrs. Gandhi, wife of the mahatma, get into a little bit out because Madeline Glade, his daughter, while a severe fever was putting around it inopportune times.

I have bathed in a lake in a famous-famous country in an effort to escape typhus fever.

By accident or design I had a kiss of the Greek on the subject of all things of bed bugs.

Chiang Kai-Shek holds tenaciously now to his capital at Chungking, while the Japanese try to get a bomb on the city. I think of his gracious smile, of his winning personality, of his striking resemblance to his personal characteristics to Mahatma Gandhi.

Devout in Faith

It seems that always he has his Bible with him. It was a condition of his marriage to Mrs. King Soong, his present wife, a graduate of Wellesley and Wesleyan that he become a Christian. He is devout in his faith.

The generalissimo has great fortitude, and the courage of a lion. He has instilled those qualities in his followers. Here, at the very reverse, the Chinese military continues to fight.

The most striking thing about Chiang Kai-Shek are his eyes. They have an almost electric beauty and appear to have been checked by a sculptor. A deep, yellow brown, they hold the attention of visitors with an incredible stick.

During my association with Gandhi I once asked Mohi Shinde to sum up the mahatma's character and the key to his greatness for the Associated Press. She actually replied "at his feet."

"Oh, the greatest," referring to the spiritual leader of 300,000,000 Indians. "Babu" is far too sacred and too great for a common mortal like me to attempt to describe him.

"If you'll come to me after Babu is dead, I may try to write an appraisal of his character—no pun."

Miss Shinde adopted Hindi habits completely when she became Gandhi's disciple. She is Hindu in her religion, philosophy and mode of dress. She is almost cloistered in her seclusion about Gandhi's home at all hours of the night attended in her white, flowing Indian robes.

Her name for Gandhi, "Babu," means "father." She looks after the old man as a mother would after a delicate child. So perfectly attentive is she that Mrs. Gandhi occasionally shows signs of annoyance at her presence.

It was in Hainan that I had to battle in a house to rid myself of the possibility of any body lice carriers of typhus fever. The World War brought famine epidemics and suffering to the people.

It was my good fortune to receive chocolates and other tidbits occasionally, and I shared them with the children of the royal family.

The late King Constantine of Greece was the man who told me about his experiences with bed bugs. Those in Smyrna, he told me during a visit to that Anatolian port during the Greek-Turkish war in 1922, were as bad as St. Bernard dogs.

"That interview—or so some members of Constantinople's government told me—almost cost Constantine his throne because it was not meant for a king to discuss such a subject. When I dared apologize to him for any embarrassment, I might have caused him. He smiled broadly.

"A tempter in a tempter," he said. "Think nothing of it."

THIS little wide-eyed girl at Boston may remember when she grows up that Jeanie Radewski, one of the great living pianists, kissed her hand. Alois, three-year-old Marjorie Saunama is plainly aware by such confidential gallantry. She's the daughter of Jeanie Maria Saunama (left), who has just played the Paderewski Concerto, Opus 17.

STORAGE WHEAT GOES TO ORIENT

Government Ships 2,000,000 Bushels From Utah and Idaho

GOODYEN, May 23 (AP)—Shiploads of two million bushels of storage wheat in Utah and Idaho to Vancouver, Wash., for export to the Orient by the United States government has been underway the past 10 days and will probably continue well into June, railroad men here reported Saturday.

So far the principal loading point has been Blanding, Idaho, but numerous empty box cars have also been concentrated at other points in this territory.

The wheat being shipped is that which the government loaned the growers about 45 cents per bushel last year. It is now distress of getting all this stored wheat out of the country before the new crop is harvested, and for this reason, according to railroad men, the government is offering an additional cent to cent and a half per bushel to induce farmers who will sell.

Another inducement to sell is that loans are due May 31. The government's purchase after it good until May 31—expiring—then, and the farmers are allowed until June 25 to have their grain shipped out.
