

ANTI-SOVIET PLANS TOLD BY WITNESS

International Movement Described After Angry Exchange Between Organ and Leader of Dietation

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 23—A tale of a loosely interlocking international anti-communist movement heading up in Italy and Germany was unfolded before the Dies committee today by a stormy and defiant witness who interspersed his testimony with references to "the new problem," "new bankers" and "new Communists."

The witness was George E. Deatherage, national commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, whose oath, the same as a Klansman's oath, he said, forbade him to see how many members of the organization has, where its chapters are located, and who the leaders are. The witness, he added, was watching closely and had interviewed some leaders already.

He proved a wordy witness, but only after a short and angry exchange with Chairman Dies (D-2) who had evaded two brassy Capitol policemen forcibly seating him upon the witness chair.

"That's a minute, I want a Christian oath 'm' taking? Is this your assurance wouldn't add to it?" Dies replied, "raise your right hand."

"I don't know about that," he said, raising and adding something partially in the German. "But apparently I intend to make it clear that he had 'evidence' of his own."

"All down," Dies roared. "On 'com'—over there," he made back.

Dies smiled the policeman. They went into action immediately, a half dozen of them. But the two men who immediately began running. They seized Deatherage by the elbows and plumped him into the chair.

After that, the witness, a sizeable man with a round face and a broad forehead, admitted a pair of dark glasses, (similar to those worn by one of his associates, James E. Campbell, who testified yesterday) and proceeded to give the committee a lengthy account of his activities and beliefs.

Three Convicts Return to Penitentiary

THREE escaped prison convicts captured last Monday near Crouch, Idaho, by members of a posse of a hundred men after they had saved their way out of their cells and climbed over the high prison walls. Left to right they are: Edgar Pruett, 35, serving long terms for robbery; A. Keith of their group, Lonnie Walling, Boundary county, and Raymond Curtis, 20, Kootenai county. All were being held in the Crouch, Idaho, penitentiary. The three are shown as they reentered the penitentiary at Boise. (Associated Press photo; engraving by Idaho Statesman.)

Independence Urged On Idaho Stockmen

Speakers Advocate Quality Beef Production, Avoidance of Debt

Idaho stockmen must adhere to small scale production, forgetting expansion and speculation in favor of producing quality beef off debt-free ranches if the industry is to survive adverse years, John T. Caine, III, of the Chicago Union Stockyards, said here yesterday.

Caine shared the speaking platform with F. E. Moilin, Denver, secretary of the American National Livestock association, during afternoon sessions of the 23rd annual convention of the Idaho Cattle and Horse Growers' association.

Idaho's Business Women Vote Approval of Mothers' Pledge

Passed unanimously at the state convention of the Idaho Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs at their afternoon session in Twin Falls yesterday was the American Mothers' declaration.

Signed by Constance A. Sporborg, chairman, and Carrie Chapman Catt, honorary chairman, the declaration reads: "Thankful for the rights and obligations of our nation, we, the American Mothers, in New York City, when these blanks have been signed by women throughout the United States, and all are returned to the National committee, they will be arranged in one grand book and presented to the World's Fair for permanent possession and exhibition to the traditions of our nation."

QUEEN MARY OF BRITAIN INJURED

Condition of King's Mother Termed 'Satisfactory' After Car Crash

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Britain's Queen Mary and her four-year-old son escaped from serious injury or death when her automobile overturned in a collision with a two-ton truck in a London suburb today; three days before her 72nd birthday.

The Queen Mary and her mother of reigning, George VI, Queen Mary was found to be suffering from a concussion at her home at Marlborough House, but the royal physicians pronounced her condition "satisfactory."

Reports of her condition were forwarded to George VI and his son, Prince Edward, who are in Toronto, Canada, by their eldest son, the Duke of Windsor, and to other close relatives. This bulletin was issued tonight at Marlborough House.

Her Majesty Queen Mary is suffering from bruising and shock as a result of the accident. She is recovering and will need some days' complete rest, her majesty's general physician said at this evening's statement.

Signed, Stanley Hewett and Dawson P. Egan.

The signatures were those of Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson P. Egan. The latter was Queen George V and a probably England's most noted physician.

Her Majesty Queen Mary was returning to Marlborough House, was badly damaged when the front of the truck crashed into a rear wheel. No one in the truck was injured.

WARDEN REPORTS TO PRISON BOARD

Installation of Electrical Alarm System in Walls Considered

BOISE, May 23 (AP)—Members of the Idaho penitentiary board decided today to investigate possible installation of an electrical alarm system that would set off an alarm in case a convict attempted to cross the prison walls.

The walls now are guarded when inmates are allowed to roam the yard in the daytime, but the towers are unmanned in the nighttime after guards are locked in their cells.

The hearing was called because of the escape of four prisoners now in custody, last week.

Attorney General W. Taylor suggested that greater precautions be taken in searching convicts sent to the penitentiary.

Warden P. C. Meredith said: "I thought it was best for Warden Meredith to come in and explain to the board his ideas about what took place."

Lonnie Walling, Surrounded in Sleep Beside Stolen Rifle, Surrenders Without Resistance

(By The Associated Press) CROUCH, Idaho, May 23—The law report on Lonnie Walling, 31-year-old escaped Idaho convict as he slept beside his .30-caliber rifle today and cheated him of the chance to keep his threat "to fight it out" with a hundred posse members who earlier captured his three companions.

Surprised as he dozed in a mountain-side cave used to store dynamite, Walling, surrendered without resistance to complete the capture of the quartet that for more than three days led posse through some of the most rugged of America's western wildernesses.

"Put your hands out in front of you and crawl out of here or I'll blast you," shouted Prison Guard W. Kramer.

The bedraggled convict came out through a 2-by-3-foot opening, leaving the stolen rifle near him.

His three confederates in the dingy prison bunk last Saturday morning were captured without resistance when they were surrounded by a hundred men in a deserted mountain log cabin last night.

Only a few hours earlier the four had been locked in their cells. One of the men carried for a time, this boat:

"We're going to fight it out; they'll never take us alive."

No Exchange of Shots

There was no exchange of shots in the three-day hunt that erupted state penitentiary officers from Boise, sheriff's men from a half-dozen surrounding Idaho counties, state police city officers, national guardsmen and deputized farmers and militia workers.

One of the latter, Peter Jessup, said he was injured in the chase. Governor, Boise county Sheriff Jack Tucker of Idaho City and his deputy, Chester Young, in arresting Walling.

The four came upon the convict's trail early this morning, followed by a posse of 100 men, which followed down a mountain-side into Garden valley and located the spot where Walling was hiding.

The trail led them to the forest service road that parallels the middle fork of the Payette river and ended in a group of ranch outbuildings just across the road from a farm house.

"We searched all the buildings and then came upon a cellar-like structure," Bremer said.

With Hands Up

"We looked down into it and there Walling was crouching."

Walling, 31, a piece only three miles from the cabin where his three companions in the escape—Cliff Daugherty, 35, reputedly the lawbreaker in the posse, and Raymond Curtis, 20, gave up a few hours earlier.

All had been on foot since early Monday.

The four spent Sunday night at Crouch.

Premonition of Disaster Told

BOSTON, May 23 (AP)—A sailor's premonition that the trial ship of the new submarine Squalus might be ill-fated was revealed today by Mrs. Francis M. Murphy, Southern District of Massachusetts. Quartermaster Master E. Murphy, of the Squalus, said:

MISS MOODY NEW B.P.W. PRESIDENT

Twin Falls Member Named Head of Federation at Closing Sessions

Other officers elected were Mrs. Minnie Dwyer, Caldwell, vice-president; Leona Naeff, Idaho Falls, second vice-president; Bernice P. Egan, Boise, secretary; Emma Antkowiak, Nampa, recording secretary; Anna Ball, Boise, treasurer; and Mrs. M. Zetta McCoy, Twin Falls, president.

Delegates to Convention

Named as delegates to the national convention of the National Federation of B. P. W. clubs in Kansas City, Mo., today were: Mrs. M. Zetta McCoy, Twin Falls, Idaho Falls; Rose Egan, Pocatello; Lillian McCorley, Lyda Logan and Cora Egan, Boise; and Mrs. M. Zetta McCoy, Twin Falls, Idaho Falls.

Miss Naeff was also named as Idaho's delegate to the national convention.

Opening the sessions yesterday morning, the Jerome club, with Miss Egan as guest speaker, presented another episode in the local convention theme, "Modern Empire Building."

Group singing was featured and Mrs. Egan presided. The group presented a duet. Decorations were garden flowers and favors were manufactured by Mrs. Egan.

Outlines Theme

Mrs. C. Buchanan Richmond, national representative, Bowman, Va., outlined the theme of Federation, "The Future of Democracy," urging all clubs to follow closely the recommendations as given.

During her talk she stressed the fact that women have stood and should stand for the good of the race, rather than the special laws that would benefit the few.

They are the goals of the future. They are the goals of the future. They are the goals of the future.

INDEPENDENCE OF STOCKS URGED

Addressed the group on financing and independence of livestock stockmen, and the importance of the closing afternoon assembly.

During his talk Mollin declared that the independence of livestock stockmen will never really be attained until the American livestock convention, because it holds such a threat to the American livestock industry.

American livestock producers have never noticed that they are not willing to publish their herds and flocks, and that they are not willing to publish their herds and flocks, and that they are not willing to publish their herds and flocks.

BYRD LEADS NEW ATTACK ON DEBT Virginian Points to Danger in Roosevelt Program

WASHINGTON, May 23 (Special)—Continuing against the advance by President Roosevelt last night, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) tonight said that the evils of debt—to make debt popular—is a dangerous doctrine to preach.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested in an address to the American Retail Federation in relation to the nation's assets. He asked his listeners to remember that the federal debt is an internal one and added that "a reasonable internal debt will not impoverish our country."

Byrd, a member of the senate economic board, said in a statement that the president's speech demonstrated that he had accepted "hook line and sinker" the theory of spending and lending to purchase property.

The Virginia senator credited the theory to Custumer Dierster S. Eccles of the federal reserve board.

The government, Byrd added, "not only has offered federal grants to communities but actually federal money has been committed and urged acceptance of public funds as a patriotic contribution to recovery."

Referring to the president's statement that the debt was internal, Byrd said the chief executive had implied that "for that reason it is of little consequence."

The senator urged Mr. Roosevelt as saying that "if our children have to pay interest on the debt, they will interest to themselves" and added:

"It is the ethics policy of popularizing debt by minimizing its evils. When examined, its utter fallaciousness and its un-American character are apparent."

"Comparatively few American families own public bonds and are anxious of federal interest. The vast majority will be paying taxes to pay interest to the small number of families owning the bonds. Taxes will be paid, as Mr. Roosevelt once put it, out of the sweat of every man who labors."

CIO CHIEF GETS BILL FOR STRIKE Republic Steel Corporation Sues for $7,500,000 Damages

CLEVELAND, May 23 (AP)—Tom C. Glavin, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, today filed a $7,500,000 bill today for the 1927-1928 steel strike.

The Republic Steel Corporation filed a federal court suit against the Congress of Industrial Organizations and many of its union leaders, demanding the huge amount for "damages" for the strike, recklessly, wantonly and willfully acting to shut down the industry and largest steel producer.

Only a week ago Lewis CIO national leader for $7,500,000 in damages claims filed with the CIO. CIO contended the amount was due to the Republic under an 1833 settlement order, opposed by the corporation.

Another $2,500,000 in personal injury and death damage suits has been asked of Republic as a result of the violent steel strike which took 16 lives and cost the company an estimated $5,000,000 in potential profits.

Today's suit, possibly the largest ever brought against a labor union, declared leaders and strikers violated restraint of trade sections of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws. 700 persons, most of them Ohioans, were named defendants along with CIO workers organizing committee and its 400 members.

CANADIAN soldiers at Ottawa performed an old British custom: The trooping of the colors for King George VI. For the ceremony the king was in the uniform of a colonel of the Coldstream Guards with a lowering bearing hat. It was part of the king's birthday observance. This was the scene as the spectacular ceremony was staged on the parliament grounds at Ottawa.

EDEN GIRL WINS RAILWAY AWARD

Receives Third Member of Club to Qualify for Scholarship

JEROME, May 23—Word of the approval of Miss Dora Huetig, Eden high school senior, as winner of the $100 scholarship given by the Union Pacific railroad for 1930, was received this week in the office of the Jerome county agent, Eugene W. Whitman.

Approval was made by Reed, agricultural superintendent of the railroad company. The notification was received through J. H. Rearden, chief of the club.

Also receiving official approval as alternate for the scholarship was Miss Lois Boice also of Eden. Both girls are Eden high school seniors and each has been a member of the work both as club members and club leaders.

Of interest in the selection of Miss Huetig is the fact that she is the third member of the Eden 4-H club to receive such a scholarship within the past three years.

The 1929 and 1930 winners were the Misses June and Margaret Montgomery.

The scholarship citation the winner to $100 toward expenses in college of agriculture or in the division of home economics at the University of Idaho at Moscow, and must be used immediately following completion of high school work.

25 ON LIST FOR CROPS PUBLICITY

Governor to Choose Board Members from Among Nominees

BOISE, May 23 (AP)—Names of 25 southern Idaho farmers and produce shippers were submitted today to Governor C. A. Bottelstein who will select six of them as members of the state's new advertising commission to publicize potatoes and onions.

A seventh will be chosen to represent north Idaho and E. P. Nettley, state agricultural commissioner, will be the eighth.

The new group on July 1 will take over duties performed now by the commission that was created by the 1927 legislature to advertise four Idaho products, onions, potatoes, apples and prunes.

The 1929 legislature revamped the plan, making it apply only to onions and potatoes and reducing the number to finance it from 10 to 7 cent per hundredweight on the produce marketed in Idaho.

The old commission will meet once more on June 9, 10, 16 at Sun Valley in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Idaho Growers and Shippers' association convention.

There have been recommendations made for a commissioner from north Idaho. Peterovsky said. District No. 11—Donnell, Frank, Bobby Dana, Edw. E. Schmidt, Elmer Emery, Jesse Shalk, Lorraine Severn.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause! If constipation has you down you feel heavy, tired and doped. You don't get any sleep at all. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble. If you eat the super-refined food most people live on, you are sure to get constipated. "Bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't digested in the body, but leaves a soft, bulky mass behind.

If this common form of constipation in your trouble, eat Laxative-Albion for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. Albion isn't a medicine—it's a cranberry-based, nutritious cereal that will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. SOUTHERN AMERICA

Let us give a little space today to a lady recently returned to her northern home from her first trip to the south. "I had, when I started, the usual confused northern idea. A strange, lazy, languorous country, with a population to match. Haughty whites and easy-going blacks, a nature coupled with human poverty and decay.

"The reality was amazing. Drug stores, chain stores, milling crowds on the streets were just the same. New cars threaded the highways. Roadside lined with roadside base-ball. Lads and lassies went to movies. Newspapers had the same headlines as at home. There were, of course, more black faces on the streets, fewer of the Slavic type so common in our northern cities. What surprised me were the similarities. "Some fine old houses were crumbling. But some, as in New England, their functions defined, were being lived in, their lovely lines preserved.

"Poverty of people and of soil in some regions was heart-breaking to one used to fat level Ohio acres with their comfortable farm houses. But the poverty was greater than that. In the big cities, slums, and in a coach tourist it looked easier to bear on the porch of a cabin in the sunshine, than in a dark and dingy tenement.

"As to decay, the impression received is that the strong growth pushing up through last fall's dead leaves. "Restoration of exhausted soil by plenty of cheap fertilizer and plenty of education in its use indicated. This has begun. Trucks full of fertilizer are always in sight on the highways. Turned plowing already shows results.

"In short, the prevailing south gives me is not at all that of languor and remoteness. It is that vigor, of young strength, of nearness in thought and attitude to those of the north and west. "Differences in climate, customs, scenery make travel interesting for everybody who can get into a car and go some place. But the more the American grows to appreciate of his native land, the more he is moved to say, 'This, too, is America!'

WHAT MUSIC TAKES

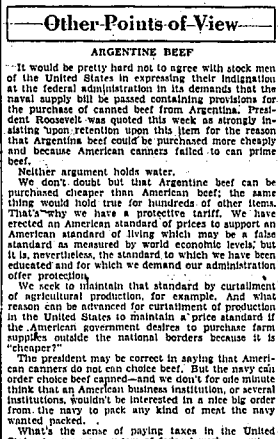

B. H. Haggin, in a recent volume of complaints of the excuses given for musical mediocrity in these days. He dithalizes the argument that "if the twentieth-century composer does not produce as good music as the eighteenth it will not be the benefit of the nineteenth century system of patronage."

Mr. Haggin points out that though Haydn produced fine music under the patronage of Count Esterhazy, "a hundred other musical geniuses were left to starve in the nineteenth century system of patronage."

Other Points of View

ARGENTINE BEEF It would be pretty hard not to agree with stock men of the United States in expressing their indignation at the federal administration in its demands that the beef supply will be passed control provisions for the purchase of canned beef from Argentina.

NEITHER ARGUMENT HOLDS WATER. We don't doubt, but that Argentine beef can be produced and sold in the American beef, that thing would hold true for hundreds of other items. That's why we have a protective tariff. We have a tariff on American goods to protect our industry.

WE SEEK TO MAINTAIN THAT STANDARD BY curtailment of agricultural production, for example. And what will not be done for beef in Argentina is not done in the United States to maintain a price standard if the American government desire to purchase farm supplies at the market price because it is "cheaper."

KEEP YOUR SHIRT ON Here's where we can't agree. But we get in Dutch with western public sentiment and become a political "leper" in the cattle country. Look at a point of view in order to buy a few thousand pounds of Argentine beef for the navy. The order was clearly a gesture of friendship to Argentina.

Past President's Clubs Have Annual Mother's Day Luncheon

Co-hostesses at a Mother's day luncheon of charming appointments yesterday afternoon were members of the Hansch, Eden and Twin Falls Past Presidents' club of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Forty-eight members and guests were seated at four long tables centered with spring flowers in a pink and blue color motif, in crystal vases and baskets, and arranged on a mirror base.

Miss Eva Dunning, sponsor of the Sophomore Girls' League, was the honoree at a hilarious 'elephant' luncheon in 1938, was a special guest and had an inspiring talk on the early days of the G.A.R.

A buffet supper was served by the hostess and elephant party guests, and the evening was closed with the singing of old songs with Patricia Smith at the piano.

Miss Virginia Hopkins was the guest of honor at the party, Mrs. Rose Throston, dean of girls, was invited, but was unable to attend.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Interested watchers and satisfied their curiosity. "Found my brief case yet?"

"Yes, man!" Hamilton said. "You'll come long if I let her lead her out the back way. 'Bertha' he said, 'there's a note from me in the brief case and then take this to Zeb Chase. I'll wait for you here. Go grab a coat.'"

"'It's a trap!'" As Zeb walked away with a disgruntled and somewhat nervous expression, Hamilton turned toward the Leachley house.

"'Ias Asey really got anything?' She demanded as Hamilton turned toward the Leachley house. 'I wouldn't say this to everyone. I told her, 'but the guy's going to be in a hurry to get out of the house this afternoon, late with a jar of beaching jelly.'"

"'You heard. And with that, he goes into action. And when Asey goes into action, I say scoldingly, 'the girl into action, I know some hard experience with it last night. What have you—what's been going?'"

"'On change your clothes, I'll tell you later.' The doctor's quiet of the old house made Key find that the trooper was within call. She hurried to a hurry and rushed back to the car.

"'Tell me more!' "Obed birds, flying reds, darn! dog, bit Lash. He's been a mess. We been here two days. Asey, he's piece at how it all your work. 'No,' Bertha said obstinately. 'I want to have it. Say, did you do anything to the jelly, like cooking?' This looks different from what I told her."

"'Not while I was there, an' not that jar.' Asey said. 'Look I can't tell you.' 'You will. You'll have it for supper, right now,' Bertha said, 'with a little beef. There's still some moved the paraffin, and turned the jelly out into a dish. 'It certainly looks like that. I'm sure it must have done something to it after they got through the judging.'"

"'It's a crime, it's a crime,' Bertha, Asey said, 'but I want you to know I appreciate it. 'While he was here, he cut his beer, he spread some of the jelly on a piece of bread. 'How is it? Bertha asked. 'How—what's the matter?' Asey, with his mouth, rushed from the room. Bertha's eyes filled with tears, and then she grabbed a teacup and tasted the jelly. She was rushing from the kitchen as Asey returned.

"'Well, Asey said when she came back, 'well, I mean, I'm awful sorry to see that, but seeing how you done the same.' 'Asey, Asey!' Bertha said. 'Asey, that's not the way. I've made anything like that awful burned amely stuff jelly. I should think someone would put out a coin and build the awnings with burned sugar. I didn't think, this afternoon, that it was mine. It looked different. But the number was right on it, and it was my number, and it was the same jar, and this all—Asey, how do you suppose—how did it happen?'"

"'Different glass.' 'I don't know.' 'But you tasted it—didn't the Judge taste it?' 'You—' Bertha put in two jars, an they had same numbers on it. 'I'll take the one to take from, an then stuck the duplicate under the light an' tried to get it, an' peered around. Bertha, this ain't the same jelly of yours we tasted this afternoon. Now, I'm sure, curious. Flip it back into the jar an' let me stare at it again.'"

"'He said it up to the light. 'No, it's not. Bertha, let me see that paraffin. Fish. Now, get me one of your jars of beach-plain from the preserve closet. 'Same jar,' Bertha said. 'Hope this here's a blue glass.' 'They all came from the same set of jars.' 'That's different,' Asey said. 'Not as white. Bertha, let me think.' Bertha said after fifteen minutes, 'where'd that awful stuff come from?'"

"'What stuff?' I know, Asey said slowly. 'I think I know where it come from. I can't say I looked it up, but that stuff's should say not to go right out to the garbage hole.' 'Asey said. 'Bertha, I want you to do something for me. You go on to take this awful jelly, an' you're not to let it get to you. I got it. Take the labels an' put 'em on another jar. Whatever you do, don't you tell a soul.' 'You—you kind of scare me,' Bertha said. 'Why—what're you so solemn about? What's the good of that nasty stuff?' 'You know what's been goin' on, don't you? About Zeb Chase's good of that nasty stuff?' Bertha nodded. 'Aunt Sara told us that she haven't told. What that got to do with it?' 'I figured one thing,' Asey said. 'I figured, now, with my luck, this nasty stuff's an' to solve them two murders, an' to go to solve 'em before I go to bed tonight.'"

"'Hamilton stood just behind the door, half ball room and hummed under his breath the tune that Upjohn's merry-makers were swinging to the air.' He had hoped to attend the final grand ball in an entirely unofficial capacity, but he had reckoned without Asey May's."

"'He finally located Key Thayer, dancing with Zeb. He winked at her and jerked his head toward the door, and then leaped back against the wall as though his only problem in life was to prop up the door.' 'The str got it. Asey said, she would. At the end of the dance Zeb turned over to him. 'El, trooper,' she looked at the

Geologist Sees World's History

CALDWELL, May 23—In a short outline of the world's geologic history given at the annual meeting of the Wyoming Geol. and Mineralogical Society Friday evening, Prof. J. H. Caldwell, geologist and professor of Idaho chemistry, held pointed out the belief of leading scientists who say "if one were to consider the entire history of the world as covering 24 hours, the lifetime of the human race would have endured only two minutes of that period."

"He continued saying, 'The estimation of the time of the earth's geologic history is largely based upon the study of radio-active elements and the decomposition of radium ores. We do know that it took approximately 1,000,000,000 years to develop life from the earliest, general masses in the earth's crust since the prime of the worm-like and snail-like creatures who lived in the first stages of the earth's history. Man, a comparatively recent development, is the final product of the earth's long history. Man's history began a mere 60,000 years ago.'"

"In his informative address, Prof. Caldwell also told of dinosaurs, 'Robber' birds, flying reptiles, dragons and winged serpents of 29 inches, and of the some 800 known species of dinosaurs which ranged from three to four inches in length and were so numerous that they covered the entire period the nickname 'coelocron era.'"

"'Oh, he says, Asey phoned him tonight, 'No, look, don't bother Asey. I'll see to it as a matter of fact, and he learned all the tricks. And the fellow he had with him is a real nut.'"

"'What follow?' Hamilton shrugged. 'Asey brought him from Boston. 'From Boston?' 'Yin, it's been there today. Didn't you know I don't know the man and nobody told me who he is. While Asey was doing that, he carried around a bag of sugar and some flour. We held up your photographs and we kidnaped Central Phillips, and we kidnaped 'Duck—what for? And the General, we stole his motor car. 'Hamilton, this is pure Nutschasing.'"

"'Oh, sir,' Hamilton protested. 'The General didn't mind coming. He seemed to like it. Laine and I, we took the pictures. We stole his motor car and his pictures of the exhibition.'"

"'Local man development. For the winners. Pictures taken yesterday. Laine and I put out lung coats and tied handkerchiefs around our faces, and held him up in his car, just outside the rooms. We tied him up. Little later we came along as police and found him and sent him every-thing back. Asey already found out what he wanted. He was waiting in the bushes. Anyway, Duck thinks we're well. But what Asey wanted a lot of pictures of jelly and things for nobody knows.'"

"'Jelly?' Kay said. 'It's insane!'"

Vacation Church School at Jerome

Jerome, May 23—The Presbyterian and the Methodist churches will sponsor a union vacation church school, to be held in both churches beginning Monday morning, June 6, at 9 a. m. Sessions will be held every school morning for two weeks. Children from three years old to high school age will find classes of instruction, games, dramatics, handwork and storybook periods. Emphasis on the study of the Bible and the life of Jesus will be arranged by the pastors of the two cooperating churches. There are no charges for instruction but an offering to defray expenses is taken on each day's morning. Any children who do not attend another Church or Sunday school are welcome. Classes close each day at 12 noon.

Buhl, Coeur d'Alene Camps Foster Children's Health

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, May 23—Good food, rest and regular exercise will aid more than 200 Idaho boys and girls here in Twin Falls county in attaining better health next summer. Through the cooperation of the Idaho anti-tuberculosis association, local tuberculosis associations and public health units, summer health camps are operated at Rock Springs, near here, and at Buhl, in southern Idaho. The McChesky Memorial camp at Buhl will operate two camps, one for ten- and twelve-year girls only, from 12 to 15 years of age, to open early in June; and a six-week session for both boys and girls from 10 to 15 years of age, beginning about July 1. The Rock Springs health camp here will be for boys and girls from 10 to 12 years of age and will open about the last week in June and run for eight weeks. The camps are made possible by the annual sale of Christmas seals and through the cooperation of the Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis association, the local associations and many organizations and individuals. Mrs. C. J. O'Neill of Coeur d'Alene will be camp chairman at Rock Springs. Mrs. Clyde Smithson of Buhl will be chairman for the McChesky health camp at Buhl for the ninth season and Mrs. W. Orr Chapman of Twin Falls is president of the Twin Falls county association.

'Precision Driver' Favored to Win Fourth Speedway Crown

INDIANAPOLIS. The field of speed, leavened with danger and spiced with contention, makes no mistake in favoring Lou Meyer for the 1939 renewal on May 30.

Meyer, whom the railbirds call the Flying Dutchman, has a life as well organized and geared as to make that of the village bank president and church deacon seem like that of a playboy.

His Lou does it work on his car, drive it, hunt, play golf and enjoy the company of his attractive family.

Reports at 9 A. M. Here at Indianapolis, getting ready for the 27th annual Memorial day race, Lou keeps office hours almost as exactly as does a business man.

He checks in at the track at 9 a. m., knocks off for lunch at noon, works on his car or drives it during the afternoon, and is home for an early dinner.

He likes it, of course, but the little of the after effect of the wind ahead of the excitement of trying to speed it around and of triumphing in the arduous, 300-mile classic are taken right in stride.

He thinks the speed which allows them to drive at a pace which he thinks is ahead that, average.

The pipe-smoking Californian is the biggest winner in Indianapolis racing history.

He reports daily at 9 a. m. for his work. In off hours, he golfs or raids the ice box.

He has some of his own money invested in his new car, which is sponsored by Robert Ross, accessory manufacturer.

Meyer's attitude of not thinking about the car, but you have to ask him about his philosophy.

"Oh, I guess I could be called a philosopher," Meyer says.

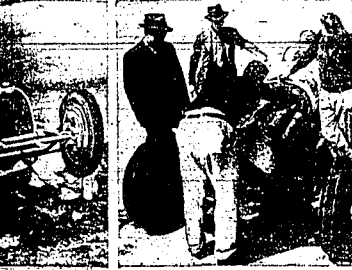

Both Mrs. Meyer and Lou love to drive. Mrs. Meyer is the better shot, Lou says.

They have two children, Louis, Jr., 8, and Louise, 2.
