COURT DIVIDES STATE TAX

Five-to-Four Opinion Upholds New York Levy on Estate

(By The Associated Press) The supreme court in decision Monday... ruled that a state in which a deceased person had his legal residence could collect inheritance taxes on inheritable property held in another state.

The court ruled that a state could impose death taxes on securities within a state owned by a person domiciled in another state.

The court ruled that a corporation was subject to local taxation on its stock owned in the state although business headquarters were maintained elsewhere.

The court ruled that a trust created by a will was not a trust for the purposes of the New York estate tax.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

tate in California.

CHAPTER THREE

Unlived
The beauty of the March afternoon was unprecedented, even for Southern California. The mercury dropped ten degrees. A few clouds, resembling smoky puffs from a giant pipe, drifted across the sky.

"The sun, a ball of yellow heat, warmed the tumbling white-crested surf, reflected on the mirrors, and laid beneficent fingers over the big striped awnings dotted the terrace. Scieffitt Manor, Many of Joeey's guests appeared about the large swimming pool in massive, others relaxed at white wicker tables under the umbrellas while the English butler, in his among them carrying a tray heavy with laid treated glasses.

Joeey, in a trailing track of starched green chiffon, drifted from table to table, a sparkling, gracious hostess who looked like a girl with her shoulder-length tresses hair lit bright white.

Joeey, catching her alone a moment said: "Your party is a success, Lou. Everyone's having a marvelous time!"

She flushed with pleasure and touched his arm affectionately. "Oh, Joeey, the musicians just arrived.
Under the sky you will see the near the drawing-room windows so we can hear them out here? Have you any more surprises?"

A few minutes ago he was over on the tennis court with Mary Adams. If you won't need a tennis while, Lyn, I think I'll join a bridge game."

A few minutes later soft Haw-aian voices, accompanied by guitars, drifted over the terrace. Bob and the tennis court for the shower, incited a moment, an ironic smile, his clear eyes He was struck by the incognito of Hawaiian crooning against the settled English background, insisted by the massive pile of gray brick. If a person had imagination, he might see would creep in the light tinkling strains of a millennium. Still, "I thought Joeey had said he would play the piano with old girl!" he thought. He shrugged and went on into the house.

Joeey nodded in satisfaction at the haunting island songs. Everything was perfect for today, the sun, the party, the people, her brothers, and even Geoff. All was better in daylight.

Joeey, smiling, when all was gone, Sandy began to bark, then raced on his funny short legs around the feet of the hostess. At the same moment a car backed from the direction of the drive. "Sandy's been become more insistent, more furious, as an apparition materialized before the haunted eyes of the guests. Down the drive, roaring and spitting, came a dusty sedan of ancient vintage hauling a trailer load of the most crumb of lumber, the ped with a last visible sign in plain sight of the people on the terrace.
Joeey, who had noticed it with an heard of intrusion on a private occasion, beckoned Humphreys, the butler.

"Tell them to leave at once!" she ordered. Humphreys, wrapped in austere dignity, marched toward the offending contraption. Joeey, in full out of the driver's seat and speak to the butler. For several minutes they held a conversation, at the end of which the young man started departing in her direction and Humphreys, forgetting dignity, almost ran toward her, an expression of panic and dismay on his usually imperturbable face.

"What is it, Humphreys?" he demanded, conscious that everyone within earshot was listening curiously.

"It . . . It's them, Mrs. Oh, this is terrible. Terrible! The young party, Humphreys, who is terrible?"
"Who is 'them' and what is terrible?"
"The Texas people, Miss Joeey.
That Mack family. They've come here to stay . . . they want to know where to put their belongings now. Shall I get Mister Thorsbeck?"

Joeey, instantly deciding it would not do to frisk at her own party, clasped her hands and said:
"Never mind, Humphreys. I'll talk to them later. They might have some documents and see that the Hawaiian keep playing."

Joeey, lifted her trailing skirts in one hand and advanced toward the invaders, her facial muscles frozen into a mask of stern indignation. They let her know they were coming instead of embarrassing her before all these people? And who would she do with them? She didn't need a second look to know they were socially quite impossible. It was a matter of bargaining in which they must know they were not misled.

Face to face
"How do you do," she said frigidly, meeting the car and the young farmer beside it. For one moment her cool blue eyes clashed with his bold black ones, then he turned to the car's other passengers. "I am Joeey Russell," she stated. "I understand you are the Mack family."

Yes replied old Mack, stilling the squinting blue and white Tex from his knees to Della's commodious lap. He clambered stiffly out of the back seat to the trouble.
His shrewd old eyes twinkled at Joeey. "So you're Joeey—Dora's daughter. He chuckled. "Jehoshaphat!
If you ain't the spittin' image of your grandmama when she and I was keepin' company nigh onto sixty years ago. That was before she ran off with your grandpa."

Young Talbot touched his shoulder.
"Tell her about it later, Gramma," he advised gently. "Right now you've got to find out where to dig in."

Joeey observed coldly,
"Some people always judge by first appearances." Talbot reflected his blue eyes gleaming. "I reckon you might be one of those."

Joeey's indignant glances swept him from black head to dusty boots.
"I'm not concerned with your recognitions," Mr. Mack. As you must see, I am giving a party and I'll have to return to my guests. If you will be so kind as to move your car to the rear of the house, I will inquire your butler to settle you temporarily, in the unusual left wing."
"You hospitality overwhelms me!" said.

One Family Represented at University Past 20 Years

MOSCOW, Idaho, May 29—The graduates of Donald Otto Nelson, student of a bachelor of arts degree at the University of Idaho, at his annual commencement June 5 will be the only ones for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Nelson, a high-school education record unequalled in this county. The father, who is a city publication department-eight graduates and one former student of the same family.

The runner-up family, the Johnsons of Idaho Falls, will be represented in the cap and gown graduate by the first son of the first son, All six boys in that remarkable family earned degrees in agriculture at Idaho, and their one sister was a student on the campus for two years.

Adrian Nelson, in 1917, only five years after the university opened its doors, graduated with his parents. One of his children, John, graduated in agriculture from Oregon. One of more of his children have been attending the university almost continuously the past 20 years.

farm families had cars, Oregon and Washington showed 61 per cent, whereas Idaho, the last in the list, mark included New Jersey, 85; Colorado, Montana, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Ohio, all 66 per cent.

Over the country as a whole 10 per cent of farm families had purchased automobiles within the 12 months period of the survey.

Commenting on the frequency of used car purchase, Dr. Stanley observed:

"Better to buy a second-hand car as a means of transportation, than to do without the social contacts and the aid to find business that a family car brings.

A preliminary study in the southeast where Negro families constitute a large percentage of the farm population showed that in the Negro 42 per cent of the Negro farm operators owned their own motor vehicles, and 50 per cent of the Negro share-croppers, in Georgia and Mississippi 29 per cent of the Negro share-croppers owned cars.

Idaho Motorists
Get New License

BOISE, May 29 (AP)—Only a tenth of Idaho's approximately 200,000 motorists have applied for new driver's licenses. Law Enforcement Commissioner Harry M. Tyneser said today.

"He urged drivers to make their applications at once to avoid a last-minute rush. The new licenses, costing 50 cents for the biennium, must be obtained by July 1.

Vacation Brief For Few Students

Vacation for some 25 or 30 unlucky Twin Falls high school students will be neither brief, nor pleasant, was Thursday evening and Monday morning approximately of that many students began work in summer school.

Scheduled to last for about six weeks, with Mrs. J. D. Barnhart in charge, the sessions will last July 8 at Washington school.
Mrs. Barnhart reported that several more have cancelled their intentions of enrolling in the classes.
Latin, English, history, geography, general science and sociology are included among the subjects by the course, besides remedial work in reading, arithmetic, spelling and grammar.

Enrolled as students are high school, just high and lower graduates. They are entitled to make up credits, make extra credits, or for the grade school students, to take remedial work. It is hoped to have one period of general review in reading, spelling and arithmetic.
Mrs. Barnhart reports.

Headed Mrs. Barnhart, Austin Waller is the other teacher in the school July 4 will be the only hol-day observed.

POLITICAL BOSS, MADE IN PRISON

Missouri Takes Steps to Rectify $8,000,000 Insurance Grab

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., May 29 (AP)—Prison doors closed behind Pendergast and R. Emmet O'Malley today simultaneously with a burst of new action in the notorious Missouri fire insurance compromise which caused the downfall of the Kansas City boss and his henchman.

Pendergast surrendered at the federal penitentiary this morning to start serving the 15-month term imposed a week ago when he pleaded guilty of defrauding insurance men on $42,550 in 1935-36.

The amount he was paid $131,000 for his nod approving a settlement which gave fire insurance companies 50 per cent excess premiums impounded while a proposed rate increase was in litigation.

In Kansas City a three-judge federal court granted a state injunction today to reopen the case and ordered criminal actions started against persons who fostered a fraudulent case on the court in its approval of the settlement.

Willingness of 137 companies involved to return the money—approximately $8,000,000—to the court with the possibility it might be returned to the policyholders was expressed by their representative, William M. Butler, Louisville, Ky., attorney. He said the companies were leaving action "entirely up to the court."

Pendergast arrived here in his own motor car, driven the 30 miles up the Missouri river by his nephews and political heir, James Pendergast, his son, T. J. Pendergast, Jr., also accompanied him.

He walked into the office of Warden Robert H. Hutdigger and walked through his examination papers were brought from Kansas City. By lunch-time he was dressed in a complete gray blue uniform.

O'Malley took full advantage of his last hours of freedom. He did not arrive at the prison until 2 p. m., an hour before the deadline set for his commitment.

COMMODITY LIST SCORES ADVANCE

General Price Level Reported One Point Up for Month

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The general level of commodity prices for farmers in the United States May 15 was one point higher than in mid-April, the first rise of the year in the bureau's agricultural economics reported today.

Advances in grain, cotton and coal and fruit prices were the main factors that offset the seasonal decline in dairy products and down turns in other groups of commodities reported by the bureau said. The index, at 90 per cent of pre-war was two points below that of mid-way 1938.

Grain prices rose five points during the month ended May 15. All items advanced in the advance.

Compared with a year earlier, grain, dairy and poultry products were lower but all other groups were higher. The grain, dairy and poultry groups were respectively 17, 11 and 13 points under a year earlier.

Wheat prices rose sharply during the month. May 1 crop prices were slightly below production indications of a month earlier and unofficial reports indicated further crop deterioration during early May. Prices averaged 63 cents a bushel at local farm markets on May 15 compared with 57.8 cents a month earlier and 71.4 cents in mid-March.

Corn prices averaged 48.3 cents per bushel for the country as a whole in mid-May compared with 46 cents a month earlier and 52.7 cents a year ago.

Prices for hams weakened more than usual as markets increased sharply. Prices received by farmers for live hogs averaged $2.20 per 100 pounds compared with $2.57 in mid-April. The mid-May average was 26 cents below the 1939 and the lowest for any month since December, 1934.

Increases in cattle prices in the south and west little more than offset declines in the rest of the country. At $7.29 per hundred pounds the mid-May average was only one cent higher than a month earlier and 84 cents a hundred more than on May 15 a year ago.

Prices for hams averaged $2.02 per hundred pounds on May 15 compared with $1.88 a month earlier and 1.90 in mid-May last year. Wholesale milk prices were estimated to have dropped to cents per hundredweight or about six per cent during the month. This was a somewhat sharper decline than usual. Farm butter prices were 14 per cent lower.

Seven Women Now In Idaho's Prison

BOISE, May 29 (AP)—Population of the women's ward at the state penitentiary is picking up alone with that of the entire institution.

Warden P. C. Meredith said today. Receipt of Edith Linn, sentenced from Casaca county to serve 1 to 14 years on a forgery charge, increased to seven the number of women inmates, Meredith said, and another woman prisoner is expected this week from Latah county.

A year ago there were 11 women in the prison, but the number was cut to a half-dozen several months ago.

In 1935, Meredith said, the prison had 12 women inmates, the all time high.

Unwanted Home Site Makes Man Wealthy

BLACK DIAMOND, Ala. (AP)—William Twiliter, the "mayor of Little New York," took a homestead 32 years ago which nobody wanted. Today he has more money than he knows what to do with.

Oil discovery in "Turkey Valley" resulted in 12 oil wells being drilled on his property. Despite an income of about $1,000 a month, Twiliter and his wife continue to live in the little farm house on their homestead.

Little New York, an oil-boom town, is built on the homestead. The 150 business places and oil workers pay Twiliter from $5 to $10 a month rent. In addition he collects royalties on the 12 wells.

His income exceeds his fast. Twiliter says, that he couldn't compute it.

STORE ROBBERY CLUES CHECKED

Burglars Loot Van Engelen's of $39 Cash, Clothing and Checks

Clothing from the men's department valued at $200, small change amounting to $30 and about $140 in checks was taken by burglars sometime Sunday night or Monday morning from Van Engelen's department store in Twin Falls. Chief of police Howard W. Gillette said yesterday.

All resources and scientific methods of the local police department were brought into play yesterday as local police combed actively for clues.

Cooperation of law enforcement agencies throughout southern Idaho was solicited in helping to break the case, Gillette said.

The burglars forced entry through a rear skylight atop the store at 209 Main avenue east, police disclosed. After ransacking balcony offices, the burglars left by the same method used in entering the building and replaced the skylight.

W. A. Van Engelen, proprietor, yesterday asked cooperation of patrons of the store who had cashed checks at the establishment after 11 a. m. Saturday.

"Please request that payment be stopped on the checks and register the amount of the store," Mr. Van Engelen urged. "Please register all cash and company checks."

"The burglars had evidently cut short their lootings, Gillette said, as a large pile of clothes and merchandise was found piled on the floor near the rear entrance.

VANCOUVER HAILS BRITAIN'S QUEENS

Thousands of Americans in Crowds Welcoming King, Queen

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 29 (AP)—British Columbia paid homage today to King George and Queen Elizabeth, the royal travelers whose suits and democratic interest in everything and everyone they see have won Canadian hearts from coast to coast.

"Thousands of Americans from the Pacific northwest states joined the crowds at Vancouver, where the royal couple was welcomed as British monarchs and as friends of the people."

For the king and queen it was like going home to England, with the hand and the predominantly British community out to climax the welcomes the couple had received all the way from Quebec.

English weather was English, and the cheering rain, with skies overcast. From dawn rows of bundled people awaited the passing of the royal car, as they would do on a day of royal celebrations in London.

Stunners new sights opened along the royal route through Vancouver's streets. However, and there were more than 8,000 Canadians and Japanese in native costumes, and 200 Canadian-Chinese who joined the throngs.

Later, as the king and queen continued their tour, the British moved out of the Fraser river in just other craft welcoming the British sovereign.

At Vancouver's city hall the king and queen were welcomed with ceremonial fire in the historic symbol of an English parliamentary practice.

The king ran his fingers over the mace, a gold golden staff like the one used by the lord mayor of London, and thus reacted to Mayor J. Lyle Telford of Vancouver the authority which in theory automatically goes to the British sovereign in any part of the empire he visits.

Buffeted greeter the die-harder of the British Empire, who took the king and queen to the city hall, where they were welcomed by the mayor and the city council.

William D. Hardy of Burley, D. V. Greig and D. M. Skeeny of Idaho, M. M. Winkler of Lewiston, D. W. Potter of Nampa and Bernard Eastman of Payette.

The Idaho men will meet with the Oregon association at Ontario, Ore., next September to continue the discussions.

IDAHO YOUTH STRUCK AND KILLED BY CAR

OROVINO, Idaho, May 29 (AP)—Robert Beck, 15, the son of William Beck of Peck, Idaho, was killed on the highway two miles from here Saturday when he was hit by an automobile driven by William Wittlinger, of Lewiston.

The Literary Guidepost

Books, you might easily overlook, some of which you might regret missing.

It is just possible David Seabury, an expert member of the writing group which exists to help you help yourself at $2 to $10 a volume, might really expect anybody to take all the tests he provides in "See Yourself as Others See You."

Second book: G. Selmer Ferguson, the wine expert of the New York Sun, has produced a little book called "Dining Out in New York," which may be of service to visitors.

Third book: J. C. Furness, who once sailed the 1,000 mile coast of the nation with an article called "The United States," is a good writer.

Fourth book: The general director of the Maternity Center Association of New York is Israel Gerbin, and she is now the author of a little book called "Getting Ready to Be a Father."

Fifth book: "The Logic of Modern Psychology" is an innocuous, very humorous book by Carroll C. Platt, which cuts the ears off most of our learned brethren, and arrives at a sensible conclusion.

Final Call Comes For Aged Veteran

BOISE, May 29 (AP)—Death threatened ranks of Idaho's Civil war veterans today with a score today, claiming the services of William G. Lemmon, a past department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Williams, a retired merchant, had lived here since 1907, serving as Idaho department commander of the G. A. R. in 1932, and as assistant department adjutant general, Idaho department, from 1935 to 1937.

He was born at Troysburg, N. Y., Feb. 18, 1841, and enlisted in the 12th army in 1862. He was a member of company H, 86th New York infantry.

He was the Purple Heart medal for distinguished service during the conflict.

Williams conducted a mercantile business at Colorado Springs, Colo., before coming here 32 years ago. His widow here and one sister, Mrs. Lotie Carpenter of Knoxville, Pa., survive.

Funeral services were conducted here Monday.

NAMPA YOUTH VICTIM OF SWIMMING ACCIDENT

NAMPA, Idaho, May 29 (AP)—The body of Earl F. Hill, 21, of Nampa, was brought here today from Idaho City where the youth drowned while swimming in a natatorium yesterday.

Gonyon County Coroner W. D. Tolley, to whose mortuary the body was taken, said Hill apparently struck on his back while diving for a young swimmer in a natatorium yesterday.
