CRASH ENDS WILD FLIGHT OF CONVICTS

Prisoners Use Four Michigan Officials As Shields. On Dash To Freedom; Warden Sustains Minor Injuries

(By The Associated Press)
MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 25—Four long-term convict prisoners who abducted four Michigan prison officials and carried them as shields on a wild dash to freedom were recaptured tonight when their speeding automobile overturned on a highway curve near Marquette, Mich.

Warden Keith L. Coon on the northern branch state prison, one of two hostages still in the automobile at the end of the chase was scratched on the forehead and bruised on the head in the crash. The first was reported to be a police officer who was struck by a police bullet first in the car, but later said a piece of the car's floor board struck him.

Return Prison
None of the other occupants of the car was injured. State police officers reached the prison with the recaptured convicts at 11:30 p.m. (CST).

Warden Coon said the four were being segregated and that he was starting an investigation of the escape.

The four prisoners, three of them life-termers, entered a meeting room at the prison where they were held. They were dressed in civilian clothes and were being guarded by state police.

One carried what appeared to be a small black and white automobile pistol. After their capture tonight, John T. Erdine, Marquette city policeman, said he carried a wooden pistol and another an iron wrench.

Charged With Death
Interfering death to any who threatened the convicts forced Warden Coon to leave William Newcome, A. Ross Pearce, parole board chairman, and Gerald Bush, board member, to accompany them to flight.

Warden Coon was released five miles from the prison. The fugitives ran into a police blockade at a highway intersection near Marquette. The cars were driven away and the state line near Marquette, Wis., as their car was being jumped to escape the trap. Police jumped from the machine and escaped with slight injuries.

More than 40 state police, sheriff's deputies and police from several towns took up the chase. The convicts swung into a curve too fast and the automobile overturned, some of its occupants were tossed clear.

Police with drawn guns surrounded the fugitives before they could recover from the shock. Warden Coon was given first aid. Bush, the Chicago attorney, was taken to the hospital. The other three were not immediately identified, giving rise to reports that he had been freed by the fugitives along their flight route.

Serving Life Terms
Three of the convicts in today's escape were serving life terms. They are Joseph M. Muehle of Detroit and Thomas McGee of Memphis. (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

Warsaw Still Holding Out

BUDAPEST, Sept. 25 (AP)—With Warsaw's lone radio voice more and more in doubt, German broadcast tonight that the Polish capital was still unoccupied.

Using a wave length once belonging to Warsaw, German announcers at 11:20 p.m. (EAT) said that Warsaw again was under heavy artillery fire and that Berlin, 20 miles northwest, was surrounded.

They spoke Polish, but with a strong German accent. The frontier closing was regarded as the result of precautionary moves by both governments.

Russia's acquisition of Polish territory was a tremendous barrier between Rumania and for the first time gave her a frontier with Poland. The entire frontier between Soviet Russia and Rumania, and Russian Black Sea port of Odessa was reported unofficially today to have been closed to travelers.

ALLIED PLANES BOMB GERMAN MOTOR PLANT

Observers In Switzerland Witness Spectacular Raid On Aircraft Factory

ROMANSHORN, Switzerland, Sept. 25—One of Germany's principal airplane motor plants at Friedrichshafen was reported today to have been raided by enemy planes.

Observers here on the Swiss shore of Lake Constance, five miles away, said they saw the raid last night. The same observers said they believed the plant had been put out of commission by several direct hits from the planes, which were not identified.

The German border was closed and the report could not be confirmed. "DNL" official German news agency quoted the high command as saying French airplanes had been sighted and fired on over the area but the raid had failed to destroy any object in Germany. The agency said the planes had been chased into Lake Constance.

Observers here had grandstand seats, so to speak, for the spectacular night battle between the French and German fighters and the raiding planes, invisible in the black sky. Thousands stood along the Swiss shore of Lake Constance to watch the burning bombs on the ground and the exploding shells in the air.

Watchers said the burning bombs were visible clearly. The detonations echoed through the lake Constance hills. Military sources estimated at least 100 bombs were dropped of which many were incendiary.

Swiss observers said the raid included the small town of Mammern, about three miles from Friedrichshafen. The zeppelin works were converted recently into an airplane motor factory and another plant was opened at Mammern.

Poilus Drive On Haardt Mountains

PARIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—The French announced tonight they had defeated a German attack in two major air battles over the western front.

The battles were fought yesterday as a preliminary to the pounding of Germany's main Siegfried forts from one end of the western front to the other by big French guns which opened up today.

And French said "superior numbers" of German planes were defeated in two distinct fights. The French admitted they lost two planes, but said they were certain the Germans lost a greater number of planes and superior strength.

The pilots and machine-gunners of two German planes shot down on French territory were captured. The French pilot of one plane shot down by the Germans was captured by his squadron headquarters.

French authorities said they were certain far more than 20 German planes were shot down but they were able to report only the German planes which fell behind the French lines.

ARTILLERY PAVES WAY FOR ADVANCE

Swiss Observers Report Re-sumption Of French Troops' Drive

BY CHARLES R. FOLTY, JR.
BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 25—French troops resumed their drive against the Siegfried line along a 40-mile front today in what dispatches said was the heaviest attack since the outbreak of the war.

Coordinated attacks along the winding line from the Saar basin to the Vosges mountains followed up a night-long bombardment of German fortifications, the report said.

French troops in many sectors were armed with heavy batteries from the Maginot line which sent shells hurtling against the German fortifications. (A French communication in Paris reported "local improvements" in the French positions.)

mission of the troops is to bring order and peace to Poland." That was very sweet of the invaders. But if we remember rightly, there was quite a bit of order and peace in Poland before these well-trained, well-equipped troops began their marching and shooting and looting and burning.

It is hard for Americans to see anything there but the cruelty of Hitler, the heavy hand of Stalin and the destruction of a brave little nation that was doing its best to mind its own business and live a civilized life.

"PEACE FRIGHT" Well Street had a shock last Monday, in form of what the financial writers called a "peace fright." Apparently, however, it was the war was going to end almost as quickly as it had started. That would naturally check the demand for war supplies and the possibility of war profits.

There is probably no such luck for this nation or the world, now or in the near future. Surely our own country and the world would be very fortunate if general peace were assured and men and nations could return to normal life and work. Peace prospects wouldn't distress anybody hereabouts.

Other Points of View RIDERS OF THE REDEO The fall round-up on the cattle range, once a picturesque part of the western scene, has all disappeared. The line cowboy, immortalized in the plaintive ballads of early writers, is no longer the star of the show. He is now a figure of the past, a relic of a bygone era.

Time was when the west was peopled largely with the cowboy. He was the hero of the frontier, the man who tamed the wild west. He was the one who brought civilization to the frontier, the one who made the west what it is today.

But the cowboy long since has ceased haunting the ranges they once roamed. Now when the round-up season comes, the cowboy rides a rodeo circuit, a line of pits and arenas, where he shows off his skills to a paying audience. He is no longer a cowboy, he is a rodeo rider.

THEIR HEARTS AT TWENTY The idea of reducing the maximum voting age to 18 in the coming congressional election has been a topic of discussion in the Twin Falls community. Some feel it is a good idea, while others feel it is a bad idea.

Administration officials' idea is that youth will have to be given a larger role in the government. They feel that the young people of today are more interested in public affairs than the young people of yesterday.

But the young people of today are not the same as the young people of yesterday. They are more educated, more interested in public affairs, more responsible. They are the future of the country, and it is up to us to make sure they are ready to take over when the time comes.

It will be to the state's advantage to have the young people of today take over the government. They are the future of the country, and it is up to us to make sure they are ready to take over when the time comes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt reversed his field and non-political position in asking for a return to international law as a means of keeping the United States out of the European war.

He had asked for a special change in the neutrality act—repeal of the embargo on arms and munitions, for instance—he would have been the ally of the Axis and the enemy of the Allies.

But under international law this country can handle each other's quarrels on an anti-war basis, and would probably have won in the end. It is a pity that the president did not see this.

EMBARGO AFFECTS LONG LIST OF WAR WEAPONS

Editor's note: The war in the steel, the law now stands, these weapons are not to be sent to the belligerent nations. The embargo is a serious one, and it affects a long list of war weapons.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The crux of the congressional controversy over the neutrality law is whether American manufacturers should be permitted to sell arms and ammunition to warring nations.

The present congressional compromise creates an embargo on arms sales. President Roosevelt desires is to repeal the embargo on arms sales.

However, the arms embargo now applies only when the president—his sole discretionary power in this matter—determines that a state of war exists. The president invoked the embargo on Sept. 25, when he declared that a state of war existed between the United States and the Axis powers.

Trans-shipment Prohibited In case, arms may not be exported to any neutral nation for trans-shipment to a belligerent. American manufacturers and exporters are permitted under regulations laid down by the munitions control act to sell arms to a belligerent.
