LIMITS FIXED BY PRESIDENT ON BEET CROP

Roosevelt Tells Idaho Governor Further Expansion of Industry Would Impair Export Markets

(By The Associated Press)
BOISE, June 19—Further expansion of American beet sugar production "would unfortunately impair our export markets," President Roosevelt told Governor C. A. Botolfoff.

"The department of agriculture," the president said in a personal letter to the Idaho governor, "has estimated that each additional acre of sugar beets impairs our foreign market for the production of three acres of corn, three acres of cotton or six acres of wheat."

The president assured Botolfoff that the national administration "is very glad to assist Idaho agriculture in every possible way consistent with the general public interest."

Botolfoff telegraphed the president on May 19 requesting larger sugar beet acreage and marketing quotas for the Idaho beet sugar industry.

Japan Uses Electricity In Tientsin Barricade

1,000 Volts Isolate Blocked British and French Concessions; Military Warns of Action

(By The Associated Press)
Japan threw an electrically charged barricade around the British and French concessions in Tientsin Monday night, increasing the high voltage of the Far Eastern crisis.

As the Japanese blockade started, the British government and the two concessions were isolated by 1,000 volts of electricity aimed chiefly at preventing Chinese from smuggling food to residents of the surrounded area.

Action of the Japanese military authorities in north China contrasted sharply with expressions of the Tokyo foreign office that it was hoped a prompt solution of the Tientsin dispute would be formed.

HOUSE VOTES TO WIPE OUT PROFITS TAX

New Revenue Bill, Adopted 358 to 1, Continues 'Nuisance' Levies; Republicans Claim Victory

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 19—The House, Republicans and Democrats alike, ganged up on the much-denounced undistributed profits tax today and passed 358 to 1 a new revenue bill removing that levy from the nation's tax laws.

The measure, approved after a scant six hours of unusually quiet discussion, was the first since the late 1920s to make other tax changes which have been demanded in the interest of eliminating the "nuisance" tax expansion, and would reinstate a long series of "nuisance taxes."

Thinkham Votes Alike

The one vote cast against the bill was that of Representative Thinkham, bewickener Massachusetts and the only Republican in the House to vote against it. He explained that he was opposed to "nuisance taxes" and thought the bill should have included greater concessions for business.

SENATORS BALK AT THIRD TERM

Burke of Nebraska, Van Nuys of Indiana Oppose Roosevelt Renomination

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—The current news that the Democratic party for a third term for President Roosevelt encountered flat opposition tonight from two Democratic senators who frequently have differed with administration policy.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) declared in a radio address that to disregard the tradition against a third term might lead to a breakdown of the Democratic form of government.

Van Nuys said he would support Paul V. McNutt, former Indiana governor and now high commissioner to the Philippines, for 1940 renomination, but Burke gave no indication of his preference.

Van Nuys' remarks to reporters attracted particular attention because Senator McNutt, who declared he would not be renominated, had been the McNutt organization would not be renominated.

Both Burke and Van Nuys were aligned against the administration in the successful senate fight in 1937 against President Roosevelt's supreme court bill.

Burke asserted that because of present trends in government it was more important now than it had been in the past that tradition against third terms be upheld.

In an address prepared for the Washington Evening Star, the senator (IND), he declared there had been a trend in recent years toward a concentration of power under a government of men rather than of laws.

"In the light of prevailing trends," he added, "should the third term tradition be broken in 1940, no man can safely predict the fate of our form of government."

Urges Amendment

For the same reasons that he opposed the Roosevelt nomination, Burke said he favored a constitutional amendment limiting a president to one term of office—a proposal which he has introduced in Congress.

At the outset of his address, Burke noted that Secretary Tamm had indicated that the president would not be renominated and had referred to the tradition against a third term as "political expediency."

The senator went on to say that Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson had broken the tradition and "as a life-long adherent to the political philosophy of Jefferson and Jackson," he would support the Democratic party up to his day has given no countenance to apprehensions of a breaking.

Then, without making any direct reference to Tamm's former allusion to the Republican party, Burke said:

"If now our party is to follow after Tamm's lead it is fitting that it should be under the leadership of those not bound, imbued with Jeffersonian 'democratic ideas of democracy.'"

Quintuplets on Reducing Diet

CALLANDER, Ont., June 18 (Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets have been put on a diet because they are a little too fat, said Allen Roy Dufos announced today.

The diet cuts down on starches and sugars. It is not strict but potatoes are banned completely.

"The girls are a little annoyed," Dr. Dufos said, "but they have refused potatoes so we told them they were getting too fat, but the explanation didn't help them."

The doctor related they pointed to their nurses with the observation they were "a little too fat, too." As a result nurses Molly Sherry, Bernice and Louise Coriveau had to give up potatoes.

The quintuplets were five years old May 28. At their last weighing they were registered as follows: Marie 50, Yvonne 50, Emille 51 1/2, Cecile 51 1/2 and Annette 51 1/2.

RICHFIELD

Visit Parents—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens and baby son are here from Goldendale, Wash., visiting his father, Mr. Walter Stevens and family. Also, a daughter, Helen Stevens, of Trova, Utah, is home for the summer.

Bridal Club Meets—The Gen Amour club was entertained at a social bridge Thursday afternoon with three tables in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. Bruhn and Mrs. Kohl. Resident Mrs. J. E. Robinson was taken to the Gooding hospital Tuesday with a severe illness.

wool or crepe, designed with a narrow fitted jacket. The sleeve length skirt can be worn with a jacket and printed crepe or organza blouse to make a smart trousseau costume by day. A floor-length skirt of the same material, combined with the jacket and a sheer chiffon blouse, make a nice dinner costume for boat and hotel wear in the evening.

All kinds of elegant hand-fitted frocks can be done with sportswear fabrics to smooth brides' brows, furrowed over budget and luggage space problems. Many brides have chosen slacks, shirt, skirt and short-sleeved fitted jacket all of the same sharp rayon, cotton or linen silk which has shuffed them to make costumes for a day's journey into the country, a picnic or a few hours spent on a white boat plunge in the ocean. Many brides, in fact, wear these three activities.

NAVY REVIEWS SQUALUS LOSS

Officer of Ill-Fated Submarine Reenacts Operations

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 19 (AP)—Behind the closed hatches of a sister submarine, Lieutenant Oliver F. Squalus, reenacted for a naval inspection board today the operations aboard his submersible, the Squalus, prior to her fatal plunge to the ocean bottom almost a month ago.

Earlier, as high ranking officers in full dress opened the investigation at Portsmouth navy yard, the first witness testified that a faulty air induction valve might have allowed tons of water to pour into the Squalus, which still holds 20 of her men entombed in 240 feet of water, 15 miles off this coast.

Sabotage Suspected

Suspicion of sabotage was voiced, meanwhile, from widely separated sectors. Henry Ford told a group of farm crop boys at Detroit, that he believed all three recent submarine disasters—the Squalus, the Thetis, the Fleetwing—were caused by sabotage, with Washington Senator David C. White (D-Mich.) chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, declared the triple sinking, all men were asked if they had any opinion that there are more no coincidence.

The first day of the public inquiry was not without its dramatic incidents.

There was a tense moment as the "court" opened in a large, bare, rectangular room, hung with blueprints of the ill-fated boat.

Rear Admiral William T. Terrant, head of the investigating board, directed toward the Squalus commander.

Nothing But Frank "I have you under complaint," the admiral asked, "against any of the surviving members of the crew?"

"No, sir," replied the prize for which his Nautilus answered quietly.

Then, his 25 surviving officers and men were asked if they had any complaint against their commander's conduct.

"No, sir," replied the Squalus men, standing at attention—silently and obediently.

A New Testimonial

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

For a number of years I have been suffering with sour stomach, dizzy spells and headaches. Constipation also caused me a great deal of daily trouble. Complained with these afflictions, I found that my rights were such a condition that I could do very little work before I tired me so that I could not use it. I am now over 60 years of age. I felt that I should enjoy better health and having read of Chan & Wing's Chinese Herbs, I decided to try them.

A six week course of Chan & Wing's Chinese Herbs proved to me they were what I needed. Today I am well and happy. All the old conditions are gone; I work easily with either arm and feel seems good again. I am happy to recommend Chan & Wing's Chinese Herbs to those who read this ad.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

England has certainly been discovering America lately. The London Times issued special "United States Number" in honor of the royal visit, with 32 pages devoted to our country's history, our system of government, our political parties, our achievements in art and science, our sports and recreations, our exhibitions, and so on.

In a leading editorial entitled "After 150 Years," the Times spoke of the royal visit as the happiest and most significant proof of the feelings of understanding and respect which are felt by the people of Great Britain for the people of the United States.

So in the material we concerned, the most unfortunate person on the roll today probably lives better than the pioneers who settled Idaho. Even if he falls to eat, a balanced diet is forced to get along with dried vegetables and jerked meat.

The hardships of today concern more the mental, emotional and spiritual than the physical. The pioneers of yesterday did not have the physical necessities of life, they had the opportunity of a better life.

The survival of the fittest. The colleges of the nation are turning loose another young army with sheepskins under their arms. They are to be equipped with the tools of life.

It is reassuring to the world's democracies to find the British government indignantly denying any purpose of returning to "appeasement" of the Munich type.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters
Joey Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Besoff.

Yesterday, Tally, daintily breakfasted with his mother and Gretchen go to live with the Macks.
Chapter 21
Problems of Parenthood
At the end of the week Tally informed the family over midday dinner that Bob was a born farmer.

Bob's face glowed with pleasure. "You really happy for the first time in my life," he told them with sincere sincerity. "I guess I'm a sort of new brock or something like that. I like digging in the ground and watching things grow. I like plowing cows and feeding chickens. I like going to bed early and getting up early. I like plain, solid food with no trimmings. . . and I love my new family I feel now as if I never wanted to leave home. . . I'm content if Gretchen is. Are you, Gretchen?"
"I'm happy if you are," she said. "But wouldn't you like to travel? Have fun and jewels and things like that? I'm not doing anything for you. I don't even take you on a honeymoon. . . I always darkened her face. "You traveled enough. This is what I want, Bob. Those other things—well, I've never had them and you can't miss what you never had. . . You don't want them? I'd get them for you, Gretchen."
His fingers caressed his cheek. "You must be kidding, darling, but trying to do it would make me miserable that there would be no one to either of us. No, Bob, this is best."

Gramp, endeavoring to eat something with his "meat" but that looked up long enough to say, "For a woman, Gretchen, you got a lot of sense."

Betsy wriggled out of her high chair and scrambled up on Bob's lap. "Mother, Bob—me! Dadd—remember once you promised me ice-cream? If I didn't do something nasty."

He poked a finger through one of her long black curls, his smile of indulgence. "What is the naughty thing you want to do, Betsy?"

Her eyes snapped with impish promptings. "I don't know. . . 'impish blackmail,' eh?"

"Ice-cream, I think." Strawberry ice-cream. Strawberry ice-cream, I think."

Tally started to say something, but Gretchen, clasping his arm, had taken Betsy over as his job, meaning if he wasn't yet aware of what she was doing she was his own work. Tally relaxed and lit a cigarette.

Bob adjudged from the silence that he was being wordlessly handed the reins for this alert small child. He had acquired the means to tilt her rosy face and said, "You must do naughty things, Betsy. Why?"

"Because it's well—'he floundered, his eyes beseeching Tally. "Because if you're a bad girl you'll be sent to the naughty place. . . What's naughty mean?" she demanded. "Spanked?"

"Exactly." Hot Water
She anguished herself to Bob and poked her tongue out at him. "You can't boss me any more at all!" she declared. "I've got a new daddy and he won't let you spank me. Will you, Daddy?"

Bob writhed with embarrassment. "The water is getting too hot for me, Tally."

"What water? I don't see any water," Betsy complained. "You can't spank me, can he? Can he?"

Gretchen stepped into the breach. "Of course he can, Betsy. You have to mind everybody in our family and Bob is not going to spank you."

"The child's new to the crowd. . . "He promised me ice-cream to be good," she whined.

"And you may have all the ice-cream you want if you're a good girl all the time," Bob promised. "Then I want some now, Daddy."

"Not now, Betsy. You Uncle Tally and I have had our supper and I can't take you into town today."

"Then I'll be naughty," she declared, stiffening.

"Then you will be punished," Bob said sternly. "Now give me your hand, and let's forget the whole thing."

"No," she pouted. "I'm mad at you as you'll be sorry."

Tally said, "Betsy, if you don't keep quiet, I'll spank you. . . and you'll have to stay there all afternoon. Come on, Bob, let's get going."

When the two men had left, Gretchen said to her mother, "I don't know how to make her mind. . . Neither could you, Gramp. . . Her father told me it's all his fault she's so bossy. . . Bob just don't let his big plan to make her mind. . . He wants her to love him, and it's not easy to be a step-father."

"I know it," her mother sympathized. "Well, don't you worry about it. . . Only you take care of her. . . Sometimes I wonder just what would become of us all if it wasn't for him."

Gretchen said unhappily, "Mama, giving up her life. He always has. . . I want to have a wife and a family of his own. He's almost twenty years old."

"Who are you talking about?" Gramp demanded, coming down the back stairway.

"Tally."
"Well, you never mind about him. I got a notion he's pretty good on the red-headed Russell side. He won't have naps of him but he gets a mighty peculiar look in his eyes every time her name is spoken. . . And if he wants her he'll get her. He's a bossy old fellow. . . He's got you and you mind what I say."

over to the bed and picked up the beautiful French doll, hugged it in her arms, and kissed its pretty painted face. . . Wiping smoothing its lacy skirts and patting its red burn hair she talked to it, calling it "Molly." . . She had named it Molly after a little girl who had once visited her in Texas. The little girl had been red-haired and pretty. . . The fact that they had fought continuously over everything made no difference.

Carrying the doll under her arm, Betsy went over to Joey's dressing table and inspected the array of perfume bottles and colored jars. A green glass container with pictures painted on it attracted her glance. . . She lifted the tin and the jar played a tinkling tune. . . Started at first, then endeavored, she experimented and discovered the only key it played by putting the cover on and off.

"Tingling of this," she said next a jewel box and opened it. A tray full of costume jewelry glittering with colored stones, fascinated her. . . One by one she tried on the rings and bracelets, and having finally abandoning the earrings, because she could not fasten them on her tiny lobes. . . However, she found a headband made of shiny whole stones, so she pulled off her hair ribbon and tried it on. . . She wondered if Joey's mother would miss the wide gold bracelet with its big green stones. . . It there were so many here.

The sudden sound of car below impeded her to run to the window. "Oh. . . it was Joey!"

Betsy swiftly determined a course of action. . . Muttering "Joey—Joey—Joey" she promised her doll like this one and then forgotten all about it. . . She would just be happy to see him to get him what she wanted him to show her.

Plenty of Powder To Remove Stump

TILLAMOOK, Ore., June 19 (UP)—Bruce Kellow of Tillamook believes in sufficiency.

He was preparing to blast his first stump while riding his father clear some land. He asked his father if 10 sticks of dynamite were enough.

The elder Kellow thought his son was joking.

"Young 'don't you do a good job," he blurted, "use 100."

Why Kellow figured if 80 would do a good job 120 would be better so he used 120.

Today, where once stood a small station to hold a house, nobody was hurt.

Schoolman Sees South Idaho As Volcanic Activity Center

GALDWELL, June 19.—Two members of the Owyhee Gem and Mineral society, O. J. Smith and J. J. Huber, discussed local geology and the gem resources of southeastern Idaho Friday night when Dean Smith addressed the Gem club at its monthly convales in the Chamber of Commerce offices and Prof. Huber, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, was featured in a broadcast.

Said Dean Smith, acting president of the College of Idaho and professor of geology, "We are living in one of the regions of greatest geologic interest in the world. In this region is perhaps the greatest lava flow in the world, comparable to none other unless it be the "Decan flow" in northern India. If all the lava in this "Columbian flow" were in one stream it would make a river one mile high and one mile wide, running 24,000 miles long, or almost around the globe."

Cautioning that the outbreak of Caldwell, marks the westernmost edge of the comparatively recent "Halo flow" of lava which is also responsible for the formation of Wizard Butte, "Kann Butte used to be volcanic," stated Dean Smith. "It probably furnished a great deal of the lava of this region. Some of the witnesses in—Blosser—crack—and Jordan valley are still more or less active, having erupted only a few years ago, and there is no reason why these active volcanoes may not at some time, perhaps during the lifetime of people present, send lava once more running about the site of Caldwell."

This section of Idaho, explained the speaker, is a great "down-warp" or trough in the earth's surface, evidence of the catastrophic of "Columbian flow" lava on the mountains both north and south of this valley and the more recent "Halo flow" has run into the warp and filled the "down-warp" to its present level.

treasure house of southwestern Idaho gem materials and the growing interest in gems, as shown by the increasing number of gem collectors to be found in this territory. Mr. Huber described Owyhee county as being abundant with some of the finest polished wood found in the nation, and further enumerated some of its supplies of opal, amber and agate which can be worked into beautiful ornaments and jewelry by the amateur hobbyist and provide him with a fascinating and constructive hobby. . .

A LITTLE BIRD TOLD HER!

At Twin Falls Playgrounds

Activities Saturday concluded "honour week" at Twin Falls playgrounds with leaders and children giving special emphasis to three holidays—Flag day, Pioneer day and Father's day.

On-Flag day Boy Scouts Bill Merrill, Elmer Webb, Vernon Finkler, and Robert Ryan engaged and Art Smith visited Harmon and Drury parks and outlined directions for the number of times visiting the disposal of an old flag, meaning of the color, and number—meaning of the stars and stripes, were explained by the youth.

A problem of patriotism developed at Harmon park. One little boy inquired that his mother did not permit him to salute the flag. Two women spectators encouraged two boys in not saluting the flag.

Nominations for the playground committee heard at Harmon park included: captain—Lloyd Gilkey, Gladys Lynde and Kenneth Johnson; first lieutenant—Ray Hill and Glen Jones; safety director—Jack Kelly and Lois Gale; equipment director—Eugene Block and Beverly Block; newspaper editor—Junior McClain and Pauline Sloop.

At Drury Virginia Higgins, Virginia Williams, Bernice Thomas, Dean Ford, Frieda DeWalt and Debra Jenkins have been nominated for the various offices.

Election started Friday and will conclude Tuesday.

At the request of playground children, The Tuxedo Fabrics, has been included on the new song sheets.

A five-year-old girl at City park was talking to Mrs. Payne, recreation leader, about missing one day at the park.

"I didn't come yesterday because I didn't get any sleep last night," she said.

"A little later just flew and fussed all night and I knew I just wasn't be able to do my work well," she stated.

The "work" consists of coloring, games, clay modeling, scrap books, reading in the park, singing games and sports.

In craft classes last week, City park children made greeting cards that were presented to their fathers.

Yesterday began "hobby week." Children will display collections on Friday, June 23, and on boys' day and Thursday's girls' day.

Rupert L. D. S. Girls Attend Boise Outing
RUPERT, June 19.—Mrs. Martin Bassett, Bee keeper of the Guardian Press, will lead the Boise outing, accompanied seven Bee Hive girls to Boise Friday for a five-day outing.

The following girls made the trip: Ada Weston, Lerna Cunningham, Alla Schow, Voe Crump, Elaine Schuepbach, Valene Yates and June Harrison.
