SENATE GROUP APPROVES FOR TRAINING ACT

Roosevelt's Appeal for Power to Mobilize National Guard Receives Quick Assent of Military Affairs Committee

By RICHARD TURNER

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) —President Roosevelt's appeal for power to call out the national guard and officers' reserve corps for training — a proposal backed unstintedly by the army — received quick approval of the senate military committee today.

Snyder (4-3) vs. Emmerton (5-6)

—The German wireless reported today duty is Donald Gene Kautch.

Action came after Gen. George C. Marshall, the chief of staff, described such an authorization as urgently necessary and endorsed selective conscription — a proposal apparently bogged down in congressional controversy.

On the latter subject, President Roosevelt declined to be drawn out at a press conference — although the committee earlier had engaged in an acrimonious dispute over a Republican demand that he make his views known.

The row started, apparently, with a statement by Sheppard that he found the "definite impression" that President Roosevelt favored the Burke-Wadsworth bill as it stood. Bridges asserted that was "insufficient," it was said, and was backed by Senators Gurney and Thomas (R-Idaho) in a demand that the committee seek an official statement of Mr. Roosevelt's views.

These demands produced an immediate charge by Minton and Lee that the Republicans were attempting to play politics with the defense issue.

When a reporter asked his attitude toward the pending Burke-Wadsworth bill — providing that men 18 to 64 inclusive, to register for possible selective training — he said he did not care to go into details. To this, he added the statement that a lot of machines without men to run them were worthless, and many men without machines were equally worthless.

This led some to the conclusion that the president favored conscription, but at no more rapid rate than the men called up could be provided with equipment.

Wounded Man's Father Still Held

HAILEY, July 30 — Although William Markham, jr., 33, was released from the Hailey clinical hospital today after partially recovering from two bullet wounds sustained Saturday night, his father, William Markham, sr., about 55, is still being held in jail here on an open charge, according to Sheriff Dave Howes.

Although no charges have been filed as yet, the Sheriff indicated that a complaint may yet be lodged against the father.

The official said that the shooting occurred during a family quarrel Saturday night in a bonding house near the Eureka lead-silver mine northwest of here.

FLASHES of LIFE

Super Service

BRUNSWICK, Me. — Enter this one in the super-service department.

Aviator Frank Simpson saw a house house afire on a country road, swooped low over a neighbor's house and shouted the news, urging his audience to call the fire department.

They did, and the department extinguished the blaze.

Blessed Event

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — While the Rev. Donald H. Grattet, curate of Christ Episcopal church, was delivering his Sunday sermon, a stray cat which had entered the edifice several times before was birth to two kittens in a pew.

Mollified after the service, the Rev. Mr. Grattet telephoned the Humane society. Later, the cat gave birth to a third kitten there.

Wrong Diagnosis

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. — Ten-year-old Virginia Gregory responded to the cries of brother James, 5, and found a cat-like animal under the kitchen table.

Thinking it was an opposum, she choked it to death. It turned out to be a skunk.

Perfect Agreement

SALEM, Ore. — The state prison baseball team will be in perfect agreement with the umpires decisions in its first game outside the walls in 20 years.

Umpire for a game August 12 with the Civil Mays team will be Ray S. Keene—parole board member.

PET DEVICE of Mayor Joe Koehler, the parking meter, is shown here being compared by the mayor with a one-hour parking sign symbolic of the present system of keeping traffic moving. Mayor Koehler proposed the parking meter system during Monday night's city council meeting when strong opposition was voiced by Police Commissioner Carl Ritchey. Today business sentiment on the proposal will be sounded at a special merchants' bureau meeting. (News Photo and Engraving).

Hull Cheered as Nations Bolster Monroe Doctrine

Strategists of U. S. Army Use Air Speed

PORT LEAVENWORTH, Kas., July 30 (AP)—The army's newly-created general headquarters will use air speed to shrink the great distances separating the nation's continental field forces.

"I'll have my office in an airplane most of the time," Brigadier General Lesley J. McNair said today.

The tall kindly officer, who relinquishes direction of the command general staff school here to take charge of the newly formed military agency, said there was a "very clear-cut need" for its unprecedented peace-time creation.

"It is a wise, timely and very necessary step," he said.

By recreating a general headquarters such as that which directed World war field operations, but now to be concerned only with training, the war department "does not contemplate the organization of field forces as though we were going to war," General McNair asserted.

"But," he added, "we are in the process of organizing a great many troop units, and they are increasing all the while, so it is only logical that we begin to organize a general headquarters, as well as other elements of our field forces."

General McNair's job essentially will be to condition the American army for fighting along standardized lines. "We can issue orders, but they must be followed up and checked to see that they are executed in the same manner. This is a difficulty in our army."

An immediate task of the general headquarters, the supreme command of all the field forces, will be to inspect all maneuvers next month by the four armies of the military establishment "in the role of an observer with a view of taking stock of our troops."

"If something superior should show up in one maneuver we can make it available to all of the armies," General McNair observed.

Signing of Document Marks Close of Conference

By J. C. STARK

HAVANA, July 30 (AP) — The historic conference of Havana, which bolstered the Monroe doctrine with new bars against war dangers from Europe, ended tonight in a cheering flurry of speech-making and document-signing.

U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the quiet, patient man who is credited with pushing through the three-point program of American solidarity, was the first to sign. He was last in the lottery of precedence, but the others deferred to him so he could catch the liner for Orient for Miami.

Hull was cheered loudly as he left his seat and stepped to the large table in the Cuban capitol to affix his signature to the various conference measures. He was cheered again a few minutes later when he tried to slip out quietly while foreign office representatives of the other 20 American republics were coming forward to sign.

Three-Point Program

The program to which they attached their names consists of:

1. A so-called "Act of Havana," which definitely declares all the American republics to be opposed to change or transfer of change in the status of European possessions in this hemisphere.

2. Inter-American cooperation to combat the "fifth column" or other infiltrating subversive elements which may exist or seek to exist in this hemisphere.

3. Mutual effort to maintain economic in an "American way," with precautions against market dislocations caused by the European war, and to guard against encroachment of European barter systems.

Argentina's last-minute reservation to the "Act of Havana" and to the accompanying convention defining the methods of protecting any threatened European colony, were glossed over almost entirely in this closing session.

Argentina Objects

To the very last, Argentina objected to making definite conference commitments which would give any of the American republics the right to move protectively into European colonies in this hemisphere.

Leopoldo Melo, the Argentina delegate, objected to the provision

Flames Kill Worker, Hide Fate of Seven

Million-Dollar Paint Factory Destroyed When Explosions Touch Off Fire

CAMDEN, N. J., July 30 (AP)—Flames touched off by a series of explosions in a paint factory swept four blocks of central Camden today, killing at least one factory employe, hiding the fate of seven others, and destroying the million-dollar plant, 67 adjoining homes and small business places.

Raymond Harter, 40, an employe of the extensive R. M. Hollingshead Company paint and chemical factory, where the blaze started at noon, succumbed to burns in a hospital — first known fatality of a disaster officials feared might have caused ten or more deaths.

At least seven workers in the plant were officially reported missing after the fire had been brought under control tonight. Some 150 other persons, including firemen, were injured, two of them so se-

Boise Church Advocates Voluntary Service Instead of Conscription

BOISE, July 30 (AP) — Conscription of young American men for military service met organized opposition today with formation of a committee headed by the Rev. Thomas Acheson of Boise First Methodist church.

The committee, voicing the sentiment of 75 church members, sent a delegation to the four members of Idaho's congressional delegation which said in part:

"We believe that volunteer service can be submitted to provide the manpower for any present necessary defense program. It is our conviction that conscription is a threat to democracy and is contrary to Democratic procedure."

Meantime, the Rev. W. W. Deal of Nampa, invited by the national emergency committee of the military training camps association, to aid in forming a regional committee to support the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, emphatically refused to serve.

The Rev. Mr. Deal, former state grange master, said he was opposed to "peacetime conscription."

Wool Growers Urge Use of U. S. Product in Military Uniforms

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP) — American wool growers sought assurance today from the national defense commission that any purchases of wool for army and navy uniforms should not be made from foreign producers at their expense.

Officials of the National Wool Growers association left a two-hour conference with Chester Davis, defense commissioner representing agriculture, bound to secrecy, but with them was Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) who expressed confidence that any large accumulation of foreign wools that might be purchased by the government would be so controlled as to prevent a drop in the domestic market price.

O'Mahoney avoided answering specific questions as to whether the commission did intend to acquire large quantities of foreign wool.

Representatives of the woolen industry were C. R. Wardlaw of Del Rio, Tex., president of the national growers association, F. R. Marshall of Salt Lake City, Utah, secretary, Byro Wilson, manager of the Wyoming wool growers association, and Charles Fawcett, Boston dealer.

Wilson told reporters figures of supplies on hand tended to show that there was no need of going ahead to equip an army of 1,000,000 men or a navy double the size of the present sea force.

He said that an army of 500,000 men could be fully clothed, including replacements, with 47,000,000 pounds of wool. He displayed government figures reporting that as of July 1 the stocks of wools held by American dealers and manufacturers was 220,559,000 pounds, and estimated that growers throughout the nation had on hand between 175,000,000 and 200,000,000 pounds. In addition, wool shorn from animals in slaughtering houses was estimated at 30,000,000 pounds.

G.O.P. LEADER PAYS TRIBUTE TO AL SMITH

Willkie Defends Supporting Democrat from FDR Charges of Bolting Party for Love of Money

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 30 (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie tonight described Alfred E. Smith as a man whose principles had been followed by President Roosevelt and added that he did not believe Smith could be accused of thinking more of money than humanity.

The nominee made his statement after hearing that Smith had endorsed him for the presidency.

Willkie recalled that Mr. Roosevelt said recently that some of Willkie's supporters among the Democrats were the type of men who thought more of money than humanity. Then the nominee said:

"I hope that nobody suggests that the warm-hearted Alfred E. Smith, most distinguished liberal governor that New York ever had, is one of those persons who is actuated by love of money rather than love of humanity."

Willkie made his statement regarding Smith after releasing a telegram in which Samuel Seabury, former investigator of New York city's government during the Jimmie Walker days, tendered his support.

The nominee said he would spend most of Saturday discussing Republican organizational problems with Chairman Joe Martin of the national committee and others.

Seabury, messaged that Willkie's nomination "justifies the hope that under your presidency order and equality of opportunity may supplant the present disharmonic chaos which has paralyzed and demoralized industry."

Willkie told his press conference that he virtually had completed a rough draft of his acceptance talk at Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17, with the exception of the farm section. That portion he will discuss at a farm conference in Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 5.

He said Martin and the other Republican leaders would look over the speech when they come here Saturday.

LEWIS CHARGES ISSUES AVOIDED

CIO Leader Says Both Parties Evade Unemployment and Income Problems

ST. LOUIS, July 30 (AP)—Skirting any mention of the coming presidential campaign, John L. Lewis, CIO president, declared today both major political parties had failed to face the problems of unemployment and inadequate income for millions of Americans.

Addressing there were 10,700,000 unemployed in the country, including 3,500,000 young men and women between the ages of 19 and 24, and a national study of 29,000,000 families had shown that 19,000,000 "subsist on a family income of $60 a month.

Speaking at the convention of the United Automobile Workers of America, second largest union in the CIO, Lewis said: "That is what is the matter with America—an insufficient national income to permit the people to consume our own production."

Declaring that the platforms of both major political parties fail to state "what they're going to do about it," the labor leader said:

"Some day the people of this country are going to lose confidence in the existing political parties to such a degree that they are going to form their own party.

That, he added, was "for the future to develop."

Japanese Start Alien Roundup

TOKYO, July 30 (AP)—A roundup of foreigners throughout the Japanese empire, on suspicion of espionage was pressed tonight by the Japanese army and gendarmerie.

Reliable sources saw the drive as a new spearhead in the Japanese campaign to effect the long-sought "new order in east Asia" by elimination of foreign influence in the economic zone Japan has called her own.

RUMANIAN GENERALS ACCUSED

Italian Planes Join Nazi Battalions for Invasion of England

Nazi Bombers Smash Through Britain's Fire

LONDON, July 31 (Wednesday) (AP)—Smashing relentlessly through heavy anti-aircraft fire, waves of Nazi raiders bombed Wales today in their third successive great mid-night-to-dawn attack on that sector. One plane alone loosed eight big bombs on South Wales. Some of the explosives fell into the sea.

Bursts of machine-gun fire were heard in the darkness. Ground batteries, pitched along the beams of searchlights, fired at German planes repeatedly, but each time the raiders turned back to the attack again.

There was no announcement of the total casualties—if any—from the attacks.

Earlier, thousands of townsfolk along the southeast coast of Scotland watched a 15-minute battle between German dive bombers and British warships convoying merchant ships.

Observers said the convoy apparently escaped damage.

MERCHANTS TALK PARKING METERS

Meeting Called Today to Sound Sentiment On Mayor's Proposal

Twin Falls merchants will have their say on the parking meter problem when they gather for a special merchants' bureau meeting at 10 a. m. today in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters. The meeting, called by Chairman R. J. Vallon, is for the express purpose of determining merchant sentiment on the proposal.

Although when the meter plan was proposed earlier by Mayor Joe Koehler, it met with strenuous opposition from merchants and several city council members, the city head Monday night revived the issue, but no action was taken.

In presenting the proposal, Mayor Koehler pointed out that parking meters solve numerous traffic ills, such as overparking, "creeping," and double parking; while those opposing the system contend it will place a burden on farmers on other shoppers.

As outlined by the mayor, the meters would be installed by a company which would provide a bond to protect the city against damage and guarantee removal of the meters after a trial period, if they were found unsatisfactory.

Mussolini's Parachute Troops Streak Across France to Launch Blitzkrieg

By The Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, July 31 (Wednesday) Italian flight-line planes and German-trained Italian troops were reported today to be massed alongside Nazi blitzkrieg forces for a part in the invasion of England.

Italian sources in Switzerland said that plane-load after plane-load of parachute troops, veterans of battles in Ethiopia and Spain, have flown across France to take off bases from the bay of Biscay to the low countries facing the English channel and North sea.

* * * *

Reports have been current in foreign diplomatic circles that Premier Benito Mussolini specifically asked Adolf Hitler to let the Italians share the job of bringing Britain to her knees.

Il Duce was said to have wanted a strong part for his troops in a direct invasion of the shores where Caesar's legions landed almost 2,000 years ago.

Hitler was said to have agreed—but to have limited Italy's part in invasion to "token" land and parachute forces, plus large air squadrons for bombing and ferrying troops.

Reports from France, Germany, Italy and Spain all indicated that Germany is making her last minute preparations for the blow.

Attack Imminent

German and Italian travelers from Spain said the nationalist government there appeared to be preparing to try to grab Gibraltar—a move which it long has been reported may coincide with a German attack on England across the channel.

The "Courrier" said troops in small armed boats carrying artillery were concentrated near La Linea, Spain, behind Gibraltar.

Reports from France said the Italians were concentrating bombing planes at their Sardinia bases for an air attack on Gibraltar—another move expected in a coordinated German attempt to invade Britain.

Italian informants reported that the last of the Italian-made "pocket" submarines—about 36 feet long—had passed through the Brenner pass in sections on railway flat cars. These little submarines are expected to be one of the main protecting arms of the expected German channel attempt.

(In Germany today it was stated that any speculation that the movement of Nazi troops in German-occupied parts of France were for specific purposes would come under the head of military secrets).

Frontier Closed

All rail and road frontier posts on the Swiss-German frontier, except that at Saint Margarethen in Austria, were closed today by the Germans, apparently to ensure secrecy of troop movements through southern Germany in preparations for the invasion of England.

Even persons traveling on diplomatic passports now are required to pass only through Saint Margarethen, Tass-in from Germany arriving at Basel station tonight car-

BRITAIN EXTENDS NAVAL BLOCKADE

Head of Economic Warfare Discloses New and Sweeping Policy

LONDON, July 30 (AP) — A vast extension of the British blockade designed to close every possible avenue to Germany and Italy and especially to ring Spain and Portugal lest war supplies be transshipped there was announced in commons today.

Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, disclosed the inauguration of a new and sweeping policy under which:

1. Every ship in the Atlantic ocean will be subject to seizure by the royal navy unless its master can produce a navicert — British approved certificates of clearance — for its entire cargo.

2. Spanish and Portuguese imports will be limited strictly to their own needs, supplies to be permitted to reach such neutrals in "imports adequate for domestic consumption, but not for re-export."

It was explained authoritatively that with the broadening of the navicert requirement, Britain hoped to "intimidate" a large number of ships which have been plying the

GERMANS ADMIRE FOES' RESISTANCE

Hitler's Own Newspaper Pays Tribute to Courage of British People

BERLIN, July 30 (AP)—A note of reluctant admiration for Britain's stout resistance appeared, today in the German press even while Nazi bombers renewed their deadly attacks on the island empire and the high command reported fresh destruction of British merchant shipping and men o' war.

Adolf Hitler's own Volkischer Beobachter, which has published many a vitriolic attack on the British, conceded that the invasion "will be anything but a pleasant stroll through the countryside."

"Englishmen and Scotsmen are not cowardly," said the paper, "and no doubt will defend themselves courageously."

However, the Boersen Zeitung found what it described as a fatal weakness in the haste with which England is trying to improve its own national defenses, and insisted ominously that the real attack on Britain had not yet begun.

British Navy Guards Against Seizure of Windsors by Nazis

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—Skirting a United States law, guns and torpedoes of the British navy will guard the American export liner Excalibur on its way to New York to insure the Duke and Duchess of Windsor —and the ship—against seizure by any enemy nation.

His majesty's navy may, however, comply with the letter of the American law forbidding American ships to travel in belligerent convoy by keeping a "non-convoy" distance but still close enough for action if need be.

The Excalibur will sail Thursday from Lisbon. The American export lines, in New York, confirmed that the duke and duchess had booked passage, to arrive in New York Aug. 9, but said that the question of any British escort was up to the state department.

The state department, in Washington, said the Windsors would be granted visas for entry into the United States immediately upon application. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, questioned as to the liability of German seizure of the Excalibur because of the Windsors' presence aboard on the high seas of the matter had not yet been considered.

A German raider might regard the Excalibur a prize of war as a carrier of a member of the British armed forces. The former British king holds no officer's commission. He and his American-born duchess will go to New York, enroute to the Bahamas to his new post as governor and commander-in-chief.

A German ship disguised as a neutral freighter has been raiding in the Atlantic. German submarines also have been active off Portugal.

The British frequently have removed Germans and Italians from Japanese and Italian ships. While the duke's case doesn't exactly parallel those, government sources said it was self-evident that such a prominent figure would be traveling at unusual risk.

POSTAL LEAGUE RE-ELECTS HEAD

Gilbert Smith, Filer, Will Continue as President; Unit Hears Speakers

HAGERMAN, July 30 — Election of officers and a banquet this evening topped off the all-day meeting of the Idaho branch of the National league of district postmasters in Hagerman attended by 63.

Gilbert Smith of Filer was re-elected president; and other officers are Alvin L. Funk, Aberdeen, secretary, and John H. Hayes, Dubois, vice president.

Address of welcome this morning was delivered by L. S. Condit, Hagerman mail carrier, and response was by Postmaster Tate of Glenns Ferry. Harry L. Yost, Boise, delivered the principal address of the meeting.

A question box discussion, led by Inspector E. L. Mochel, Boise; and address by H. L. McKinnell, Pocatello, and reports of committees comprised the afternoon program.

Before the banquet this evening was the address of Moore of Glenns Ferry, who spoke, and R. K. Dillingham, Filer magician, who provided entertainment.

NATION LISTS 831 HEAT FATALITIES

Death Toll Mounts as Torrid Wave Envelops Many Sections of U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

Collar-wilting heat kept millions of Americans in their shirt sleeves Tuesday while they watched mercury columns rise again.

At many points in New England, the east, the midwest and the south, human misery was measured by readings in the 90's and 100's.

The total of deaths attributed directly and indirectly to protracted run of long days rose apace to 831. Heat fatalities numbered 431 and drownings 400.

The weather bureau at Chicago reported that relief was experienced in most of the areas north of a line that stretched across eastern Nebraska, the northern parts of Missouri, Illinois, Ohio and northwestern Pennsylvania and terminated in central New York State.

But, forecasters added, as the cool front advanced eastward a pall of warmth would begin to envelop the central states again.

The 100 at Indianapolis was its highest of the year. Cumberland, Md., had 99. Baltimore, with 95, simmered in its 12th successive day of 90-plus discomfort.

New York City's 93.3 was only 1½ degrees under the record established July 30, 1914. It was the sixth day of 90 and up temperatures there in the last 12 days. Washington, D. C., experienced another range in the upper 90's. Some government offices closed early.

YOUNG JAPANESE ASK RECOGNITION

Residents of Hawaii Band Together, Voice Loyalty to United States

HONOLULU, July 30 (AP)—Young Japanese-Americans of Hawaii have begun a vigorous campaign aimed at achieving recognition of their status as American citizens, with all the attendant duties and privileges.

Banded together as the New Americans, they are voicing anew their loyalty to the United States and studying the problems arising from their admittedly equivocal status.

Their status is equivocal because they are members of a Mongolian race, but constitute a majority in an American community which is one of the most important defense centers of the nation.

Japanese-Americans advance the claim—and it has not been disproved — that they are discriminated against here, and that this discrimination tends to alienate them from American ideals.

Pearl Harbor navy yard will not hire Japanese-Americans, they assert. Some large business firms will not place citizens of Japanese ancestry in executive posts.

To mould all Japanese-Americans into loyal American citizens, they contend, it will be necessary to give them equal rank, economically and socially, in the territory where they constitute a majority of the population.

AIRPORT REQUEST MEETS DISFAVOR

Defense Aspect of Proposed Development Rejected; to Seek WPA Aid

Although unfavorable talmus were brought here yesterday by Dean Miller, Idaho WPA administrator, concerning U. S. army action upon Twin Falls proposed designation of the municipal airport as a defense project, Mayor Joe Koehler indicated last night that the city will now seek a regulation WPA project for improvement of the field.

The defense aspect of the proposed airport development was injected by application through use of Form 213, which brings such projects under the preparedness program. However, Director Miller, while conferring with Mayor Koehler yesterday afternoon, discovered that army officials at Washington, D. C., have rejected the proposal.

According to the Mayor a WPA project unrelated to defense efforts will now be sought by the city, and a possibility exists that assistance might be forthcoming through the CAA, if it receives funds requested.

Another WPA project application will also be submitted for construction of a new "city barn" at the site of the present antiquated city barn structure.

fiendly that physicians said they might die of burns.

So fierce and widespread was the blaze, chief of police Joseph Taylor said the worst" in Camden's history, that Mayor George E. Brunner decreed a state of emergency and 500 national guardsmen patrolled the area with rifles as a protection against looting of homes and business establishments.

One suspected looter was menaced by a crowd as police sought to take him to headquarters for questioning.

Firemen said it would be daylight before the ruins of the Hollingshead plant cooled sufficiently to permit a search for bodies.

The factory's president, R.M. Hollingshead, Jr., said the company was handling an order for U. S. navy gun paint but that he saw "no possibility" of sabotage.

At least four men and three women workers are feared to have perished in the building, he reported.

No more accurate check could be made until morning, Hollingshead said, because the employes of the plant were so widely distributed.

Red Cross officials swiftly marshalling disaster relief facilities, even in Philadelphia, across the Delaware river, reported more than 300 persons homeless. The naval militia armory, Convention hall and the Camden civic center were stocked with cots, and clothing to care for the men, women and children.

Ninth Bike-Car Mishap Recorded

Ninth July traffic mishap involving a car and a bicycle occurred yesterday afternoon when an auto driven by S. L. Frazier, 262 Pine Lakes north, collided with a bike as the car backed away from a curb at downtown Twin Falls.

Although the cyclist escaped injury, the bicycle was damaged slightly.

TRAINING BILL WINS APPROVAL

the senate military committee said all seven Democrats and four Republicans who were present when the action on the national guard was taken voted to approve the bill. They included, besides Sheppard, Senators Thomas of Utah and Minton of Indiana, Johnson of Colorado, Hill of Alabama, Chandler of Kentucky and Lee of Oklahoma, Democrats; and Senators Austin of Vermont, Bridges of New Hampshire, Gurney of South Dakota and Holman of Oregon, Republicans.

Marshall took the position that conscription and calling out the guard were, in combination, the only method of insuring a sufficient number of men for the nation's security.

"We must know what tools we have to work with," he said. "Paper plans will not suffice in this emergency."

Conscription meanwhile was denounced on the house floor by Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.) as a prelude to "dictatorship," to an accompanying outburst of applause from numerous spectators in the galleries. Allied with some difficulty by Speaker Bankhead, after he had reminded them that they were guests of the house.

The subject was up, too, before the house military committee, which heard Monsignor Michael J. Ready, general secretary of the National Catholic welfare conference, urge a system of voluntary one-year training, instead of the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

Another major development was senate and house passage of a bill establishing the Tennessee valley authority to spend $25,000,000 more on power development. Proponents declared the power was needed for the production of aluminum for defense purposes.

Another clergyman, Dr. Harry Emerson, pastor of the Riverside Baptist church, New York, urged changes in the conscription bill to make sure that it would protect "the profound religious convictions" of conscientious objectors.

"I seriously question the necessity of a conscription bill at all," he said.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The army was reported reliably today to be scaling down pending aircraft contracts to the present level of production directly in the belief that plant expansions needed for larger orders might be delayed indefinitely.

Authoritative quarters also said that signing of several contracts had been postponed to await congressional action on proposed legislation which would permit manufacturers, for tax purposes, to charge off plant expansions within five years.

There was a growing conviction in army and industry circles that congress might wait until after the November election to enact the defense tax policy change, which manufacturers deem an essential prerequisite to plant expansion.

Noted Educator Visits in City

Dr. John M. Matzen, professor of school administration, University of Nebraska, has been a Twin Falls visitor, following completion of the summer session at the University of Idaho, Moscow, where he was a member of the faculty.

While here, Dr. Matzen has been visiting his sister, Mrs. C. J. Hahn, 238 Seventh avenue north, and they will leave this morning for San Francisco to visit Mrs. Hahn's son, Carl Hahn, who is a salesman for a large paper concern there.

Dr. Matzen, who is a recognized authority on school administrative affairs, will visit a number of educational institutions in the bay section while he is in San Francisco.

Five Counties May Wait for Increased Representation

IDAHO FALLS, July 30 (AP)—Increased representation in the Idaho legislature for five counties which showed increases in preliminary census returns is far from a certainty, J. W. Taylor, attorney general, pointed out in Idaho Falls today.

"As a matter of fact, the question arises in my mind as to whether the election instructions of the secretary of state can be changed at this late date," Taylor said. "As I recall the law, it provides that the secretary of state must instruct county clerks on April 1 as to what offices will be voted upon in the primaries and general election. The census was not begun until April 2, as I remember and hence there is a question as to whether its results would be "official" for guiding instructions which should be issued earlier."

He said that the informal opinion by D. W. Thomas, assistant attorney general at Boise, last week that instructions previously sent out by the secretary of state," Taylor said.

SALT LAKE CHIEF OF POLICE QUITS

Former FBI Agent Resigns at Request of Mayor Ab Jenkins

SALT LAKE CITY, July 30 (AP)—Charles H. Olson, former agent of the federal bureau of investigation, resigned today as chief of police, after only five months tenure.

Olson said he would continue only if made responsible to the entire city commission, instead of the mayor only. Mayor Ab Jenkins, who as commissioner of safety, appointed Olson, said the chief's resignation would be considered by the commission at a meeting tomorrow.

Mayor Jenkins said he had asked the chief to give up his post "for the good of the service."

"Chief Olson has not cooperated and has not been willing to cooperate," he added.

Questioned on this point, the chief declared that "everything he (the mayor) requested has been carried out to the best of the department's ability with the exception of suggestions which I did not think advisable and which have been discussed with the mayor."

Injured Education Leader Improving

MULLAN, Idaho, July 30 (AP)—E. E. Wilson, president of the Idaho Education association, recovered consciousness today and was "improving satisfactorily" from injuries received yesterday in an automobile accident, hospital attendants reported.

Wilson, superintendent of Mullan schools, suffered a brain concussion, broken ribs and bruises when his car, in which he was riding alone, struck a bridge guard railing.

The cause of the mishap had not been determined.

gate, affixed his name and the Argentina seal to the documents, but he said beforehand that all must be approved by his country's congress if Argentina is to participate effectively.

He was the only signer who polished his eyeglasses and carefully and publicly read over the previously-prepared text. Presumably he did so to make sure that the Argentine reservations had been included in the final document.

Secretary Hull, in a long statement issued before he took ship for home, said, "the American government have manifested their full recognition of dangers which confront them in common and have created machinery for common action.

"I cannot too strongly emphasize at the point that at no time has any American nation had the slightest thought of taking advantage of the European situation for the purpose of grabbing territory—quite the contrary. The thought has been to protect the peace and safety of this continent.

"It was realized that provision should be made for prompt action in any emergency situation and that delay pending later consultation might be disastrous to maintenance of peace and order in the western hemisphere.

"The principle of solidarity and consultation has been agreed upon at previous conferences."

BRITAIN EXTENDS NAVAL BLOCKADE

Atlantic with cargoes certified only in part by British officials at their points of origin.

It was said in one reliable quarter that the United States was fully apprised of this move before it was ordered.

Later, a neutral diplomatic source predicted Spain would declare war on Britain "within a week or so," if the royal navy put an out-and-out blockade on Spain.

While the economic minister was outlining the most far-reaching blockade ever attempted — covering all of Europe, the entire Atlantic ocean, "certain Atlantic islands and certain neutral ports in north Africa"—There were among the day's other major developments in these long-threatened islands:

1. German bombers carried on their almost endless raids, hitting especially at towns on the east coast above and below the mouth of Thames, and leaving an ever-growing list of civilian dead.

2. A British naval officer declared, without giving any details, that an effective counter weapon against the Nazi torpedo motorboats now swarming the English channel was certain to be found, adding:

"We may already have found it."

BID OPENING AUG. 9

SKIT VIEWED BY 20-30 MEMBERS

Plans for Charter Night of New Service Unit Launched

Before an increased membership of 26 young men, a clever skit was presented at last night's weekly meeting of the 20-30 club at the Rogerson hotel.

Also before the session were preliminary plans for charter night, tentatively set for September 14, and Ray McFarland was appointed general chairman on charter night arrangements. The charter night program will consist of a dinner dance and presentation of the charter by a high official of the service club.

Presentation of last night's skit was by Millard Dawson, Tim Roberson, Don Ryan and Charles Rouk, Jr., in pantomime, with Tom Ivory as narrator.

The next regular meeting Tuesday night will be Ladies' night, and will feature a picnic to which prospective members are invited to become familiar with operation and objectives of the 20-30 club.

STOCK RETURNS DEADLINE NEAR

Today Last for Filing Capital Stock Returns with Revenue Unit

Capital stock tax returns from all corporations for the year ended June 30, 1940, are due and the tax is payable on or before today, July 31, 1940, D. D. Daniels, deputy collector of internal revenue, pointed out here last evening.

All domestic corporations are required to file a return if they were in existence during any part of the year July 1, 1939, to June 30, 1940, including those incorporated and those ceasing to exist during that year, according to th official, whose headquarters are in the revenue office at the Twin Falls post office building.

A domestic corporation which received its charter during the period July 1, 1939, to June 30, 1940, but claims exemption on the ground that it had not completed its organization or had not commenced business prior to July 1, 1940, must nevertheless file a complete return as required by law.

John H. Viley, collector of internal revenue at Boise, has mailed out forms for capital stock tax returns for the taxable year ended June 30, 1940, to all corporations during July, 1940. However, if any corporation desires forms or assistance in filing returns, those in charge may get in touch with Mr. Daniels between 8:30 a. m. and 12 noon. The tax rate was formerly $1 per thousand of declared value of capital stock. This has been changed to $1.10 per thousand of declared value on the capital stock return for the year ended June 30, 1940, because of the war defense program. Penalties are provided for failure to file returns on or before July 31, 1940.

Mr. Daniels also pointed out that July 31 is also the final day for applying for stamps by liquor and malt beverage retailers and wholesalers.

Marimba Soloist Concert Feature

With Miss Joy Rugh of Hazelton as soloist, the ninth in the summer series of concerts by the Twin Falls municipal band will be presented Thursday evening at the city park, beginning at 8:15 p. m. Miss Rugh will offer two marimba solos.

The evening's program follows:

March, "Glory of the Marines," Grabel; overture, "Zampa," Herold; sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor," Donizetti; Hawaiian Patrol, "Kilauea," Stewart; march, "Miami," Fillmore; marimba solos by Miss Rugh, "One Fleeting Hour," Fulrman-Lee; "Bells of St. Marys"; selection, "Prince of Pilsen," Luders; march, "Crimson Flush," Alexander.

Encore numbers will include "Two Hearts in Three Four Time," and "Little Sir Echo."

German-American Chemist Vanishes

BUCHAREST, July 30 (AP)—Rumanian police and the United States legation are investigating the disappearance of a 43-year-old German-American chemist from New York who, his friends said, was working on an artificial blood formula of war time importance.

The chemist, Albrecht Douglas, and his wife, the former German Baroness Maltzahn, vanished July 18, leaving money, clothing and personal papers at their boarding house.

The landlady said that Douglas' belongings were rifled after his disappearance.

Douglas, a native of Hamburg, who changed his name from Sauermann when he became a naturalized citizen, came to Bucharest from Berlin in May.

Army Cooperation Given by Burley

BURLEY, July 30—Chamber of Commerce directors cooperated here with the national program to increase the army, following Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen's designation of July 22 to 27 as enlistment week.

During the week a special drive to secure enlistment was made by directors of the Burley chamber in cooperation with the enlistment officer, according to a report at a recent meeting.

George Klink, local president, requested the directors to name the week "Better Burley Booster Week" and business and professional people who solicited to become members of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Chairman C. W. Thomas of the non-college aviation school committee explained a recent meeting with C. L. Clabaugh, private flying specialist, region No. 7, CAA. The work of securing applicants for the ground school course is now going forward. George Cronhike of the Albion Normal schools is instructor for the ground school course.

Cassia County Fair Dates Set

BURLEY, July 30—Premium lists for the Cassia county fair and Oregon Trail revue are ready for mailing and will be sent out at once. Other plans for the three-day event, Sept. 4, 5 and 6, are nearing completion, according to B. P. Mahoney, fair manager, with $3,000 to be paid exhibitors this year.

A floor has been laid in the old horsehold building and room has been made for the largest girls' 4-H club exhibit ever displayed in Idaho. Plans are under way to stage the girls' style revue on the stage in front of the grandstand, Sept. 5.

In the evening, instead of the rodeo performances as have been staged in the past, a carnival will be open.

City Lays Lines In New Addition

To provide fire protection for property recently taken into the city along Blue Lakes boulevard, installation of new pipe lines is now in progress, according to Charles P. Larsen, city street superintendent.

A six-inch line is being laid from Blue Lakes to Locust on Heyburn and fire plugs will be installed at Heyburn and Locust.

The line on Blue Lakes, formerly of four-inch size, is being replaced with a six-inch line from Fairfield avenue to Heyburn, with a fire-plug midway between the two ends.

Decreases Noted In Area Storage

A decrease in water storage throughout this section last week as result of unusual heat and consequent heavy irrigation demands is shown by a report received by the Twin Falls Canal company from Lynn Crandall, watermaster.

Storage waters in Jackson Lake dropped from 644,220 acre feet to 537,510; and other decreases occurred at American Falls reservoir from 854,600 acre feet to 676,240; and at Lake Walcott from 80,168 to 75,260.

POLITICS VS. VITAL ISSUES

While it is not unusual for dissatisfied patronage seekers to bolt their party following a national political convention, it is significant when prominent individuals desert partisan ranks in recognition of circumstances which they describe as intolerable.

Since the recent Democratic national convention at Chicago, the American people have been little impressed with the easily understood whimperings of those minor individuals who have had their toes stepped on. They are usually the ones who sway with the wind and whose purpose in politics extends no farther than personal selfishness.

But others have raised their voices in protest against the third term candidacy of President Roosevelt, and the reasons they give for abandoning their party are worthy of some consideration.

Let's take a few of these individuals and what they have to say as an example:

President Charles Seymour of Yale university, who describes himself as a "Democrat since Woodrow Wilson," has communicated to Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, as follows:

"I look forward to voting for you in November in the conviction that you and the policies you have expressed will assure protection against foreign danger, the development of domestic prosperity and the preservation of American institutions."

Stephan Chadwick, prominent Democrat and former national commander of the American Legion — "I will support Willkie because I think a third term is a danger to our Democratic processes."

T. Jefferson Coolidge, former under secretary of the treasury in the New Deal administration — "An end must be made of centralized power, personal rule, and uncontrollable spending."

Joseph M. Proskauer, former New York state supreme court justice and one of the state's leading Democrats — "We have had enough of government by men who array themselves against class, destroy the productivity of the nation and, with half baked schemes for aid to the worker, actually deprive him of the chance to work."

John W. Hanes, former securities commissioner and later undersecretary of the treasury under the New Deal, and Lewis W. Douglas, President Roosevelt's first budget director — "We propose to enlist in your (Willkie's) behalf the support of Democrats who believe with us that loyalty to country takes precedence over loyalty to party. No matter how grave the national emergency, the continuation in authority for three terms of this political administration, clothed as it is with tremendous public power, is still a grave menace to America."

David W. Pipes, jr., of Louisiana, a lifelong Democrat and nationally-known sugar planter — "I haven't deserted the Democratic party. The Democratic party has deserted us in the selection of Wallace, the worst enemy Louisiana ever had."

Rt. Rev. Hugh L. McMenamin of Denver, pastor of the Immaculate Conception cathedral, in announcing his withdrawal from the Democratic party — "Consuming greed for power and more power impelled Roosevelt to seek a third term."

Senator E. D. Smith, veteran South Carolina Democrat, in predicting that "millions of real Democrats" will be attracted to Wendell Willkie — "I'm a real Democrat and I'm tired of my party being led by this so-called New Deal."

There are many other prominent Democrats who have likewise expressed themselves, and as Willkie himself has said: "My phone hasn't stopped ringing since the Democratic convention because of the important Democrats over the country saying they will come out for me."

All of which may not prove anything, unless it is a good indication that politics alone will not be the determining factor in the forthcoming election. Apparently there are too many vital issues involved for some of our leading Democrats to be blinded by partisanship.

ANGLE WORMS — POOH, POOH!

The Consul, writing in his "Here We Have Idaho" column in the Pocatello Tribune, avails himself of an opportunity to poke a little fun at Twin Falls.

"Various residents at Twin Falls recently served 'due warning' that in the future the hunting of night crawlers would not be permitted on private property," he writes.

Then he goes on to describe the process of hunting night crawlers, the noise the "hunters" make, their use of flashlights, and all that, which resulted in the property owners making protest. To top it all off, The Consul added:

"We assume the Twin Falls people mean angle worms when they refer to 'night crawlers.' Aren't there any fly artists in that section?"

Now, now, Mr. Consul. We go in for bigger things around Twin Falls, and when we say "night crawlers" we mean "night crawlers" — not angle worms. Fact of the matter is, it would take a brave individual to hunt crawlers without the aid of bodyguards.

And as to whether we have any fly fishermen in this section — pooh, pooh! Where do the people of Idaho do their fly fishing, and who teaches them how?

TRAINING WORKERS

The industrial training committee of the National Defense Commission is calling leaders of business, labor and government to a meeting to prepare a program for the training of workers in industry. It is understood that for every soldier, sailor and aviator in the nation's defense forces, hundreds of workers will be needed to make their equipment and service their machines.

The committee believes that the first source of additional workers for defense should be the unemployed skilled men. It will find out how many are needed for certain industries and then set about supplying them. There will be training for likely apprentices, restraining of some workers for different jobs, and refreshing of other workers' skills.

All of this seems sensible and practical. The wonder arises, however, that we didn't do it sooner in defense against depression and to stimulate industrial revival.

Other Points of View

THE RETURN FROM THE RIVER

Three modest paragraphs in the news, under Montana date line, recite the successful six-day voyage of the middle fork of the Salmon river by four boatmen of Oregon. It is a stretch of water noteworthy, if the rash challenger survives to record his notes, for its violent and white-maned rapids, and has been described in a fitting phrase as "the river of no return." There now must be some amendment to this thrillingly picturesque designation—for the rash four dared the stream, bested it, and have returned.

There must be something about this sort of exploit comparable, in its impelling fascination, to the allure of mountains and precipices and the ghostly green chasms of alpine ice, where the lives of the daring hang by a literal thread and so much as a single error is not allowable. One should like to have been with the four boatmen from Oregon when they dipped oars at Bear valley ranch and dared the river of no return to demonstrate all that it had. Yet on second thought, it is admitted that one must only have been so much human freight, if they took one along, for boatmen are not trained in a day—and the gorges of the Salmon are only for the ablest boatmen.

One of them flirts at the oar, almost casually, and the impending great rock, foam-wreathed with the green water breaking—the apparently inevitable rock—rushes past so near that the hand might touch it. And where the river slopes urgently to another descent, shaking the air with its violence, the way is strewn with comparable jeopardy. So the days pass in the descent of the river of no return, and only the wheeling hawk bears witness to the singular daring of men that wager their lives in sport. Yes, one should like to have been there to see it and share it—on the wings of the osprey, or in the comfortable underslung cabin of a handy little dirigible. For only a boatman, and one uses the word with the same emphasis that one would use woodsman or mountaineer, has any business to be on the middle fork of the river below Bear valley ranch.

And when the challenge is taken, the course has been run, and the wildness of the river has been mastered—what then? The incomprehensible but none the less logically illogical spirit of man is rather at loss for an answer. It may counter, and probably will, with "What next?" You may drench it, and burn it, and freeze it, you may sink it far under the sea, but it cannot be challenged without an eager response. The mountain that cannot be climbed, the river of no return, the sea that has never been charted—let them look to their records. Yonder come the indomitable midgets called men.—Portland Oregonian.

MEDIUM OF EXCHANGE CAN'T BE ABOLISHED

The threats of various of Hitler's underlings to make useless all the gold in the world are inconsistent in more ways than one. Since the leader of the modern Huns has stated definitely that it will be but a short time until he beats the British empire to its knees, it does not seem reasonable to think he will use more than half the gold produced in the world for railroad iron, nails or fence wire; and, as indicated very recently by world trade experts, barter in trade between nations must eventually break down, because of the inability to satisfy the needs of all nations in bartering material—hence the necessity for a medium of exchange.

The greatest inconsistency in connection with German threats to render gold useless is the fact that Mr. German citizen is quite likely to go to the chopping block if any of the "useless" gold be found in his possession. Further, the use of gold in jewelry, in the optical trade, fountain pens and for many other customary purposes is verboten, "double."

And last of all, even a German would not hesitate to accept good old glittering gold in lieu of a load of potatoes—if he could get away with it. The centuries of tradition and love for the indestructible metal cannot be changed, except temporarily, be it in Germany or the United States.—Salt Lake Tribune.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

The senate military committee has acted sensibly in approving a proposal to exempt conscientious objectors from combat training under the army's conscription program. Where such scruples are conscientiously held, it is sound public policy to respect them and avoid persecution of those who sincerely entertain such beliefs.

Conscientious objectors, although relatively not numerous, were a source of considerable difficulty to military and civil authorities of the nation in the last war. In a country which had no tradition of compulsory military service, the problem was virtually a new one, and lack of understanding of the position of the conscientious objectors, on the part both of the authorities and of the public, resulted in subjection of many of them to punitive treatment of an extremely severe character.

After the last war, various organizations were formed to promote the war-resistance movement, but their activities attracted little attention during the dizzy decade of post-war prosperity. With the growth of international tensions in the depression, and with failure of the disarmament conference and renewal of the arms race, pacifist sentiment became more vocal. Thousands of persons, particularly in colleges and universities, swelled the ranks of potential conscientious objectors by subscribing to peace pledges whereby they promised never to participate in another war.

Such manifestations have slackened with a growing realization of the menace of fascist aggression in the world and with the closer approach to America of the actual threat of war. Pledges given in the flush of youthful enthusiasm for an ideal are likely to be forgotten when a country is exposed to danger or gripped by war fever.

The wave of pacifist sentiment may have added some new recruits, however, to that small group of persons who may be expected to remain true under any circumstances to deep-seated convictions against participation in war. The conscientious objectors in the first World war were popularly denounced as cowards and slackers, but the record shows that adherence to their convictions often required courage equalling, if not surpassing, that demanded of soldiers on the field of battle.—Lewiston Tribune.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WATCHWORD. President Roosevelt bases his campaign for a third term on the ground that he is the only "indispensable American" in these troublous times. But eight years ago he was the chief advocate of the theory that no party or personality was the sole safeguard of American security or happiness.

"This country needs the tonic effect of such a reiteration of American principles," said candidate Roosevelt at New York on Nov. 3, 1932. "It calls to its service with particular emphasis the independent and courageous spirits who are willing to leave the household of a betrayed faith, who are asking for substance, not shadows, who are seeking for truth, not names for truth.

"In speaking for the common purpose of all these forward-looking men and women I have, I believe, avoided the delusion that this is a campaign of persons or of personalities. To indulge in such a fantastic idea of my own individual importance would be to betray the common hope and the common cause that has brought us all together this year. A great man left us a watchword which we can well repeat: 'There is no indispensable man!'

LOST. The president was not content with his personal assurance that there are plenty of Americans—Democrats and Republicans—capable of managing the federal government in or out of a crisis. In his 1932 wind-up campaign speech at Madison Square Garden he said:

"The genius of America is stronger than any candidate or any party. This campaign, hard as it has been, has not shattered my sense of humor or my sense of proportion. I still know that the fate of America cannot depend on any one man. The greatness of America is grounded on principles and not on any single personality. I, for one, shall remember that, even as president."

Unfortunately for F. D. R.—as the Republicans will point out in the campaign—his sense of humor has been cracked wide open, and he no longer believes in the theory that no one man possesses all the omniscience and omnipotence necessary for the guidance of the country in these perilous times.

BURNT. Louis Johnson, late assistant secretary of war, served with distinction overseas, but he never suffered there the wounds which were inflicted upon him as a member of President Roosevelt's household. The presidential betrayal of Mr. Johnson, the most efficient member of the war department for six years, may cost Mr. Roosevelt the friendship and the franchise of millions of Americans.

It is true that Harry Woodring and Johnson squabbled for several years, but it was F. D. R.'s fault that these difficulties were not smoothed out. He let them fight, and seemed to enjoy it until the blitzkrieg came. Even so, Mr. Johnson handled the highly specialized job of gearing industry for national preparedness — an assignment which neither Mr. Woodring nor Mr. Stimson could undertake. Louis had been promised the secretaryship by the president when and if Mr. Woodring quit, but "for political reasons" (not because of the need of "national unity," as F. D. R. explained) he was sidetracked. Despite his disappointment, Louis stayed on like a good soldier at F. D. R.'s personal request.

Now Republican cabinet member Stimson wants a G. O. P. friend as his aide instead of the sturdy Democrat from West Virginia. Louis is summarily dismissed, despite his excellent record, despite the sacrifice of his ambitions, despite his quiet withdrawal from the vice-presidential race at Chicago at F. D. R.'s personal request. But when Capitol hill Democrats heard of this dismissal of a good Democrat by a Republican cabinet member, they asked: "Does the president want to throw away this election without even a vote?"

ASKING. The religious issue threatens to rear its ugly head in the 1940 presidential campaign because of F. D. R.'s blackballing of James A. Farley and James Francis Byrnes of South Carolina as possible presidential or vice-presidential candidates. Strangely enough, it is the new dealers' opposition to the South Carolinian which has provoked the fiercest protests.

The writer of this column knew the details of the incidents to be related several years ago, but withheld their publication for obvious reasons. At Chicago, however, the Roosevelt faction opposed Mr. Byrnes because in his youth he had been a Roman Catholic and, secondly, because he subsequently switched to the high Episcopalian church. The Hopkins-Roosevelt spokesmen suggested that there was something sinister about the senator's conversion and they placed him on their black books, although they were glad to use him as their smartest floor strategist.

Prominent South Carolina editors and politicians, however, are bitter over the sidetracking of the popular Jimmie for religious reasons. In pointed editorials they are asking the president whether, like Herbert Hoover in 1928, he intends to campaign for reelection on the basis of religious prejudice. It may be unfair to F. D. R., whose policies are guided by political rather than religious considerations (though they intermingle), but some of the finest editors and statesmen of the old south are deeply disturbed over his attitude.

RETITLED. President Roosevelt's attack on Johnnie Hanes was a major political blunder, in the opinion of the president's own friends. The inside story of Mr. Hanes' appointment, first as a member of the securities and exchange commission, and secondly as under-secretary of the treasury, demonstrates that he was dedicated to humanity rather than to dollars.

Mr. Hanes sacrificed a splendid salary to come to Washington. He came at the behest of son James Roosevelt, who argued that his father was being deceived and bamboozled by half-baked economists, and begged Johnnie to accept office and inject some sense into fiscal and S. E. C. politics. Reluctantly, Johnnie accepted, and performed a distinct service with the S. E. C. He escorted Chairman Jerome G. Frank around the marts and clubs of New York, and proved that some new deal commissars did not wear hooves and horns. He achieved some sort of a compromise between Washington and Wall street.

At the insistence of the president and Henry Morgenthau he shifted from the S. E. C. to the treasury, where he helped to needle some sense into the tax structure. He quit Washington with a D. S. C. from the president. But now that he has come out for Wendell Willkie, his Rooseveltian decoration bears other and less mentionable letters than D. S. C.

CALL. Vice President Garner left for Texas without announcing whether he will ever return to Washington. But to close friends he confided that he will come back "only if the president summons me." In other words, the V.P., who used to be one of the best poker players on Capitol hill, will let Mr. Roosevelt call his cards.

NIGHT EDITOR

SLIGHT NICK

For one Magic Valley cigarette dealer, the current increased defense tax program holds no terrors — at least as far as it concerns smokes. When D. D. Daniels, deputy collector of internal revenue, called in on the retailer in question he found a floor stock of eight packages, which, at the rate of one-half cent per pack, made a grand total tax of 4 cents, the smallest encountered by the official.

CUCUMBER CONSPIRACY

It looks like the cucumbers have gotten their heads together, and, with customary cucumber coolness, decided to stir up a little cucumber conspiracy to break the midsummer quiet.

Although it's apparently not uncommon for cucumbers to grow in pairs like Siamese twins, those at the C. F. "Rabbitt" Myers truck gardens avoided this teamwork, so that when "the Rabbit" found duplicate cucumbers it impressed him as most unusual, as it did the News photog.

Then the cucumbers at the H. E. Hammerquist garden at Filer began doubling up to the tune of three sets of twins in recent weeks; while E. E. Crabtree's cucumbers out on Addison avenue west came through with triplets.

All of which looks like a cucumber blitzkrieg.

"CALL ME BUZZ"

When Deputy Sheriff Roy Fuller took over his duties at the sheriff's office here, he was oft referred to as the "Cowboy Deputy." Later, after he did a little Shirley Combing and solved the mysterious killing of sheep by dogs, he became known as the "Sheepherder Deputy." Not content to rest on his laurels, Roy pushed ahead and gained no little prominence as a leading figure in recent cases involving dogs.

No longer is he called by long names, however, for he now has a short (and sweet) title. The name resulted from investigation yesterday of a swarm of bees that invaded a home northeast of the city. As you're doubtless guessed, they now call Roy just plain "Buzz."

SUSPENSE

During last week's council meeting, Mayor Joe Koehler brought a parking meter, but forgot to bring up the meter topic for discussion. This week he remembered to bring it up, but at the last minute the parking timer couldn't be found and there was much rifling of city hall closets and safes before it was finally discovered.

Nazi Converts in France to Help Berlin Control Poilus

NEW YORK WHIRLIGIG
By Richard Waldo and Gabriel Vogliotti

MOLDS. The next French army, in victory or defeat an impressive aggregation of nearly two million men, should be Nazified and under Berlin's command on June 1, 1941 by the Nazi time-table. This is just one more reason why diplomatic professionals think the story of 1940 is not the fall of France but the German technique of taking over a first-class power, once on the inside, and after the fighting.

For the record, here is the schedule: There will take place a series of graduated purges within the French general staff that will eliminate every anti-German officer. The non-political officers, the typical military mind with so-so political views whether the regime be rightist or leftist, will be allowed to remain because of the standing need for military technicians. The French will be told to form their own military hierarchy, with top posts going to the first converts to the German light. The present series of military and political trials (the Daladier business is the first model of the campaign) will purge only the uncompromising extremists. Then the ax will fall successively at time intervals on categories rated according to degree of stubborness. Between harvests the application blanks for re-enrollment in the new army will be available at any desk.

The most enthusiastic converts will be formed into an Elite guard, will be conducted to Berlin and coached, feted and wined; treated with the prestige due a late and honorable enemy, now a brother-in-arms of a sister state. These will return to France and become the so-called "Leaders from the First Hour." In their hands, and not in the hands of German officers, is the job of winning over the poilus. By the fascist formula of parceling out the prestige to underlings, the girders of France's military fascism are to be set in concrete by the time Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Willkie is half way into next year.

CAUTION. The reaction of New York Republicanism to the scheduled army conscription is a rather comic decision to don a detective's hat, look wise and say nothing. In the city's political headquarters the feeling is strong that big things are happening to these United States, that the situation is a set-up for another 1917, with lack of preparation no obstacle, as in that year, to a declaration of war.

But the sultry charges that the administration is war-intent are not for public consumption. No Republican dares buck national preparedness, and rather than risk being called a bunch of Blums the GOP bigs would rather be known as Churchills. It's an embarrassing choice in a political year particularly because the one means suicide, the other means intervention, and non-belligerent preparedness becomes a pious hope. Something of this dilemma was felt by a number of Republican clubs who wrote in for a lead as to the party line or the M-day business. The replies were beautifully non-committal: "Read the platform. We are for national defense and peace. If you see something in conscription that looks like something else, don't speechify until you get clearance from the boys at headquarters."

DUEL. Well-informed diplomats say our war news is inclined to be faddish, that the Stukas and Blenheims are hogging the headlines while the little item of blockade is deciding the war. Since the capitulation of Vichy there has been only passing reference to the fact that the contraband running has shifted into high, and that the secrecy is a tribute to Britain's Duff Cooper and Germany's Goebbels who want it that way.

The biggest change in the contraband-blockade war from the days when it was the only action of a "bore" war is that the neutrals have handed it to the principals. Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Holland, Yugoslavia and Greece whose captains formerly would run any blockade for a price, have simply handed the franchises to one or the other of the belligerents. Of the nations named, some have leased or surrended their merchant fleet to Germany, some to Britain and some to both. The result has shifted the patterns of the contraband traffic so constantly that Germany's outside supply lines follow "the route of the week."

Spain, always a transhipper of modest amounts, started pouring the stuff into Germany as soon as France stopped being a geographic obstacle. Belgium and Holland, on the other hand, are now concentration points for land-borne supplies where formerly they were the receiving points for blockade runners that navigated through the North sea. The receiver now is Norway, whose 2,000 miles of coastline ruptures the British blockade and permits transit overland to the Baltic, low countries and Hitler's warehouses. Suez and Gibraltar are as contraband-proof as the Thames, and all axis stories about the submarine freight slipping by The Rock are part of the wisteria draping Europe's war press. There is only one contraband certainty, that the Germans seldom repeat the same play twice and that British control ships are now ranging wider than at any previous point in the war.

HISTORY. The German propaganda film of the Polish campaign is now running in a small theater on Third Avenue and 96th street in New York without benefit of advertising. The managers of the theater report that the house is packed night after night. A majority of the audience is composed of local German residents. The film which created such commotion in congress as well as in Norway has a running English commentary in a dead-pan voice of cultured Cambridge background. The major part of it is the morbid showing of ruins, of marching men, prisoners and actual fighting as seen by a Nazi camera man.

Two outstanding aspects of the record, hitherto not mentioned, should be emphasized. One is that it brings out clearly the magnificent defense of the Polish army, garrison at Westerplatt, Danzig and in Warsaw. Both places are sorry sights when finally occupied. If any pictures at all were taken in France, comparison with the Polish exhibit should prove illuminating.

The second point is even more interesting. There is a sequence of scenes showing the first contact of German and Russian forces, culminating in the meeting of staff officers. Almost everybody on the German side from the generals down looks as though they had had no sleep for days. The first meeting of Russians and Nazis occurs in the field and is obviously unrehearsed and impromptu. The Soviet commanders, with cold Mongolian faces but slightly bewildered expressions, salute the German general and his aide. The latter pulls out of his pocket a long scroll with Russian script which he hands to the perplexed allies. It says in effect, "the German high command looks forward to a good soldierly understanding between the German and Russian forces." The Muscovite glances at it and nods approval. Facial expressions on both sides register the thought "this is rather sudden, isn't it?" A handshake for which the Russian is mentally unprepared ends the historic scene.

Our Children
by Angelo Patri

LET KIDDIES CHASTISE EACH OTHER

Dick is three years old and he plays with Mary Louise and Billy who are both past six. The two older ones get on well until Dick comes out. His mother turns him out as early as possible, and leaves him to make his own way with the other children on the block. He has settled down to these two and makes their lives miserable for them. If he wants anything they have, and he always does apparently, he grabs it and pulls it to hom. If the other two resist he bites them — not a mere nip but a stout bite with sturdy teeth behind it.

Mary Louise and Billy have been trained not to strike another child, and never, never to bite anybody. This conduct of Dick leaves them powerless. They appeal to their mothers and they say, "Well, it is too bad. Dick ought not to bite you. Can't you get along with him so he doesn't feel like biting you?"

Dick's mother has been told about his biting habits, and his demanding ways and she says, "He is the smallest and he has to defend himself some way. Don't tease him and he won't bit you."

Each Helps the Other

Children cannot be kept prisoners in their own yards, and they must play together in order to grow properly, in well-balanced fashion. Each mother owes the other mother's children gratitude for the contribution they make to her child's growth and education. Because of that, if for no other reason, each mother should earnestly try to cooperate with the others so as to get the best out of such associations for the whole group.

It isn't exactly sporting to move into a neighborhood for the express purpose of benefitting from the associations found there and then do nothing to forward what good there is in them. He who takes without giving shall lose what he has. That is the law.

Biter Must Be Punished

Children are not to bite each other in self-defense. It would be much better to train a child to use his hands for self-defense. This little biting boy should not be trained to believe that his teeth are his best defense. He should be taught that if he bites he is likely to be slapped smartly by his victim, and isolated thereafter for the term of his repentance.

I would not teach a child that he should stand there and be bitten as well as suffer the loss of his playthings. I would rather tell the children to resist such behavior, gently but firmly if they can, but with force if gentleness won't do. Dick should learn this lesson right now and the other two should learn their side of it at the same time. Anybody who puts up with abuse is certain to get plenty of it. That may be a sad fact, but it is a fact, and we have no right to train children to acceptance of abuse. They have hands to defend themselves with and we should teach them to use them when necessary.

An adult ought not to slap a child save in emergency. A slap given one child by another is quite another matter.

If your youngster "simply won't do what he's told" you probably are taking the wrong way with him. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Obedience." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care Twin Falls News, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

'Ship of Matrimony' Theme Used at Clever Double Pre-Nuptial Event

The "ship of matrimony" figured cleverly in the decorations and presentation of gifts last evening when Miss Sally Painter and Miss Betty Painter, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Painter, shared honors at a double pre-nuptial shower at the home of Mrs. W. A. Van Engelen on Blue Lakes boulevard. Five hostesses arranged the courtesy, Mrs. Van Engelen and her daughter, Miss Margaret Van Engelen; Mrs. L. H. Perrine and daughter, Miss Ann Perrine, all of Twin Falls, and Mrs. Ella Rosecrans of Burley. Seventy guests attended the delightful affair.

Carrying out the "ship of matrimony" theme, a miniature ship sailed a miniature mirrored lake in the center of the lace-covered refreshment table. The lake was flanked by evergreens and berries, interspersed with red blossoms, used to carry out the red and white decorative theme.

On either side of the evergreen were seven-branched candelabra with lighted white tapers.

Mrs. M. H. King of Buhl and Mrs. Painter presided at the tea services.

Lighted Tapers

A myriad number of lighted white tapers formed the illumination in the dining room, where white flowers were used to further carry out the decorative details.

In the other rooms of the Van Engelen home, vari-colored flowers formed the decorations.

Gifts were presented to the honorees in a large basket decorated to represent a ship with blue tea towels, which were gifts to the girls, used to form the sails.

"Advice to the bride" and other games formed the evening's diversions.

Double Wedding Planned

The honorees will be married at a double wedding ceremony Sunday, August 25 at the First Presbyterian church in Twin Falls. Miss Sally Painter is the fiancee of Harry J. Prior of Boise and Miss Betty Painter is engaged to Q. A. Kelker of Twin Falls.

Guests were present from Burley, former home of the Painter girls, Filer and Twin Falls.

Among those present were Mrs. Grace Kelker, mother of Miss Betty Painter's fiance and Mrs. Painter, mother of the two brides-elect. Mrs. H. C. Prior of Boise was also invited but was unable to attend.

HUSBAND HONORED AT BIRTHDAY EVENT

Mrs. B. J. Ditter entertained informally last evening at dinner in honor of the birthday anniversary of her husband. Cards were the diversion of the evening following dinner.

Mrs. Mary Scherer and daughter, Miss Darlene Scherer, who are here from Timber Lake, S. D., were out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Scherer and Mrs. Ditter are sisters.

SHOWER HONORS PAIR RECENTLY WED

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall were the honorees at a wedding shower arranged by approximately fifty Twin Falls friends of the couple recently. The surprise event took place at the home of the bridal pair south of Eden.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Hall was Miss Esther Parrott of Eden.

MISS VIRGINIA BEATTY TO MARRY IN AUGUST

Approaching marriage of Miss Virginia Beatty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Neville Beatty of San Diego, Calif., formerly of Twin Falls, has been learned by Twin Falls friends.

Miss Beatty will become the bride of Lieut. John H. Paul Saturday, August 3, in St. Francis chapel, Balboa Park, San Diego.

Informal Garden Party Arranged By Royce Church

Miss Royce Church celebrated her birthday anniversary yesterday afternoon with an informal garden party for a small group of her friends. The affair was arranged at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Church, 445 Second avenue west.

Croquet was the main diversion of the afternoon followed by refreshments, served in the garden. A decorated birthday cake was the center of attraction.

Guests included Miss Dahri Green, Miss Dorothy Summer, Miss Betty Summer, Miss Margene Crow, Miss Beth Shively, Miss Muriel Tice, Miss Arlene Porter, Miss Lucille Haskins, Miss Betty Durling and Miss Shirley Blackmer.

Tennis Stars Plight Troth

Miss Josephine Fox of Twin Falls, formerly of Nampa, and Arthur Walker of Kimberly were united in marriage here yesterday morning. Both are Idaho tennis stars.

The couple won the state mixed doubles championship this season, and Mr. Walker also won the state singles championship.

Mrs. Walker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Fox of Nampa and the bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Mary Y. Norton of Twin Falls.

They were attended by Mrs. James Wiley, sister of the bride.

A rust-colored ensemble was worn by the bride for her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker left on a wedding trip to the Jackson Hole country, and will be at home to their friends after August 6.

Outing Arranged By Pythian Club

An all-day outing on Warm Springs creek in the Sawtooth mountains was enjoyed by members of the Pythian Sisters Social club and their husbands.

At the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Minnerly, a picnic lunch was served and an impromptu program presented.

Later in the day, the party went Mrs. Beatrice Higbee, where a picnic supper was served. Male members of the party enjoyed fishing as a diversion.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

MAHWIPTA

Mahwipta group of the Camp Fire Girls met recently at the Y.W.C.A. rooms with girls working on the wood gatherer's rank.

Accompanied by their guardian, Miss Evelyn Guest, the girls recently held an overnight trip to Harrington fork on Rock creek. Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Hill furnished transportation.

Girls enjoyed hiking, wading and softball, among other sports. Plans were made for the outing during the week preceding the trip.

A Minx in Lynx

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS are in for the supreme sacrifice, judging from the current emphasis on fur fashions. In this natural lynx worn by Olivia de Havilland, crepe sections at sides and under arms prevent bulkiness.

Trail Creek Barbecue Set By Rotarians

A barbecue dinner and dance at Sun Valley this evening will highlight social activity for the summer for Twin Falls Rotary club members, their Rotary Anns and guests.

The barbecue dinner will be served at the barbecue grounds adjacent to Trail Creek cabin, about one mile above Sun Valley lodge, and those attending are requested to meet at the Trail Creek cabin at 7 o'clock.

Dinner tables will be grouped around an open-air dance platform and a floor show and music for dancing will be furnished by Sun Valley entertainers.

General chairman of arrangements is W. A. Van Engelen.

Harry Vogel and Tom Peavey are members of the food committee and B. P. Costello and Grant Thomas will be in charge of entertainment.

OUTING PLANNED BY FIDELITY CLASS

Members of the Fidelity class of the Methodist Sunday school and their families will enjoy their annual outing next weekend when they camp overnight at Harrington fork on Rock creek.

Services will be held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, with those who could not stay overnight motoring to the location to attend.

A community breakfast and pot-luck dinner will be held Sunday. Aside from these, members are asked to bring their own meals.

Saturday evening a community sing will be enjoyed around a camp fire.

Funds for Idaho Projects Pooled

OGDEN, July 30 (AP)—Combining of $1,000,000 appropriated for the public roads administration with other funds available may make it possible for five Idaho projects to get under way this year, said B. J. Finch, district engineer of the public roads administration, today.

Washington has asked the district office for details and a priority list on projects that could be started by September, the engineer added.

Previous information was that only one project, about nine-tenths of a mile on the Clayton-Ketchum road, would be started this year.

Miss Edith Slatter Honored by Hostess Trio at Smart Courtesy

Once again the inspiration for a charmingly arranged pre-nuptial courtesy, Miss Edith Slatter of Hazelton, popular bride-elect and fiancee of Dr. Frank J. McAtee of Twin Falls, was the honoree at a dessert luncheon arranged yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. K. Belmont in Hazelton. Mrs. Belmont, Mrs. H. E. Gunzelfinger and Mrs. D. F. Longenberger were hostesses and presented a beautiful gift to the honoree.

A lace cloth covered the bride's table which was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and yellow cosmos, and illuminated by white and yellow tapers.

Covers were marked for eight guests at the larger table, and for twelve other guests at smaller tables, appointed in white linen and centered with arrangements of yellow cosmos.

Included among the guests was Mrs. A. J. Slatter, mother of the bride-to-be.

During the afternoon, contract was the diversion.

Past Presidents Entertained by Dan McCook Club

Past presidents of Dan McCook circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, were hostesses to members of the Past President's club at the home of Mrs. Mable Johnson in Twin Falls yesterday afternoon.

Guests were present from Sherman circle at Hansen and Lincoln circle at Eden as well as from Dan McCook circle.

The afternoon was spent socially with birthday cakes served in honor of Mrs. Martha Smith and Mrs. Johnson of Twin Falls and Mrs. Theresa Cline of Hansen.

Besides Mrs. Cline, Hansen women present included Mrs. Sadie Goodman and Mrs. Carrie Galley. Mrs. Jeannette Hogue was the only member present from Eden.

Twin Falls members present included Mrs. Addie Moore, Mrs. Bertha Clyde, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Cora Murphy, Mrs. Ida Sweet, Mrs. Viva Lawson, Mrs. Phoebe Snodgrass and Mrs. Hazel Leighton.

Mrs. Clara Worth of Gooding, a member of Dan McCook circle, was also present.

Guests of the club were Mrs. Fern Larson of Gooding and Ruth Snodgrass of Twin Falls. Next meeting of the club will be held at Hansen.

Fifty Couples At Jerome Lions 'Ladies Night'

JEROME, July 30 — About fifty couples from Lions clubs of Jerome, Twin Falls, Burley and Hazelton were present at the "Ladies Night" party sponsored by the Jerome club here Monday evening at the Wood cafe banquet rooms.

Principal speaker of the evening was a German war refugee, now a resident of Twin Falls, who spoke on war conditions in Europe.

Arthur Pyle, Jr., Kenneth Meuser, Bill Thompson, and Arthur Thompson sang quartet numbers, and violin selections were played by Gilbert Achenbach accompanied at the piano by Kenneth McDowell.

Toastmaster of the evening was Alton Young of Twin Falls. Tail-twister was Lion Pullen of Twin Falls.

Honored guests were Mayor and Mrs. L. M. Zug of Jerome and Ronald Graves of Twin Falls, district governor of the Lions International.

Fishermen Escape Injury in Crash

KETCHUM, Idaho, July 30 (AP)—The narrow escape of five fishermen from death in an automobile that tumbled down a 70-foot embankment 21 miles north of here was described today by State Patrolman J. R. Lounsbury.

Lounsbury said the machine, driven by Rex J. Stanley of Rupert, failed to make a turn when a blowout occurred, slipped and rolled down the hillside Sunday night.

As the car plunged, Erwin Flagel, 32, of Burley, worked open the door and fell out, suffering cuts and bruises. The other four, remaining inside, were unhurt.

Others were Leo Walton, 20, owner of the automobile, Bob Murphy, 21, and George Redford, 19, all of Rupert.

A MATERNITY OR MATRON'S SLIP PATTERN 4498

by Anne Adams

The answer to your slip problems is in this ingenious style designed for both "ladies in waiting" and for larger women. Pattern 4498 is an Anne Adams wrap-around slip that's very simple to cut and sew with the Sewing Instructor for aid. The back wrap-around is easily adjusted by four buttons at the waistline. The double thickness thus formed makes the skirt shadow-proof too. Notice that the simple front is cut in just a single piece, with darts to hold it smooth at the waist. Even the straps may be in one with the rest of the garment, though you might prefer dainty ribbon straps. An unusually comfortable, well-fitting style!

Pattern 4498 is available in women's sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3⅝ yards 39 inch fabric and 3⅝ yards lace edging.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

ANNE ADAMS LATEST PATTERN BOOK will help you enjoy each shining hour of summertime with new styles in easy-to-use patterns. Everything you need for air-cooled chic including sun-and-surf modes, town wear, travel take-alongs, day and evening sheers and cottons. Clothes that go all around the family circle from littlest sister through teen-age, bride and matron. Send your order now! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. HIGH TIDE

By Frances Hanna

Chapter 37
Lenore's Tea

Derek strode into the house, shut himself in the library, and rang up Jan's hotel. To all of his insistent pleading to be put through to her, the clerk reiterated that she had retired and left word she was not to be disturbed.

Derek's soaring spirits glided to earth. He desired, with sudden urgency, to do something grand and glorious and magnificent for her. But what? He culled his memory for her wishes and words, could think of no greater service than to once and for all dispose of Rose Cornwall, Rose Benton now, and remove by a clever coup—he must figure out—this duplicate of Lenore who threatened the happiness of Lance and Jan and Norina. Money? Maybe. It wouldn't do to be bold about it, since she was married at least for the time being, to Johnny. He thought about Johnny and his ambition to have a band of his own in a swanky night club. What about the Club Tunis in Manhattan? Barry Winslow, its owner was a close acquaintance of his. He could talk to Barry about it. And not tomorrow; now.

Eluding his importunate guests he slipped out a rear door to the garage, backed his powerful coupe into the driveway and sped toward the city. It was only a bit after midnight. Things should be in full swing at the Club. He frowned, foreseeing difficulty, because Johnny was untried and unknown. He could give him a big build-up, still Barry was a shrewd business man. Money might do the trick. What was the use of money if it couldn't work out a thing like this?

And so, at two o'clock in the morning, feeling like a boy scout who could not sleep until he had done his good deed for the day, Derek Knowles, bought a half-interest in the Club Tunis for a quite fabulous sum, and dispatched a night letter to one John Benton at the Santa Monica Surf Club requesting that he come as soon as possible to New York, assemble a band and take over the entertainment problem at the Club Tunis.

"If I know Rose, and I think I do, she won't be able to resist New York, or being the everloving wife of an important band leader!"

At one o'clock the following day he telephoned Jan. She had, the clerk informed him cheerily, checked out and left no forwarding address.

With increasing vexation he called Doctor Burlingham, Doctor Murray, the hospital, several hotels, but they either could not or would not admit to having Jan in their mean clutches. He called a Park Avenue florist and ordered an assortment of everything in the shop sent to the hospital where Lance was, to be held for, and delivered to, Jan Merriner, with his card.

Worried, fretting with uncertainty, he suddenly remembered Jan's promise to attend Lenore's tea tomorrow afternoon, Friday. He hated teas, but, he decided grimly, he would certainly put in an appearance at this particular tea!

Goblin

Jan, on Friday afternoon, was in a mood. A bad mood; not elfish, but definitely goblinesh. Lance was resting beautifully, his operation over, Doctor Murray's optimistic prognostication bathing him in happiness.

Leaving the Knowles' castle after seeing Lenore in Derek's arms, she had been positive that his life was now complete. But since Derek's deluge of flowers yesterday and today she was not so positive. Actually, she considered, Derek had been in Lenore's arms, not she in his, if that was any consolation!

She had, she argued with herself as an idea was born, nothing to lose as far as Derek was concerned. "And I hate her," she thought, "I think he's very stupid. Maybe if I had him back at Sea Tide I could get some sense into his copper-covered skull, but I haven't got the right kind of fire to fight New York!" Yet, Derek would surely be at Lenore's tea for his mother. If she could remind him of Sea Tide, of his life there with her, she might still have a chance against Lenore! Derek had once assured her: "Clothes don't make the woman." Perhaps this was a good time to find out. Lenore had asked for an entertainer in costume—.

"And that's just what she'll get! I'm going to gamble my world against his and if I lose—"

At five o'clock, when a taxicab stopped before Lenore's Sutton Place apartment, the worthy driver, who for five years had schooled himself never to be surprised at anyone or anything looked definitely astonished as his small fare sallied across the sidewalk and into the ornate modernistic lobby.

"I," stated Jan to the maid who surveyed her, apparently reluctant to admit her, "am the entertainer, Miss Page expects me."

Miss Page, however, evinced much more than expectation when, instead of an awed and uncertain young girl in artist's smock, she greeted a tousle-headed, female urchin dressed in barefoot sandals, blue denim jeans and loud checked shirt.

"Will the costume do?" Jan inquired innocently. "These are my working clothes."

"So picturesque," purred Lenore. "Do come in and meet my guests." Jan shoved small, trembling hands into trouser pockets and swaggered, ever so little. The long, narrow drawing room, done in gray and silver, was filled by groups of women in silks, laces, tweeds, furs and jewels. A few men were scattered among them. They all stopped chattering to stare at Lenor's latest arrival, wondering who on earth she could be. Jan felt guilty only the moment she met Derek's mother, a brittle, nervously pretty woman with dyed red hair, whose face looked as if all human expression had been lifted out of it by plastic surgery. But she, or her name, meant nothing to the Countess von Lurwitz, and Lea would have been only annoyed if she were aware that this incredible young person in pants pitied her and pitied her son more.

Lenore trilled for silence, announced Jan as a clever young artist from Olvera Street, Los Angeles, who would sketch a few portraits to amuse them.

Jan, inwardly praying for Derek's arrival, took a few pencils from the pocket of her jeans and sat down to the table and paper Lenore provided. However, as she sketched, her imagination got to operating and her small, pink tongue, literally and figuratively, lodged against her left cheek, and when Lenore sat for her, the pencil simply refused to behave.

The finished sketch resembled Lenore, but not in the way that young woman wished to be resembled.

One of her friends spoke the consensus of opinion. "Darling!" she tittered, "you look like a Siamese cat!"

Gone

Lenore grasped Jan's arm firmly and piloted her into an ivory and lavender bedroom. She closed the door.

"I'll never forgive you for this abuse of my generosity!" she grated. "I only asked you here because of Ricky! He's absurdly determined to repay you for something or other. He feels sorry for you because you're so young and so poor and so obviously and idiotically in love with him. Or is it his money?"

Jan gasped. Never in her life had she so wanted to commit grave bodily harm. Her hand ached to slap that furious, supercilious look off Lenore's face.

"I don't love him!" she snapped, tears of rage fast closing her throat. "And I don't need anybody to be sorry for me! Besides, he's more mine than yours. He's salvage—my salvage—and I could claim him, if I wanted to!"

Derek stepped into the room. "They told me I'd find you here, Lennie—" His mouth dropped open. "Jan," he ejaculated in what she imagined to be horror-stricken tones. "Jan, what in heaven's name are you doing in that outfit?"

"I've been slumming!" she shouted.

Lenore ran to Derek. "She's quite mad, Ricky. She says she could claim you as salvage! She says you belong to her."

He scowled terrifyingly. "Oh, she does, eh? Well, I've a few things to tell her!" He started for Jan, who, thoroughly frightened by her own behavior, sprang past him and ran out of the apartment to the elevator.

"Take me down quickly," she ordered the grinning colored operator.

Derek tried to catch her before the door closed, but could not. He whirled and tore madly down eight flights of steps to the lobby. She was gone. Suddenly he threw back his head and roared with laughter. The clerk and the door man stared at him in trepidation as he went out mumbling: "Salvage, eh? I'm hers, all right!"

Nevertheless, it soon became evident she had no intention of claiming him. He could not find her. He took to hanging about the hospital, hoping for sight of her, unaware that she saw him and deliberately avoided him, slipping out another entrance, dodging around corners and through corridors when his pursuit grew too hot. He argued and threatened and stormed at doctors and nurses to no avail. They would not permit Lance any visitors and they would not catch Jan and lock her up for him.

And then one day when he inquired if Lance was well enough yet to see him he was told that Mr. Merriner and his sister had returned to the coast.

Derek stared blankly at the head nurse.

"It's quite true," the nurse insisted in the firm, reasonable tone one employs on children and lunatics. "Doctor Murray went with them, having finished his work here. Mr. Merriner was unhappy, and eager to return home, so Doctor had him moved by stretcher. Their train left early this morning, I believe."

The Literary Guidepost

By JOHN SELBY

"THE AMERICAN PRESIDENCY," by Harold J. Laski (Harpers: $2.50).

Our required reading list for August begins with Harold J. Laski's "The American President." Flat statements are dangerous for book reviewers as well as for the general run of men, yet at this distance it seems unlikely that the year will furnish a more healthy, clearer or more timely discussion of a major American problem than Mr. Laski's latest. Witness:

"I am not here urging that a president is infallible; the evidence is too grimly the other way. My argument is, first, that a democracy needs clear direction, and that it cannot get this unless the central motive force in a political system rests in the executive's hands. He may be right or wrong; what is important is that plans put into operation should essentially be plans for which he is willing to accept full responsibility. And, secondly, it is not possible for the modern state to separate legislation from administration."

And again:

"Just as it is an open question whether the division of powers between the federal government and the states is any longer compatible with efficient administration, even more, with full response to social needs, so is it an open question whether the system of checks and balances is not incompatible, as it is now operated, with a proper relation between executive and legislature. . . Nor is there assurance that, when the time demands great forthcoming. . . There is rather the danger that, in any save the gravest crisis, any continuous attempt to transcend the implications of the checks and balances will result in the charge of dictatorship."

The temptation to quote is present on almost every page of "The American Presidency." Mr. Laski is an Englishman. He is careful to assess the dangers of criticism by an outsider of institutions to which he was not born. But it is equally evident that when an outsider is really familiar with the institutions, his critical position is less likely to be prejudiced by his experience, and expediency, than that of one born to the system. It is this fact which makes Mr. Laski's book valuable. The book is, reduced to a phrase, a reasoned plea that before it is too late America grant its president great power because "great power alone makes great leadership possible."

Congress Membership Lists Number of Reserve Officers

By REG INGRAHAM

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—A lot of congressmen may fight whether they vote for or against the next war in which the United States becomes involved — they're reserve officers in the army and the navy.

The house naval and military affairs committees are typical of the situation.

Eight members of the naval committee are either retired or reserve naval officers. Reps. Hess (R.-O.), Coler (N.Y.), Magnuson (D.-Wash.), Maas (R.-Minn.), and Church (R.-Ill.), for instance, are in the reserves.

While, as congressmen, they would not be subject to the draft, friends asserted the group would volunteer for active duty in wartime.

Maas, the only full colonel in the Marine corps aviation reserve, has been on maneuvers with an aviation unit which has headquarters at St. Paul, Minn.

The naval committee's clerk, Robert Harper, holds a reserve commission in the army. He explained that contradiction, however, by saying he got his commission before he got his job.

On the military committee, Reps. Faddis (D.-Pa.), and Sparkman (D.-Ala.), are army reserve colonels. Faddis saw active service in France during the World war and says that, health permitting, he would seek a command in event of another war.

One of the most noted veterans of the World war in the house is slender, retiring Rep. Izac (D.-Calif.)—the only member of congress to win the congressional medal of honor.

Izac, a graduate of the United States naval academy, was an officer aboard the troopship President Lincoln when she was torpedoed off the French coast in 1918. He, alone, was taken prisoner by the German submarine and transported back to Germany through the Kattegat and Skaggerak.

Izac escaped from the German prison camp and made his way to allied territory with valuable information about the enemy, particularly relating to submarine warfare.

Derringer Halts Reds' Backslide With 15th Victory

Arguments Over Umpiring Mark New York Game

Cincinnati Defeats Bill Terry's Giants by 6-3 Score

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, who haven't had a losing streak longer than three games this year, routed the New York Giants 6 to 3 today to stop a backslide of two straight games.

It was Paul Derringer, again, who got credit for ending the Reds back on the right trail although the real winning medium was a scoring outburst of four runs in a wild eighth inning that brought about the banishment of two men.

Neither the Reds nor the Giants liked the umpiring in the perfect-ly harmonious Cincinnati and Coach Jimmy Wilson of the champions and relief pitcher Walter (Dumbo) Brown of the Giants were waved to the showers for arguing so.

The score was tied as the Reds came to bat in the eighth, but they loaded the bases with a single, a sacrifice that turned out safe, and another single.

Then pinchhitter Mike Dejan, a rookie, looked at a third strike and the Reds erupted around Umpire George Magerkurth with the usual result.

The smoke of battle had hardly cleared as Bill Werber grounded to Tony Cuccinello and was called safe at first, bringing the Giants to a boil. Umpire Bill Stewart won that argument. The Reds scored once on this play and still had the bases loaded. Harry Craft then singled to center for two runs and Jimmy Ripple singled in the same direction for one.

Derringer was removed for a pinchhitter during the uproar, but got credit for his 15th victory of the season and came abreast of teammate Bucky Walters in the win column for the first time.

Pirates Trounce Dodgers, 8 to 2

BROOKLYN, July 30 (AP)—Pittsburgh's pitching Pirates overpowered and, Brooklyn Dodgers 8 to 2 tonight behind the six hit hurling of Truett Sewell, who notched his eighth victory against nine defeats.

The Pirates exploded four runs in the first inning under rookie righthander Ed Head, making his first big league start, and thereafter peppered three Brooklyn pitchers for 8 frozen hits.

It was a steaming hot night, with rain just before the game time holding the crowd to 19,910.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers got overheated and was banished for saying hot words to Umpire Ziggy Sears.

Idaho Semi-Pro All-Stars Named

Squad Selected at Preston Includes South Central League Players

PRESTON, Idaho, July 30 (AP)—The championship Preston Indians almost monopolized an all-star team selected today after the conclusion of Idaho's annual semi-pro baseball tournament.

The Indians placed eight men on the squad of 15 players selected. Preston defeated the Idaho Falls Tigers 21 to 2 in the championship battle last night.

The all-star team:

Bill Thomason, south central Idaho all-stars, first base; Wayne Nelson, Preston, second base; Howard Lovejoy, Preston, shortstop; Don May, Desmet Indians, third base; Orson Bailey, Preston, utility infielder; Jim Lyden, Desmet, and Melvin Jones, Carl Nyman and Bert Stewart, all of Preston, outfielders.

Roy Conn, Preston, and Buck Anderson, Downey, catchers; Kenny Price, Preston, Dick Snyder, Idaho Falls, Whitey Jenkins, south central Idaho all-stars, and Melby Madsen, Idaho Falls, pitchers.

Russets Capture 11-Inning Battle

IDAHO FALLS, July 30 (AP)—Pat Tobin pitched to only a handful of batters tonight but was credited with the win as the Idaho Falls Russets nosed out the Boise Pilots, 4-3, in an 11-inning Pioneer league marathon here.

Tobin was called to the Russet mound in the tenth to replace Allen Bahr when Bahr was removed for a pinch hitter after limiting the Pilots to three runs over a nine inning stretch.

He pitched out that session, then blanked the visitors through the eleventh until his teammates could squeeze across the payoff counter.

With Con Rasmussen tossing a game for Boise that equaled in every measure but the matter of runs allowed the combined performance turned in by Bahr and Tobin, the Russets found victory to be a matter of continuously coming from behind.

They had to score a run in the fifth to catch up, another in the sixth to catch up again and still another in the ninth to save the game by an eyelash.

The game in the seventh. Bill Beard doubled, advanced to third on Charles Bates' single. George Oldenberg bunted successfully, and Beard scored.

Wendell Willkie May Visit Idaho

BOISE, July 30 (AP)—Governor Bottolfsen returned from a tour of the Pacific coast today to learn Wendell Willkie would visit Idaho "if at all possible" before going east.

The Republican presidential nominee, writing from Colorado Springs, Colo., in reply to an invitation by Bottolfsen, said "I cannot make any promises now but if at all possible before I leave the west, I want to come up to Idaho."

The governor, who reached Boise at noon after stopping in Portland en route from "Idaho day" festivities at San Francisco's fair, had asked Willkie to visit the state after his trip to Utah last week.

YOUTH POINTS TO NAVY

Most recent addition to the list of those tentatively accepted for U. S. navy duty is Donald Gene Sackler, 19, of Buhl, who has been temporarily accepted at the local navy recruiting station and now goes to Salt Lake City for final approval.

He is the son of William Henry Kaucher, route 1, Buhl.

Reds Stage Six-Run Uprising in Seventh Inning to Beat Cowboys

Clayton Lambert, ex Ogden relief hurler, however, made it possible for the Red rally to pay off. Connie Ryan walked Ken Pollek in the Cowboy downfall with an error in a very vital spot.

Fifth inning, he held the Cowboys hitless for the balance of the evening.

Twin Falls' scoring also was largely concentrated, the Punchers compounding five of their six tallies in the fifth. In that session Ken Holley, Hal O'Bannion, Budnick, Bishop and Al Marchi went consecutively to bat, got on base and scored. The losers' other run came in the second and represented the first counter of the game.

Pocatello Club Conquers Bees

SALT LAKE CITY, July 30 (AP)—Checking two late-inning rallies sufficiently to protect their big early lead, the Pocatello Cardinals defeated the Salt Lake City Bees, 8-6, tonight, and thus got off to a head-start in their four-game Pioneer league series here.

While Wayne Dobson hurled steady enough a game to keep every Bee threat at a safe distance, Pocatello staked Dobson to a lead in the box in the second, then fell on his successor, Paul Piscovich for two more tallies in the fourth and an eighth in the sixth.

Dobson, though touched for a pair of tallies before that time, failed to fall into serious difficulties until the seventh. In that session the Bees jumped on him for four tallies and brought the advent of Gil Arichuleta, who pitched shutout ball the rest of the way but not without some critical moments.

In the ninth Salt Lake City managed to place enough runners to tie the score on the bases, but Arichuleta, who pitched shutout ball the latter to avert a potential Pocatello disaster.

Just a Broken Thumb, Doc? Why That's Nothin'

Denny Carroll, Tigers' trainer, seems much more concerned over Newsom's injury than the big Detroit hurler. Bucky figured the injured thumber would heal in no time and . . .

(AP Feature Service)

DETROIT — Any other pitcher, with a chance for a record string of victories in sight, might be discouraged if a broken thumb suspended his activities just three games short of the mark.

Not Buck Newsom.

Bulky Buck, on the other hand, was not even put out about the injury which shelved him. He's satisfied that this fills his quota of broken bones for the year and that now he can go about his winning ways without fear of interruption.

You see Buck's been in the broken bone department of the casualty list before. He's resigned to suffering one fracture each year.

Once, when Buck couldn't conveniently work up a good fracture on the diamond, he drove his car over a cliff on his way to sign a contract with the Chicago Cubs. He broke a leg. The day after he removed the cast, Buck crushed it in a mule pen, took a mule's kick on the bad leg and had another cast put on.

In 1933, in the Coast league, Buck suffered a broken thumb right in the middle of a long winning streak for Los Angeles. The injury cut him down to a mere 30 games won for the season.

A few minor fractures with the Cards and Washington really didn't count in Buck's broken bone book, but in 1936 he got back in the groove when Earl Averill drove a scorching liner smack into the big guy's knee cap. That was early in the game. Buck pitched on and after the contest ventured the opinion he had broken his leg. It turned out to be just the kneecap — small stuff for Mr. Newsom.

In 1937, with Boston, he cracked a finger, then went back to the Bronx and broke another one.

When Buck broke his thumb recently he said he would be ready in 10 days. But Trainer Denny Carroll of the Tigers said no sir, not until well into August.

Yet that's blame Buck for thinking that just this once he knows more than Denny about an injury. After all, Newsom should be an authority on broken bones, especially Mr. Newsom's broken bones.

He should know. This isn't the first time Buck has walked off the field with a cracked digit.

Ford Frick Fines Battling Players

Pirate Pilot Assessed $100 For Heckling Umpires from Stands

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch, two of his Pittsburgh Pirates players and Catcher Babe Phelps of the Brooklyn Dodgers were fined a total of $100 today by President Ford Frick of the National league for yesterday's hostilities at Ebbets field.

Frisch, who was tossed out of a game for the sixth time this season, was fined $100.

Prick explained the penalty was for dressing and coming into the stands and resuming the argument with the umpires in public at the close of the game as they were leaving the field.

Phelps and Bue Shortstop Arky Vaughan, received a $25 penalty each for their fist fight in the ninth inning, for which both were thumbed to the showers.

Second-sacker Frank Gustine of the Pirates drew a $50 fine for "misconduct on the field."

Wildlife Program Exams Announced

BOISE, July 30 (AP) — Examinations to fill positions under federal aid in wildlife restoration projects were announced today by Owen W. Morris, Idaho fish and game director.

Examinations have been prepared for the position of state supervisor of projects, paying $2,100 to $3,000 per year; leader of research project, paying $1,500 to $2,400, and leaders of game survey projects with a salary range of from $1,500 to $2,400 annually.

Applicants, to be rated upon education and experience, must apply before August 15.

Detailed notices of the examinations have been posted in all county courthouses.

DETROIT, July 30 (AP)—Red Ruffing lifted the bedraggled New York Yankees out of a forgotten corner today and confused the American league pennant picture by drubbing the Detroit Tigers 8 to 6.

It was the third straight setback for the Tigers.

Ruffing put on a grand show for six innings and even though he weakened so badly he had to be lifted in the eighth, he got credit for his tenth triumph of the season.

Rufus the Red pitched five-hit shutout ball for the first six innings and hit a three-run homer for the Yankee cause in the sixth.

His teammates finished building him an 8-0 lead in the seventh, driving young Hal Newhouser from the mound, but the veteran Ruffing couldn't stand the heat and the raging temper of Ole Tigers, who crowded all their runs into two innings with Rudy York hitting two home runs and Pete Fox one.

The Yanks made their victory to an early start. They got one run in the third inning when Red Rolfe walked, advanced to second on Newhouser's balk, and scored on a double by Tom Henrich. They got another in the fourth when Charley Keller doubled, was sacrificed to third and beat the throw home on a grounder by Babe Dahlgren. Then they made six hits good for six runs in the sixth and seventh frames.

Joe DiMaggio singled in the seventh, making 23 consecutive games in which he has hit safely.

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—The stock market broke a lengthy stalemate today with a rally that carried leading industrials up 1 to more than 5 points.

Brokers ascribed the brisk extension of yesterday's late forward reversal mainly to the widespread belief in speculative circles the market had been "sold out" and was due for a recovery swing no matter what happened.

On top of this, optimism seemed to have revived for the steel and motor industries, as well as other lines, and the news generally seemed more favorable than otherwise. Further British claims of strong resistance to Nazi air bombings also helped brighten the picture.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net gain of 1 point at 42.7.

Transfers were 673,620 shares.

After the close U. S. Steel directors confirmed early guesses and voted $1 a share on the common stock, the same as paid in March.

Prominent stock climbers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Kennecott, United Aircraft, Loft, Dresser Mfg., Chesapeake & Ohio, Celanese and American Telephone.

Most rails, utilities and oils kept gains within a fractional range. Coppers were bolstered by another lift in the price of this metal as defense needs broadened demand.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP) The free British pound sterling dropped 3 cents to $3.82 today while other major foreign currencies showed little change. The Canadian dollar, close ally of sterling in international markets advanced ⅛ of a cent.

Closing rates:

Official Canadian control board rates for U. S. dollars: Buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent.

Canadian dollar in New York open market 12 per cent discount, or 88.00 U. S. cents.

Metals

NEW YORK—Today's custom smelters prices for delivered metals (cents per lb.):

Copper: Electrolytic 10⅞ to 11⅛; export f.a.s., 9.95 to 10.10; casting f.o.b. refinery, 11.00; lake, delivered, 11⅛.

LONDON BAR SILVER

LONDON—Spot bar silver was quoted at 22⅜ pence an ounce today, off 3/16 penny, while forward eased 3/16 penny to 22 1/16 pence. The Bank of England maintained its gold buying price at 168 shillings per fine ounce.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Declines of 1 to 2 points in the domestic and world sugar contracts today were attributed partly to September liquidation.

Against this selling pressure the market received support from trade covering and replacement demand for distant deliveries.

Domestic contract sales totaled 106 lots compared with 41 lots traded in the world contract.

New business in raws was light. Trade sources confirmed an operator's purchase yesterday of 3,000 tons of Philippines due August 4 at 2.65 cents.

The refined market was unchanged with fine granulated at 4.20 to 4.35 cents.

No. 3 close: September 1.72 nominal; January 1.78 bid; March 1.82 bid; May 1.84 bid; July 1.90 bid.

SUGAR

Utah Idaho Sugar $1.125-$1.20

FLAX

MINNEAPOLIS, July 30 (AP)—Flax No. 1, 1.62¼.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Flaxseed, $1.63½.

WOOL

BOSTON—A few mill buyers and topmakers were making inquiries for wool today but sales were generally of small volume.

Bids were inclined to be a little lower than last week, but most dealers were not ready to shade prices except on small lots. Country-graded ⅜ and ¼ blood bright fleeces were being offered at 38 to 40c in the grease delivered east, but mills apparently are not interested in purchasing at this level.

CHICAGO WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE

Argentine Crop Setback and Banning of Exports Spur Grain Trade

By GILES FINDLEY

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—Banning of further exports of wheat this season by Argentina today served to pull wheat prices higher as the trade debated whether the action was a surprise or what might have been expected.

By Declining to permit further exports of old crop wheat except on commitments and to neighbors, Argentina brought sharply into focus the fact that rainy wet weather in the southern hemisphere had cut the growing crop acreage sharply at a time when stocks on hand were small. Some sources have estimated that this year's Argentine crop is ten per cent smaller than last year's.

Some traders said the Argentine embargo was a surprise only to those who had overlooked the fact that the amount of old wheat was small. They said recent shipments had been heavy. Others maintained that the action was a surprise because stocks on hand were generally believed higher.

Wheat prices pushed ahead strongly and closed 1-1¼ cents higher than Monday's finish at almost the day's best levels, September 76¼-⅛, December 76⅞-77, corn finished 1¼-1½ cents up, September 62½, December 59⅞-½, oats ¾-1⅜ advanced, and lard 3-10 higher.

Ol' Claud Pratt Ain't Mad at Nobody!

GAS, GAS AND MORE GASOLINE

Well this is old Claud Pratt again and I have some very good news for you farmers. Our new gas arrived last night. Now you can bring your barrels in and buy the white for $16.85 a hundred and the super for $17.60 a hundred gallons. You have to get 50 gallons or more to get these prices and it has to go into a drum.

You boys around Oakley and also Richfield and Fairfield, Rogerson, Eden as well as the farmers around Twin Falls can wade into it now to your heart's content. You've waited a long time now for this to come to pass. Now I want you gentlemen to stay with me. We can't bring the price down any more than what we have no matter what happens, as we are only making a small profit. If you'd like to have gas prices down to a very low level the year 'round stay with old Claud Pratt from start to finish.

I can be run out by big major companies who have lots of money back of them and then you will have to pay high prices for gas for years to come. I appreciate what you folks have done for me in our building material department and our Arkansas oils and greases and the Pennsylvania tires. Now I am trying to do something for you, and I believe a lot of you are going to appreciate it.

We still have the Resolute gasoline and expect to continue with it. We have now underground storage for 14,000 gallons and it looks like we are going to need more underground storage as the gas sure is moving.

Again thanking you one and all for your kindness to an old Arkansasawyer.

YOUTHS OF CMTC RECEIVE AWARDS

J. T. Steile, Jerome, Robert Mayo, Twin Falls, Win Recognition

SALT LAKE CITY, July 30 (AP)—Presentation of awards brought nearly to completion today the annual summer citizens military training corps camps for more than 200 youths from Idaho, Utah, Montana and Nevada.

The trainees will head for their homes tomorrow after four weeks of army regiment.

Awards for military marksmanship, leadership, development and for athletic ability were distributed to the trainees after an address by Major General Walter E. Sweeney, commander of the third division of the United States army.

E. E. Skogerson of Boise, Idaho, was declared the best battalion commander and J. T. Steile of Jerome, Idaho, was selected the outstanding trainee of the camp.

Bob Peterson of Blackfoot, Idaho, was rewarded as the best basic buck private of Company B and W. Hill of Pocatello was chosen the outstanding trainee among the third-year enrollees.

Steven W. Sandmeyer of Caldwell, Idaho, was chosen best sergeant in D. company; Robert Mayo of Twin Falls was declared most proficient basic trainee of the camp, and D. Longhurst of Idaho Falls won the award for the best basic manual of arms.

Oakley Installs Dial Telephones

Installation of a complete automatic dial telephone system at Oakley has been completed, according to Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph officials, who pointed out that the community is the most recent to make this improvement in the Magic Valley.

A machine known as the "community dial," and designed particularly for smaller communities has been installed. Operation of dial telephones is entirely automatic and requires no operators.

Glenns Ferry, Hagerman and Castleford already are using this type of telephone, and installation of the dial system in Wendell is anticipated.

Grain Harvest in Cassia Underway

BURLEY, July 30—Grain harvest in Cassia county is well under way, states W. W. Palmer, county agent, with approximately half of the dry farm grain cut and farmers are beginning to cut irrigated crops.

Dry farm wheat yields are variable.

The Sublett section has been hit with the drouth more than any area and many fields are yielding as low as five bushels per acre. In the Heglar section, yields range from 15 to 20 bushels. In the Albion area, some growers report as high as 35 bushels. In the Oakley section, average yields are 20 bushels.

Crops in the irrigated section of the county, state Mr. Palmer, are quite good at this time of the year with beets being above average, beans fully average, potatoes near average, and hay crops good. In the semi-irrigated sections of the country, however, the second crop of hay will be short and it is likely that some shortage of feed will result in these outlying sections, according to Palmer.

Early potatoes appear to be above average but late potatoes spotted. Considerable rotting of seed occurred at planting this year, he said.

Ranges throughout the country are dry and stockmen fear lack of grange feed. In the Raft river section springs are drying up which were open in former dry years.

Penalty Follows Neglect of Fine

Harry Harmony, 18, yesterday began serving out a three-day fine and $6.60 costs imposed by Justice L. E. Ward, Kimberly, after he was arrested on a bench warrant for failing to pay a $2.50 fine previously exacted for setting off fireworks in Kimberly two days before July 4.

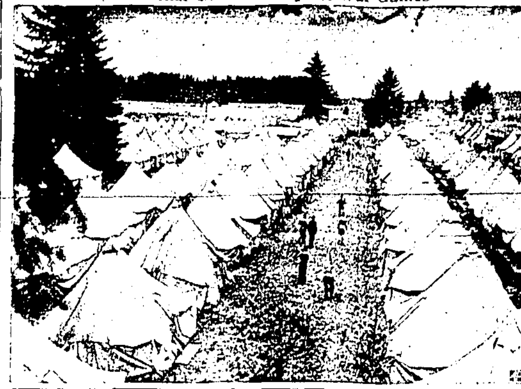
He was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Ed Hall and Roy Fuller, and the formal charge was disturbing the peace.

Idaho Receives Federal Funds

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Senator Clark (D-Idaho) announced presidential approval today of a $36,615 allotment under the work projects administration to continue blister rust control in north Idaho's white pine forests.

Also approved were a $2,880 allotment for bird mounting by the Idaho fish and game department, and a $8,212 project to improve buildings at the veterans' facility in Boise.

National Guard Ready for War Games



IN PREPARATION for its departure to Camp Murray at Fort Lewis, Wash., Sunday, Company E of the 116th engineers, Idaho national guard, is concluding an enlistment program which has brought the unit's strength to 57 men. To place the company at authorized full peace-time strength, 12 more men are needed, and enlistments will be taken by Lieutenant Ralph E. Leighton, jr., at 123 Main avenue east or Captain J. H. Seaver, jr., at 222 Seventh avenue north until Friday night. The last three men to join the company are shown here as they were sworn in by Lieutenant Leighton (right) Monday night. They are, left to right: Privates Hugh Holmes, Paul Jacobs, and Leroy Campbell. A portion of Fort Lewis is shown in the picture at top of a tent city housing the second battalion, 99th field artillery, as the army prepared to participate in the training events.

National Guard Unit Rolls to Camp Sunday

Company to Return After 21 Days in Washington

Preparations are moving rapidly forward this week for departure of Company E, 116th engineers, Idaho national guard, for Camp Murray, Fort Lewis, Wash., where the local unit will participate in far west war games engaging the efforts of 40,000 men, Captain J. H. Seaver announced last night.

An intensive enlistment program to boost the company to its full peace-time strength is now in progress under direction of Lieutenant Ralph E. Leighton, jr., and 16 recruits have been added during July. The officials pointed out, however, that the enlistment period will definitely close Friday night and that this will be the last voluntary enlistment until after August with termination of the camp.

In reference to duration of camp, Captain Seaver issued a strong denial of rumors that the company would "not be back" at the end of the 21-day camp period.

"All orders, round-trip tickets and other official information call for our return after the encampment, contrary to rumors that we may not return," declared Captain Seaver.

Pointing to opportunities offered by the Camp, Captain Seaver added that its training value is equivalent to a year of armory drills. Because of the massing of such tremendous forces there, he pointed out that it should be a stimulating experience, and that rivalry is growing between red and blue forces, which will be pitted against one another in mock battles.

While at Boise recently, Captain Seaver was told by Adjutant General M. G. McConnell that he hoped to see the local unit in Centralia, which will be the "enemy camp," so that this comment indicated a humorous aspect of the approaching mock battle.

Drills are scheduled for Company E Thursday and Friday nights and for Saturday afternoon, with the final drill consisting of loading activities in preparation for the departure to camp. The company, occupying three cars, a baggage car, and part of another car for cooking purposes, will roll out of Twin Falls early Sunday morning.

At Minidoka members of the Twin Falls unit will join a consolidated troop train in command of Lieutenant H. G. Lauterbach, Hansen.

U. S. Flag Given To Local Airport

An American flag will soon fly at the Twin Falls municipal airport as result of action by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in donating one of the national emblems used in the Magic City jubilee here early this month.

If a pole is not considered a flight hazard, it will also be included as a gift for the airport, which has been receiving criticism of CAA authorities for lack of a flag.

New "Clean Walk" Law Effective Now

Now in effect is Twin Falls' new ordinance prohibiting sweeping of waste material from stores and other establishments onto the sidewalks or into gutters.

To avoid cluttering of city sidewalks and streets, store operators will be required to have all such sweepings placed in a proper container.

PRICES AT OGDEN HIGH; SALES FEW

About 1,900,000 Pounds of Wool Offered at Last Day of Auction

OGDEN, Utah, July 30 (AP)—Asking prices were high and sales were few as approximately 1,900,000 pounds of fine western wool was offered at the second and final day of the Ogden auction today.

Yesterday 1,613,765 pounds of wool was offered but only 180,250 pounds was sold.

"The sale made good clearance of off-grade wools, but other wools sold very slowly as bids on most offerings failed to reach owner's limit," said Russel L. Burrus, agricultural marketing service expert of the United States department of agriculture.

"A few Wyoming and Idaho lots of original bag wools were bid up to 28-30½ cents and bids were rejected. Scoured basis prices, delivered at Boston, were estimated at mostly 77-83 cents for graded and original fine wools, 77-81 cents for half blood, 72-75 cents for three-eighths blood and 63-68 cents for quarter blood."

Yesterday's high sale was of 2,500 pounds of braid at 40½ cents per pound. It was purchased by R. P. Hackett, representing Nichols and company of Boston.

COMMITTEES SET FOR CONVENTION

Jim Rude, Twin Falls, and Earl Williams, Jerome, Appointed

BOISE, July 30 (AP)—Committees for the state convention of Idaho Young Democratic clubs in Grangeville Aug. 23-25 were announced today by S. Lee Johnson of Boise, general chairman.

Heading the resolutions committee are William Hawkins of Coeur d'Alene, Kootenai county prosecutor, and Dan McGrath of Wallace.

Lawrence Quinn, assistant attorney general, and John Peacock of Weiser are co-chairmen of the constitutional committee; and Conroy Gillespie of Bellevue and Ed Brennan of Pocatello are directing the credentials committee.

Tom Kurdy of Winona and Walter Bashaer of Grangeville are co-chairmen of advance registration and ticket sales. Joe Carr of Boise and James Galloway of Weiser head the membership committee.

Co-chairmen of other committees included: transportation, Jim Rude of Twin Falls and Earl Williams of Jerome.

William Galloway of Boise is assistant general chairman and State Rep. Allen D. Newman of Lewiston, state president, will preside.

Pushcar Derby Slated Aug. 16

Twin Falls' younger set will have an opportunity to engage in a pushmobile derby Friday, August 16, according to plans completed by the local recreation unit in conjunction with automobile concerns and merchants here, according to Thomas Gill, area recreation supervisor.

A recreation leader will be at the recreation center at 302 Third avenue north daily from next Monday until the race date to assist entrants in constructing pushmobiles.

According to rules drafted for the event, all contestants must register with recreation leaders at Harmon and Drury parks, or at the recreation center; all entries must be in by 4 p. m. Saturday, August 10; and pushmobiles must be built by contestants. The age limit is 15 years, and each entry must have a driver and one pusher.

Queen to Leave For Fair Aug. 4

With Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce members acting as a "send-off" committee, Miss Maurine Luke, queen of the recent Magic City jubilee and cavalcade, will leave Aug. 4 for San Francisco and the World's fair as part of the award for winning the regal role.

According to Dr. Frank J. McAtee, member of the committee in charge of the competition of cavalcade ticket sales, upon which naming of the queen was based, Miss Luke will leave from the stage depot in Twin Falls Sunday.

Canada Organizes Big War Forces

OTTAWA, July 30 (AP) — Prime Minister MacKenzie King gave commons last night his war ministries' reports on Canada's activities in the war and commented that they showed the "remarkable transition" of a peace-loving people into a nation geared for war.

He summed up the report with the statement that "Canada has brought into being, on a scale that is constantly expanding, an army for service overseas and for home defense; has been building and manning a navy which is assisting in the defense of our coasts, in convoying ships across, and in patrolling Atlantic waters, and in repelling enemy forces which threaten the invasion of the British Isles; and has organized and established an air force which is in service at home and abroad.

Youth Requests Larger Penalty

An 18-year-old Kimberly youth, Loren Eller, yesterday began serving out a 10-day term in the Twin Falls county jail imposed by Justice L. E. Ward, Kimberly, after Eller had pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge. The penalty also includes a $10 fine.

Apparently not worried by the fine and sentence, the youth commented, "Why don't you give me the $1.50 I owe you, too?" when the justice handed down his decree. Justice Ward, however, overlooked this reference to the unpaid portion of a previous $2.50 fine.

Arresting officers were Deputy Sheriffs Roy Fuller and Ed Hall.

Swim Campaign Thanks Issued

Cooperation of various agencies and individuals in the recent successful Red Cross "learn to swim campaign" yesterday brought an expression of appreciation from Mrs. George Buhler, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter swimming board.

Those included in Mrs. Buhler's message were the city of Twin Falls, the commissioner of parks, Frank Carpenter, Art Frantz, Bill Folsom and Don Anderson.

Jerome Men Answer To Assault Charges

JEROME, July 30 — Assault and battery charges were filed against two defendants this week in Jerome, both pleaded guilty before Probate Judge Heber N. Folkman and were given 30 day jail terms which were suspended on promises of good behavior.

Charlie Locke of Jerome pleaded guilty to charges he struck Mrs. Neal E. McIntyre on the head and kicked her about the body. Locke was fined $10 and $8.20 costs.

Mrs. Irene Paradis signed a complaint charging Mike Zakel with assault. After admitting guilt, Zakel was freed on promise of good behavior.
