SUSPECT FACES CHARGE OF RAPE

Officers Assert Father of Eight-Year-Old Girl

Identified as to voice and features by the girl he allegedly attacked about a month ago Sunday, July 12, Jim Heck, 28, the father of eight children and a local milk driver, was held in the city jail yesterday on felony charges of rape.

Police charge that Heck attacked a 16-year-old girl resident in a bed where she was sleeping outside of her home. The girl had been sleeping out of doors because of the warm nights.

A Twin Falls physician, who examined the girl soon after the attack, verified her story.

It is further alleged by officers that Heck held his hands tightly around the girl's neck to keep her from screaming.

Prosecuting Attorney Everett M. Streeby will file rape charges Monday, he said. Court records show that Heck was convicted of a similar crime one year ago.

But the girl's father, Leonard W. Gillette said that Heck's activities did not end with the episode of August 12.

Early Friday morning Heck called to have returned to the girl's room to look off his shoes, leaving them in his car, and then when she came back to the room where she lives with her parents, she discovered his overalls, leaving on only one undergarment.

Walking outside he entered the cabin but found the girl was not sleeping outside. He then walked across the street to another cabin, which he entered. Residing there is a young widow. He apparently had an iron pipe in his hand, the widow said, and was call only in his underwear. When he threatened her she screamed and frightened him away. Police allege that he ran to his car and drove away, leaving his overalls, which were found by police later that morning.

Members of the quartet are affiliated with the First Baptist church of Mount Vernon. According to a spokesman for the musical organization, "they have heard the call of God to special service, and are going forth in the name of Christ to witness for Him."

Personnel of the quartet is Ray Ogden, first tenor; John Sullivan, second tenor; Ray Horstad, bass tenor and Glen Moore, bass.

BOOM SEEN FOR DAKOTA SENATOR

Nye's Friends Active in Drive for Presidential Nomination

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—A "favorite-son" boom for Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota for the Republican presidential nomination was reported in the making today.

Friends of Nye said they expected the movement to come to the surface at a rally at Minot, N. D., next month at a time when several other candidate Republican presidential favorites, more or less inactive since congress adjourned, will be entering upon intensive speaking campaigns.

Friends of the North Dakota senator also have been active in South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana in the hope of obtaining, if not pledged endorsements at least secondary support for Nye in the Republican convention.

They were said to believe that if Nye could command the votes of these four states he would be in a position to force a caucus on the coast.

He has announced the intention of attacking the administration's foreign policy during the convention.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who has been in Canada on a vacation, will leave next week for the west coast, stopping overnight on the way in Cincinnati, his home.

C. I. O. Mobilizes Forces To Help Farmers in Milk Strike

NEW YORK WHIRLIGIG By James McMillan

NATIONAL. There are many overtones of the A. P. of C. I. O. civil war in the New York Milk strike.

The head of the board of trustees of the Dairy Farmers' union, used to be an A. P. organizer.

Now the C. I. O. is backing him with foot, horse and gun. It has mobilized a large number of men in New York City and sent them upstate to picket milk plants.

The strikers also delivered. The Milk organization has a direct interest in the success of the strike. It has been able to make much progress in New York state outside the home of the leadership figure it will gain by using the money to buy the support of the farmers. Also John Lewis would like to develop strong ties with agricultural workers to enhance his political influence.

In essence, the C. I. O. is using the New York Milk situation for an important experiment in mobilizing the Dairy Farmers' union with its aid. It definitely plans to try some tactics in other parts of the country. The outcome of the strike is therefore of national significance.

RADICAL. A couple of other angles of the strike are also worth noting. The Dairy Farmers' union is powerful only in a narrow territory. Its members are mostly foreigners—with a large percentage of Poles—at radical tendencies.

The union is demanding a flat milk price of $2.25 a hundred pounds for its producers, as against a present average price of $1.70. The ironic point is that at least a part of this increase could probably be obtained through orderly legal channels by petition to federal and state milk authorities. But that method is too slow for Wright and his followers. They want immediate action.

So in effect the union is attacking the machinery set up by the State to aid the dairy farmer. The New Dealers don't like that at all. The union's strategy is to force the dealers to their knees by shutting off their milk supply at their whim. If it gets away with this, it will certainly gain tremendously in membership and prestige and similar movements will be launched elsewhere. However, the odds are against it. New York farmers in general are no friends of the C. I. O. Many are their Pennsylvania counterparts who smashed the flexibility-kill-down strike in 1927.

The fundamental cause of the trouble in the industry's green which has been manifested on many previous occasions. Large and small producers alike have stepped up their output to the limit to reap the maximum advantage of large summer consumption. The latter has held up fine—it's the best in several years—but production has run far beyond it.

Other contributing factors have been the rapid growth of cheap foreign production from mills in Illinois and improvements in refining processes which make it possible to get much more gallons from the same volume of crude—thus flooding the gasoline market. Secretary takes must be jumping up in his sleeve. The whole performance—especially the blacking and mutual distrust—of the A. P. production.

CRISIS. One aspect of Anglo-Polish relations that has not been publicly mentioned at all may have an important bearing on the diplomatic poker game over Danzig.

Poland has depended largely on British credits for its financial assistance lately, and will soon be calling for more of the same. There is some doubt in New York banking circles that these loans will ever be repaid anyhow, but they certainly will be if the Poles lose their economic and political grasp of Danzig.

RAILROAD, FARM TAXES COMPARED

Spokesman for Growers and Shippers' Group Contrasts Valuations

BOISE, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Idaho state board of equalization heard today that if Idaho farmers were taxed for state and federal tax purposes on the same basis of valuation as the Union Pacific Railway company, agricultural valuation would be 50 per cent less.

David L. Bush of Nampa, secretary of the Growers and Shippers' association of Idaho, said total assets of the company nationally were valued at $1,200,000,000 or $116,000 per acre, and with a mileage in Idaho of 2,051 the total assets of the company in Idaho would be $238,740,502.

"On this the company's assessed valuation of $238,740,502 or $116,000 per acre of the value," Bush declared to the board which recessed after a brief meeting until 10 a. m. Monday.

"On that basis the assessed valuation of Idaho farms would be reduced 50 per cent, or if the rule applied to the farm were imposed against the railway its assessed valuation would be in excess of $75,000,000."

Bush said one of every four farms in Gresham and Payette county were borrows from the farm security administration, which loans money only when all other sources of credit are barred to the applicant.

He declared the Union Pacific earned in excess of $10,000,000 in 1929, and that transportation of Idaho potatoes to market over the railroad cost farmer $107 per acre as freight, and added the company's financial record.

There are $5,000 farm units in Idaho, Bush continued. "Their financial piglet is becoming increasingly deplorable, and unless we apply the rule that those best able to bear the costs of government must do so we will find the farmers all bankrupt and the railroad without revenue."

Dr. M. Sawyer of Salt Lake City, Union Pacific tax expert, declared that much of the assets of the company were in substantial equipment, and that the figures did not represent present conditions.

Who pays the freight?

ORANGES cost less in California or Florida—and everybody knows why. When orange groves grow on Manhattan, New Yorkers will pay less for their oranges.

Shorten the miles between producer and consumer, and you lower the price; for the traveling expenses of merchandise have got to go on the price ticket—there is no other way.

So Sears, Roebuck and Co. have made a scientific study of getting goods to you over the shortest possible haul—therefore at the lowest possible cost. So far as possible, we supply each locality with merchandise made in its own nearby factories. When this isn't feasible, we ship from Sears regional supply depots, into which goods flow in carload—even train-load—lots at lower freight cost than if we shipped in drabs—meaning a tremendous saving to Sears customers.

Then, too, much is accomplished by Sears transportation experts, through constant and intensive study of the nation's shipping facilities. To them, the map of the country is as simple as a checker board. They are on whistling terms, so to speak, with every freight train in the country. They play box-cars, trucks and boats as skillfully as Paderewski plays the keys of a piano.

The savings thus effected on freight alone, means money to the people of this country—an amazing amount of money every year; for, when Sears save, you do, too.

Who pays the freight? You!

But you don't pay so much when you shop at Sears and save.

Selling Pressure Eases, But Few Issues Able to Retrieve Losses

Markets At A Glance NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The stock market today finished the week with a notable improvement in selling pressure, but few issues were able to retrieve any part of recent losses.

At the close fractional recovery was predominant, with a smattering of declines remaining to be corrected. The most active group during the week was down 1.4 points, since it was stepped up from 12.14 to 13.54 and volume expanded moderately.

Transfers for the two hours totaled 123,650 shares against 27,800 last Saturday. The selling volume was moderately larger than the week before.

Traders seemed to have given a bit calmer regarding European affairs, but the notion of Germany in relinquishing its military advantage in the Balkans served to stress the fact that overseas war tension is still a prime market influence.

Stocks emerging with bullish signs of the day included International Chemical, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph, U. S. Steel, Republic, Standard Oil, Pe. O. & B., Huber, Hercules, Monro, General Ward, Douglas Aircraft, International Harvester, International Paper, Owens-Illinois and Coit.

Allied Chemical jumped 4 points on transfers of 200 shares. International Chemical, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph, U. S. Steel, Republic, Standard Oil, Pe. O. & B., Huber, Hercules, Monro, General Ward, Douglas Aircraft, International Harvester, International Paper, Owens-Illinois and Coit.

Practically every one of the American Dynamite "B"s, Consolidated Copper, Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and Humble Oil. Bulls dipped with stocks. Grain futures strengthened, but other commodities were mixed.

BRITISH AIRWAYS LACK EQUIPMENT

Manufacturing Delays May Lead to Purchase of American Planes

LONDON — (Correspondence of The Associated Press) — Britain seeking supremacy of the world's air routes may be forced by its biggest air company into dropping the "British made" label from its operating planes and entering the American market for equipment.

Developments in the past few weeks in this country's civil aviation scene are cited by informed quarters as an effort to force British air authorities into buying American airplanes to overcome a dire financial crisis in empire air services caused by non-delivery of essential planes.

This shortage of equipment, caused by the country's vast rearmament program, recently brought Imperial Airways to announce partial suspension of its passenger services on empire routes.

The announcement came as a high point in complaints which the company, heavily subsidized by the government as its "chosen instrument" to fly the British flag over the skyways of the world, has received of delay in deliveries of planes for its services.

Among other things these delays have been cited as the cause of the company's profit dropping from $72,226 in 1937 to less than $1,000 the following year. Generally they are said to have been one of the major causes of the setting up of the Cadman committee in 1937 to investigate serious charges of "inefficiency" in British civil aviation.

Blame for the delays has been laid by critics partly on the British air ministry and partly on the plane building industry here.

During the hearing of the Cadman report, criticism against the ministry led to a section of the minutes being devoted to the lowering of civil aviation.

But as rearmament became more vital to the country, even this had little effect. As warplane production was increased, the hope of getting sufficient British-built machines for British commercial services became correspondingly slimmer.

Today the position is reflected by the fact that 30 engine type planes ordered for Imperial Airways in 1934, eight still remain to be delivered.

Meanwhile foreign services along some British routes have increased in efficiency and are making more and more serious inroads into British revenue.

Thus faced with a dilemma, Imperial Airways officials are said to have taken matters in their own hands in an attempt to force the issue with the air ministry.
