JAPAN PLANE BLAMES SHOT UPON BRITISH

New Incidents Bring Relations Between London, Tokyo to Acute Stage; New Bid Goes to Soviet

(By The Associated Press) TOKYO, June 8 (Thursday)—Relations between Britain and Japan have reached an acute stage, an authoritative government spokesman declared today, as news of incidents involving nationals of the two countries.

The latest incident, as reported last night by Domei (the Japanese news agency), was the firing of a Japanese airplane east of Hongkong by a foreign warship, apparently a British one.

The British embassy was said today to be awaiting an official report on the Shanghai incident before taking any action here.

American Cooperation The paper mentioned "American cooperation in the Kuluang affair" between British, French and American forces landed at that city after Japanese were said to be about to take over Kuluang International airport.

The pilot of the airplane allegedly shot down was said to have been killed and his ship exploded within 100 yards of his plane.

White "far outlandish British warlord" was quoted as saying, a warship carrying a British flag "was fired upon at sea."

Socialist Mayor Alters Opinion About Royalty

MILWAUKEE, June 7 (AP)—Milwaukee's Socialist Mayor Daniel Hoan was quoted today as "to hell with kings; I stand with the working man," who has changed his mind about royalty and will be honorary chairman of the committee which will welcome the King and Queen to Milwaukee June 20. He also will make the eulogy at the Leif Ericsson monument upon which Prince Olav will place a wreath.

Twenty years ago, Hoan refused to salute the Danish flag at the Albert, king of the Belgians, expressing an opinion of kings which became known throughout the world.

Hoan said, "I live like a working man. I don't like kings who have to worry about today, it's the dictators."

Here's How Their Majesties Will Be Guarded

This is how King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will be guarded when they arrive in Washington today. They are scheduled to ride from Union Station to the White House in the President's bullet-proof touring car. The troops lining the street are a guard of honor. Though they're not especially ordered to protect the royals, they form a natural barrier. Five thousand were called out for President Franklin D. Roosevelt, of Michigan (when this picture was taken), 8,000 to 11,000 probably will be called out for their Majesties.

U. S. Capital Centers on Greeting to King, Queen

President and Thousands of Others Drop Everything to Give Visiting Royalty History's Grandest Reception

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—A king and queen are coming to town tomorrow and Washington is ready to make them welcome with the dazzling grandeur of official pageantry and the loud, friendly acclaim of countless plain folks who can't forget their story-book days.

For George VI of Great Britain and his queen, Elizabeth, President Roosevelt, and many another, dropped everything — to see to it that their 39-hour stay is one of unbroken enjoyment.

Meanwhile hundreds of thousands of Washingtonians and visitors from all points of the compass were ready to strive for a glimpse of the royal visitors.

Six months of worried planning at the alternate hostesses and American flags along Pennsylvania avenue, rechecked their arrangements for police, protection, and transportation, with a suggestion still of hopefulness, that everything was ready.

The royal couple is scheduled to arrive at eleven o'clock, accompanied from the Canadian border by Secretary Hull and a reception committee from the state department.

Royal Pair "Cross Line At Niagara"

Simplicity Marks Progress by Secretary of State of Monarch on First Visit to Former Colony

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—For the first time in history, a visiting British monarch, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, arrived here today were greeted with democratic informality by Secretary of State Hull.

Just 19 minutes after the royal train crossed the unfortified border from Canada at 9:30 p. m. (EST), it sped southward where President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his official family will receive the king and queen tomorrow at the beginning of a four-day state visit.

When the train was mounted onto the railroad station tonight at the Trans-Canada secretary of state here for the government in this historic occasion, stepped forward to greet the nation's royal guests.

Secretary Hull extended a welcome to the royal couple which had attended the progress of the couple through more than 6,000 miles of Canadian territory but it was one which they appeared to appreciate.

Less than five minutes for the blue and silver 12-car royal train to cross the bridge over the rushing Niagara river, the royal couple's floodlighted crest could just be seen from the train windows.

When the train stopped at the station on the United States side, it slowed down and stopped opposite a long carpet on which stood Secretary and Mrs. Hull and Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Ambassador to the United States.

A cheer went up from the crowd as the royal couple stepped from the train. The red carpet was laid out on the platform as the engine steamed past, a salute being given, waving from the motor cars and the United States band.

Members of Suspense The crowd stood in silence as the train allowed to a stop at 9:42. There was a theatrical moment of suspense. The red carpet on the observation platform opened and the king stepped out, smiling, and bowing slightly, as the royal couple stepped from the blue and silver train.

The queen had changed again, the fourth time for the day, but was still wearing blue, with a halo hat. She was smiling and an air of calmness about her. The king stepped out, smiling, and bowing slightly, as the royal couple stepped from the blue and silver train.

Francisco Sarabia Plunges in Plane to Death in Potomac River

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Four minutes after he had taken off in a 1700-mile flight to his home in Mexico, Francisco Sarabia plunged to his death today in the Potomac River.

The 38-year-old flyer, Mexico's foremost civilian aviator, had just been invited to his home in Mexico by his 10-year-old son, Francisco Jr. His low flying monoplane, heavily loaded with mail, rose slowly about 100 feet above the river.

The accident occurred in full view of his wife, son and other family members who were watching from the Potomac River. Two Mexican embassy officials, Dr. Luis Quintanilla, minister-consul, and Lieutenant-Commander Manuel Cermeno, naval attaché, were on the party submerged plane but were unable to rescue the flyer.

The ship, named the "Sky Consul," struck in 15 feet of water about 75 feet from shore. Sarabia had spoken lightly of the distance between Washington and Mexico City. (Continued on Page 2, Column 8)

CREW REDUCED ON RIVER TRIP

Woman Adventurer Prepares at Weiser to Resume Long Cruise

WEISER, Idaho, June 7 (AP)—With her crew reduced to four from four to two men, Mrs. E. C. Glegg of Vancouver, B. C., prepared tonight to resume at 10 a. m. tomorrow her 4,000-mile trip by boat across America.

Mrs. Glegg, English-born adventurer, left Portland, Ore., with the four men nearly a month ago. Half the time was spent battling 200 miles upstream through the mighty chains of the Snake river, whose walls rise at points to 7,000 feet on the boundary between Oregon and Idaho.

Eliminated by a drawing tonight were Clarence Dean, of Coquille, Ore., and Willis Johnson of Tillamook, Ore.

Each of the two men will operate a 10-horsepower outboard motor. The boat is powered with a 10-horsepower outboard motor.

One named the "St. George," the other, "The Mongoose." When the party reached Weiser after negotiating the most rugged part of the project, Mrs. Glegg will be Madame (Buz) Holstrom and Earl O. Hamilton, both of Coquille.

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt, it was reported today, has decided to abandon use of army reserve officers, as such, in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

BOND READY FOR HOMELESS JEWS

Appeal to Cuba Renewed in Behalf of Refugees Aboard Liner

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—In a renewed appeal to Havana to allow the German liner St. Louis to be allowed to land in Cuba, the American Jewish committee, distributed committee tonight, asked to post a $500 bond for each and also for the understanding that those aboard the St. Louis would be landed on the Isle of Pines.

The Cuban government had filed yesterday with the state department responses to its earlier proposal of temporary asylum under bonds, with the understanding that those aboard the St. Louis would be landed on the Isle of Pines.

Alfred Zerkel, Jr., an official of the committee here, made public his appeal to President Truman today.

"We have authorized the Chase National Bank in Havana to issue the following proposal to you in our behalf: We will provide $500 deposit bonds for each of the 977 St. Louis to permit entry into Cuba under appropriate Cuban regulations."

"The Chase bank has received funds for use on such purposes. In addition, the committee guarantees that the public charge law of the United States will not be applied to the St. Louis."

"We are confident that while the St. Louis is said to be on its way back to Germany, it is not too late to raise to her to return to Havana. 'This we beg you to do.'"

No Curtsy for Royalty, Declare Congress Wives

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—So far as the wives of Utah and Idaho senators of congress are concerned, there will be no curtsies when they meet their British majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, at a luncheon and a small dinner at the British embassy garden party tomorrow afternoon.

"I think it would be best for an American to carry on in such a fashion," remarked Mrs. J. Worth Clark, wife of Idaho's junior senator. "If I were meeting the king and queen in England that would be a different matter, but since I am meeting them in the United States I will greet them in American fashion."

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Idaho's noted senior senator, was of the same opinion. "There will be no curtsy," she said with a mischievous laugh, "but distinguished 'little Borah' from other senators' wives no matter where she is, 'just a neat little bow and a handshake.'"

Mrs. Clark said she would be "just a hand and a smile." She added laughingly that she couldn't curtsy as she was just recovering from a broken leg.

Children's Illness Blamed on Picnic

NEW ORLEANS, June 7 (AP)—Thirty of fifty-nine school children on a picnic in city park were stricken today with typhoid fever, according to a report from Charity hospital for children here.

None of the children was believed to be in serious condition. Police officials said the picnic effects to eating potato salad.

By EDDIE GILMORE WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Some of the century that will unite the king and queen of England as they ride down historic Pennsylvania avenue tomorrow morning is a study in contrasts.

As they leave Capitol Hill, they will view of the city from the observation station which has been called the largest feeding ground in the world.

In the second block their majesties will view of the half-finished Mellon art gallery and the traffic bureau, into which the king and queen will be taken.

From there on for a few blocks life gets thoroughly realistic. First there is a shelter for homeless men. "They stand in front of it all day long looking for help."

JAPANESE BLAME BRITISH CRUISER

While some Chinese gunboats are being equipped with anti-aircraft guns, Japanese naval aircraft are being sent to the Pacific.

The British government, which in nearly three months of negotiating has failed to bring Britain and French-French camp through several diplomatic channels, decided to send a mission to Moscow.

A special foreign expert, Mr. J. H. G. G., is going to Moscow to bring about an early conclusion of a British-French-Russian assistance pact.

The chief obstacle to this agreement is the Russian refusal to Neville Chamberlain to counterbalance the Rome-Berlin axis.

Russia has demanded that assistance guarantees be given to her by Britain and France.

Germany, meanwhile, looked on the British-Russian difficulties with satisfaction.

Germany said that she would not compromise the special neutrality she has maintained.

During the brief visit, Dot was dragged and then tossed into his own car. The 45-year-old man was taken to a rooming house in Pocatello during the 300 mile trip here from Pocatello. He was forced to lie on the floor in the back of his car, covered with a blanket, whenever they passed through a town."

TOY GUN FIGURES IN GIRL'S DEATH

State Officer Testifies He Killed 14-Year-Old Threatener

MAUCHI CHUNG, Pa., June 7 (AP)—A state police corporal told a coroner's jury today the killed student, 14-year-old Joan Stevens, who threatened him with a gun. The "toy" gun, it is to be a toy, an investigator said.

Franklin told the jury he picked up a black automatic from her purse and pointed it at him and his companion, Private Edward J. Swain, crying:

STORM CENTERS ON APPOINTMENT

President's Choice for Congress Librarian Called 'Red'

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—A charge by Rep. Thomas (D-N.J.) that the Roosevelt administration had been filling key government positions with "Communists" touched off a furious argument in the house today, during which Rep. Rayburn (D-Tenn.) called "slanders."

Thomas began by asserting that Archibald MacLachlan, nominated by President Roosevelt to head the library of congress, was "one of the leading yellow travelers of the Communist party today."

He said the appointment "once more raises the vital and alarming issue of communist influence on appointments emanating from the White House."

Rayburn asked Thomas what he meant by "yellow traveler." "A man who is absolutely sympathetic with the Communist cause, but for various reasons he doesn't care to be a party member," Thomas replied. He said the Dies committee on un-American activities had informed that MacLachlan was such a person.

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—A proponent that the nation's librarian, who generally are not a party lot, would protest the nomination of Archibald MacLachlan as library of congress was made today by Dr. Milton James Ferguson, president of the American Library association.

"I have the highest respect for Mr. MacLachlan as a poet," said Dr. Ferguson, "but I should no more think of him as librarian of congress than as chief engineer of a new Brooklyn bridge."

He decried the association's officers "fell obliged to inform its 14,000 members of their conviction that President Roosevelt's nominee is unqualified."

Earlier this week Secretary Wallace in an article in the magazine "Look" urged another term for the chief executive.

At a press conference, Wallace was asked whether he too felt the chief executive should serve again, and replied that he was sure "all members" of the cabinet would "completely" loyal to the president in the event he should be a candidate.

During the day, Mrs. Roosevelt and two officers, who upon leaving had things to say connected with politics.

Government Employees Apply For Jobs in Private Industry

NEW YORK WHIRLIGIG: By James McHugh. FORTITUDE: Key New York officials and employees by government officials and employees to land jobs in private industry.

It is part of this due to a growing belief that the Roosevelt regime is about to default, in the near future, which would of course overshadow a general housecleaning in the government.

CONGRESS MOVES TO CURTAIL WPA

Recommendation for Abolishment of Work Relief Unlikely

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Informed legislators said today that the house subcommittee investigating the federal relief system would recommend curtailment, but not abolition, of the WPA for the next fiscal year.

Various substitutes for the present act had been proposed as a result of criticism of the relief agency, but it was learned that subcommittee members felt there was too little time before July 1—the start of the new fiscal year—to make such a drastic change.

House members said, however, that other fundamental changes would be proposed, possibly including abolition of the WPA's theater and writers projects. Both have been denounced by congressional committees as media for the dissemination of communistic propaganda.

One legislator said it had been widely reported that part of the $1,447,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt to finance the WPA for the fiscal year would be transferred to the public works program. Members have not authorized $125,000,000 as the probable size of this fund although proponents of the idea contend that would be adequate.

Meanwhile, the committee continues its investigation of the WPA. Engineers who studied WPA construction projects in two Pennsylvania counties testified that costs averaged from 25 to 500 per cent above estimates of what the private contract cost would have been.

SUICIDE BLAMED FOR TWO DEATHS

Brother and Cousin Asserted Victims of Onetime Relief Worker

NOGALES, Ariz., June 7 (AP)—Without establishing a motive, a coroner's jury found today that Homer Adams, 42, shot his relief worker, "presumably" killed his brother, Eugene Adams, and his cousin, Antonio Gonzalez, and then took his own life.

Eugene, 19, and Gonzalez, 20, were lured to their deaths separately yesterday by Adams, who told them in turn that a relative had been injured in an accident. They were shot and-niel bodies laid under a silver tarp in fields northwest of here.

Another cousin, Hector Gonzalez, ended to the murder spot by the same ruse, also was shot and left for dead, but was able to drag himself to a nearby residence and tell of the bizarre crimes. He remained in a critical condition today, a bullet in his head.

New York Traffic Blocked by Fires

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—While one smoky blaze overcame five fires and tied up Times Square traffic in the evening rush yesterday, a 4-alarm fire in the East New York section of Brooklyn ignited the ties of an elevated railroad and spread members over a wide area.

The Brooklyn "E" service was disrupted while trainmen climbed out along the right-of-way to stamp out the flames growing from sparks whipped around by a high wind. Causing $50,000 damages, the fire swept through the extensive lumber stocks of the Hall Flooring company and through a block of old tenements from which six families were driven.

Great crowds gathered there and to Times Square, where a sign started in a cluster of small buildings which serve as little bell-towers for electric signs of the "spectacular" type at the southwest corner of 42nd street and 7th avenue.

WEST FACES U. S. WATER CONTROL

Officials Express Fear State Rights Might be Jeopardized

CHIEFENNE, Wyo., June 7 (AP)—Western states that have battled one another over water rights for many years face the possibility of Uncle Sam taking control of water not already appropriated.

Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado have spent more than a quarter of a million dollars in four years of litigation over the rights to water from the North Platte river. Now the federal government contends it should control all unappropriated waters of interstate streams.

While not directly concerned with the North Platte case, California may intervene in an attempt to stop the federal government from establishing its claim. California officials have expressed fear that state's rights might be jeopardized if the government gained a favorable ruling in the North Platte suit.

Nebraska, which instituted the action in the fall of 1925 to determine Wyoming's claims to certain rights to water of the North Platte—flowing from Wyoming into Nebraska—finished its case early this year.

Bids for Renewal Of Brands Moot

BOISE, June 7 (AP)—When the 1933 legislature decreed that all Idaho livestock brands should be renewed by July 1, it piled a lot of work onto the desk of Dr. E. R. Powell, state director of the bureau of animal industry.

Applications for renewals have been coming in at an increasingly rapid rate. Dr. Powell said, however, "It is impossible for us to keep up with them now. Each application must be checked carefully to be certain the brand does not duplicate one already in use."

We have sent out approximately 3,000 certificates so far and have approximately 12,000 more to take care of.

He predicted all brands would be registered by mid-August but said some applicants "might have to wait two months" to receive their certificates.

"Many farmers of Idaho regard the information obtained by this survey as being of considerable value," Moore noted.

JAIL AT END OF FLIGHT TO MARS

Student Airman, Picked Out of Atlantic, Faces Prosecution

CAMDEN, N. J., June 7 (AP)—Wearing handcuffs instead of a hero's wreath, Chester L. Edelman, 22, of Carlisle, Pa., returned tonight to the airport from which he started his "flight to Mars" that ended in the Atlantic ocean, some 44,000 miles short of his goal.

The "crazy" flyer faced prosecution on a laundry charge brought by Edward Walsh, owner of the craft that sailed to the ocean bottom yesterday off the Georges Banks, where Edelman was picked up by a fishing vessel.

Walsh said the plane was rented to Edelman only for restricted flights near the Camden airport.

Edelman, 11, said he had a few million miles of "flight to Mars" when he traveled here from Boston, accompanied by a Camden policeman, in a plane piloted by Walsh.

The adventurous youth, still wearing a white neckerchief and stained khaki overalls, said he didn't want to fly it up with Mr. Walsh.

Edelman arrived in Boston today on the trailer Villanova, which he had bought for the $125,000 from that part of the plane crash.

The plane's crash, which was recorded on a big blackboard in the Boston fish pier trading room as 20,000 pounds of grandiosity—and the fier.

"I wish I had a police boat as the Indians used to the pier, for I claim to his story that Mars was his destination."

CLARK POINTS TO FLOOD CONTROL

Idaho Senators Asks Government to Contribute to Twin Springs Dam

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Reclamation of the waterways' financial responsibility for the $3,000,000 Twin Springs dam in southwestern Idaho is being urged by the Senate today. The cost charged to flood control was urged by Senator D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho).

Clark said in a letter to Reclamation Commissioner John C. Page that he believed it "just and entirely logical" that the government should assume some of the cost for the project because it would serve as an effective flood deterrent in the Boise river valley. Flood control costs are not repayable as are those for irrigation and power development.

"As you know," Clark wrote, "the Boise valley is plagued with recurring floods which could be averted by additional water storage of the upper Snake river. It seems logical that the project which would give a just claim for a further reduction in their share of the project cost by shifting some of the burden to flood control."

Clark told interviewers he believed his proposal would greatly assist in clearing the way for approval of the project which would be a part of construction on the dam, designed primarily to provide supplemental water for Boise project irrigations.

Engineers Making Surveys

He recalled army engineers were making water surveys along the Boise river at the present time and said their findings might prove a basis for an allocation of some of the Twin Springs cost to flood control.

Clark's proposal, if adopted, would have the effect of substantially reducing the waterways' liability, which has been tentatively fixed at $4,000,000. It was being estimated $3,100,000 of the dam's cost could be repaid by power revenues.

Clark said drafting of the Twin Springs contract had been held up temporarily pending action on new reclamation legislation, soon to be presented to congress.

This legislation, which would put project repayment contracts on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, carried a provision which officers might make it possible for the government to come to a fairly satisfactory agreement with the Twin Springs water users.

He added, however, that even under such a contract the water users would have a considerable burden to carry and that it was imperative to reduce the costs as much as possible.

As possible. Flood control, he asserted, appeared to offer the best solution.

Page said that he believed it "just and entirely logical" that the government should assume some of the cost for the project because it would serve as an effective flood deterrent in the Boise river valley. Flood control costs are not repayable as are those for irrigation and power development.

Attorney General Reputables Ruling

BLANKFOOT, Idaho, June 7 (AP)—Attorney General J. W. Taylor said he personally uttered with an opinion in which an assistant attorney general advised that the ruling yesterday at Boise that when medical doctors who failed to pass recent Idaho medical examinations must qualify as citizens or be barred from re-writing the examination was correct.

"A desirable plan is for that sum—payments on the $4,000,000 of comparatively low amounts in the final years of the 40-year repayment period, while the water users still are paying out on existing contracts. Then, in later years when the existing repayment burdens have substantially been discharged, the payments on the $4,000,000 could be made comparatively high in amount."

Page added such a plan was, but that the project would be approved if it might be worked out. If not approved the pending legislation, which would put project repayment contracts on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, carried a provision which officers might make it possible for the government to come to a fairly satisfactory agreement with the Twin Springs water users.

He added, however, that even under such a contract the water users would have a considerable burden to carry and that it was imperative to reduce the costs as much as possible.

Citizen's Value, Speaker's Topic

CALDWELL, June 7—Dr. Alfred James Penny, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Oyster Bay, N. Y., who yesterday received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from the College of Idaho, gave the principal address at the annual C. of I. annual banquet.

Counseling the newly graduated class of 1933, Dr. Penny declared, "Everyone is not going to make a great contribution to the world, but it lies in the power of each person to add something to his civilization and his times. The civilization is to do for America during these trying times."

Our country, continued Dr. Penny, "needs citizens of worth, who through their service and devotion, can break its strength and its luxuries. The value of a citizen is judged by his service, not by the mere possession of knowledge, influence or power. A man is a man judged, but by the use he makes of his talents."

The quality of our service depends on our character. If we have character, our contributions will be worthwhile. The contribution that many of you right here are making is worthwhile—a contribution in the way of development of intellect, intelligence, and culture, the teaching of young men and women how to think. TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

THE CHARACTERS
Joeylin Russell, beautiful blonde with auburn hair.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate.
Gretchen.

Yesterday Tally suggests that Gretchen should be permitted to go to the garage. Gretchen agrees, and, angrily, leaves her.

Chapter I
BOTH SIDES OF THE FENCE

Bob Russell never got out of the garage doors and blasted his horn twice. Nothing happened. He climbed out and peered inside the garage. Both Joeylin's car and Tally's were gone. He grinned and ran this brown hair through his hair. Why should he expect them to be home when he didn't let them know he was coming? Gretchen's rumble-seat of the roadster he took out his tennis racket, sweaters and tennis shoes. Putting through the house he spied the eight-foot fence, completed, but not yet painted. He looked at the fence with a frown and went on into the house. "Gretchen!" he called. "Where are you? I've got my own voice through the aluminum. What the devil?" Gretchen remembered that it was Thursday, the servants' day off. Lay and Thom were no doubt at the club for the day.

He was hungry and tired. He did not go to the club. He was wary of people his size. He had won his first two matches at the Los Angeles meet and with second top. He was wearing alternately a coaching lure at the mercy of society friends, and a combing-attire friends. He had disliked both roles. He only played tennis for exercise and if he lost to a better player, his credit and his reputation were not so philosophical. He mimicked in indignation what would happen should he go back to the club.

"Bob, old man," someone would say, clapping him on the back, "hated being slapped on the back." "Huggerly sorry about your beauty," he would say, "but your name, eh? Well, you'll show them next time. We're all for you! We're betting on you, old man!"

And he would say: "No, I wasn't of my name. I never should have been named because he is a better player."

"That's something of you to say," Russell, but we know it isn't so. You're the best in the west. You have a drive. I could peddle a few hundred on you but I'll never miss it."

"I'll never miss it with all of them!" he said now, some slowly up to his room. "I'm sick of being treated like a dog."

As he passed Joeylin's room he heard a faint "Meow" and a scratching on the door.

"Hello, Tally!" he exclaimed, opening the door. "What are you doing in here?"

The big white cat extended his forepaws along the carpet and stretched lazily, then strolled sedately toward the back, stairway. Bob watched him as he hesitated a second; went after him and scooped him up under an arm.

"He'll be declared," you may be the means of putting food into my mouth."

"No," he teased. "I'm still in Los Angeles. Say, why don't you eat lunch?"

"He'll; if you toss him up over your shoulder."

Bob diet with the result that Tex relaxed in limp contentment. "I had no idea cars were such rugged vehicles," Bob said, looking over Gretchen's head at the other members of the family grouped around an oblong covered table. "My car comes in!"

Bob Russell, carrying a vicarious platter of steak and onions from the stove to the table, looked at him and nodded. "Come in, Mr. Russell. We always have our dinner in the middle of the day. Many folks do, they live in a garage. The men are good and hungry at noon-time after working since dawn."

Bob sniffed the tantalizing odors of hot bread, steamed and buttered cabbage, fried meat and onions. He liked the clean, shiny look of the white plates and the substantial thickness of the cheap white plates and cups. He wanted desperately to ask an invitation but the old man's face made him hesitate.

"Tally lifted a small piece of meat to Betty's plate and cut it into squares. He said, challenge in his tone: 'What's all this rather picnic to a Russell?'"

"No," said Bob. "It isn't. My hungry and it looks good."

"Thanks!" Bob settled in between old Mack and Gretchen. Without another word, he reached for what he wanted and proceeded to eat with enjoyment.

"I wish you folks would eat me," Bob said between mouthfuls. "Maybe I am a Russell, but you shouldn't hold that against me. I can't eat. In fact, I like to eat. I say about it I'd just as soon be a Smith or a Jones. How about some more cabbage, Gramp?"

"Your brother says me the food," Tally explained, teasing. "He's a little bit of a scientist. He's got a lot of books, science, and to my family, divided to shut off his view. That's all."

"Did he say much about your mother?"

"Silly a word," said Tally. "Della—where's that? She's a little bit of a scientist. He's got a lot of books, science, and to my family, divided to shut off his view. That's all."

"I've bought paint yet," Tally replied shortly.

"Write home," said Gramp, "the empty meat platter with the last bit of food. I've got a certain chicken sign for a spell."

"A Good Idea"

Bob was silent a minute; then a muffled exclamation escaped his lips. "Instead of eating your chicken, why don't you eat your chicken?" he asked, his eyes wide and there's plenty of the orange-sauce chicken on the table. "You can't open one of these outside stands on one of the highways. You know what it means? You must have seen a lot of them when you drove through Tex."

Gretchen, quizzed doubtfully, "But how could you have a lot of things?"

"Do any of you ever?" Bob asked, "I've got a lot of things."

"No," answered Tally. "We don't. Any of us a darned good idea. Bob'll get to work on the stand this afternoon."

"I'll have to have signs," Bob went on. "I ought to make a good sign-stander. I studied art; mind if I tell you?"

"I know, I know," said Gretchen, "I'll be glad to help. Bob, I think you're headin' for trouble, though, try to sit on both sides of the fence."

Bob met Gretchen's admiring gaze. "I don't seem to mind," he said, "I've got a lot of things."

By evening Bob and Tally and Gramp had erected a wooden stand with shelves and a counter behind the south end driveway leading off the highway into the Macks' yard. The men were away and busy and busy.

"Come on in the pool for a swim," Bob invited.

Bob met Gretchen's admiring gaze. "I don't seem to mind," he said, "I've got a lot of things."

"I think your sister will tell you I'm no gentleman," Tally retorted. "Okay, Bob, you win."

A few minutes later they plunged into the pool, each to his own part. The farther out, they turned over their heads and waved lazily.

"I never thought your trunk would fit me," Tally said. "I'll leave that to you."

"I'll leave that to you," Tally said. "I'll leave that to you."

"I'll leave that to you," Tally said. "I'll leave that to you."

"I'll leave that to you," Tally said. "I'll leave that to you."

"I'll leave that to you," Tally said. "I'll leave that to you."

"I'll leave that to you," Tally said. "I'll leave that to you."

"Maybe twenty pounds or so, but for an old fellow, he's not bad. I look slimmer than I am. No matter what I put on I look amply supplied with my clothes. You'll fit your wagner."

"He eyed the other man's shoulders, tapering waist, and narrow hips. 'You've got the perfect build for a half-back for Texas and I'd say you'd make a good one.'"

"I'd say you'd make a good one," Tally said. "I'd say you'd make a good one."

He was surprised and I guess the lion was too. It was perched on a rock and we looked each other in the face for a half-minute.

"I grabbed for my gun and I was in my hand and at the same time threw up my left arm to protect my face," he said.

"I waved the hatchet back and forth and the lion took a couple of lunges at me. I was hit on the head and I was hurt and so did I."

"I was too scared to run, but I managed to climb the tree and call for help."

Lewellen said his son came running with a shotgun and fired two shots in the general direction of the intruding lion.

By FREDERICK GARDNER
NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Buying in the stock market yesterday moved the stock market forward another notch today.

The Associated Press composite advanced a little ahead in the forenoon, then slipped before the finish. Final prices were mixed but gains outweighed losses.

The Associated Press composite of 50 stocks ended 1/4 of a point up at 48, the highest since May 29.

Attracting the bulk of the buying were such issues as Westinghouse, General Electric, American Telephone, International Harvester, U. S. Gypsum, Public Service of New Jersey, American Gas, American Cyanamid and General Electric.

Brokers said there were indications some investors who had sold in the March war scare were replacing their holdings in belief conditions in Europe improved and war business in this country would prosper by the respite from the war strains.

American Telephone closed 1/4 higher at 47, within three points of the year's highest price. Westinghouse was up 1/4 to 100.

Transactions totaled 3,000,000 shares compared with 6,000,000 yesterday.

Foreign bonds had an irregularly higher sale. Major commodities also pointed upward.

Transactions in foreign exchange were mixed. American Cyanamid, American Gas and Electric and Oil Oil.

Stolen Baby Returned by Unwed Mother

While Beatrice Wood (left), 18, went in a Philadelphia police station and told police she took five-year-old Gerald McGraham from his carriage to replace her own child who had died, the mother of the boy, Mrs. Margaret McGraham, today laughed in joyous delight over getting him back safe and sound. She was Mrs. Margaret McGraham, shown with Gerald at right. Officers said the Wood girl was unwed, that she kept the news of the death of her own baby from her father, and that she took the McGraham child when he demanded to see his boy.

STOCK MARKET TO TRY GOVERNOR'S PLAN

Existing Agencies Relied Upon to Put Stop to Rusting

BOISE, June 7 (AP)—Idaho livestock men led by Max Cohn of Arimo agreed today to place on Governor C. A. Bottelstein's plan to curb cattle rustling that costs them an estimated $200,000 annually.

Cohn, president of the Idaho Cattle and Horse Growers' association, and a half-dozen other leaders of the industry discussed with the chief executive today the livestock proposal that existing agencies be used in an attempt to stop rustlers.

A 1929 legislative measure creating a state anti-livestock bureau, proposed by the cattle and horse growers' association, was voted by the governor on grounds the work could be carried on by the department of law enforcement.

Secretary of State George H. Curtis ruled, however, that the governor's veto was filed to late and that the bill actually was vetoed. Cohn said that contention the governor has refused to recognize is a statute.

In another move to stop rustling, the association planned to test validity of the governor's action. Cohn said that the work of the bureau could be carried on by the department of law enforcement.

PLANNING BOARD WORK OUTLINED

North Idaho Chamber of Commerce Told of Coordination

GRANDVILLE, Idaho, June 7 (AP)—Delegates to the north Idaho chamber of commerce semi-annual meeting were told today the state planning board "coordinates" the work of civic organizations.

Local and state planning "does not preclude or take the place of chambers of commerce and other commercial and civic organizations," said J. D. Wood of Boise, consultant of the state planning board.

"These organizations should be considered as advisory to official planning bodies and, certainly, planning needs their cooperation."

He outlined the program Governor C. A. Bottelstein mapped recently for the board's attention, and commented:

"This program, if only state or national program, to be successful must be built from the local community up to the state and federal governmental levels."

"This program for Idaho can be carried forth expeditiously and effectively provided the county, city, and town boards organize and make use of local planning committees."

A group of aeronautical engineers are planning to build a helicopter which will have a top speed of 160 miles an hour, it was reported today.

At Buhl, Joe Efect, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and A. J. Jagels, chairman of the west end dairymen's committee, agreed to a joint campaign stressing sale of dairy products in Buhl.

Through posters in windows, special advertising displays and literature in firms retailing dairy products, and newspaper advertising, the east end committee will stress local promotion, said O. T. Koster, chairman of the east end committee.

"Few realize the income brought to Twin Falls county by the dairy industry and we will attempt to acquaint the public with the value of dairying," Koster said.

INSURANCE BID DATE ADVANCED

Mayor Joe Koehler Grants Dealers Additional Time

Agents in Twin Falls who wish to bid on insurance covering the city-owned fleet of trucks and automobiles will have until Monday night to submit figures, Mayor Joe Koehler said last night.

A recessed meeting of the city council that will re-convene Friday night at the city hall, has been set for the awarding of the insurance contract at the last session of the council.

"Many insurance dealers must state their earliest offers for consideration on rates and bids, so the date is advanced until Monday," Koehler said.

City Clerk W. H. Eldridge was preparing data on the list of city-owned vehicles yesterday. The copies will be distributed to interested insurance agents.

The city is not required by law to advertise for bids on any purchases, no matter what the amount. However, Koehler announced at the last meeting that "everyone should be given a chance" and "it will probably effect a saving for taxpayers."

The mayor will seek action in which the council must act as a unit on any purchase for the city amounting to more than $500.

An appropriation bill for the 1939-1940 fiscal year will come up for consideration at the meeting Friday. It is called for 7 p. m., Koehler said.
